won, 4-0. After a scoreless first quarter Steve Sacchetti, who had an exceptional week, was sent in on a breakaway by Bob Flaherty and scored from 20 yards out. Flaherty scored his first goal of the year on a blistering 25-yard shot that the Sharon goalie never saw. Sacchetti assisted. Later in the second quarter Sacchetti scored his fourth goal with Flaherty again assisting.

North continued to dominate in the second half and, after Palma had a goal called back for an offside, Bourikas scored his fifth goal of the season early in the fourth quarter by directing a corner kick from Dwayne Wilcoxon into the net.

Playing well for North were Co-Capt. Lester Gerry and John Keenan, Terry Stark, McGillicuddy and Jimmy Boudreau. Goalie Pat King earned his seventh shutout of the season.

In the next game against strong Brookline, runnerup in the Suburban League, the Raiders were flat and tired at the start and found themselves trailing, 3-0, five minutes into the game.

North then pulled itself together and staged a great comeback to earn a 3-3 tie. Greg DiBella, North's excellent junior outside fullback, was moved to forward in the second quarter and responded with a goal off a corner kick. Wilcoxon got the ball to Sacchetti, who headed it to DiBella.

Trailing, 3-1, in the third quarter, North's defense stiffened as Dennis White, Alex Coutts, Bob Flynn and Steve Hawes turned back every Brookline chance. Meanwhile, the offense, which finally came alive with 15 goals in the last six games, answered early. Palma took a pass from Sacchetti to beat the Warrior goalie from 15 yards out and the same play as repeated five minutes later as Palma scored his seventh goal to tie it. Sacchetti had his third assist of the day. Palma nearly put North in front as his head shot was deflected wide late in the third quarter.

3 Residents Starring In 'The Royal Family'

Three Quincy residents are starring in the Milton Players' production of "The Royal Family" to be presented tonight (Thursday) through Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Milton Women's Clubhouse, 90 Reedsdale Rd., Milton.

The residents are Robert Chaput and Casey Hannon, both of North Quincy, and William MacMillan of Wollaston.

The comedy revolves around the frantic lives of the Cavendish theatrical family and their attempts to juggle careers, lovers, managers, their press and public.

All three Quincy residents, who join a cast of 13 others, are accomplished actors who have appeared with many local theatre companies.

The Milton Players' 49th season will continue with the comedy, "Tribute", March 11, 12 and 13, and "Pippin", May 13, 14 and 15.

This year, the players have created The First Nighters' Club for Thursday opening night audiences. Theatre-goers will be seated cabaret style, four to a table, and enjoy free refreshments before the show and at intermission.

First nighters will also be able to meet the cast after the show. Seating is limited to the first 100 people. Reservations are suggested.

For ticket information, call Jay Sabatino, subscription chairman, at 471-0927 after 7 p.m.

Tickets are also available from cast members and at the box office.

Halloween Party Held At United First Parish

More than 100 persons attended a recent Halloween Party at United First Parish Unitarian Church, Quincy Center.

Children from the church, including Becky and Lauren Davidson, Alanna Keto, and Robyn Streifer, had decorated the dining room in orange and black and made a jack-o'-lantern for every table.

The program began with a costume parade with 60 participants of all ages, including the prize winning Bacon family who came dressed as father: Dick, the father, as a bumblebee; Louise, the mother, as a lady bug; and two year old Laura as a butterfly.

A pot-luck supper and Halloween desserts were served. Those participating then visited a haunted house created by teenagers Lucy Blight, Donna Keto, Mary Ann and Terry Novack, Mary Beth Farmer, and Michelle Streifer.

Susan McKeon and Great Pumpkin Brenda Chin conducted Halloween games and bingo with Jim Sconyers as caller and boxes of Halloween candy for prizes.

The evening ended with Rev. Keith Munson, Minister.

gathering the group around the fireside, dimming the lights, and telling ghost stories.

North Girls Again Outswim Quincy

The North Quincy girls' swim team defeated an undermanned Quincy squad, 110-61, last week for the sixth year in a row.

It was the final meet for both teams.

North coach Bill Walker found himself in an unusual position this season as he also coached the Quincy girls.

There were some extremely close races, including the 200 medley relay which North's team of Lisa Rodophele, Julie Ryan, Martha Donaghue and Heather Dargin in 2:44.30. Quincy's Kathy Reddish, Lisa Lindin, Kathy Doherty and Catherine Barry finished in 2:44.7.

North's Joanne Burke won the 200 freestyle in 2:44.7, followed by North's Kim Marshall and Quincy's Lauren Bina.

The 200 individual medley was won by North's Susan Quintiliani in 2:48.5. Quincy's Susan Wright was second and the First Ladies' Kathy Doherty third.

The Raiderettes' Lynne Byron won the 50 freestyle in 32.6, with North's Cathy Burke second and Quincy's Tracey Bersani third.

The one-meter diving was close with Quincy's Mary Kussman winning with 158.6 points. North's Sheila Quintiliani was second with 153.65 and Quincy's Bersani third.

The 100 butterfly was won by Quincy's Kussman in 1:21.7. North's Yvonne Boness was second and North's Marie Elena Dawson third.

North's Georgia Traficante was the 100 freestyle winner in 1:07.8.

North's Anne Woodman was second and Donna Stein third.

North's Susan Quintiliani won the 500 freestyle in 6:18.7. Quincy's Susan Wright was second and North's Joanne Burke third.

North's Rodophele won the 100 backstroke in 1:29.3. North's Byron was second and Quincy's Carol Hennessey third.

North's Sheila Quintiliani won a close 100 breaststroke race in 1:36.27. Quincy's Lundin was second in 1:36.41 and Quincy's Doherty third in 1:36.43.

The 400 freestyle relay was another close race with North's Martha Donaghue, Cathy Burke, Joanne Burke and Susan Quintiliani winning in 5:01.1. Quincy's Kussman, Lauren Bina, Bersani and Wright finished in 5:06.8.

FIRST PLACE TROPHY in the Special Olympian Class of the South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens five mile race went to William Mahoney, center, of Quincy Center. Special education teachers who also ran in the fourth annual race were, left, David Donovan, and right, Howard Mason.

Quincy Girls Qualify For Volleyball Tourney

Through the years Quincy High has produced many outstanding girls' volleyball players, but the First Ladies never qualified for the Eastern Mass. Tournament until this year.

The Quincy girls, under fourth-year coach Ray Whitehouse and second-year assistant Chris Prendiville, finally qualified for the tournament with victories over Arlington (non-league) and North Quincy (Suburban League) to finish the regular season with an 11-3 record.

Quincy finished with only a 4-8 mark last year but 23 players spent a week at a volleyball camp last summer at their own expense and this experience paid off for the First Ladies this fall.

"Our two middle blockers, Nancy MacDonald and Christine Gallery, hit and block well with MacDonald (5-10) the best blocker on the team," Whitehouse said. "Gallery is only a sophomore, is the best hitter on the team and she is going to be really outstanding."

"We have good depth and sophomores Carolyn Leonard and Susan Beven and juniors Ellen Deady and Jean Fendy have done a fine job coming off the bench," Whitehouse said.

Quincy clinched its first tournament berth with a 2-0 victory over Arlington sparked by the defensive play of Zannis and MacDonald and the setting up of Arevalo.

The First Ladies finished up by coming from behind to top North Quincy, 2-1. Quincy lost the first game, 15-12, but won the next two, 15-6 and 15-10. Carmody and Fain had excellent games, while Joanne Runge and Sue Connor were outstanding for North Quincy.

Earlier the Quincy girls had ended a 28-match win streak of Notre Dame of Hingham, coached by a former Quincy star, Donna Brickley.

One of the best players to come out of Quincy was Lois Malvesti, who went on to captain Eastern Nazarene College and spark the Crusaderettes to several league, regional and state championships.

Applications Ready For YMCA Church Basketball

The South Shore YMCA is accepting applications from area churches planning to enter teams in the South Shore Church School Basketball League.

Basketball Programs For Post-Grad Men

The Quincy Recreation Department is sponsoring adult men's basketball programs at two locations featuring pickup games for men who are past the high school age.

One program was scheduled to start yesterday (Wednesday) at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School, and the other will start Monday, Nov. 9, at Atlantic Junior High School.

Both programs will run from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. and will be supervised by Recreation Department staff.

There is a $2 fee charged and enrollment is limited to insure each participant a maximum opportunity to play.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Recreation Department at 773-1380, extension 204.

William Mahoney Winner In SSARC 5-Mile Race

William Mahoney of 152 Putnam St., Quincy Center, recently won first place in the Special Olympian Class of the fourth annual five mile race to benefit the South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens.

The event was jointly sponsored by SSARC and the North Weymouth Knights of Columbus Council #4719.

Mahoney won a trophy for the race which he completed in 44 minutes.

Completing the course behind their pupil were special education teachers David Donovan and Howard Mason of the Quincy schools system.

Over 100 athletes of all ages competed in the event.

FOUR WINNERS - City Councillor Joseph LaRaia, School Committeewoman Mary Collins, Mayor-elect Francis McCauley and School Committeewoman Joan Picard are all smiles at City Hall after all the returns were in. LaRaia and Collins topped their field and Picard was second.

Cahill. But, in 13 previous campaigns, Quinn had established a track record of finishing strong to pull his electoral chestnuts out of the fire. This time, however, it was not quite enough.

The final tally for councillor at large was LaRaia 17,460, Koch 15,273, Toland 12,261, Quinn 11,879, Cahill 10,599 and William J. O'Hare 6,427.

Toland said her victory shows that "people appreciate my six years of hard work on the School Committee and that they have confidence in me to work equally as hard on the city Council."

She will be the third woman to sit on the Quincy City Council, joining Joanne Condon, who won her third term Tuesday unopposed. The first lady councillor was Edna B. Austin, who served from 1948 to 1959.

Toland said she did not feel that she was elected to the Council as a woman despite the fact that female voters outnumber their male counterparts by 27,487 to 21,024 in Quincy.

"It wasn't women and it wasn't men who elected me," she said. "It was just people."

Mary Collins topped the School Committee balloting with 15,803 votes in winning a second term. Joan Picard had 13,091, also victorious for the second time.

But the big contest in the School Committee race was Verenis and Sullivan.

Sullivan, a veteran 64-year-old politician who once ran for School Committee in Boston in 1938, was seeking a second four-year term on the Committee in Quincy.

He lost to Verenis, who will be 35 on Nov. 14, by a margin of 12,785 to 12,196, close but not really enough to ask for a recount.

Sullivan, however, will be favored to get his seat back when Toland resigns from the School Committee to take her newly acquired seat on the City Council.

Her replacement on the School Committee is chosen by the combined vote of the Committee and the Council.

The last time that happened was in 1979 when McCauley resigned from the School Board to take his Council seat and Frank Anselmo was chosen as his replacement.

Anselmo had finished fourth in the previous School Committee

Toland said she plans to resign from the Committee just before she is sworn in to the Council on Jan. 4 and she added that she would like to see "someone who campaigned for the office" get the School Committee post. She indicated that she would vote for Sullivan.

"He's got my vote," said Mary Collins.

Trailing in the School Committee field were Patrick Conroy, who was making his third try for public office at the age of 24, and James J. O'Brien.

Conroy had 10,182 votes and O'Brien 7,941.

There were only two contested seats on the City Council from the six wards.

Theodore P. DeCristofaro easily triumphed over Joseph

Cortese, 4,084 to 1,816, in the fight for the Ward 2 seat that was being vacated by Raymond.

Council President Leo J. Kelly won re-election to a fifth term from Ward 1 by disposing of David MacMillan, 3,395 to 1,603, for the second time in two years.

In Ward 6, a rumored sticker campaign for Mary Ann Mahoney materialized but it was no threat to Councillor Joanne Condon, who gathered 3,265 votes. Mrs. Mahoney got 172 write-ins.

John J. Lydon Jr., who was unopposed for re-election from Ward 3, drew 3,806 votes but also got a startlingly high number of 1,499 blanks, indicating a measure of indifference to his candidacy.

James A. Sheets and Stephen J. McGrath were unopposed in Ward 4 and 5 respectively.

Raymondi Pledges His Cooperation To McCauley

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Francis X. McCauley, Quincy's next mayor sees his election as "an opportunity to lead the city in a new direction."

And Daniel Raymondi, the man he easily defeated, pledges his cooperation to him, "to move the city forward."

Raymondi, his wife, Sharyn, and several campaign workers went to the Quincy Neighborhood Club at about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday where the McCauley camp was holding a victory party.

The Raymondi group was greeted with applause by the McCauley supporters.

Mrs. Raymondi greeted McCauley with a kiss. Her husband extended his hand and offered his congratulations.

After making his way to the front of the main hall, Raymondi was introduced to the gathering by Mike Sheehan, a McCauley campaign worker.

Saying that there had been political turmoil in the city for the past 10-12 years, Raymondi pointed out to the group that the city had survived this mayoral campaign.

"In the past, the people have elected a mayor, and the city has not survived the campaign," said Raymondi who pledged to "cooperate to move the city forward" with McCauley.

"We'll do everything to make sure this administration is a success," said Raymondi.

But the night was indeed Frank

McCauley's and the band began to play "My Way" as Raymondi left the club.

"This is a big victory. I'm very happy," said McCauley who shared that feeling with about 800 supporters at his election night headquarters at the Neighborhood Club.

McCauley said he was "very pleased" with his showing in Ward 2 (Raymondi's home ward). He said Raymondi spent over $25,000 more on his campaign than he did, "but the people responded to our campaign," said McCauley.

"This is an opportunity to maybe lead the city in a new direction," said Mayor-elect.

"We got our message across," McCauley said, "there's too much politics in the city of Quincy."

The city needs more professionals and fewer politicians said McCauley.

Fr. D'Olimpio's Tribute

Folk Song 'Quincy' Reflects Priest's Love For Hometown

"Quincy, the place I call my home; a place where past and present meet and move to future goals.

"Quincy, no place I'd rather be; she's the city of the presidents, a home to you and me."

"I really like this city," said the Rev. David D'Olimpio. "My whole upbringing was in Quincy. The people I met here had an effect on me. I have a feeling for this city."

"When I get home Wednesdays and Thursdays, my days off, I just like to walk down Hancock St. and look at the shopping area and things like the Strand Theater."

And that's why Fr. D'Olimpio, now an assistant in St. Patrick's Church in Lawrence, sat down with his guitar one afternoon and composed the song "Quincy," a tribute to his hometown.

He took it home, the folks liked it, so he went to Rik Tinory Productions in Cohasset and recorded it, accompanying himself on the guitar.

"I did it on the first take," he said. "It cost $25 a hour."

"Quincy" hasn't made it to the Top Ten yet. In fact there are only a couple of tapes of it in existence. But Win Bettinson has played it a few times on WJDA and the listeners have liked it.

He recently appeared with his guitar at the Montclair School to teach his song to pupils of Janet Hassler's fourth grade class.

The youngsters in turn introduced it to Mayor Arthur H. Tobin and they will take it to the City Council at its Monday, Nov. 16, meeting.

Members of the class include:

Maureen Flaherty, Barry Glynn, Garry Glynn, Dana Gifford, Gregory Hohmann, Deborah Hourin, Donald Howie, Laura Hughes, Christine Johnston, Brian Kelly, Robert Kovalski, Cheryl Kubera.

Fr. D'Olimpio, who is the son of Carmine D'Olimpio, president of the Building and Construction Trades Council of Quincy, is no stranger to the South Shore music world.

Back in 1968, when he was a sophomore at Quincy High School, he was part of a youthful group that introduced folk music into the 11 o'clock Mass at St. John's Church.

"A lot of kids at that time had fallen away from the practice of their faith," he said. "This gave us a chance to keep in contact with our faith in the way that we liked."

McCauley To Reveal Team Early

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor-elect Francis X. McCauley says he hopes to have his administration team put together by the end of the month, after which he plans to announce their names all at once.

"I want to hold a press conference on the second week in December, no later than the third week, when I will introduce those who are going to work with us in the administration," he said.

"The next month is going to be one of the most important parts of the next two years.

"We'll be making a change but I want to be sure that we will be making a change for the better. We will not be making changes and bringing in new people just for the sake of making change."

McCauley set about making plans for his administration only a few hours after the last vote was counted in his landslide victory over Daniel G. Raymond on Nov. 4.

He met with Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, who leaves office Jan. 4, last Friday to discuss the transition period and both men, although political rivals for 15 years, called the meeting "good."

"We talked for a good hour," said McCauley. "He gave me an idea of how the office operates and how the personnel is used. I asked for a list of board members and their expiration dates and he agreed to supply one."

"Frank McCauley and I may have had our differences," said Tobin, "but we have never exchanged a cross word to each other face-to-face in 15 years."

The feud was supposed to have started when Tobin defeated McCauley in a race for state representative, Tobin won.

"The vote was so heavy that it wasn't tabulated until past 3 a.m.," said Tobin. "I recall Mr. McCauley walking in the front door of my house at 10 minutes to 4 to congratulate me."

"We shook hands and we have been extremely cordial ever since. We talked for about an hour last Friday. I told him if he needed anything that I was just a phone call away."

McCauley started out by naming Arthur Foley, a Quincy

Did Raymond Alienate Both Sides?

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin says he feels that Daniel G. Raymond may have lost the race to be his successor as chief executive because he alienated his old supporters by trying to make new ones.

"Mr. Raymond," he said, "lost some support he was going to receive from people who were friendly with him through the years by trying to prove his independence to others."

"As a result, he alienated both sides and you can't do that."

"Of course," he added, "hindsight is 20-20 vision and we could pick out a lot of things. But that's what I'm hearing from both sides. They are saying the same thing."

Tobin is still doing a slow burn over charges of "political machine" that were hurled during the election at himself, and former mayors James R. McIntyre and Walter J. Hannon.

"If McIntyre, Hannon and Tobin were standing together in front of City Hall, people would drive by and say, 'There's the machine,' he said.

"If McCauley, LaRaia and Harold were standing together in front of City Hall, the same people would drive by and say, 'There's good government.'"

Francis X. McCauley defeated Raymond for mayor last week; Joseph J. LaRaia once beat Hannon for mayor and in turn lost to Tobin; and Paul D. Harold ousted Tobin from the office of state senator.

Tobin said the usual definition of a machine is the candidates, their workers, contributors and other supporters.

"If that's the premise," he said, "then they've got one too. Let's see how well their machine does. Sooner or later everyone has to answer on how they have conducted themselves."

"But the election is over. Tomorrow is another day. Before long Frank will see the burden of office. He'll have his own problems. People will be scrutinizing his administration very closely."

Tobin Plays Down Court Clerk Opposition

"I'm sure that whoever gets the appointment will be a good choice," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin. "I don't think it helps the governor to be deluged with letters of opposition or support."

Tobin, who leaves office Jan. 4, was responding to published reports that Gov. Edward J. King is holding up nomination of a clerk-magistrate of Quincy District Court because he has received letters opposing Tobin's appointment.

Tobin has been reported to be the front-runner for the $24,900 year post, succeeding the late Dennis F. Ryan, since last winter when he took himself out of the race for a third term as mayor.

He said that since the anti-Tobin article was published last Thursday he has received calls from "many fine people all over the city" and the court district in support of his nomination and many said they plan to call the governor.

"They were upset to hear that there was a move afoot to block the appointment," he said. "We were aware of this several weeks ago. There is an individual who has been going around the city bragging about it for a long time."

"I don't know what they are alleging in the letters to the governor. I'm a public official so I have to accept criticism but it's hard to accept people who write anonymous letters. It's difficult to

Chamber To Discuss Logan Airport Impact Study

The results of an economic impact study analyzing the importance of Logan Airport to the Metropolitan Boston regional economy will be discussed Thursday, Nov. 12, at a meeting to be held at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce in Quincy at 8:30 a.m.

Conducted by the Boston Aviation Council, with the assistance of the Chamber in the region South of Boston, the survey includes the results of interviews with companies such as the Foxboro Company, Pixley-Richards, Townsend-Textron, the Hermetite Corporation, Draper Brothers, Sandman Electric, and Chloride Pyroductor.

Study findings include revenues and visitor expenditures generated in the Metropolitan Boston area, tonnage of cargo and mail moved, and assessment of effectiveness of air cargo service firms of the Greater Boston area.

Among the air line representatives participating in the meeting are: Richard Burdette, Director, Government Affairs, Arthur Brickmeyer, Director, Government Affairs, James Reincke, Vice-President, Government Affairs, Eastern Airlines; Benjamin Griggs, Vice-President, Northwest Airlines; Stephen Slade, Director, Government Affairs, and James Wallace, Vice-President, Marketing, TWA; Gordon Barrington, Director, Government Affairs, Delta Airlines; Richard Denning, Vice-President, U.S. Air; and John Philip, Director, Government Affairs, United Airlines; Kevin Kiley, General Manager, Boston Aviation Council; and Stephen Fortune, M.I.T. research associate.

Visit From Luis Tiant Brightens Shut In's Day

Michael Benson, 12, of 63 Walker St., Atlantic, won't be able to get out of bed for another three months but a visitor last week helped to make the days a little brighter. The visitor was Luis Tiant.

The former Boston Red Sox pitching star, who still makes his home in Milton, visited with Michael for about half an hour and left his autograph on the casts on the youngster's legs.

Michael broke both legs recently in a fall from a station wagon while he was delivering on his paper route.

The visit from Tiant, who last season pitched for the Pittsburgh Pirates, was arranged by Leo Papile of Quincy, a friend of the Cuban-born baseball star.

His presence also attracted the neighborhood kids and Tiant obliged them with autographed pictures.

Michael acknowledged that hockey is more in his line than baseball. He is a member of the Quincy Youth Hockey Pee Wee team.

A student at Atlantic Junior High School, he plans to attend Boston College High School, from which Tiant's own son, Luis Jr., was graduated not long ago.

Teachers Union Endorsements Disappoint Sullivan

School Committeeman John J. Sullivan is disappointed in the failure of the teachers' union to support him for re-election in last week's balloting.

Sullivan, who was trying for his third term on the committee, was beaten by Nicholas C. Verenis, a laid off social studies teacher, by 589 votes.

Sullivan noted a flyer that was distributed by Q-Vote Associates, the political arm of the Quincy Education Association, just before election endorsing three candidates by name.

The flyer asked votes for Francis X. McCauley for mayor and Joseph J. LaRaia for city councillor based largely on their support of a supplementary budget to fund teachers' raises.

It also supported Verenis, who "as a killed teacher, is sensitive to the mental anguish so many of us are going through as we try to deal with the effects of Proposition 2 1/2."

"I was the one who introduced the supplementary budget in the school committee," said Sullivan. "Doesn't that deserve their support?"

"I was outspoken against Proposition 2 1/2, which cost so many teachers their jobs. Verenis admits that he was for it. Yet he gets their support. I don't understand it."

However, Sullivan may be back on the committee shortly after the new one is formed in January to fill the vacancy caused by Patricia M. Toland's move onto the City Council.

Auditor's Job To Be Split?

The City Council's special committee to choose a city auditor will meet Monday, Nov. 23, in the Council chamber to discuss changes in the office and candidates for the post.

William Grindlay has been acting auditor since last spring when Charles L. Shea retired. Seven applicants are seeking to succeed him.

Council President Leo J. Kelly said he doesn't think that the committee, which is made up of the Council as a whole, will reach any decision on a nomination at the meeting.

One of the changes that will be discussed is the possibility of splitting the job in two with a comptroller to handle day-to-day affairs and an auditor to check the records.

"For instance," said Grindlay, "the hospital payroll with 1,000 employees comes through here every Wednesday. All I have time to do is glance at it, sign it and send it on."

"Someone at the hospital could be adding fictitious names to the payroll and I would never know it. An internal auditing department would be able to check on it."

Thomas F. Megan of the accounting firm of Touche Ross, which has been studying the workings of the auditor's department, will be at the meeting to talk about the proposed change.

The Department of Wire Inspection issued 96 permits in October for work estimated to cost $192,143.

Collected fees totalled $2,504.25. Forty five certificates of approval were issued to Massachusetts Electric Company. There were 128 inspections made, and 15 reinspections.

Seventeen defects were noted, and there was one fire call.

Major new project for the month was a 12 unit condominium at 195 Copeland St.

many hours were spend inspecting the new 132 unit Clipper apartment building, 61 Palmer St., as it reaches its final stages.

Other major projects in progress are the Campanelli high rise office building and the new parking garage in Quincy Square, Monarch II and SCL office buildings in North Quincy.

Interest Medium In City Campaign

As elections go, the 1981 balloting, which featured a race for mayor between Francis X. McCauley and Daniel G. Raymondi, scored about five on a scale of 10 in public interest.

A total of 30,530 of the city's 48,511 registered voters, or 69.2 per cent, turned out to elect McCauley.

This was considerably more than the 52.2 per cent that voted in 1979 when Arthur H. Tobin ran against Abe M. Itkin; but behind the 66.8 per cent that cast ballots in 1977 when Tobin and Joseph J. LaRaia contested for mayor.

Only three times since the adoption of the new Plan A charter in 1957 has voter interest topped 70 per cent — 1959, Amelio Della Chiesa vs. James R. McIntyre, 75.5; 1975, LaRaia vs. Walter J. Hannon, 71.3; and 1971, Hannon vs. Joseph E. Brett.

Here is a rundown of voter turnout for the last 13 city elections:

Year	%	Candidates
1981	62.9	McCauley-Raymondi
1979	52.2	Tobin-Itkin
1977	66.8	Tobin-LaRaia
1975	71.3	LaRaia-Hannon
1973	53.5	Hannon-Saphir
1971	70.5	Hannon-Brett
1969	52.7	McIntyre-Preble
1967	54.4	McIntyre-Nannis
1965	65.0	McIntyre-LaRaia
1963	64.2	Della Chiesa-Shea
1961	62.9	Della Chiesa-Brett
1959	75.5	Della Chiesa-McIntyre
1957	60.0	Della Chiesa-Curtin

100% Correct

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Just read your Sunbeams editorial on young women using four letter words. You are absolutely, positively, totally, 100% right.

I can recall many years ago I used the term "pregnant". My father thought that was a swear and proceeded to croak me. Which brings up my next point. Just as young girls are the future mothers of this country, young boys are the future fathers and should set good examples. I wonder how many young men would swear so much in public if they got a receipt each time they did?

Keep up the good work and thanks for speaking out.

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. How did the Massachusetts Fields School get its name?
 2. What is the name of the newly elected city councillor from Ward 2?
 3. The city of Quincy obtains its water supply from: The MDC? Deep wells in West Quincy? Town River?
 4. True or false: The Adams birthplaces in South Quincy are owned by the U.S. government.
 5. In what section of the city is Embankment Rd?
- Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:
1. Joanne Condon was the second woman to be elected to the Quincy City Council.
 2. The Old Colony Railroad from Boston to Plymouth through Quincy was opened in 1845.
 3. Grand View Terrace is in the Wollaston section of the city.
 4. False, Charles Francis Adams, the great grandson of President John Quincy Adams, was the fourth mayor of Quincy. Charles H. Porter was the first.
 5. The Rev. Keith C. Munson is the minister of United First Parish Church.

Who's Coming, Who's Going?

It's "Who's Coming, Who's Going?" time at City Hall.

The guessing game which already precedes a new mayoral administration is already underway and could continue well into January even though Mayor-elect Francis X. McCauley hopes to have his administration team put together by December.

McCauley, of course, will try to keep his planned appointees under wraps until he wants to make the official announcements.

But that's not stopping City Hall observers from speculating and already a few names are being mentioned. Names popping up include:

ANDERSON

Paul Anderson, a key aide in Mayor Joseph LaRaia's administration, for the post of public works commissioner to succeed James (Pete) Ricciuti.

Arthur Foley, tapped by McCauley to head the transition team, wouldn't surprise too many people if he were later named McCauley's executive secretary. He owns a Quincy real estate agency which also opens speculation that he may become assessors chairman instead.

Atty. William B. Golden of Squantum, a strong McCauley supporter, is considered a good possibility for city solicitor. He ran a spirited but unsuccessful campaign for Governor's Councillor against Patrick (Sonny) McDonough a few years ago.

GOLDEN

Dean Nicastro, a bright young attorney and one-time School Committee candidate, is also being mentioned for city solicitor — or assistant solicitor.

Eleanor Reidy, who worked for McCauley at the Presidential Cooperative Bank and also for him in the campaign, is seen rejoining the boss at City Hall as his personal secretary.

Lawrence Butler, retired state accountant and former member of the Quincy Housing Board, worked in the McCauley campaign camp. He is seen returning to the Housing Board — or going to the auditor's office.

Hang around City Hall corridors and you'll also hear speculation that Planning Director James Lydon may stay on with the McCauley administration.

There's also guessing that City Solicitor Robert Fleming who was appointed by Mayor Walter Hannon and stayed on as assistant solicitor during the LaRaia term, may remain in the solicitor's office.

Insiders doubt McCauley is going to make a clean sweep and will keep some Tobin appointees on. But in due time, most of them will be gone — and know it.

THERE WAS PLENTY of interest in the results election night. The Quincy Sun, which was swamped by telephone calls until after 2 a.m., started receiving calls at 7:45 — even before the polls closed. One call came from Peoria, Ariz. Stewart Williams, former Quincy resident, wanted to know how his friend Frank McCauley was doing.

But long distance interest honors went to Jeff Craig of Houghs Neck who called McCauley's election night headquarters at The Neighborhood Club. He was on a business trip in Scotland.

WARD 3 Councillor John Lydon may be the next City Council president as he thinks he will.

LYDON

He apparently has four of the necessary five votes — his own, Leo Kelly, Joanne Condon and Stephen McGrath. But some observers looking at last week's election figures think he may have some problems waiting for him two years from now.

Running unopposed for his 5th term, Lydon had the dubious distinction of easily topping everyone in the blanks department. He got 3,806 votes without an opponent on the ballot but collected an awesome 1,499 blanks. That's 1,499 people who didn't vote for him even though he was the only one running.

Observers doubt he will get another "free" ride two years from now. In fact, two of this year's unsuccessful but promising young City Council at-large contenders reportedly are already considering taking Lydon on in 1983. Timothy Cahill who finished fifth and William O'Hare, sixth, couldn't help but notice the Lydon blanks pileup. Both live in Ward 3. And, according to supporters, if they had it to do over they would have run for the Ward 3 seat this year.

conducted on the high road and ended there. It was a tough loss for Daniel Raymondi but he showed a lot of class and courage by going to Frank McCauley's crowded election night headquarters to offer the latter his congratulations and pledge his cooperation to him. It hasn't been that way in recent mayoral elections.

It brought back memories of the not-so-long-ago "good old days" when mayoral candidates could run hard against one another but remain friendly when it was over instead of becoming bitter enemies.

Like the 1959 race between Amelio Della Chiesa and his 29-year-old challenger, James McIntyre. That election night when the return showed that Della Chiesa was going to be re-elected, McIntyre and James (Pete) Ricciuti walked over to City Hall to Della Chiesa's office to offer their congratulations. (Della Chiesa was actually there — not at his headquarters). The winner and loser shook hands. Then Della Chiesa slipped an arm around McIntyre's shoulder and said, like a father: "Jimmy, your time will come."

The contact was so strong that Dave D'Olimpio, Bob Dechan and Joe O'Brien, all members of the folk group at St. John's, entered St. John's Seminary to study for the priesthood.

"Folk music is definitely a tradition in the church now," said Fr. D'Olimpio. "It was hard in the beginning. Some parishes find tradition hard to break. But now liturgical folk music is popular."

The folk-singing priest has just started a folk group at St. Patrick's Church with the enthusiastic support of the pastor, the Rev. Eugene Curtin, who just celebrated his 25th year of ordination.

"He wanted something that speaks to the young in the parish," said Fr. D'Olimpio.

As yet, there are no plans to promote "Quincy" to the Top Ten. It's not being pushed by disc jockeys around the country. It's still a very limited edition.

"I wrote it just for the sake of writing it," said Fr. D'Olimpio. "If something happens, fine.

But it's mostly a self-satisfaction thing."

'Quincy, The Place I Call My Home ...'

Here are the lyrics to the song "Quincy", composed by the Rev. David D'Olimpio:

"The Cape has got its beaches and Cohasset has its shore, Plymouth and her Pilgrims, Plymouth Rock and so much more.

I've been all around the state, across the country, too.

But there's just one place that I'll call home, this place I'll share with you.

CHORUS - Quincy, the place I call my home.

A place where past and present meet and move to future goals.

Quincy, no place I'd rather be.

She's the city of the presidents, a home to you and me.

Born and raised in Quincy Point or out on Adams Shore, Germantown, Houghs Neck, Montclair, Wollaston and more.

The quarries of West Quincy, the Neponset to the north.

Squantum and Merrymount bordering on the shore.

CHORUS ...

It doesn't matter where I go or how long I'm away.

If the road's been smooth or rocky, I look forward to the day.

I can see the sunshine on Blue Hills that means I'm almost there.

Back to friends and family, I think you know where.

CHORUS ...

Pay Cut Given Back To Top City Officials

The City Council voted to restore a 10 per cent pay cut that had been ordered earlier in the year for all city officials who were making more than $3,000 a year.

The Council appropriated $5,175 from the general fund to cover the salaries for the remainder of the year.

Councillor Avery W. Gikerson said he figured that the cut in pay had saved the city money, even though it never went into effect because the Council failed to change the pay ordinance.

"I feel we have actually saved this $5,175 for the city this year," he said.

"It would have never been left in this fund by the various department heads if they had not known that they would need it at the end of the year for their salaries."

DINNER HOURS CUT

Police Chief John J. Avery cut the dinner hours of his men from an hour and a half to an hour and a quarter and also ordered them to keep their uniforms cleaned and pressed, their shoes shined and clean shaven.

Avery said the old dinner hours had been placed in effect in the days when the officers had to wait for a street car to go home for dinner. Now, he said, most of the men could dash home in cars to eat.

"A clean tidy uniform and a neat physical appearance," he said, "gives an individual officer greater self respect, raises him in the respect of the public and tends to bolster the moral of the department."

COUNCILLORS NOMINATED

Incumbents Edward J. Sandberg and Avery Gikerson and Laurence J. Curtin, seeking to return to office, were nominated for places on the final ballot as city councillors at large.

They were to face Joseph J. Kendrick, Neil A. McDonald and Roy A. Means in the general election in December. Kendrick topped the preliminary balloting with 3,448 votes.

Only 24 per cent of Quincy's 38,000 registered voters turned out in the lightest primary in years.

TAX RULING ASKED

The city of Quincy asked the State Supreme Court to rule on whether the earnings of a public utility company can be used to decide the value of the company's property.

It appealed the ruling of the State Appellate Tax Board in 1937 which allowed the Boston Consolidated Gas Co. abatements of $22,220 a year in taxes.

TAHITI-BOUND

Edward Ruggles, a commercial artist who lives on Norfolk St., Wollaston, sailed for Tahiti aboard the 90-foot teakwood brigantine Ceylon under the command of Capt. Sterling Hayden of Arlington.

Robert G. Longfellow of 92 Thornton St., Wollaston was elected to membership in the American Numismatic Association. ... Mothers' Cooperative To Discuss Christmas Party

The Quincy Mothers' Cooperative will meet Thursday, Nov. 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the Lincoln Hancock School to discuss an upcoming Christmas party.

The party, which will be the big event of the year for the children, will be held Dec. 13, 1 to 3 p.m. at Christ Church.

The Quincy Mothers' Cooperative, a non-profit organization, is a group of mothers of pre-school children originally set up in 1974 as a babysitting cooperative. Since that time, the babysitting has been dropped and the group's scope expanded.

The group helps mothers get into the network of mother-child life and offers information on day care, play groups, parenting, bartering of goods and crafts, and other topics.

There are also playgrounds where three to four mothers and children get together each week and have a play time, craft activity, snack and sometimes a day trip.

Family activities include day trips and picnics to places such as Drumlum Farm, Edaville Railroad and the Children's Museum.

Monthly meetings are held alternately with children at 9:30 a.m. at Christ Church, and with mothers only at 7:30 p.m. at Lincoln Hancock.

A coffee-conversation time is followed by coop business and usually a speaker on topics such as coupon refunding, nutrition, children's dental health, CPR, children's emotional development, and food coops.

There is also a monthly newsletter written by Jackie Stacey informing members of upcoming events and meetings.

The events, usually around Easter, include a cake sale to raise funds.

The group recently held a Halloween Party for the children.

For more information, contact Nancy Bunnell, chairperson, at 773-7238, or Eva Baughman, co-chairperson, at 471-8243.

Past President Day

For Wollaston Garden Club

The Wollaston Garden Club will meet Thursday, Nov. 19, in the social hall of Wollaston Congregational Church, Winthrop Ave.

Guests of honor will be past presidents of the club, and the presidents of area garden clubs.

Refreshments will be 1 to 2 p.m. Mrs. Charlotte Rolfs and her committee will be hostesses.

Mrs. Margaret Doherty will preside over the business meeting.

Tom Marshall of The Flower Loft, North Quincy, will speak on holiday flower arrangements.

Mrs. Florence Clifford will be in charge of the floral decorations for the meeting.

Abp. Williams Class Of 1971

To Hold Reunion

The class of 1971 of Archbishop Williams High School will hold its 10th class reunion at Sons of Italy Hall, King Road, Braintree, Saturday, Nov. 28.

There will be a social hour, 7 to 8 p.m. Dinner will be served at 8 p.m., followed by music and dancing until midnight.

The committee is looking for many "lost" classmates.

Any member of the class who has not been contacted should contact Mrs. Sue PoloGuin DiBona at 335-3955 or William Spencer at Archbishop Williams High School, 843-0190.

Recovery, Inc. Meetings At Southwest Center

Recovery, Inc. announces a new weekly meeting to be held at the Southwest Community Center, 372 Granite St., Quincy, Saturday afternoons at 2 p.m.

Recovery, Inc. is an international agency organized in 1937 to prevent relapses in former mental patients and chronic symptoms in nervous patients. The non-profit, non-sectarian organization offers a systematic self-help aftercare method developed by the late psychiatrist Dr. Abraham A. Low.

Anyone over the age of 18 is welcome to attend Recovery meetings, and the meetings are free of charge. A free-will offering is taken up at the end of the meeting.

MRS. CATHERINE SHEA receives Revere bowl from City Council President Leo J. Kelly as a token of the many hours of volunteer service she has devoted to the Manet Community Health Center in Houghs Neck. Kay Jordan was giving a similar award.

Tax Shelters Topic For Mayor's Commission Program

"Turn Your Pin Money Into a Tax Shelter" is the topic of the second program in a series sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, Wednesday, Nov. 18 at 7:30 p.m.

The program will be held in the second floor Conference Room at Quincy City Hall.

Speaker will be Frank McKeown, affiliate with Richard D. Chase and Co. of Quincy.

With more than 20 years experience in financial services, McKeown urges all to attend who are stymied by the many money ads and appeals in the media.

"Everyone wants to know about the many tax-favored ways to accumulate money," stated

McKeown. "That means the $25 a month saver on up!"

He also urges anyone with questions to call him or bring them to the program.

This program is free and open to all.

The Nov. 18 edition of The Quincy Sun will herald a questionnaire directed to the needs of Quincy women. All women are urged to fill one out.

Saving Teeth With Root Canal Treatment

Ideally, people with cavities see a dentist promptly for treatment. Unfortunately, many people wait until the decay has penetrated deep within the tooth. Sometimes they don't see a dentist until they have a toothache.

In the past, if decay had reached the dental pulp (nerve), extraction was necessary. However, these teeth can often be saved with root canal (endodontic) treatment. The inside of the tooth is opened, and any remaining nerve tissue is removed. The infected material is cleaned out, and the space left behind is enlarged and smoothed. Finally this space (root canal) is filled, usually with a rubber-like material called gutta percha.

These teeth still have a normal blood and nerve supply from the gums and bone surrounding them. After proper restoring, these teeth can remain painlessly in the mouth for many years.

Harold Speaker

Joint Service-Breakfast At Beth Israel Synagogue

Senator Paul D. Harold will be the speaker at a joint religious convocation and comrade-brotherhood breakfast being held Sunday, Nov. 15, by the Quincy Jewish War Veterans Post and Beth Israel Brotherhood.

The event, being held in commemoration of Veteran's Day, will begin at 8:30 a.m. with worship in Beth Israel Synagogue, 33 Grafton St.

The Quincy Post will perform the comrades ritual. There will be presentation of colors, honor roll call, memorial lights, Kadish, Psalm 23, and silent meditation.

Breakfast will follow in the Morris Silverman Social Hall.

The Kitchen Brigade of the post and brotherhood will cater the breakfast.

Sen. Harold has served Quincy as Councillor at Large, was elected senator, and re-elected senator in November, 1980. He also chairs, and serves on many committees.

He is a graduate of U. Mass-Amherst with a bachelors degree in government; Suffolk University Law School, juris doctor; Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University; John Hopkins European Center, Bologna, Italy; and Worcester College, Oxford, England.

Squantum Pastor

Tells Of National Conference Experiences

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor of the First Church of Squantum, shared with his congregation Sunday some experiences he had last week at a national conference of professional Christian youth workers. The conference was held at the American Baptist Assembly in Green Lake, Wisconsin.

In a sermon, "Getting On With Our Mission", Dr. Langevin congratulated the congregation for sponsoring this fall the most successful church dinner and church fair in years.

Both events are fundraisers for the church.

Dr. Langevin challenged the congregation to be as zealous in their work for missions and local ministry as they have been in raising money for ongoing church expenses.

Scripture for the morning dealt with the appointment of the first seven deacons. The pastor explained the role of deacons to the children of the church.

The Youth Choir sang "Seek Ye First the Kingdom of God."

The Senior Choir, keeping with the theme of the day, sang an old hymn about one of the first deacons in the New Testament, "When Stephen, Full of Power and Grace." Robert Frazer was soloist.

Greeters for the morning were Dana and Pat Olson and their daughters Kim and Krista. Ushers were Tore Wallin, Steve Williams, Paul Paulson and Wayne Cousins. Grace Holmes and Helen Miller hosted the Fellowship Hour.

Later in the day, at 6 p.m., there was a Youth Service for all of the young people in the church's four youth groups: Orange Crush, Seven-Up, Mellow Yellow and Pepsi Challenge.

The service next Sunday morning will begin at 10:15 a.m.

'Ladies First' Program

For Sacred Heart Sodality

Robin Lane will present a program on "Ladies First" Wednesday, Nov. 18, at 8 p.m. at a meeting of the Sacred Heart Ladies Sodality at Sacred Heart School.

Miss Lane gives serious and humorous portrayals of Rachel Jackson, Julia Tyler, Mary Lincoln, Eleanor Roosevelt and Jackeline Kennedy.

Members will meet in Our Ladies Chapel at 7 p.m. for Rosary and Mass.

After the program, refreshments will be served by Mrs. Mary Scanlon and her committee.

Mrs. Mary Raux will conduct the business meeting.

Fort Square Presbyterian Church To Celebrate 85th Birthday

Fort Square United Presbyterian Church, 16 Pleasant St., South Quincy, will celebrate its 85th birthday Saturday and Sunday.

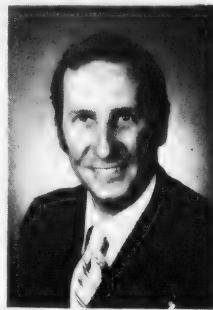

Festivities will begin Saturday at 6:30 p.m. with an anniversary banquet at First United Presbyterian Church, 270 Franklin St., South Quincy.

After the banquet, church members of 50 years or more will be honored. There will also be entertainment.

The celebration will continue Sunday with services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. at Fort Square Church. The evening service will climax with greetings to the 100th anniversary being placed in the repository.

Guest speaker at both services will be Dr. Miles W. MacDonald, a native New Englander who has been senior pastor of Mt. Lebanon United Presbyterian Church since May, 1962.

A graduate of Gordon College, he was also graduated from Pittsburgh Theological Seminary where he received several awards. He also did post graduate study at New College, University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and did supply teaching the the Church of Scotland.

Married to the former Betty Hopkins of Quincy, he and his wife have three sons and two daughters.

He received a doctor of divinity degree in June, 1963 from Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa., and has visited the Holy Land and recently travelled on a Reformation Study Tour.

Fort Square United Presbyterian Church was founded in 1896. Pastor since 1972 has been Rev. Robert E. Duncan. Assistant pastor is Mr. Louis Mitchell.

The eighth pastor at the church, Rev. Duncan was graduated from Gordon College with an AB degree, and from Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary with a master of divinity degree.

He served at St. Paul Presbyterian Church, Mattapan, 1962-1967, and First Presbyterian Church in Greenlawn, Long Island, N.Y., 1967-1972.

Rev. Duncan has served as chairman of the Candidates Committee for the Boston Presbytery as Presbytery's delegate to the Synod of the Northeast and the Synod Mission Council.

A member of the board of directors of the Gordon College Alumni Association, he and his wife Polly are parents of sons Andrew, Eugene and Colin.

All are involved in church activities.

Angus D. MacLeod is chairman for the 85th birthday.

'A Family Affair' Nov. 21 At Union Congregational

GLAD TIDINGS CHURCH

Jesus was concerned about people - people who had family problems, sickness, fear, sorrow, lack of purpose, worry, emptiness. Jesus was also concerned about those who had it "all together" yet were missing the fulfillment of life's only true meaning. Our lives have been changed since we discovered life's purpose through Jesus Christ, and we are excited about what God has done for us. He has given us eternal life — "strength for today and bright hope for tomorrow." Through a faith that is Christ - centered and Bible-based, He enables us to live confidently in our uncertain world, to deal effectively with the stresses of life's challenges, and to know God's purpose in our lives. It is our desire that you and your family also experience this new life through trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ — now and always.

Glad Tidings Church is a warm, friendly church that believes the Bible and offers the answer for the problems we all face. We would be privileged to share our lives, touched by the Holy Spirit, with you. We really do care about you!

Above all, parents, teachers and other faculty members, students, and other persons from the total community must come together to establish mutually acceptable goals for the schools. That means a commitment of time, energy, and good will on the part of every one of us. It is only by working together that we can assure to all young persons — indeed to all persons of any age — the education to which they are entitled. Each of us, in turn, will be secure in the knowledge that we are helping to maintain the equal opportunity that is the birthright of every citizen of our country.

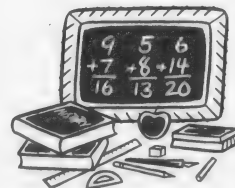

We've put these ideas together in a free brochure "Working Together for Education." Write for it and join together in a strong partnership for education.

Howard Johnson Stepping Down From Restaurant - Motel Chain

Howard Johnson Co., the orange roofed motel-restaurant chain which began 56 years ago with a homemade recipe for ice cream in a Wollaston drugstore, will for the first time be without a Johnson family member at its helm.

Chairman and president Howard B. Johnson announced Monday that he is stepping down as head of the company.

Johnson, who will remain as a consultant through 1985, stated he would concentrate on his own family interests, and interests outside the company.

A new chairman and president will be announced soon, according to the company.

Imperial Group Ltd., a London company involved in the beer, tobacco and hotel business, purchased Howard Johnson's in June, 1980.

Johnson, 49, said at the time he would stay on until the change-over was completed.

Johnson's father, who founded the company, famous for its 28 flavors of ice cream, turned the business over to him in 1959.

He told his son, "make it grow".

Scholarships Topic For Rotary Club

The Rotary Foundation Committee will present the program at a meeting of the Rotary Club of Quincy Tuesday, Nov. 17, at noon at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

The committee will present the requirements and conditions under which men and women can apply for a Rotary Foundation Scholarship for 1983-1984.

Committee members are Gerald T. Reilly, chairman, Edmund Demski, Bert Eckblom, Philip Lawrence, Donald Young, George Bennett, and Frederick Sheehan.

The committee's recommendation for a Rotary Foundation Scholarship, Harvard University student Brian P. O'Toole of Quincy, has been awarded a scholarship for the 1982-1983 academic year.

O'Toole will study pure mathematics at the University of Dublin, Trinity College, Dublin, Ireland.

The week of Nov. 16 is "Rotary Foundation Week".

Christmas Festival Committee Meets

The Quincy Christmas Festival Committee was scheduled to meet last night (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. at the civil defense headquarters, 55 Se St.

Chairman George White urged committee members to attend.

Children's Book Week At Thomas Crane Library

The first in a series of Children's Book Week events will take place Monday, Nov. 16, at 7:30 at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Square.

Jane Granstrom, Supervisor of Children's Services, will address the Quincy Parents Advisory Council to Special Education.

The meeting is open to any adults interested in children with special needs.

The second event, Tuesday, Nov. 17, 2 to 4 p.m. heralds a first for the library - a sale of children's books.

Books, which will be sold for twenty-five cents each are suitable for children from pre-school through age 12.

Anyone wishing to donate used children's books should contact Miss Granstrom.

Bill Glover, of Dial-A-Story, will entertain school age children with puppets and a magic show Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.

Parents interested in the importance of reading in their children's lives are invited to a talk Thursday, Nov. 19, at 10:30.

Janet DiTullio, reading specialist in the Quincy Public Schools, will discuss reading readiness, the importance of reading skills, and ways to encourage reading.

Miss Granstrom, will demonstrate the types of books available to young children and how books can be used.

All events will be held on the lower level at the Main Library in Quincy Square. For further information contact Miss Granstrom, 471-2400.

Quincy Camp Fire Celebrates Halloween

Quincy Camp Fire clubs celebrated Halloween with a variety of activities, ranging from parties to service projects.

Girls from Helen Kelley's Horizon Club (ages 14-18) decided to use the Camp Fire slogan "Give Service," as the basis for their Halloween observance.

They rounded up a group of pre-schoolers with both parents working and unable to get involved in Halloween activities.

The girls then helped the children make costumes and took them trick or treating on Halloween night.

The Discovery Clubs (ages 12-14) got together with leaders Gail Mayberger and Audrey Wilcoxon for a costume party which included refreshments, the games of "Murder" and "Black Magic", and a costume contest.

Prize winners were Joy O'Hare and Donna Glynn for costumes showing the "Best Use of Everyday Materials," and Cheryl Hanson, whose Japanese kimono won the prize for "Most Original."

Doreen Smith's club of Adventurers (ages nine to 11) planned a Halloween party for their younger brothers and sisters.

Besides enjoying a pumpkin cake, the children played such traditional Halloween favorites as Bobbing for Apples and Donut on a String.

The Furnace Brook Blue Birds (ages six to eight) enjoyed an afternoon of Halloween arts and crafts. They made masks and lollipop ghosts, then frosted and decorated Halloween cupcakes.

The afternoon ended with ghost stories, monster riddles, and fortune telling.

S. Quincy Civic Sponsoring Tour Of Historic Sites

The South Quincy Civic Association will sponsor a free tour of historic Quincy sites Sunday at 2 p.m. starting at Quincy City Hall.

Free Hearing Tests To Be Given Nov. 17

The Quincy Council on Aging, in cooperation with the Boston Guild for the Hard of Hearing, is sponsoring free hearing screening tests Tuesday, Nov. 17, and Wednesday, Nov. 18.

The tests will be given in the guild's completely equipped mobile unit staffed by a clinically certified audiologist.

The mobile unit will be located at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., Quincy, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days.

The Boston Guild for the Hard of Hearing is a long established hearing rehabilitation center. It is fully accredited in audiology by the American Speech - Language - Hearing Association of Service Programs in Communicative Disorders.

The guild also shares in the United Way of Massachusetts Bay.

For further information, call the Council on Aging office at 773-1380, ext. 243.

'Rustproofing Your Retirement' Seminar At Crane Library

Charles Stockbridge, vice president of the Center for Financial Planning, will hold a free seminar on "Rustproofing your Retirement" tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Library, 40 Washington St.

Stockbridge's main topic will be the new IRA and Keogh plans that will be available to over 90 million individuals as of Jan. 1, 1982.

The two most often asked questions, "Where Do I Start?" and "What Do I Fund the Plan With?" will be discussed, as well as tax advantages these plans provide.

Rare coin investment will be discussed.

In a recent study by Salomon Brothers, a New York investment banking firm, rare coins were shown to have risen in excess of 27% per year since 1970.

Persons with rare coins are invited to bring them to the seminar.

Annual Fair Nov. 21 At Granite Place

Granite Place residents will hold their annual fair Saturday, Nov. 21, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the main function room of the complex, Granite St., Quincy Center.

There will be a variety of table offering items such as home made baked goods, arts and crafts, Christmas articles, raffle, plants and white elephant articles.

Lunch will be served 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Coffee and Danish will be available all day.

All are welcome.

Mayor's Race By Precincts

Francis X. McCauley captured all but four of the city's 39 precincts Nov. 3 en route to his landslide, 5,815-vote victory over Daniel G. Raymond.

Raymond won Precincts 1, 2, 3 and 4 in his home Ward 2 to win the ward by 3,365 to 2,839 votes. However, he lost his home Precinct 7 by a margin of 38 votes.

McCauley ran up his biggest margin, 3,687 to 1,538, in his home Ward 1. He was the victor in all the wards except Ward 2.

Here is a precinct-by-precinct breakdown of the vote for mayor:

School Committee Vote By Wards

Mary P. Collins reigned supreme all over the city in winning re-election to a second term on the School Committee.

She led in every ward but one, Ward 4 which she lost to Joan Picard by a mere two votes, in running up her leading 15,803 votes.

John J. Sullivan, seeking a third term on the committee, did poorly in the north end of the city and it cost him his seat to former teacher Nicholas C. Verenis.

He trailed Verenis by 365 votes in Ward 6 and by 252 votes in Ward 5, where both of them live.

Here is a rundown of the ward-by-ward vote for School Committee:

Ward	Collins	Picard	Sullivan	Conroy	O'Brien	Verenis

real estate man, to head his transition team, operating out of an office in an as yet undetermined site downtown.

Some of McCauley's earliest meetings were with department heads Treasurer Robert E. Foy III, acting Auditor William Grindlay and School Supt Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

"I wanted to get a general idea of what was going on in each of those departments," he said.

"I will be talking with Bob Foy and Bill Grindlay several times more because I want to keep a close watch on the city's financial condition."

"Bill told me he basically feels that we are going to have a budget year that is realistic and in compliance with 2 1/2%. He feels we can make it without any unreal revenue projections."

"I asked him to monitor all departments. One thing I don't want is deficits in May and June."

McCauley said he hopes to get moving on the city budget for fiscal 1983 sometime in December, when the various departments will be asked to get their figures together.

"Let's be ahead of the deadlines," he said. "If we set the tax rate next year in the fall we can avoid problems and save the city thousands of dollars in interest charges."

"There is no reason we can't do it and it's my job as mayor to ride herd."

McCauley said his meeting with Creedon was devoted largely to plans for his inauguration as mayor, which will take place Monday, Jan. 4, at 10 a.m. in the Vocational Technical School gym. Two years ago, the ceremonies were held in the City Council chamber at City Hall.

The mayor-elect and the superintendent also discussed the proposed citywide re-organization of the public schools that Creedon plans to present to the School Committee next Wednesday.

"Nothing will be finalized until the new year," said McCauley, "but it is a priority for both Dr. Creedon and myself. We will be seeking input from the citywide Parent Teachers Association."

"We have been closing schools year by year and we need a plan to be carried out over the years so people will know what to expect."

McCauley said he plans only three interruptions of his preparation routine before he becomes mayor.

Last Tuesday, the former president of the Presidential Cooperative Bank, now merged with the Granite Cooperative Bank, went back for a day to work on some last minute reports.

He will act as a consultant for the Granite Cooperative Bank until the end of the year.

Next Thursday through Monday, Nov. 19-23 he will be going to Harvard to learn about being mayor.

Each year after election, the Kennedy School of Government sponsors a series of workshops for newly elected mayors from all over the country. McCauley has signed up.

"The costs are born by the Kennedy school," he said.

Then, around Dec. 1, McCauley plans to get away for a little vacation with his wife, Sandra.

"Maybe the Caribbean," he said.

fight them.

"I'm not going to hold the office up to public ridicule by commenting on it."

Tobin said he is not sure what he plans to do when he leaves office in approximately seven weeks.

"I have offers from a couple of law firms," he said, "one local and one in Boston. I may reopen my own law office."

Before he devoted his full time to politics as a state rep, senator and mayor, Tobin was associated with the late Harry Pavan in a Quincy law office.

Raiders Host Tough Catholic Memorial

North Quincy's football team scored a letdown last week after its big win over Brookline and barely got by a winless but fired-up Weymouth South team, 22-13.

The Raiders, who improved their record to 5-3 and who won their third in a row and fourth in the last five, will have to do better Saturday when they host Catholic Memorial in a 1:30 p.m. game at Veterans Memorial Stadium. In their brief series, Memorial has proven one of North's toughest rivals.

"We didn't play our game at Weymouth and they were really up for us, but Joe Dudek did another great job for us (three touchdowns for four in two weeks and 97 yards rushing) and Rich Stevens and Ray Mallory also ran well," said Coach Dave Burke. "Weymouth South always seems to give us trouble and they really gave us a game."

Stevens ran for 51 yards and Mallory for 46 to give Dudek good support. In the offensive line Jim Hutchinson and Mike Panaro did an excellent job.

Defensive coordinator Jack Raymer was pleased with the Raiders' defense, especially in the scoreless second half.

"They passed much more than we expected and their fine quarterback (Rob Lyons) did a fine job," Raymer said. "But the defense came through again and did an especially fine job in the second half. We fumbled the opening kickoff in the second half and they had the ball on our two-yard line, but we held them."

Raymer had good words for Neal Fisher and Panaro in particular, also for Richie Brown, Rich Comeau, Gerry Connelly, Steve Howley, Mallory, Jim Kelly, Mike Ellis and Mike Hutchings. Comeau intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble.

North's fine place kicker, Bill Bradley, was injured but North clicked on a pair of two-point conversion passes.

The Raiders opened the scoring early on Dudek's 16-yard run. Bradley's kick for the extra point failed, one of his few misses this year.

Weymouth took the lead when Tom Staples took a pass from Lyons for nine yards and South added the point to put it up, 7-6.

In the second quarter Dudek scored from the one and again from three and Dan Linnehan scored both two-point conversions on passes from Pat Burke. Weymouth scored again before the half ended on a 12-yard pass from Lyons to Staples and the teams battled through a scoreless second half.

The Raiders had some good opportunities in the last two periods but failed to capitalize. --TOM SULLIVAN

North-Memorial Game On WJDA

Station WJDA will do the play-by-play of Saturday's Catholic Memorial-North Quincy football game at Veterans Memorial Stadium at 1:30 with Charlie Ross and Roy Lind doing the honors.

Reports will also be brought in from Weymouth South at Marshfield, Weymouth North at Brockton and Abp. Williams at Whitman-Hanson.

Sunday the station will bring in reports from the Quincy at Brookline game at 1:30 p.m.

Bunker Gets All-American Honorable Mention

Chip Bunker, 6-foot-10 center for the North Quincy High basketball team, who will be the mainstay of this year's team, has been given All-American honorable mention by the Street and Smith basketball publication.

The same publication named Bunker as a starter on the Metro-Boston all-star team.

Chip, son of Charlie Bunker, North Quincy's baseball coach, is a member of the Boston Amateur Basketball Club, made up of the outstanding schoolboy players in Massachusetts and coached by North Quincy's Leo Papile, and played in a number of national tournaments this fall and during the past summer.

He has more than 60 colleges interested in him.

TV CAN CAUSE FIRE

A government fact-finding organization has estimated that 10,000 home fires may be attributed to TV sets. This is not a large amount, but it could be quite important if the fire happened in your home. So, it makes sense to take the following precautions.

Do not cover ventilation slots or openings with cloth or other decorative material. Do not place a set in a bookcase or wall cabinet which may block ventilation slots. Do not block bottom openings by placing a set on a bed, sofa or rug. If liquid is spilled on a set, pull the plug.

Use a lightning arrester when installing an outside antenna. It should be installed where the lead comes into the house and should not cost more than $5 dollars.

If a set catches on fire, unplug it and call the fire department. Spray only with carbon dioxide or dry powder fire extinguisher - never water.

North Saves Best 2 Games For Last

The North Quincy boys' soccer team saved two of its best games for the end as it held Suburban League-leading Waltham to a scoreless tie and defeated Newton North, 3-1, to finish with a 6-7-5 record.

The scoreless tie with Waltham highlighted an excellent season for the Raiders' defense. The Hawks, unbeaten and rated fourth in Eastern Mass., were fortunate to stay undefeated as North's John Keenan's hard shot from 18 yards away with five seconds left was barely saved by Charlie Pulsello, the league's leading goalie.

The defense turned back every thrust the Hawks' second ranked offense could muster. Steve Sacchetti, Jim Boudreau and Bob Flaherty blanketed Joe Costa, the league's number two scorer, allowing him just two shots. The rest of the North defense, led by Alex Courts, Greg DiBella, Bob Flynn, Dennis White and Steve Hawes, contained the rest of the Waltham players. Pat King made several outstanding saves and earned his eighth shutout. King is the number three goalie in the league with a 1.29 goals against average.

Lester Gervy, Keenan, Terry

Stark and Dwayne Wilcoxon also played well.

In the season's finale North traveled to Newton and beat the No. 4 team in the Suburban League for the second time. The Raiders earlier had won, 1-0.

The Raiders dominated the game and took the lead 16 minutes into the game when Peter McGillicuddy pushed a nice through pass to Steve Sacchetti, who crossed the ball to Richie Palma. Palma leaped high in the air to head the ball past the Tigers' goalie. It was the prettiest goal of the season for North Quincy.

George Dolbec, up from the junior varsity, nearly scored in the second quarter but was foiled on a great save.

White and Hawes played particularly well on defense in the first half.

Palma, who had been red hot around the net in the last few games, scored early in the third quarter from 20 yards out. McGillicuddy set him up with a fine pass. It was Palma's ninth goal of the year. Sacchetti scored his fifth goal of the year on a pass from Jimmy Boudreau for the Raiders' final score.

"We finished in fifth place this year and with any luck early in the season we might have qualified for the Eastern Mass. Tournament," said Coach Paul Bregoli.

"This was an excellent team and the final record does not indicate the quality of the team we had. Palma, Sacchetti and Mike Bourikas were outstanding in the second half of the season with Palma playing exceptionally well.

"Defensively we allowed 23 goals, third fewest in the league. Courts, Hawes, DiBella, Flynn and White were excellent and always seemed to make the big plays when needed. Our halfback group of Keenan, Gerry, Stark, Wilcoxon and Boudreau all played well and Flaherty showed improvement all season. Finally, Pat King had a great year in goal.

"This was a rewarding season, especially after finishing last last season with a 1-16-1 record. We will have eight starters back next season and should be stronger."

Palma finished with 13 points. Sacchetti scored 11. Bourikas eight and Boudreau five.

Coach Tom White's junior varsity team finished with an excellent 12-4-2 record with David Brown scoring 13 goals to lead the team. With several good players coming up from the javees, the tournament could well be within the Raiders' grasp next year.

The Lawrence High School football team from Long Island, N.Y., drove 71 yards for a touchdown the first time it got the ball and then hung on for a 6-0 victory over Quincy before 6,000 at the Stadium.

Reserve tackles Al DiRado and Rollie DiBona were cited by Coach Munroe MacLean for their fine play in the second quarter when the Quincy defense halted a Lawrence drive on the six-inch line.

It was the second defeat of the year for the Presidents and effectively eliminated them from the Class B title race.

The Quincy lineup included: Nicholson, Lucier, Marinelli, ends; Kilrain, DiBona, Pohlson, DiRado, tackles; Pecce, Henderson, Banghart, guards; Boston, center.

Barba, E. Buckley, D. Buckley, L. Buckley, Lombardi, backs.

GARCIA BY KAYO

Sammy Garcia, Quincy's top bantamweight fighter, knocked out Tony Dupre of Manchester, N.H., the former New England champion, in the sixth round of their scheduled 10-round bout at Quincy Arena.

Garcia opened a cut over Dupre's right eye in the fourth round and kept chopping at the wound until Referee Jack Watson stopped the fight, which was the feature bout on the South Shore Sporting Club's card.

In an eight-round semi-final, Quincy's Ring Larsen easily outpointed Johnny Mack of Marblehead, winning six rounds on most of the cards. Larsen weighed 180, Mack 178.

NORTH WINS IN UPSET

Don (Red) Johnson bucked over from the one in the first period and Tom Underwood booted the extra point as the North Quincy High School football team upset Framingham, 7-6, at Framingham.

The feature of the game was the punting duel between Johnson and Framingham's Kenny Benjamin. Benjamin averaged 38 yards a kick and Johnson 37, including one of 52 yards.

The North Quincy lineup included: Dowling, Underwood, Navin, ends; Sweeney, Leary, Assmus, tackles; Jennings, Ryan, O'Hearn, guards; Swindler, B. Johnson, centers.

D. Johnson, Cooke, Cummings, Smith, Hurley, backs.

PARK LEAGUERS DINE

Johnny Fallon of Wollaston and the New York Yankees and Ted Olson of Squantum and the Boston Red Sox headed a battery of speakers at the Park League's first annual banquet at Felix's Barbeque.

Other speakers included Fred Smith, president of the South Shore League; Bootus Chapman, coach of the Wollaston Junior Legion team, and Hobey Robinson, president of the Park League.

Orrie Carella of the West Quincy Pals received the championship honors.

QUINCY HARRIERS WIN

Dante Pasqualone captured first place in 18 minutes, 35 seconds, to lead the Quincy High School cross country team to a 21-41 victory over North Quincy on a cold, windy course.

The finishers: 1. Pasqualone (Q), 2. Cochran (Q), 3. Borst (NQ), 4. Isbell (NQ), 5. Nichols (Q), 6. Erikson (Q), 7. Pettiti (Q), 8. Dempsey (NQ), 9. DeLuca (Q), 10. Dolan (Q).

LOMBARDI STARS

Lanny Lombardi scored both touchdowns and his Quincy teammates ran up 316 yards on the ground in defeating Beverly, 13-0, before 2,000 fans at Municipal Stadium.

IOVANNA RETAINS TITLE

Johnny Iovanna of Quincy successfully defended his junior title and belt by defeating Bobby Wheeler of Baltimore in two straight falls on Newman Savage's wrestling card at Quincy Arena.

MANETS WIN

Jake Casna's Quincy Manets warmed up for their climactic meeting with Tony Colucci's Fore River Apprentices by rolling over the Murphy Club of New Bedford, 27-0.

Reborn Presidents Ready For Brookline

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy's football team played its finest game of the season last week and, despite a 20-8 defeat at the hands of powerful Brockton, a contender for the Suburban League title and another trip to the Super Bowl, Coach Tom Fitzgerald was delighted with the Presidents' performance.

"Many thought we'd be blown out today, but we gave them all they could handle," Fitzgerald said. "I've never been so proud of this fine group of boys. They have been the victim of a lot of tough breaks and they could easily have rolled over and been beaten badly today. But they got up for this game and Brockton hasn't had a tougher game this year except for the one game they lost to Newton."

Brockton improved its record to 7-1, while the Presidents, who could easily be 5-3 this year, saw its record drop to 2-6.

Quincy plays Brookline Sunday at 1 p.m. at Parsons Field in Brookline, home field of North-eastern University.

Brockton's Jay McGee, the leading scorer in Division One with 136 points (22 touchdowns and a pair of two-point conversions), scored all the points against Quincy.

Earlier this season the fleet-footed Boxer halfback had scored every point in a 26-0 victory over North Quincy.

Quincy's defense was outstanding, especially in the second half when the Presidents played Brockton even. Although McGee rushed for 121 yards, he was pretty well contained most of the game. He had only one long run, a 31-yard scoring run in the third quarter.

Mike Shaughnessy, shifted to halfback from end the week before, led Quincy in rushing with 51 yards while Steve Goguen and Mark Picot also ran well. Picot had his best day punting, with several long kicks, including a 75-yarder which went to Brockton's five-yard line.

In the offensive line Bob Willard, big Joe Harte, Steve Aluisi, Dave Donnelly, Joe LaRaia, Dan Mahoney and Kevin Riggs were outstanding.

On defense Brian Callahan, John Carr, Mike Connors, Mike Kelsey, Joe Bush, Mike Nevins, Jamie Gravelese, John Taglieri and Riggs played well and the secondary was excellent, especially Steve Spencer, and also Mark Righini, Glenn Straughn and Shaughnessy.

Righini made an excellent play late in the game when he leaped high to knock away a long pass just as the receiver was about to latch on to it for a certain touchdown.

Quincy controlled the ball for virtually the entire first quarter as Brockton had the ball for only four plays. The Presidents reached Brockton's 21 but a fumble with three seconds left in the quarter halted the threat.

Brockton scored twice in the second period, McGee capping a 59-yard drive by scoring from the four. The kick for extra point was no good.

Brockton marched again in the waning minutes of the half and went 60 yards with McGee scoring from the two with just two seconds left on the clock. A pass for the points was no good.

Brockton ended its scoring early in the third period when McGee raced 31 yards around his left and after a 15-yard penalty against Quincy for roughing the passer, McGee also rushed for the final points.

Quincy finally scored on a 27-yard pass from Sean Martin to Goguen with only 21 seconds left in the game. Shaughnessy rushed for the points.

Brockton had a net of 152 yards rushing to 75 for Quincy. The Boxers added 68 yards through the air on seven for 13, while Quincy had 58 yards passing on three for seven. Brockton had 13 first downs and Quincy seven.

Apaches Scalp Elks, For 7th Straight Win

The North Quincy Apaches improved their Quincy Youth Football League-leading record to 7-0 Sunday with a 26-12 victory over the Elks.

Jim Milano made a nice 50-yard run in the first period but fumbled, the Elks recovering. But the Apaches came right back as Mike Peters broke up an Elks pass play and John Ainsley, Sean Toland and Milano played excellent defense to get the ball back.

Peters handed off to Milano, who ran 46 yards for the first touchdown and he also added the conversion. It was the first of Milano's three touchdowns.

In the second quarter Milano raced 40 yards for another score. More fine defensive plays by Mike Kubera, Peters, Pete Furtado, George Hartford and John McCarthy held the Elks and Hartford intercepted a pass to set up the third touchdown. Peters passed to Toland for an 80-yard touchdown play.

Peters returned the second half kickoff 30 yards. Milano went for 20. Peters added four and Kubera scored from the 10 to make the score 26-0.

The junior varsity went in for the Apaches and the Elks soon scored. In the final quarter Ainsley, Peters, McCarthy, Hartford and Kubera continued to play strong defense. Peters again handed off to Milano, who romped 50 yards for the final TD and finished with over 200 yards rushing.

With the Apaches jayvees again in action, Mike Joyce ran for 60 yards and the second Elks' score.

George Sullivan, the newly named public relations director of the Boston Red Sox, has been added to the list of head table guests at the annual sports awards dinner of the Montclair Men's Club Saturday, Nov. 21 at 7 p.m. at the Clubhouse, 93 Holbrook Rd.

former major league outfielder and color man on Red Sox telecasts, will receive the John B. Gillyooly Memorial Trophy at the dinner.

Other head table guests will include Bobby Orr, who received the award last year; Sherm Feller, public address announcer at Fenway Park; Tommy McCarthy of Quincy, press steward at Fenway Park. Club President Leo Doyle, Henry Bosworth of The Quincy Sun, Eddie Germano of the Brockton Enterprise, Bob Finnigan of the Patriot Ledger, Ken Fallon of WJDA and Sen. Paul D. Harold.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin has also been invited as a head table guest.

Undefeated Sterling Wins Junior High Football Crown

By PETE ZOIA

John Gostanian's Sterling Junior High ninth grade team finished another unbeaten season (8-0) to win the city-wide football championship with a 18-6 victory over Atlantic-North.

Any hopes A-N had of catching Sterling went by the boards when it was held to a 12-12 tie by Broad Meadows.

Sterling scored two quick touchdowns and it looked like easy sailing against Atlantic-North as the one-two punch of Baron Tucker and Gerry Frazier went right to work. Two touchdowns by Frazier, one for 42 yards, the other for two, came in the opening period. A fumbled kickoff by A-N set up the second touchdown.

Late in the third period a Sterling fumble gave North its scoring chance on the Sterling 40. Bill Doherty made five yards and four rushed by Joe Bangs, together with a Sterling face-mask violation, put North on the board. Bangs went over from the two.

Sterling retaliated with a 58-yard drive with Mike Dracchio, Tucker and Frazier going to the seven from where Frazier scored his third TD.

Sterling was strong at every position and its offense was awesome. The defensive unit had good size and was almost impossible to penetrate. Players such as Pat Duggan, John and Ed Wholey, Ed Munroe, Pat Calabro, Mike Rogers, Tom Moore, Ed Tusi, Kenny McElroy, Joe Ciardi, Mike Ashley and Robbie Bina played outstanding ball.

Others instrumental in playing a big part in winning the crown were Mike Connelly, Sean Cahill, George Patriarca, Larry Bonomi, Tom McGrath, Mike Shea, Ronnie Acorn, John O'Callahan, Kevin Burke, Ted McCall, Dom Avitable, Dan Dunn and Robbie LeGrow, who took over at quarterback in the last Broad Meadows game when Dracchio was hurt, and did a tremendous job.

The offensive backs, Tucker, Frazier, Brian Mahon and Dracchio showed the fans a well-drilled and hard-running group that executed almost to perfection. Tucker, a two-ways player, used his great strength in breaking many tackles. Frazier, whose father was one of Quincy High's all-time greats, ran with reckless abandon every time he carried.

In the Broad Meadows-Atlantic-North game BM scored first as John O'Connor returned a pass interception 29 yards for a touchdown in the second period.

North tied it in the third period on a Dave Zuroms pass to Gerry Coughlin for 43 yards.

A short A-N punt led to BM's second score as Joe Conti passed to John Gleba from the A-N 35 to the seven and, after A-N held for three downs, Mike Powell scored from the one-foot line.

Zuroms, a classy passer, completed three successive passes from his 34 to the BM 14. John Reney, Jim Martin and Coughlin were the receivers. Bangs went to the eight and Zuroms skirted left end for the TD. A pass for the winning points failed.

Broad Meadows' eighth grade team clinched second place with a 2-0 victory over Atlantic-North. With two seconds to play in the half, the center's pass soared over the punter's head and he was tackled for the winning safety.

BM had a good chance for a touchdown in the first quarter when Bob Hunter saved 32 yards to the Atlantic seven but John Donahue recovered a fumble for BM. BM had another golden opportunity when Frank Freedman intercepted a pass and returned it to the three but Atlantic held.

In the other eighth grade game Atlantic defeated Sterling, 14-0. The first touchdown came on a 72-yard march as Ted Shironis threw two passes to Leo LeMay for 18 and 9 yards. LeMay ran to the 23. Bob Bracey went to the 13 and Ronnie Bowles scored, helped by a great block by Greg McGlame. Bowles added the two-point conversion.

A fumbled Atlantic kick set up the other TD in the final quarter. Bradley racing 39 yards for the touchdown. It was a happy day for Coach Paul Reilly's A-N team, as it avenged an earlier loss to Sterling.

Scheele, Mann Elected QJC Co-Captains

Andrew Scheele and Ken Mann have been elected co-captains of the Quincy Junior College basketball team for the 1981-82 season.

Scheele, a sophomore, graduated from Archbishop Williams while Mann, a freshman, graduated from North Quincy High. Both players live in Quincy.

Trying out for the Jaguars will be guards Paul Mezzetti and Mark Linane who are the only sophomores returning from last year's squad along with Scheele.

Others competing for starting berths are guards Albie Burke and Jim McKenna from Brain-tree, Anthony Cavallo from Weymouth and Tom Dunscombe from Boston. The teams only legitimate forward is 6'4" James Conboy from Quincy.

Rounding out the Quincy Junior roster are Fran McEachern, Jim Maloney, Paul Stevens and Mike Jalknig of Quincy and Tim Royer of Braintree.

According to Quincy Junior Coach, Brian Buckley, the team has an unbalanced look. "From the aspect of positioning, we are very unbalanced," said the third year coach, "we have 13 guards and 1 forward. But the guys are very spirited and who says a 5'10" player can't get rebounds."

Under Buckley, the Jaguars are 20-12 in the won lost column over the past 2 years in the Greater Boston Small College Conference. This years opening game is against last years champion, powerful Hellenic who were 25-1 last season. "It will certainly be an uphill battle playing a team of Hellenic's caliber in our opener. They haven't lost a starter from last years team and they also have a great coach in Dick Dukeshire," commented Buckley, "but that's what sports are all about and our guys look forward to competing against the best."

Ann McCarron Wins Basketball Honor

Ann McCarron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McCarron of 68 Babcock St., Quincy, and an outstanding Quincy High school athlete, was named Camper of the Week in the top division of The Basketball School at its recent women's invitational camp at Mass. Maritime Academy in Buzzards Bay.

The Basketball School, a pioneer camp for girls in its ninth season, initiated the invitational camp in August and attracted 175 of the finest high school and college players in New England. All players in attendance were selected by area representatives in their states and personally invited to attend.

Ms. McCarron was selected by the coaching staff and was presented her award at the closing ceremonies by co-directors Bo Ruggerio and Dick Arieta and Sissy O'Callagan, head women's basketball coach at Boston University.

Deirdre Corrigan Chosen For Wheaton Cross Country Team

Deirdre Corrigan of Wollaston was recently chosen as a member of Wheaton College's cross country team.

A freshman at the college, Miss Corrigan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Corrigan of 380 Highland Ave., Wollaston.

Hennessy 'Coach Of Year'

Jeff Hennessy, coach of the Quincy Track Club since 1974, who has taken hundreds of Quincy youngsters to a number of national meets throughout the country and brought home many medals, recently was named the Road Runners Club of America National Coach of the Year.

Hennessy was informed of his selection while preparing more than 45 members of the QTC for a national cross country meet in New York. The QTC took part in the meet at Van Cortlandt Park.

Jeff received a huge trophy from New York Marathon director Fred Lebow.

"I had no idea I was being considered," said Hennessy. "I was told earlier by a race official that I was going to get some kind of an award, but I didn't expect this."

The honor is most deserved as Hennessy has put together the largest track club in the country and one of the most diverse.

What began as a couple of hundred youngsters seven years ago has expanded into a membership of more than 400 athletes in track and cross country.

"We are unlike many other clubs in the country," said Hennessy, who paid tribute to his five assistant coaches. "A lot of clubs have just a few members of exceptional ability. The others have a lot of kids, but not much ability. We have a good combination of both and the kids are very receptive and are always improving."

"The kids' efforts are what brought the attention to me. But they don't do it for that reason and I certainly won't do it for that reason."

The QTC made its finest showing in the New York meet, winning eight medals.

In girls 6-7 Regina Murphy took 14th place and Tammy Coull took 17th and Karen Cashman was 15th and Cindy Bonner 20th in girls 8-9.

Finn Kelly placed fifth and Harry Morash 24th in boys 12-13 and in girls 14-15 Tracy Coull took 17th and in boys 16-17 Kevin Dunn placed 22nd.

Also making good showings were Brian Barrett, Marta Martinez, Bernadette Murphy and Mike Flebette.

Each youngster received a trophy and a T-shirt and the top 25 finishers in each division received a medal.

Striders Memorial Road Race Nov. 15

The South Shore Striders will sponsor the Ed Henley Memorial 10 kilometer (6.2-mile) road race Sunday, Nov. 15, at 1 p.m. starting and finishing at the Weymouth Elks Lodge, 1197 Washington St. (Route 53).

Proceeds will go to the Ed Henley Memorial Scholarships, awarded to graduates of Weymouth North and South High Schools in memory of Henley, longtime Weymouth track coach and founder of the Striders.

Pre-entry fee is $3.00 and post-entry fee is $4.00.

Further information can be had by calling Jim Cawston at 878-0329 or writing John Shirriff, 471 Adams St., Abington 02351.

MARY HYNES of Quincy was the women's winner in the recent Aquinas 10 kilometer road race held in Milton. Other Quincy runners were Paul Hurley, Wally Skinner, Michael Mosses, Larry Eastman, Arthur Dramin, Neil Cronin, Brian Hurley, Tish O'Leary and George Lattarulo.

Mary Hynes Winner In Aquinas Road Race

Mary Hynes of 270 Quarry St., West Quincy, placed first recently with a time of 37:20 minutes in the women's division of the second annual road race of Aquinas Junior College, Milton.

Miss Hynes, an Aquinas '74 alumnae, was also the 1980 alumnae winner of the race.

Gene Morris of Hingham took first place in the men's division with a time of 32.4 minutes.

Awards were presented by Sister Mary Louis Morgan, CSJ, president of Aquinas, and Sister Karen Hokanson, director of alumnae activities.

Mackey Helps WPI

Freshman Ed Mackey of Quincy has not started yet for the WPI football team, but according to head coach Bob Weiss he has made a valuable contribution to WPI's 5-1 start.

Mackey, a defensive tackle, has been impressive in practice and on the Engineers' 4-1 JV team. "He's what every team needs to be a winner," said Weiss. "He works so hard during the week that he has made both himself and his fellow teammates better football players."

Mackey comes to WPI from Quincy High School, where he was an All-League player in his senior year, and placed second in the Massachusetts State Wrestling Championships.

A bio-medical engineering major, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mackey, 136 Crescent St., Quincy.

Talk On Dorchester For Historical Society

"Dorchester Pioneers: Past and Present" will be the subject of the program at the Quincy Historical Society's meeting Thursday, Nov. 19 at 7:30 p.m.

Speaker will be George H. Smith of Dorchester.

The meeting is at the Society's Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St., and is open to the public.

Few places have a more interesting history than Dorchester. Older than Boston, it has been the scene of pioneering ventures from the earliest times and continuing in the present. The talk will deal with the historic past but will emphasize current developments and the historic urban environment.

Smith is a graduate of Boston Latin School, and of Boston State College with BA and MA degrees. He teaches United States History and Economics at Quincy High School, and serves as an interpreter with the Boston National Historical Park. A dynamic speaker, he has special enthusiasm for the topic of this talk. The talk will be illustrated with slides.

Family Harvest Supper At Adams Shore Friday

The annual Family Harvest Supper, sponsored by the Adams Shore Community Association, will be held Friday, Nov. 13, at 6:30 p.m. at the Adams Shore Community Church, Albatross Rd.

Speaker at the covered dish dinner will be Senator Paul Harold, who will present a slide presentation on historic Adams Shore. For further information, call Lillian Austin, treasurer, (773-3890).

3 Quincy Crafters In Little Wanderers Show

Three Quincy crafters will be among those participating in the annual Craft Show and Sale to benefit the New England Home for Little Wanderers Nov. 21 and 22, at Scituate High School, Route 3A.

The local residents are Priscilla McCarthy, who will offer silver jewelry; Estelle Coughlin, decorations and gifts; and Maryann McMahon, Sesame Street plaques.

Over 50 crafts will be participating in the show. Only handcrafted items will be accepted.

Judging will be done by some members of the North River Chapter friends of the home who are sponsoring the show.

Applications are available by calling 545-1034 or 383-9395.

WINNERS in the annual United Nations Day poster and essay contest received $50 savings bonds, sponsored by Quincy Sons of Italy. On hand for the presentations in Mayor Arthur Tobin's office were, from left, Carl Deyeso of the Quincy Public Schools, a contest judge; Peter Lee, Joanne Pappas, contest winners; John Marella, Venerable Quincy Sons of Italy, a judge; Sean Warren, Pauline Pappas, John P. McKenna, winners; Carol Pisano, Planning Department, a judge; Ruth Haggerty, Squantum School principal; and Mayor Tobin.

U.N. Essays Contest Winners Receive $50 Savings Bonds

Four $50 savings bonds were awarded to winners in the annual United Nations Day poster and essay contest held recently for Quincy students in grades one to 12.

Awarded bonds during ceremonies in Mayor Arthur Tobin's office were Sean Warren of 142 Bromfield St., Wollaston, a first grader at Mass. Field School; Peter Lee, 70 Billings St., North Quincy, a sixth grader at Squantum School; John P. McKenna, 131 Norfolk St., Wollaston, a seventh grader at Central Junior High School; and Joanne and Pauline Pappas, 21 Harborview St., Squantum, 11th graders at North Quincy High School.

Over 150 entries were submitted from students throughout the city. Grades one to six entered posters, grades seven to 12, essays.

The bonds, sponsored by Quincy Lodge 1295 of the Sons of Italy, were presented by John Marella, venerable.

Mayor Tobin presented a certificate of appreciation to the Sons of Italy for their participation in the 1981 U.N. Day observance.

Entries were judged by Marella, Carl Deyeso, director of academic education, Quincy Public Schools; Carol Pisano, assistant planner and U.N. Day chairman; and Susan Spellos, planning assistant.

The student's work highlighted one of three issues designated by the National U.N. Day chairman: Refugees, the World Water Decade, and the international Year of Disabled Persons.

The sixth grade class from the Squantum School, accompanied by principal Ruth Haggerty, was present to see classmate Peter Lee receive his award.

Also in attendance was School Superintendent Dr. Lawrence P. Credon.

BLUE HILLS CHAPTER, SWEET ADELINES

Sweet Adelines Presenting 'Make Mine Manhattan'

The Blue Hills Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc., with 11 Quincy members, will present "Make Mine Manhattan" Sunday at 4 p.m. at Notre Dame Academy, Hingham.

The show will feature the Penna-Fores, 1980 Queens of Harmony; Rhyme 'n Reason Quartet, 1980 fourth place regional finalists; and the Blue Hill Four.

Tickets are available by calling Mary Kearny, 344-7403, after 6 p.m., and at the door the day of the performance.

Directed by Martha Jacovoni, the show will have a Broadway theme with a selection of show tunes, old fashioned ballads, and musical medleys for all ages.

Following the show, the audience is invited to attend the After-Glow, featuring informal singing by performers, beverages and a light supper.

Quincy members of the group are Betty Forrester, Agnes Barilaro, Ruth Warner, Ann Landers, Nancy Chaddock, Betty Bertolon, Ingrid Shaffer, Pat McGilvray, Marie Degan, June Hendry and Loretta Manning.

Sweet Adelines is a non-profit, international organization of women whose purpose is to teach the American folk art of singing four part harmony.

"Harmonize the World" is the motto of the group which began about 30 years ago and encompasses the U.S., parts of Canada, the United Kingdom, Holland, Sweden and Japan.

The Blue Hills Chapter is comprised of about 50 women from Boston and the South Shore.

The women range from age 20 to 70 and are all occupations, including secretaries, nurses, teachers, housewives.

Rehearsals are held Wednesdays at 8 p.m. at All Soul's Church, Braintree.

WEEK OF: NOVEMBER 12

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

New job procedures require adjustment on your part, but patience and diligence pay off grandly. Explore brand new outlet for creative expression. Spend time updating wardrobe.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Recent news bulletins are further updated, with perhaps some unexpected changes involved. Increased prestige comes after an extended wait. Romance is delightfully upbeat now.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Your surprise gifts to family/friends make you a favorite person. Social gatherings are more offbeat than expected. In communications, it's easy to omit the essential facts.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

A career goal appears on the horizon, thanks to the maneuvers of an anonymous backer. Check times and dress requirements before attending social events on the weekend.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Rigid requirements are relaxed and there's a fine opportunity for enrolling in a professional or academic course. Favorite friend is charmingly unpredictable through week.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Sporty pursuits can help lead you out of a mental rut. Loved one is surprisingly intellectual, but don't feel that you have to compete. Financial breakthrough favored by Wednesday.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Local travel provides the week's highlights and includes the chance to meet interesting people and useful contacts. Showdowns can be fiery; wherever possible, opt for diplomacy.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Natural charm sparkles and social life is active. Little tiffs can turn to full-scale crises. Loved one may surprise you with his/her new tactics and old idiosyncrasies.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Libra is surprisingly competitive now, but it's your best approach if you want to have a chance at a major career prize. Relative may delight you with newfound independence.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Casual visits may become special events. You're vulnerable in area of finance; don't make a move without speaking to your wisest counselor. Partner can be mysterious.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Major intellectual achievement is a strong possibility this week, but on the homefront you're surprisingly impractical. Friends return favors - then beg for new ones.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

A noisy week, and if you want to be alone, you may have to find an impenetrable hideaway. News from faraway friend or relative can influence upcoming travel plans.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You're a person of extremes: determined, persistent and, always, outspoken. No one ignores you. An important career goal can be achieved by late 1982 - but only if you learn the true meaning of selectivity.

BORN THIS WEEK

November 12th, actress Stefanie Powers; 13th, actor Charles Bronson; 14th, actor Brian Keith; 15th, singer Petula Clark; 16th, actor Burgess Meredith; 17th, actor Rock Hudson; 18th, actress Imogene Coca.

City Council At-Large By Wards

Former Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, who has won eight and lost three city elections since 1959, emerged from the Nov. 3 election with a strong following in all sections of the city as he topped the ticket.

He and newcomer Richard J. Koch Jr. ran one-two in all six wards with LaRaia taking Wards 1, 2, 3 and 4 and Koch on top in Wards 5 and 6.

John J. Quinn, who lost the Council seat he had held for 24 years to Patricia M. Toland by the slim margin of 382 votes, was beaten in his own north end of the city.

He lost out in Ward 6 by 225 votes, in Ward 3 by 216 votes and in his home Ward 5 by 210 votes.

Here is a ward-by-ward breakdown of the vote for councillor at large:

Ward	LaRaia	Quinn	Cahill	Koch	O'Hare	Toland
1	3047	1999	2069	2599	1023	2029
2	2941	2450	2246	2837	996	2356

Others 7, Blanks	17,684

Ward Council By Wards

Five ward councillors had little trouble winning re-election Nov. 3. The only one with opposition was Council President Leo J. Kelly and he had little difficulty turning back David MacMillan to win a fifth term in Ward 1.

Theodore P. DeCristofaro repeated his preliminary election win over Joseph Cortese by a better than 2-1 margin to capture the open seat from Ward 2.

Blank ballots and a sticker campaign played a role in Wards 3 and 6, where John J. Lydon Jr. and Joanne Condon were unopposed on the ballot.

Nearly one out of every three voters in Ward 3 refused to vote for Lydon and one out of four failed to mark Condon's name in Ward 6, where Mary Ann Mahoney got 172 votes on stickers.

Here is a rundown of the vote for councillor in the six wards:

Ward	1	2	3	4	5	6
Kelly	3,395
MacMillan	1,603
Others	3

T Riders To Pay When Entering Bus

All MBTA bus patrons are required to pay upon entering any "T" bus, according to a new system which went into effect Sunday.

The former system, where bus passengers paid their fare while exiting buses, is being eliminated because some passengers were not paying their full fares while exiting.

The new system will allow bus drivers the opportunity to more closely scrutinize coins dropped in fare boxes.

Exact change is required.

Neighborhood Housing Open House Thursday

The Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, a non-profit organization set up to assist neighborhood and housing improvement in Southwest Quincy, will hold an open house Thursday, Nov. 12.

The open house will be from 3 to 9 p.m., at 266 Water St., South Quincy.

All residents, property owners and others interested in revitalizing Southwest Quincy are invited to meet the Housing Services staff.

Visitors can also see the renovated office space, enjoy refreshments and learn about the home improvement, financial counseling and affordable interest rate loan services which QNHS offers to the community.

For more information, call 770-2227.

Jane Ford, executive director of Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, notes that QNHS is one of 136 Neighborhood Housing Services organizations across the country.

Other Massachusetts cities with NHS offices are Boston, Chelsea, Springfield, and Lawrence.

Like the rest of these groups, QNHS is a privately incorporated, not-for-profit organization, managed by a local, primarily resident, board of directors, whose purpose is to stimulate reinvestment in a chosen neighborhood.

The Open House represents the culmination of more than one year's work spent establishing a Neighborhood Housing Services in Quincy.

A partnership of city residents, local banks and the city of Quincy started working together in the summer of 1980 to set up the QNHS program.

In December 1980, this partnership identified an area of Southwest Quincy as the initial neighborhood to receive QNHS attention. All properties within an area bounded by the Southeast Expressway, the South Quincy MBTA tracks and Common, Quarry, School and Granite Streets became eligible for services.

Such services include financial assistance to homeowners through loans from private institutions and through a "high risk" loan pool.

Approximately $300,000 has been allocated to QNHS over the next three years for this loan pool, $250,000 from Quincy Community Development Block Grant funds, and $50,000 from the Neighborhood Reinvestment Corporation.

In addition to financial counseling and home improvement loan assistance, Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services offers the following free services to the entire Southwest Quincy neighborhood: house inspections, focusing on health and safety, energy conservation and exterior appearance problems; house renovation advice; assistance in selecting qualified contractors; construction monitoring; and coordination of other community services.

The Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services was incorporated in May 1981. Officers of the Board of Directors were elected in June, the same month that Jane Ford was hired as Executive Director. Over the past summer, renovation proceeded on the Water Street office, a professional staff, consisting of Office Manager Diana Kinch, Construction Specialist Daniel Will, and Property Improvement Advisor Mary Bennett, was hired, and the loose ends left to finalize QNHS services were wrapped up.

The Open House will be the first public introduction to an "on-line" Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, ready to serve Southwest Quincy, a community worth time and investment.

As Mayor, McCauley Sees:

MAYOR-ELECT MCCAULEY: "I don't want to do anything to put these services (police and fire) down any further and we'll do everything we can not to do it. But we have to be realistic."

"I delivered a letter to (Mr. Lydon) telling him that as mayor-elect I ask that no further work be done on the project (the East-West Connector). As far as I'm concerned, it's terminated."

"Relatively soon we should start getting the (parking) meters out and replace them with some kind of validated parking setup, at least in the parking areas."

"If there is a legitimate hardship (under revaluation), the assessors have the right to abate it. There's no question that our administration will be sympathetic."

● E-W Connector Dead ● Meters Out ● More Police, Fire Cuts Possible ● Help For Reval 'Hardship' Cases ● Aggressive Development Policy

By TOM HENSHAW

As far as Mayor-elect Francis X. McCauley is concerned, the controversial East-West Connector through downtown Quincy is dead. No maybes. Dead. Period.

And parking meters may be dead, too, at least in downtown parking areas.

McCauley, in an interview with The Quincy Sun touched base on many aspects of his coming term as the 27th man to hold the office of mayor of Quincy.

He made these points:

- Parking meters are going to be removed, at least in the downtown parking areas, and replaced by a system of validated parking. Also, "the merchants are interested in a strong towing ordinance in the downtown streets."
- There probably will be further cuts in Fire and Police Departments as the city faces a second 15 per cent tax slash under Prop 20. "We'll do everything we can not to do it. But we have to be realistic."

- Revaluation is going to create some hardship property tax cases but the assessors have the right to abate legitimate hardship cases. "Our administration will be sympathetic and will try to do the best we can with people."

McCauley told The Sun that he asked Planning Director James Lydon what his responsibilities were with the East-West Connector and Lydon told him, "The decision rests with you. If you don't want it to go it won't go."

"I exercised my option," said McCauley, "and I delivered a letter to him telling him that as mayor-elect I ask that no further work be done on the project. As far as I'm concerned, it's terminated."

Here is the text of McCauley's interview with The Sun, in abridged form for reasons of space and easy reading:

SUN - Mayor Tobin implied the other day that there was a McCauley-Harold-LaRaia machine. How do you respond to that?

MCCAULEY - I've had a good organization over the years. I did have some people who worked for Sen. Harold and we did have some people who worked for Joe LaRaia with me but we also had some people who had formerly been aligned with Mayor Tobin. I've always had a good working relationship with both Sen. Harold and Councillor LaRaia. I think it's basically that we think a lot alike. Joe and I are conservative types and Paul and I worked well in the Council together because we shared a common area of agreement on some of the things we felt were not going right in the Tobin administration. I don't think we have another political machine in the city.

SUN - Would you call it a coalition then?

MCCAULEY - I don't know that there's any coalition. Certain Councillors tend to think alike in certain areas. We have been united to an extent in opposition to the present administration, which was a carryback to Mayors Hannon and McIntyre. They all shared what we felt were some of the excesses in government, job creation over the years, the political decisions involving tax rates, that type of thing. I don't know if it's a coalition. I think it's just a group of people who found themselves opposed to what was going on at City Hall and, since I was the candidate for mayor, they joined forces with us. I think you'll find that it is a McCauley administration. There may be some people who have served in other administrations but I think you're going to see a lot of new faces.

SUN - Are you united for something rather than just being against the administration?

MCCAULEY - I think a lot of people were anxious to see me get in to terminate what they considered the machine-type operation. Obviously, I will be forming my own administration. It's not going to be a reactionary administration. Raymond raised the issue of Republican vs. Democrat. He took my voting record apart, which is perfectly valid. He brought it all out. I was elected in a landslide. I think the slate is clean. We can forget about past records or party affiliations. From now on I've got to prove myself. Obviously, it's got to be positive.

SUN - In a Democratic stronghold like Quincy, why are you a Republican?

MCCAULEY - I've been a Republican since 1958. I was an independent before that. Most of the young people at that time were kind of going into the Democratic party. I was watching both parties and I felt that some of the people I had met - Mel Della Chiesa, Charlie Hedges, Bill Jenness - these were people I had got to know and admire. I

Questionnaire For Women In This Week's Sun

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"Do you feel safe on the streets of Quincy?"

"Have you ever experienced personal or economic discrimination?"

"Do you know your neighbors well enough to turn to them 'in a pinch'?"

These are some of the questions posed by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women in a questionnaire on Page 9 of this week's Quincy Sun. The page is sponsored by the Quincy Cooperative Bank.

The questionnaire, for local women, was developed by the Mayor's Commission to "help us help you" by providing "programs and services which truly meet the needs of Quincy women."

The idea of Mayor's Commission chairwoman Deborah Ormon, the questionnaire has 38 questions to be answered anonymously.

The questions also cover topics such as marital status, education, employment, child care, health care, and the future.

There is also a question asking women what kind of workshops they would like to see.

"I'm really excited about the questionnaire," says Mrs. Ormon, "and I encourage women to take the time to fill it out."

"It's important for the commission to know where to aim its workshops."

"And it's good for the community to know where its priorities are placed."

Mrs. Ormon emphasized the need for those answering the questionnaire to put down their ages since the results will be analyzed according to age groups.

The questionnaire, the first of its kind for local women according to Mrs. Ormon, should be returned during the next two weeks.

Results will be announced after the holidays.

The Mayor's Commission, a non-political group, was established in 1974 to "address itself to the needs of women and to encourage them to participate more fully in the civic activities of Quincy."

It also lends support to other women's issues such as legislation or movements.

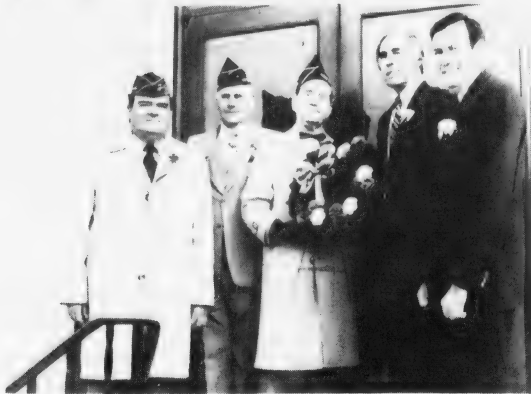

Its achievements have included Project Wage, the DOVE task force and booklets such as "Where Do I Turn?" which the commission hopes to update.

It also sponsors workshops such as "Woman to Woman Day" set for April 24, next year. Additional questionnaires are available at the Thomas Crane Public Library and its branches.

Design Work To Start On Island Ave. Erosion

The Army Corps of Engineers has announced that funds have been received to begin design work on the reconstruction of an eroded section of Island Ave., Houghs Neck.

Col. C.E. Edgar of the Engineers notified the city that the design should be completed by February and the plans issued some time in the spring.

Further action, he said, "is subject to the availability of funds at that time."

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly, who has been working on the plan for nearly 10 years, said he was under the impression that construction funds already were available.

"I'd like to know what happened to them," he said.

Kelly said the entire project was calculated to cost around $250,000.

"I'm happy to see them doing something anyway," he said. "The road has deteriorated to the point where emergency vehicles could go off the pavement. It's a bad situation."

City To Get 35-Foot Christmas Tree From Canada

The Quincy Tourism Committee has donated a 35 foot Christmas tree to Quincy announces Richard J. Koch, executive secretary to the Park Recreation Board.

Arrangements for the gift was made by Loren Strout, chairman of the committee. The tree is scheduled to arrive from New Brunswick, Canada Monday, Nov. 23.

Forestry Department personnel will erect the tree at McIntyre Mall in Quincy Center and provide lights for illumination during the holiday season. The lighted tree will be the focal point of the Quincy Center lighting ceremonies Friday, Nov. 27.

The Christmas tree was one of the favorite requests of the late George C. Fay longtime chairman of the Christmas Festival Committee.

The installation and lighting of the city Christmas tree is one of a series of events sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the City of Quincy. Others include the Christmas lighting ceremonies Friday, Nov. 27, the annual Christmas Parade Sunday Nov. 29 and the Nativity Pageant Sunday, Dec. 13.

NEW ENGLAND ELECTRIC'S $60 Million coal-fired, coal-carrying ship first of its type to be built in the U.S. in more than 25 years is under construction at General Dynamics Quincy Division. $60 Million Coal Ship Under Construction At GD

Keel laying ceremonies for New England Electric's coal-fired, coal-carrying ship were held Monday at rain-swept General Dynamics Quincy Shipbuilding Division, Quincy.

The keel laying marks the beginning of construction of the $60 million vessel with the first of 158 units placed in position in the building basin. This is the first vessel of its type to be built in the U.S. in more than 25 years.

When in operation in early 1983, the ship will carry 2.2 million tons of domestic coal per year from ports along the eastern seaboard to New England Electric's generating stations in southern New England, including Brayton Point Station in Somerset.

Guy W. Nichols, chairman and chief executive officer of New England Electric, and Joan T. Bok, vice chairman of New England Electric, joined officials of General Dynamics for the keel laying ceremonies.

"We are pleased that we are building the first coal-fired ship in more than a quarter of a century," Nichols said. "It is appropriate that this ship, which will carry domestic coal to New England for the benefit of New Englanders, is being built here in Quincy by New Englanders."

"This ship will play an important role in New England Electric's plan to reduce our use of expensive foreign oil by converting power plants to coal. Two of the generating units at Brayton Point Station already have been converted from oil burning to coal burning, and the third and largest unit will be fully converted within the next three weeks."

"These three coal-burning units will save 12 million barrels of foreign oil per year for the one million customers of Massachusetts Electric Company, Narragansett Electric Company in Rhode Island, and Granite State Electric Company in New Hampshire," added Nichols.

The new ship will be 655 feet long, 95 feet wide and have a draft of 32 feet. It will carry about 36,000 tons of coal per trip and is designed to travel approximately 15 nautical miles per hour. The ship also will be coal-fired, using about two percent of the ship's total cargo each trip. The vessel is completely self-discharging and will discharge 3,540 tons of coal per hour, taking 10-12 hours to unload the ship.

Keystone Shipping Company of Philadelphia will operate the ship as part of a joint venture agreement with New England Electric. Keystone is a private shipping company which operates more than 800,000 tons of commercial shipping vessels.

The $60 million ship will create more than 1,000 jobs at the Quincy yard.

MBTA's Centre St. Islands Irk Council

The MBTA and Blount Brothers Construction Co. took a beating at the City Council meeting Monday night over traffic islands that were recently installed in the middle of Centre St., South Quincy.

An outraged Councillor James A. Sheets told his colleagues that the islands were the cause of six accidents in one night (Oct. 26) and that one car suffered $5,000 worth of damage.

When no one could produce a state permit for construction of the islands, Councillor Daniel G. Raymond questioned the legality of the islands in the first place.

And Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. bludgeoned the MBTA into assuming financial responsibility for stationing a policeman at the site during non-working hours.

The islands were installed to facilitate the flow of traffic to and from the site of the construction of the Quincy Adams MBTA station in South Quincy.

But it turned out that they were difficult to see after dark, and, to make matters worse, one of them was out of line with the others.

The Council passed a resolution demanding that the islands be removed and, until then, a 25-hour police guard be placed at the site.

Board Approves Stricter Tag Day Enforcement

The Quincy License Board took a step Tuesday towards stricter enforcement of tag day regulations by approving on a 3 to 1 vote on a motion that would have Quincy police reporting violations to the board.

Those found in violation would be denied future tag day licenses.

Fire Chief Edward Barry introduced the motion asking local police to report "any improper action involving tag days" such as soliciting at intersections.

The board instructs organizations granted tag day permits that no soliciting is allowed at intersections, but violations have been reported.

Voting against the motion was Police Chief Francis Finn who said at an earlier meeting that policing intersections is not as simple as it sounds.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh, who has been concerned with the safety of those soliciting at intersections and has voted against tag day permits, did not vote on Barry's motion.

How Good Are Political Polls?

The recent mayoral election raises a question about political polls: how good are they, really?

As winner Francis McCauley and loser Daniel Raymond came down the campaign home stretch the polls reportedly were showing McCauley ahead but Raymond closing the gap with a big undecided vote still out there.

McCauley, of course, won quite easily by a 5,815 vote margin.

Apparently, instead of Raymond closing the gap, McCauley was widening it.

And, it would appear, that big "undecided vote" out there was really decided but just wasn't telling anyone.

In a Presidential or state election people are more apt to respond candidly to a pollster. But in a municipal election, the mayoral candidates are too close to the voters and if they happen to be a city employee or have relatives that are, they are likely to fib and say they are "undecided".

The fact that there were only 253 blanks — less than one per cent — cast in the mayoral election would seem to bear this out.

The best "poll" to see where the voters were leaning would have been a primary election. Weaknesses and strengths would have been revealed early with time for the loser to reorganize.

In this case, Raymond still might not have won but he would have had more opportunity to do something about it.

SENATOR Paul Harold came up with a cheaper — but more accurate — way than the polls to predict this year's mayoral outcome.

Harold, a McCauley supporter, was asked two weeks before the election what he thought McCauley's vote would be. Harold, without hesitation, posted his estimate on a tally sheet at the McCauley headquarters. His prediction: 17,920. — only 117 off McCauley's actual vote of 18,037.

How did he do it? Easy. He just thought of the dates on the City Seal and selected 1792 (when Quincy became a town) and added a zero.

THE GUESSING GAME is in full bloom at City Hall as to who will be tapped to join Mayor-elect Francis McCauley's administration team.

Forestry Supt. John F. Koegler is considered a strong contender to succeed Public Works Commissioner James (Pete) Ricciuti. Koegler, former Ward 3 city councillor, is a close friend of McCauley. Another name being mentioned is that of Greg Doyle of the Planning Department who has been serving as an aide to Ricciuti in the PW Dept. Early reports had Paul Anderson, a key man in Mayor Joseph LaRaia's administration, in the running for the commissioner's post.

ROBERT DENVIR, who served on the Quincy Hospital Board of Managers under LaRaia, is expected to get a post. But which one? Maybe purchasing agent. He's a purchasing agent with the Action For Boston Community Development.

AND, IF YOU really like your rumors wild, this one is buzzing around town: Joseph LaRaia will be named to a post by McCauley. Take your pick: executive secretary, purchasing agent, public works commissioner, etc. He, of course, would have to give up his City Council at-large seat, opening the door for the return of John Quinn, who was defeated this year. (The betting still is that Arthur Foley will be McCauley's executive secretary.)

A LaRaia appointment sounds pretty wild considering the fact that LaRaia topped the at-large field in what is considered a political comeback. Those who think they can read him are pretty sure he wants to someday soon return as mayor. Taking an appointment now would move him out of the political limelight and hinder that.

LaRaia would have run this year if McCauley had not jumped into the ring as early as he did. And despite the friendship between the pair some observers think LaRaia could be a mayoral contender as early as two years from now even if it means running against McCauley.

BOB GIBBONS, Rep. Tom Brownell's aide, is coordinator in Quincy for Senator Edward Kennedy's re-election campaign. A fund-raiser and Christmas party is set for Monday, Dec. 14, 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Park Plaza Hotel, Boston. Featured will be the Duke Ellington band conducted by Ellington's son, Mercer. Tickets ($25 per) can be obtained by calling Bob or Midge Gibbons (773-3083) after 6 p.m.

CHRISTMAS, as they say, is just around the corner. And money, as you know, is a lot scarcer this year than it was last year. The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association wants to give downtown Quincy a nice Christmas lighting display but needs some financial help.

So, it has come up with a drawing featuring $3,000 in prizes. First prize, $2,000. Second prize $500. And five $100 prizes.

Tickets are limited to 500 at $25 per ticket. They are being offered to members of the QCBPA first. Names of the lucky winners will be drawn Nov. 29 at 9 p.m. at 79 Parkingway.

Here's a chance to help raise some money for the Christmas lighting and raise some for yourself.

Tickets are available at the QCBPA office. Better hurry. They won't last long.

Blatt Says Quincy Failed Plan E

"Plan E did not fail Quincy," City Manager Donald H. Blatt told the Women's Republican Club, "Quincy failed Plan E. I hope that the people of Quincy rally and bring back Plan E for the benefit of our children."

Blatt attributed the defeat of the city manager-council form of government in the Nov. 8 election to certain antagonisms that have been built up over the past six years and skillfully used by the politicians.

Any city manager will build those antagonisms, he said, "because he must say, 'No,' where nobody has said 'No,' before and he must offend people who, for various reasons, have not been offended before."

Meanwhile, Rep. Clifton H. Baker proposed amendments to the city's new Plan A charter that would restore the ward councillor system and set the salaries of the mayor at $8,000 and the city councillors at $1,000 each per year.

And George A. Yarrington, head of the Quincy Taxpayers Association said he plans to file a bill that would permit the Plan A charter to operate like Plan E with an executive director appointed to assist the mayor.

NEW PLANNING DIRECTOR

Regis J. Harrington of Hingham, a planner in the State Department of Commerce, was named Quincy Planning Director, succeeding William G. Farrar, the first fulltime planning director of the city who resigned a year ago.

City Manager Blatt said Harrington would start work Dec. 26 with a salary based on $5,700 a year the first week (the same as Farrar) and the newly authorized rate of $7,000 a year after Jan. 1.

City Councillor Carl W. Anderson, a staunch opponent of the city manager and the Plan E form of government, said he was of the opinion that Blatt "can expect trouble" over the $1,300 a year raise.

HOUSES MOVED

Public Works Commissioner Charles R. Herbert issued permits for the use of city streets to move two buildings in West Quincy to make way for construction of the Southeast Expressway.

Augustino Volpini was authorized to move his house from 33 Willard St. to site on Furnace Brook Parkway next to the library and John Meenen of Dorchester was permitted to move a building from Willard St. to Bunker Hill Lane.

AUSTIN GAINS

With four wards and five precincts in Ward 5 complete, City Councillor Edna B. Austin increased her lead to 165 votes over David J. Crowley in a recount. Austin had beaten Crowley by 93 votes in the first count of the Nov. 8 election.

Quincy Now Has Official Song

"Quincy" is now the official song of Quincy.

The words and music were composed by the Rev. David D'Olimpio to express his feelings for his home city.

They were sung for the City Council Monday night by members of the fourth grade at the Montclair School while Fr. D'Olimpio strummed his guitar.

The refrain of the folk ballad goes like this:

Quincy, the place I call my home.

A place where past and present meet and move to future goals.

Quincy, no place I'd rather be. She's the city of the presidents, a home to you and me.

The resolution, adopting "Quincy" as the official anthem of Quincy was introduced by Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. at the request of the youngsters from Montclair.

Comments On Tobin Quote

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

"If McCauley, LaRaia and Harold were standing together in front of City Hall, the same people would drive by and say, 'There's good government'."

That "quote" verbatim appears on your front page of Vol. 14, No. 7 of the paper you edit and publish dated November 12, 1981.

I'm delighted to hear the Mayor Arthur H. Tobin is quoted as saying that.

Dorothy Parker, a one time by-line writer and editor of sorts has been accredited with many bright and witty sayings amongst which is one to a young matron who had achieved "birthing" a child after a long, and tedious accounting to her newspaper colleagues: "Congratulations, we all knew you had it in you."

Having read much of The Quincy Sun including your Sunbeams during the Tobin regime, may I add to your approval of our Mayor's remarks?

Or, am I mistaken that your unsigned front page: "Did Raymond's Alienate Both Sides?" two column piece does not reflect your editorial opinion???

Cites Fair Election Coverage

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As a recent participant of the Raymond for Mayor campaign, I want to thank The Sun for its fair coverage of the mayoral race and commend it for the valuable service the paper offers Quincy.

Newspapers like The Sun are essential for this country's democratic process to function as well as it does.

Unbiased reporting offers citizens a choice of candidates.

And that choice is what makes a working and free democracy.

I lost 39 pounds and 27 inches...

I tried exercising at home but I had stopped after 2 days. At Joy Health Spa, they gave me the incentive to stick to it.

My friends say ooh, la, la as we say in French. I went from a size 14 to size 5. I can't believe it. I finally did it.

To Honor Brownell

Special QEA Activities To Mark Education Week

The Quincy Education Association will honor Rep. Thomas F. Brownell, co-sponsor of an open meeting and officially open its new office during American Education Week Nov. 15-21.

Brownell, a long time Quincy resident, will receive the "Friend of Education Award" Friday, Nov. 20, at the QEA's new office, 590 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Representatives from the Second Norfolk District, Brownell serves in the State House as assistant majority leader, as a member of the Transportation Committee and Taxation Committee.

He formerly served as a member of the Judiciary Committee and for four years on the Education Committee.

The QEA feels Brownell has been a long time supporter of educational concerns in Quincy and in the State Legislature, and that he personifies the spirit of partnership needed as a parent, member of the community and government leader.

An open house and ribbon cutting ceremony will take place at 3 p.m., preceding Brownell's reception.

"Moving Ahead Together for Education in Quincy" will be the topic for the open meeting sponsored by the QEA and Citywide Parent Advisory Council Thursday, Nov. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the Lincoln Hancock School.

Panelists will be mayor-elect Francis McCauley; school committee vice chairman Christopher Kennedy; School superintendent Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon; City Council president Leo Kelly; City Wide Parent Advisory Council president Robert Wilson; QEA president JoAnn O'Malley and a student associate member of the School Committee.

Theme of American Education Week is "American Education and You: Partners in our Children's Future".

Each panelist will relate the theme to how his or her group represents forming partnerships for the good of public education in Quincy.

Questions from the audience will be entertained.

The public as well as parents, students and members of the school system are invited and urged to attend.

Coffee and refreshments will be served.

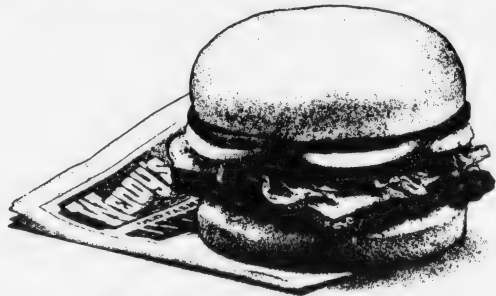

Said JoAnn O'Malley, "If we do not concern ourselves with the schools, we are forfeiting some of the responsibility we share for the future of our community, our country and successive generations."

Insurance Commissioner Given New Group Dental Plan Power

Group dental insurance plans will be subject to the disapproval of the state insurance commissioner under legislation now in effect, Sen. Paul D. Harold notes.

The new law creates a new distinction between "non-group" and "group" dental plans and the procedures for setting premium rates.

Harold said a "non-group" plan is defined as an agreement between a dental service corporation and an individual covering dental services to that individual and his dependents, if any. Such a plan is subject to prior approval of the insurance commissioner.

A "group" plan he said, is defined as one between a dental service corporation and five or more persons, or with an employer or "other representatives of such group," such as a labor union or fraternal organization. It is no longer subject to prior approval of the commissioner.

Harold said, however, that such plans must be submitted to the commissioner within 30 days after their effective date and are subject to his disapproval.

The new law is intended to speed up the implementation of group dental plans at work.

In either the case of a "non-group" or a "group" plan, the commissioner must disapprove if he finds the extent or dental services offered is unreasonable in relation to the premiums charged.

Peninsula Ecumenical Council To Hold Thanksgiving Service Sunday

Rev. M. Alicia Corea of Houghs Neck Congregational Church will speak at the sixth annual Thanksgiving service of the Peninsula Ecumenical Council Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Merrymount.

The Governor's Thanksgiving Proclamation will be read by State Senator Paul Harold.

Anthems will be sung by an ecumenical choir consisting of choir members from participating churches.

Clergy and laymen also will take part representing the six churches, Most Blessed Sacrament and Houghs Neck Congregational of Houghs Neck, Adams Shore United Methodist, St. Boniface and Bethel Church of the Nazarene in Germantown, and Our Lady of Good Counsel.

A fellowship hour will follow.

'Christian Way To Fight' Topic At Squantum Church

Worshippers at the First Church of Squantum heard an unusual sermon Sunday.

In a message entitled "The Christian Way To Fight", Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, instructed the congregation in some Christian approaches to the management of conflict.

Earlier in the service Dr. Langevin had discussed "What Causes Fights?" with the children of the church.

Taking his text from the passage in the book of Acts in which the deacon Stephen is accused of wrongdoing before the Sanhedrin, Dr. Langevin elaborated some suggestions for retaining one's integrity when embroiled in conflict.

The Junior Choir sang "For These Blessings" by Natalie Sleeth. The Chancel Choir sang "Now Let Us All Praise God and Sing" by Gordon Young.

Doris Longmire and Grace Holmes, both deacons of the church, were greeters.

Edward Perkins, Steven Williams, Paul Paulson and Tore Wallin were ushers.

The fellowship hour was hosted by Chris Young and Lee Sindelar.

On Wednesday, two of the church's Christian Education groups had activities.

The Coffee Group traveled to Salem to learn more about the Witchcraft controversy of the late 1600's. The Faith Group met at night for unstructured discussion of their faith questions. Visitors were welcome.

Thanksgiving Eve Celebration At St. John's Church

A Thanksgiving narration will be read at a celebrated Mass Wednesday, Nov. 25, at 7:30 p.m. at St. John's Church, 44 School St., Quincy.

Fr. William R. McCarthy, pastor, will be principal celebrant of the Mass in the upper church.

Concelebrating the Mass will be associate pastors Fr. Joseph F. Byrne, Fr. Daniel M. Graham, Fr. John J. Stagnaro, and Fr. William D. Walsh, chaplain, Quincy City Hospital. Deacon at the Mass will be Rev. Mr. Charles Sullivan.

There will be fruits of the harvest presented in a special offertory procession, as well as patriotic hymns and the Thanksgiving narration by Mable Pratt.

Communion will be distributed under both forms of bread and wine for those prepared to receive the Eucharist.

The liturgy is prepared by members of the spiritual development commission.

Special music will be provided by St. John's Adult Choir under the direction of John Cice, accompanied by Phyllis Ross, organist.

St. John's Folk Group, under the direction of Mary and Jeff Bonish and Lucy and Michael Murray will perform.

Following the Mass, there will be a reception in the lower church hall where coffee, tea and cider will be served, hosted by the parish activities commission.

Parishioners are encouraged to bring their own holiday desserts to share with members of the parish community.

Admission is free and the public is invited.

There will be one Mass on Thanksgiving Day at 8:30 a.m. There will be no evening Mass.

'Afternoon Of Thanksgiving' At Sacred Heart Church

An Afternoon of Thanksgiving for the gift of life in Christ together will be held at Sacred Heart Parish School, Hancock St., North Quincy, Sunday 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

The afternoon is sponsored by the Office of Pastoral Development in collaboration with other Archdiocesan offices, and movements, such as Vocation Commission, Family Life Apostolate, Cursillo Movement, Marriage Encounter, Charismatic Renewal, CTO, and Knights of Columbus.

Father Ernest T. Serino, pastor of Sacred Heart Parish, Watertown, will speak in witness to his own call.

There will be time for personal reflection and thanksgiving for those present on the gift of one's own vocation.

The results of the reflection will be shared in groups composed of people called to follow Christ in different ways; for example, priests, parents, deacons, parish ministers, young adults, high school students, sisters and brothers.

Father Thomas A. DiLorenzo, Associate Pastor of Sacred Heart Parish, North Quincy, will lead a prayer service to conclude the afternoon of reflection and witness on vocation.

The Sacred Heart Folk Singers will provide music for the occasion.

Coffee and tea will be available throughout the afternoon.

All who participate are welcome to join in the 5 p.m. Parish Sunday Liturgy.

The afternoon is an opportunity for people of the church to share their own special outlook and to affirm each others vocation.

All members of the church in the Quincy Vicariate are invited to participate.

In order for Father Cornelius J. Heery, Vicar of the Quincy Vicariate, to know the number of people planning to participate, pre-registration with Sr. Margaret Joyce, C.S.J., 303 Adams St., Milton, Ma. 02186 is requested, but not necessary, for attendance.

QJC Delegation Attends King Nursing Week Proclamation Signing

Sixty persons will comprise a Quincy Junior College delegation attending the signing of a proclamation by Governor King designating Nov. 15-21 Associate Degree Nursing Week.

The year 1981 marks the 30th year of A.D. Nursing in the United States. Since 1953 over 345,000 persons have graduated from ADN programs and more than 50% of all newly licensed nurse graduates come from Associate Degree Nursing programs.

The Quincy Junior College nursing program is the most recent of the 18 ADN programs in Massachusetts; the first started in 1954. Quincy Junior College opened its program in 1979. Quincy Junior College graduated its first nursing class in June of this year.

Since 1954, ADN programs in Massachusetts have graduated more than 10,000 nurses in an effort to meet the health care needs of the citizens in the Commonwealth. Given the national shortage of nurses, which is cited at 100,000, and the Massachusetts shortage, which is estimated at being 5 - 6,000, the need for and support of associate degree programs in the state during the decade of the 80's is an important priority.

The faculty and students of the Associate Degree Nursing Program at Quincy Junior College invites the public to join us in celebrating Associate Degree Nurse Week from November 15-21, 1981.

The Quincy delegation will attend the ceremony in Doric Hall of the State House Nov. 13 at 10 a.m. when King will sign the proclamation.

Open House At Beechwood Center

A SAND DUNE painting by Laura Olsen gets a lot of attention at the open house Sunday at the Beechwood Community Life Center. The center offers programs in music, art, science day care and houses the Wollaston Counseling Associates.

ABOUT 250 persons attended an open house Sunday at the Beechwood Community Life Center, the former Beechwood Knoll School, 225 Fenno St. Receptionist Karen Lyndin Felzer serves punch to Gerry Gordon, Rita Miller, and Cynthia McCloskey.

Friday is the deadline for submitting entries in the Quincy Christmas Festival Fourth Annual Poster Contest on the theme, "Memories of Christmas Past". Teachers are requested to return posters selected for final judging to the Park Department Office, 100 Southern Artery, Merrymount Park (opposite Adams baseball field).

Students in Grades one to six in both the public and parochial schools in Quincy have been invited to participate.

A first and second place winner will be chosen from Grades one to three, and from Grades four to six.

The two first prizes will include a $100 U.S. Savings Bond, and both second prizes, a $50 U.S. Savings Bond.

Winners will be introduced at the Annual Christmas Lighting Ceremonies Friday, Nov. 27, at 7 p.m. in front of the Church of the Presidents.

The committee has suggested that each teacher select, or allow the class to choose, the best poster for presentation and final judging.

Richard J. Koch, committee co-chairman, is being assisted on the poster contest committee by Mrs. Gloria Noble.

The poster contest is one of the activities of the Annual Christmas Festival Program.

Others include the Christmas Lighting Ceremony, Santa's official arrival Nov. 28th, 11:30 a.m., the Christmas Parade Nov. 29, at 12:30 p.m., Santa's Official Mailbox available Nov. 30, and the Nativity Pageant on Sunday, Dec. 13, at 6:30 p.m.

The annual series of Christmas events are sponsored jointly by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the City of Quincy.

NATIONAL AFL-CIO WEEK will be celebrated in Quincy the week of Nov. 15 in honor of the organization's 100th anniversary. Presented certificates of recognition by Mayor Arthur Tobin (center) were Joseph Lydon (left) executive vice president of the Mass. AFL-CIO, and Richard Post, president of the Norfolk Labor Council.

Camp Fire Adventurers Receive First Honors

Eighth grade members of a Quincy Camp Fire Discovery Club sponsored a "Welcome to New Adventurers" recently.

The girls, who have been Camp Fire members since first grade, wore their ceremonial Indian gowns, which were decorated with Honor Beads and emblems earned during the past eight years.

Kerri Smith displayed and explained the Seven Crafts in which the new Adventure members can earn Honor Beads.

Cheryl Hanson helped them choose meaningful Indian names and Kim Mayberger showed them how to combine Indian symbols to make a personal symbolgram for their ceremonial boleros.

The meeting concluded with a ceremonial written by the Discovery Club girls for the occasion and conducted by their group leader Gail Mayberger.

Members of three Camp Fire Adventure Clubs were presented with their first Honor Beads during the ceremony: Karen Marchulatis, Stephanie Majenski, Jennifer McCormack, Justine Rowland, and Ann Marie Wall from Linda Rowland's group; Crystal Moffett and Lisa Dymant from the Furnace Brook group; Mary Cate Ferrara, Jennifer Sullivan, Jennifer Smith, Doreen Ann Smith, and Laura Hennessey from Doreen Smith's group.

Laura Hennessey also received her Pollywog swimming emblem and Fire Tender patch for Progression in Outdoor Living.

Camp Massasoit Good Scout Benefit Party Dec. 2

The biennial holiday Good Scout Party to aid the continued renovation and improvement of Camp Massasoit will be held Wednesday, Dec. 2.

The event will be from 7 to 9 p.m. at Granite Place, 125 Granite St., Quincy Center. Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served.

Two years ago the future of Camp Massasoit as a boy scout facility was in doubt but since then a number of renovations have been made through fund-raising efforts and more improvements are planned.

Tickets for the party are $30 per couple and are tax deductible. They may be obtained from committee members. Checks should be made out to the "Camp Massasoit Development Fund."

A door prize to be awarded at the party will be an all expenses paid weekend for a family at Camp Massasoit.

Former Mayor-Senator James R. McIntyre is general chairman and Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, honorary chairman, Harold S. Crowley, Jr. is secretary. Committee members are: Mayor-elect Francis S. McCauley, Senator Paul Harold, William Barrett, Henry Bertolon, Henry Bosworth, Nicholas Cortese, John Gillis, Frank Glynn, O. Donald Gohl, Joseph Hurney, Richard Koch, Sr., Peter O'Connell, Mary Packer, Robert Packer, Robert Quinn, John Randall, Helen Chin Schlichte, Harold Slate and Marshall Sloane.

Flea Market Bazaar

At Wollaston Congregational

Wollaston Congregational Church, Lincoln and Winthrop Avenues, will hold a Flea Market Bazaar Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Among the items sold will be knitted and crocheted goods, craft articles, plants, quilting, sun chasers, homemade lampshades, jewelry, ceramics and attic treasures.

There will also be a Snack Bar.

McCauley To Welcome Gubernatorial Candidates At GOP Reception

Mayor-elect Francis X. McCauley will welcome the Republican gubernatorial candidates at a reception to be held at the Neighborhood Club, Quincy, Dec. 1, from 6 to 8 p.m.

Candidates Guy A. Carbone, Rep. Andrew H. Card Jr., John R. Lakian, Rep. William G. Robinson, John W. Sears and

Josiah A. Spaulding have accepted invitations to attend and will give brief remarks regarding their candidacies.

Tickets may be obtained by calling Joyce L. Baker, Republican City Committee chairman, 121 Marlboro St., (471-5439), or Mrs. David Usher, 177 Belmont St., (472-0083).

IRA. The weapon everyone can fire.
IRA, the Individual Retirement Account, now offers a first line of defense against federal income taxes. Starting January 1, 1982, you can start your own tax-sheltered retirement savings, even if you already have a pension plan at work. The new tax law lets you put up to $2,000 or more into IRA tax-sheltered savings, all deductible from your federal income tax. And if you're a two-income family you can contribute and deduct as much as $4,000!

How to win your tax battle

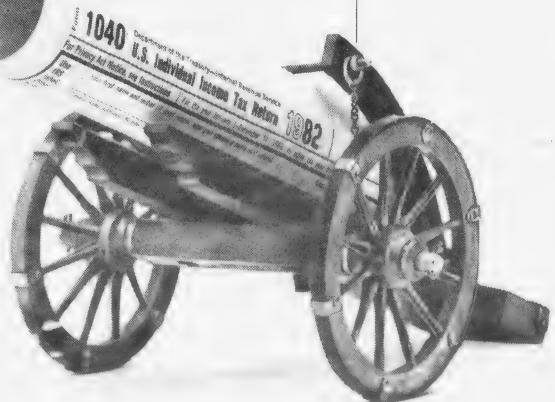

Best of all, your money and the interest it earns build up tax-free until you retire.

Let us show you how an IRA can work for you in one of our high-interest, fully-insured savings plans.

We'll also show you how much faster your retirement savings build up when they're sheltered from taxes.

Now is the time to start planning to take full advantage of this new weapon against income taxes and help build a more secure retirement. Come in today or call 471-3500 and ask to speak with Jim Chicco or Don Johnson.

Council For Children Office Now Located In Hingham

The South Shore Council for Children office, formerly located in Quincy Center, has moved to join its counterpart, the Coastline Council for Children in Hingham. Due to substantial budget cuts within the statewide Office for Children, the two area council offices have consolidated to reduce expenses.

The South Shore Council for Children will continue to actively serve Quincy, Milton and Randolph children and families in need of services.

In addition to providing information, referral and advocacy services, council volunteers evaluate, monitor and make recommendations for funding of state children's services.

The South Shore Council for Children's new address and telephone number are 195 Whiting St., Hingham, 02043; phone 749-2719.

Community Residence Bill Amended

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) announces that the Massachusetts House has adopted an amendment to House Bill 6608, the Community Residence Siting Bill.

The Siting Bill will set up guidelines for notification and regulations prohibiting over saturation of an area.

The amendment offered by Morrissey would require the Department of Social Services to notify cities and towns of all specialized foster care programs, regardless of the number of people in the program. The amendment also requires the Department to send a list of all non-owner occupied dwellings used for specialized foster care.

"The amendment was necessary because the Siting Bill only included residences with five or more people," Morrissey said. The amendment was filed in response to the lack of notice given Quincy when the specialized foster care program was instituted on Webster St.

"While the amendment will not prohibit the establishment of foster care programs, it will provide the opportunity for notice to the appropriate city officials for programs with fewer than 5 residents," Morrissey said.

Brian O'Toole Receives Rotary Graduate Scholarship

Brian Patrick O'Toole of 36 Hamilton St., Wollaston, who will receive his B.A. degree from Harvard University in June, 1982, has been awarded a graduate scholarship from the Rotary Foundation of Rotary International.

O'Toole will study pure mathematics during the 1982-83 academic year at University of Dublin, Trinity College, Ireland.

Rotary Foundation scholarships underwrite the full cost of study abroad, including tuition, books, laboratory fees, lodging, food, travel and incidentals.

If language instruction is necessary in the study country, it is also underwritten by the scholarship.

Rotary Foundation scholarships amount to $16,000 to $20,000.

O'Toole was recommended by the Rotary Club of Quincy and was approved by committees representing the 66 member clubs in the 795th Rotary district.

He becomes one of more than 1,200 men and women world wide who recently received Rotary Foundation scholarships totaling more than $18 million.

Applications are now being accepted by the Rotary Club of Quincy for a Rotary Foundation scholarship for the 1983-84 academic year.

Men and women interested should make application to the Rotary Club of Quincy prior to March 1, 1982.

How McCauley Sees His Administration

think that was probably what brought me into the Republican party.

SUN - How will your Republicanism show in your handling of the city government?

McCAULEY - I think it would be a conservative philosophy. I've always been conservative, going back to the days when I was first on the Council. If you say that a Republican is conservative then it will be coming out in the fact that I'm going to be watching spending pretty closely. I've always done that. Proposition 2½ is going to mandate that anyway. I believe that we've got to inject a certain type of business attitude in government. You can't be completely business oriented, of course, because government involves people. But I think we've got to get into the departments and get them to run a little bit more efficiently.

SUN - Would you say your administration will be more like Amelio Della Chiesa's?

McCAULEY - I think it probably will. Della Chiesa was a progressive guy, I think. He was not a reactionary. The problem when you get into conservatism is that you can get to the point where you are so conservative that you're not looking for new ideas. Della Chiesa watched the money. He refused to create excessive jobs. He tried to limit involvement by government. But we don't want to fall into a situation where we're not progressive, where we're just worried about saving money and not receptive to new ideas. Della Chiesa had a good grasp on municipal finance. I've tried to gain that grasp over the last four years. I've worked very closely with the auditor and the treasurer to get a good idea of what's going on so that in certain areas we would be similar to the Della Chiesa administration.

SUN - The first thing the McCauley administration is going to be faced with is a 15 per cent cut in the tax levy under Prop 2½. Where will that cut be coming from?

McCAULEY - It's hard to say right now because we don't have the budget figures in. Most of our labor contracts are going to be up next July so we'll be negotiating. It's very difficult to say.

SUN - Perhaps 80 per cent of the budget goes to police, fire and schools. Won't the major cuts have to come from them?

McCAULEY - The big problem is that many of the smaller departments have been pretty well cut now. I think the present administration played the schools off against the other city departments and I don't propose to do that. But the big situation is dollars and the dollars are in the school department because it happens to be the biggest budget. Dr. Creodon is waiting for the school reorganization to be effected because until he knows what plan is going to be adopted he isn't going to be firm on his budget. Hopefully the first of the year there will be a plan. Also we don't know what offsets we're going to have. We don't know whether we're going to get any state aid. We don't know whether the legislature is going to change the 2½ law. So it's hard to say right now.

SUN - Do you anticipate cuts in fire and police and, if so, how much?

McCAULEY - I really can't say at the present time. We're talking an $8.5 million budget cut. If salary increases come in on top of that it's going to make it more difficult. I'm not trying to beg the question. I'm just saying that at this stage of the game it's pretty hard to say. It would be unfair to start making item cuts in the thing until the budgets are before us and until the state picture becomes more clear.

SUN - Not to belabor a point, but would it not be impossible to avoid police and fire cuts?

McCAULEY - It's pretty hard for me to say, 'no'. We've got to have the front line people out there. There's not so much in the Fire Department, so maybe we'll be looking into the Police Department, backup work, that type of thing, to see if there are any areas where we can consolidate and make more efficient. We don't want to pare these services down any further and we'll do everything we can not to do it. But we have to be realistic. When you're faced with that kind of budget cut, to be quite honest, the big departments are where the dollars are.

SUN - Is the East-West Connector on the back burner or is it dead as far as you're concerned?

McCAULEY - I went over to the Planning Department and I met with Jim Lydon, the Rev. Baharian, Judie Cullen and Frank Chin from Moore Associates. I asked Mr. Lydon, as mayor-elect, what is my responsibility. He told me, 'The decision rests with you. If you don't want it to go then it won't go.' I felt, based on the position I took during the election, that there are no firm developments proposed on either side of Hancock St. I exercised the option that Mr. Lydon gave me and I delivered a letter to him telling him that as mayor-elect I ask that no further work be done on the project and that it be terminated.

SUN - So it's dead.

McCAULEY - As far as I'm concerned, it's terminated.

SUN - During the campaign you indicated you might favor removing the parking meters. What are your plans for that?

McCAULEY - There was a committee formed by this administration to talk about the parking areas and the meter problem. I don't know how far along the committee is but I do believe that relatively soon we should, at least in the parking areas, start getting the meters out and replace them with some kind of validated parking setup. I also think the merchants are interested in a strong towing ordinance in the downtown streets, like Chestnut St. Some of the violators are chronic. I think those two things are going to be a priority in my administration.

SUN - You said in the debate at Sterling Junior High that the day of the parking meter is over. Do you see no parking meters in Quincy?

McCAULEY - At least in the parking lots and I stress the parking areas. Maybe downtown on the streets some of them will have parking meters. It might be feasible to keep them.

SUN - How about a parking authority?

McCAULEY - That's a possibility. But you've got to be careful when you start talking about authorities. You're setting up bureaucracy and then you're starting a bureaucracy. We're going to have to stay away from the creation of any large numbers of jobs. But I'm very flexible on it.

SUN - Do you see the possibility of validated parking in the Hancock and Ross areas?

McCAULEY - To be quite honest, I haven't looked into it. It's being studied but nothing has come of it. This administration has been, in effect, on a lame duck status for many months now. There hasn't been the pressure to do something. But definitely we're going to take action on the things we addressed during the campaign. We talked about a task force of business people to take a look at some of our city departments. If this group that's working out there does not produce anything then after the first of the year we're going to set up our own task force of business people and maybe some city councilors to find out who's doing it now and how it's working out.

SUN - Will you be keeping any department heads from the Tobin administration?

McCAULEY - We haven't made any decision on anybody yet. We have a number of positions, purchasing, treasurer, the like, any of these positions theoretically right now are open. Arthur Foley is working with the administration now and we're also welcoming resumes from people who might want to serve. That doesn't mean that everybody's going to be changed. But we haven't closed any position off so that we can say, 'So and so is in this position and he's going to stay.' We're willing to take a look at all the positions.

SUN - Have you asked anybody to stay?

McCAULEY - No.

SUN - You don't plan a sweep though?

McCAULEY - We're not going down into the level below policy making. We're not going to move secretaries and clerks and that type of thing. In many cases they're civil service anyway. The upper level job obviously we're going to put our own administration into effect, especially since I've been more or less in opposition to the present administration. We have made no decisions. We're going to try to have everybody lined up so that By Dec. 8, the tentative date, we'll have the people named.

SUN - One of the names that keeps popping up is the Rev. Bedros Baharian as development coordinator. What is his future?

McCAULEY - We've made no determination on him. The Rev. Baharian has contacted me. He has placed himself at my disposal. If I wish him to stay on, fine. If I do not wish to keep him, fine. He is a member of the Planning Board and his term has several years to run. I told him I've made no decision on development coordinator at this time, same as the other positions.

SUN - How do you feel about Tobin's aggressive development policies and would you continue them?

McCAULEY - The area of development is something I've never disagreed with the mayor on. I've been very supportive of him on UDAG grants and revenue bond proposals. I think he's done a good job in that area. I think he tends to oversell it a bit, though. Many people have been led to believe that when Jordan Marsh and State St. South came in that taxes would drop drastically. As a result, they're not as enthusiastic about development as they once may have been. But basically Tobin has had a good positive attitude on development and I plan to be aggressive, too.

SUN - Are we likely to see anyone who served in the LaRika administration come back in yours?

McCAULEY - We haven't ruled out anybody. We're going to advertise for people who are interested to send their resumes in. We're not going to adopt the type of screening committee that Mayor Tobin had in 1978. We'll be looking the resumes over and looking at qualifications but the final determination will be mine. We're going to try to get the very best people because, the way government is today, I can't do it by myself. I have certain areas of expertise in the field of finance. I'm going to have people in there who have their own special expertise and I'm going to have to rely on their judgement.

SUN - What kind of working relationship do you think you'll have with the City Council?

McCAULEY - I think it's a good City Council. They're a good group of people. I think maybe this administration didn't have the degree of access with the Council. I'm going to try to keep them fully informed as I can about things that go on in the mayor's area, at least let them know what is happening. We're going to try to work pretty well with the president of the Council. I'm going to try to meet with him on a regular basis, and the heads of committees, especially the Finance Committee. We'll be trying to keep everybody up to date.

SUN - What are your plans for a sewer wage charge?

McCAULEY - I think we should do something with all deliberate speed after the first of the year. I basically favor the ad valorem method which, in effect, would leave the homeowner's sewer taxes on the tax rate as we pay it now. The large industrial and business people would pay a sewer users tax based on a proportion of the water bill. I'm going to sit down with the commissioner of public works and find out if there is a deadline and, if so, when. With the tightening up in Washington, we've got to find out if we're getting into a situation where we've got to do it quick. Then I would make the sewer users tax a priority.

SUN - How do you feel about going into office the same year that revaluation is being implemented?

McCAULEY - It's going to be a tough thing. I'd like to see these new values out before the end of the year so that we can get the appeal process started and, after the first of the year, we can start to work to set the tax rate. It could be conceivable that I will be involved in the actual tax rate setting for fiscal 1982, which really should have fallen to this administration. But it will give me a chance to be sure that revenue estimates are properly projected.

SUN - Can anything be done to help hardship cases to pay their taxes under reval?

McCAULEY - This is the problem. Over the years property values have skyrocketed and the values are going to reflect what people can buy and sell their homes for today. But you are going to find people who have lived in homes for 30 or 40 years and they don't want to sell but their taxes are going to reflect the value of what they could get for it. There are hardship provisions in the state law over which the assessors have jurisdiction. If there is a legitimate hardship, they have the right to abate it. Someone who does not have the resources behind him can be helped over the rough spots. There's no question that our administration would be sympathetic and will try to do the best we can with people.

SUN - Is there a target date by which you would like to have the tax rate set for fiscal 1983?

McCAULEY - The tax due date is Nov. 1 which means you should have your bills out by Oct. 1. I would like to see the tax rate set in early September at the latest. Bob Foy pointed out to me that once the bill hits the home they get a million dollars in the first week, even though it is not due until Nov. 1. Some of our homeowners are very conscientious. I would like to get the tax rate set no later than the first 10 days in September. But setting the rate is one thing; getting the bills out is another. We've got to start to look toward automating City Hall. We're behind times as far as data processing goes. If we were in a competitive market like the banking business we would have been out of business. It gets so you're operating over there without up-to-date figures and you have to make decisions based on guesswork. We're going to try to take a business approach to getting those departments to run as efficiently as possible.

SUN - Is it true that you were approached on election night by a decorator who suggested that the mayor's office would have to be done over?

McCAULEY - Somebody did approach my wife on that matter and Sandra felt quite frankly that in this day and age that is a luxury we will have to forego. It's a brand new office. Arthur has been there a little more than two years. I plan no extensive renovations or decorations. I assume it's traditional that the mayor leave with his chair and I'm bringing in my chair from the bank. I bought it brand new in 1965 and it's still very serviceable. I got permission from my successors at the bank who allowed me to take the chair after years of faithful service.

3 Residents Win 4-Year Merit Scholarships

Three students from Quincy, who entered college this fall, have been awarded four-year merit scholarships at the University of Massachusetts at Boston.

They are Dorene Farmer of Acton St., Wollaston; Jean Jablonski of Faxon Rd., Atlantic; and William Boudreau of Everett St., Wollaston.

Miss Jablonski, a graduate of Fontbonne Academy, plans to concentrate on studying the technical aspects of theatre.

At Fontbonne, she played the lead role in "Our Town", was stage manager for the musical "The Boy Friend", and won several acting awards in Boston's High School Drama Festival.

Miss Farmer, also a Fontbonne graduate, is also interested in the theatre. She was active in Fontbonne's drama department and won an acting award at the drama festival.

Boudreau, a graduate of North Quincy High School, plans to pursue a major in computer science at UMass-Boston.

Edward O'Gara

At RPI

Edward M. O'Gara of 49 Highfield Rd., Merrymount, is enrolled in the freshman class at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute (RPI) in Troy, N.Y., majoring in electrical engineering.

LOSING A FILLING

Why do fillings sometimes fall out?

It's important to know just what functions a filling does and doesn't serve in a tooth. It does seal off and protect the hole formed by tooth decay and the drilling required to remove it. But the filling doesn't in itself make the tooth any stronger. In fact, the strength of the filling depends on the amount of tooth material left surrounding it after the decay is removed. Usually, the larger the filling, the weaker it is.

If your fillings fall out frequently, it could be that they are simply too large to be held securely by the remaining tooth structure. In this case, crowns (caps) should be made. Crowns serve the same purpose as fillings, but they fit over and surround the tooth, rather than fitting within it.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT PUBLIC HEARINGS

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin and the Department of Planning and Community Development invite all interested citizens and community groups to attend a series of public planning hearings on the City's Community Development Block Grant application for fiscal year 1982-83.

The purpose of these hearings is to give the citizens of Quincy the opportunity to discuss current community development and housing needs, to comment on the City's current community development activities, and to provide suggestions for and input into the upcoming year's Community Development Block Grant Program activities.

Through these hearings the City shall obtain citizens' views and opinions on its community development and housing needs and programs and also shall receive citizens' suggestions and proposals for new and existing potential activities and projects to be funded through its 1982-83 CDBG Program.

It is important for the citizens of Quincy and representatives of interested agencies and community persons to attend one or more of these hearings and make their views and proposals known to City officials.

SUNDAY BLUE LAWS

The Legislature considered legislation that would allow all retail stores, excluding liquor stores to be open on Sunday year round. The current law allows retail stores to be open between Thanksgiving and Christmas. I favor the current law that allows retail stores to be open on Sunday during the peak holiday season. The measure was soundly defeated by the Mass. House.

The Mass. House also gave initial approval to the Community Residence Siting Bill that would provide for notification to communities for various programs. It also contains provisions that would keep an area from getting over saturated with community residences, thus insuring all communities will share in having a program in their respective communities.

The Boston legislature delegation is constantly meeting on the so-called "Tregor Bill" that would allow for the re-hiring of police and fire officials, while paying the $75 million tax rebate owed to corporate businesses as a result of the Court decision. The most controversial section is the parking excise that would be imposed on communities to pay the cost of the bonds needed. The legislation is still not in its final form, although action is expected shortly.

The statewide condominium bill has received initial approval in the Senate and is currently in the Senate Third Reading.

If I can be of any further assistance, please give me a call at home 328-0900 or in the State House at 722-2470.

BowlingDonelin Rolls 347 In Koch Women's League

Barbara Donelin topped all bowlers at the last session of the Koch Club Women's Bowling League to gain the high individual three string total scoring a 347 to best Debra Koch's 335 and posted a 147 to beat June Hillier's 133 high single string.

June Hillier still holds the top average with a 103.4, followed by Debra Koch, 99.7; Barbara Donelin, 97.7; Linda Bowes, 96.2; Carol Johnson, 94.0; Maureen Robertson, 92.5; Denise Nolan, 91.1; Shirley MacNeil, 90.6; Edie Maier, 90.4, and Dianne Johnston, 88.7.

Edie Maher's team still holds a slight edge in the team standings with 33 wins and 15 losses. The Debra Koch team is, 32-16; June Hillier, 28-20; Barbara Donelin, 27-21; Denise Nolan, 26-22; Barbara Lombardi and Charlene Josephs tied with 16-32, and Linda Carpenter, 14-34.

Debra Koch's team holds the best single string to date with 593 while Barbara Donelin's squad has the top three string total of 1658. June Hillier leads the loop in spares with 56 while Barbara Donelin has the most strikes with a total of 15.

The league bowls Thursdays at 8:30 p.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys, Broad St. Women are welcome to join as spare bowlers and will be assigned to regular teams when a vacancy occurs. The League competes through April and closes out the season in May with an Awards Banquet.

North Record Now 5-4

Catholic Memorial Shells Raiders, 27-14

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Catholic Memorial football team had only three plays from scrimmage, one on the last play of the half, in the second quarter last week at Veterans Memorial Stadium but the Knights scored three touchdowns to clinch a 27-14 victory over North Quincy.

North, which has never defeated Memorial in five games, dropped to 5-4 going into the Quincy game Thanksgiving Day, while CM, a Catholic League entry improved its record to 6-3.

CM had taken an early 7-0 lead and North had come back to tie the score in the second quarter.

Then came the bombshells. North kicked off and John Copponi ran it back 92 yards for a touchdown.

CM kicked off. North was held and punted and Bill Donga returned it 65 yards for another score. The two touchdowns came in 1:17.

A few minutes later North's Mike Ellis went back to punt but the pass from center sailed over his head and CM had the ball on the Raiders' seven. CM, on its first two plays from scrimmage, scored again and had a big 27-7 lead at the half.

"Those plays killed us and it was a good game outside of those three plays," a disappointed Coach Dave Burke said. "We did a fine job coming back in the second half and the defense did another good job. But we were too far behind to come back, although we certainly tried."

Joe Dudek had another good day and Rich Stevens and Ray Mallory also ran well, but CM's defense did an excellent job and gave quarterback Pat Burke all sorts of trouble, sacking him several times. The Knights took away North's long passes, although Burke did hit on six for 110 yards.

Defensive coordinator Jack Raymer felt the defense played well again. "They did a fine job when they were on the field," he said. "Those three big plays were not the fault of the defense and the boys did a tremendous job in the second half."

Raymer singled out Steve Howley, Bill Bradley, Mike Panaro, Neal Fisher, Ray Mallory, Mike Ellis and Rich Comeau.

North was held following the opening kickoff and, following Ellis' punt, CM staged its only drive of the game, going 65 yards to score.

With rugged Paul Maciejko, who sparked the Knights' attack, and Mark Bulger showing the way, CM clicked off three first downs and Maciejko scored from the nine. Warren MacGillivray kicked the extra point.

Following a punt into the end zone, North Quincy drove 80 yards, picking up six first downs along the way and Dudek raced around right end for seven yards and his eighth straight touchdown. Bradley kicked the tying point.

Then came the three plays which killed North. CM used a double handoff on the kickoff to break Copponi loose and he outraced the North defenders to go 92 yards.

CM also used a handoff on the next punt as Donga found a big hole and raced the 65 yards for a score.

Following the bad pass from center, Bulger scored the final CM touchdown.

With time running out Dudek caught a pass from Burke but fumbled when hit and CM recovered to preserve its 27-7 halftime lead.

North's defense was outstanding in the last two quarters and CM didn't threaten seriously. North scored the only touchdown of the half when Burke passed to Stevens for 13 yards and a touchdown late in the third period. Bradley again kicked the point.

Fisher just missed kicking off a CM pass. If he had been able to hold on to the ball, he had clear sailing for another North touchdown.

End Jim Hutchinson made two fine receptions, one for 32 yards (deflected by a CM player) and another for 26 yards.

North had to play without Bill Gray, another fine receiver, who was injured in practice.

CM had 139 yards on the ground to 119 for North. The Knights tried only four passes, completing only one for a mere five yards.

Veteran, Rookie Coaches Featured Quincy, North Sophs In Thanksgiving Preview

Saturday's annual football game between the Quincy and North Quincy sophomores (Veterans Stadium, 10 a.m.) will match the veteran coach against the rookie.

North's Ted Sadowski, the dean of South Shore coaches, is in his 26th year at North, coaching the sophomores for most of that time. Quincy coach John Sullivan is in his first season.

Sullivan, who joined the Quincy staff this fall, is a former Quincy player who made Little All-American at the U. of Vermont and who formerly coached at Sterling Junior High.

At the start of the season it appeared there would be no sophomore game this fall. The sophomore programs were among the victims of Prop 2½, but the Suburban League coaches and athletic directors got together and decided to divide the junior varsity schedules equally between juniors and sophomores, so that each group would play on alternate weeks.

The North sophs have a 2-2 record. At Quincy the sophomores have played against several junior varsity teams as well as sophomore teams. The young Presidents are 3-2 in sophomore competition.

"We played some teams that were predominantly juniors and were very tough," Sullivan said. "Against Newton North we led until the last minute when the size of their offensive ends overcame our defensive secondary and they won, 14-12. Against Canton juniors, definitely the toughest club we played, we were outweighed 30 pounds to a man. We lost that one, 12-6. We played a strong Brockton team dead even until 45 yards in penalties gave them a late touchdown and we lost another, 12-6.

"We have been playing injured recently. Paul Kenny, a tough wing back, has a bad ankle. Mark Walsh, our best offensive tackle, has a dislocated shoulder, and Mike Notarangelo, our leading scorer and best runner, has a sprained ankle. Hopefully, they all will be back for North Quincy."

Sullivan started with 55 boys and is down to 32. They are to be congratulated for their dedication and tough mindedness and I feel they will be a credit to Quincy football and to their school for the next three years," Sullivan said.

Notarangelo has scored 64 points. Kevin Cabezas has scored 14 and thrown four touchdown passes. Greg Keefe has 30 points. Tony Cascarano six points and two touchdown passes, Robert Coletta, Chris Shaughnessy and Jim Stassio 12 points each and Dan Curtin and Paul Keanev six each.

Defensive standouts have been John Cacciatore, Chris Connor, Tom Deason, John Craine, Dan McCauley, Gary Minassian, Austin O'Malley, Richard Ready, Walsh, Brad Hart and Cascarano.

Rounding out the squad are Bob Bucella, Chris Constat, Bill Coose, Jim Donahue, Pat Folan, Jim Garrity, Eric Jolley, Pete McCarron, Morgan O'Shea, Bob Zupkofska, Roger Westhaver and John Cardelli. All have done their part when called upon.

Sadowski will be trying to stop a two-game losing streak against Quincy. Last fall Quincy, which wound up 8-1, rolled, 26-8 and eked out a 7-6 victory two years ago. The previous season North had come from behind to pull out a 15-14 thriller.

North's offensive line of Nick Gelsomini, Ben Klingenstein, Joe Russell, Rich Ragusa, Jack Burke, John Panaro and Vic DiGravio has blocked well on several long drives this fall.

"Quarterback Dan Ceurvels has done a good job of passing and directing the running of fullback Kevin Kelly and halfbacks Mike Gill, Bryan Ellis and Scot Messina," Sadowski said.

The defense has been outstanding and has given up little yardage. On the line Joe Callahan, Paul Penzo, Kevin Kelly and Gelsomini have been tough. Linebackers Jim Kennedy, Steve Kearns and Dan Ceurvels, along with corners John DeLappe and Mark Wilkins, have done a lot of hitting and deep coverage has been ably provided by Jimmy White and Messina.

Phil Iacobacci, Peter Farren and Eddie Page have given steady performances filling in at both offense and defense. Jim McNamara has been injured since the first game but is expected back for Quincy.

"I have received excellent help and encouragement from Pete Zoia, who has assisted me," Sadowski said. Zoia is an all-time North Quincy great, starting with Jack Donahue's first teams back in the early 30's.

Pettinelli Kicks Lowell To Dramatic Upset Win

Freshman Ron Pettinelli, former Quincy High quarterback and kicker, last week kicked a 21-yard field goal with 42 seconds left in the game to give the U. of Lowell football team an upset 17-15 victory over heavily favored Worcester Tech.

Lowell, with Pettinelli kicking some key field goals and every extra point, finished with four wins in a row for a 4-5 record, while WPI dropped to 6-2.

Ed Mackey, a teammate of Pettinelli's at Quincy, is a member of the Worcester squad.

Quincy Rolls By North, 44-20

Tom Morrell scored on a nine-yard pass from Ron Leone before many of the spectators had found their seats and the Quincy High School football team went on to a 44-20 victory over North Quincy in the 23rd renewal of their Thanksgiving Day rivalry.

Mike Angelis ran 93 yards with a pass interception for one touchdown and scooted 57 yards from scrimmage for another as Quincy won only its second game of the season against six losses. The series stands 12 wins for Quincy, eight for North and three ties.

Dick Pakalnis, with runs of 30 and 59 yards, and Leone, who sneaked for one and ran for 23, also scored two touchdowns each for the victors. Doug Grutchfield, Jack Crowley and Eddie Wanless had the scores for North Quincy.

The Quincy lineup included:

Tedrow, Alsop, Tantillo, Morrell, Salvaggio, Bryant, Farrell, Westberg, Heitala, Interland, DiMattio, ends; Mullaney, Gelsomini, Cavanaugh, Peterson, Smollett, Heap Craig, Wainio, Primavera, O'Brien, Menadeu, Kennedy, Mitchell, Berry, tackles; Parker, Maher, Buccello, Lennon, Peruzzi, Zanotti, Claire, Campanella, guards; Finn, Chase, Biagini centers.

Grant, Seppala, Hollis, Pakalnis, Connors, Graziano, Wong, Derbes, Higueria, Marzocca, Reardon, Ivil, Taylor, Powers, Bifolchi, Leone, Brown, Angelis, Light, backs.

The North Quincy lineup included:

Grutchfield, Adams, Baldwin, ends; Dixon, Huber, Wanless, Sweeney, tackles; Coughlan, Frazier, Mann, guards; Stevenson, center; Deane, Crowley, Doring, Thompson, Payson, Cooke, backs.

CENTRAL UPSETS NORTH

Bob Bell and Irving Hurwitz scored the touchdowns as Central upset North, 12-0, in the final game of the Junior High School Football League season, knocking North out of contention and giving the title to Point.

Hurwitz' score came on a pass interception in which he ran 83 yards into the North end zone.

The Central lineup: Bennett, Hurwitz, Kelly, Mitchell, ends; Commas, Beaumont, Clancy, Green, McIsaac, tackles; Carnes, Finlay, Aluisi, Hamilton, Cripunuk, guards; Johns, Powers, center; Bell, Toland, Avitable, DiStephano, Hartford, Lorio, backs.

The North lineup: Carney, O'Brien, Motre, Healy, ends; Harding, Young, Chapin, Myer, tackles; Noguiera, Pronach, Ferrari, Flannagan, guards; Mahoney, Joy, centers; Cataldo, Radley, Rutan, Wadleigh, Gherardi, Kelly, Largely.

QUINCY HARRIERS WIN

Jim Keelon nipped Quincy teammate Bob Savonen by one second at the finish line as the Presidents' cross country team defeated North Quincy 19-39 over the Raiders' home course.

The finishers: 1. Keelon (Q), 2. Savonen (Q), 3. Freel (Q), 4. Buckley (NQ), 5. O'Neil (Q), 6. Daniels (NQ), 7. Olson (NQ), 8. W. Smith (Q), 9. H. Smith (Q), 10. Lawless (NQ), 11. Morse (Q), 12. Callahan (NQ).

BURGESS STARS

Ken Burgess wound up his Little League football career with a four-touchdown outburst as his Mayo's All Stars from West Quincy clinched the title with a 47-0 victory over the North Quincy Apaches.

Joe Gillis plowed over from one yard out as the Houghs Neck Manets tripped the Quincy Point Panthers 6-0, in the second game of the doubleheader.

Edge Brookline, 7-6

Presidents Go 'Singing In The Rain'

Sunday's game between the Quincy and Brookline football teams at Northeastern's Parsons Field was played under the worst conditions possible with heavy rain throughout the contest.

But as far as Coach Tom Fitzgerald and his Quincy players were concerned it was a beautiful day as the Presidents came from behind in the last quarter to edge Brookline, 7-6, in their Suburban League game.

The victory improved Quincy's record to 3-6 and gave it some momentum going into the North Quincy game.

"The defense did it for us today," said a happy Fitzgerald. "It was just outstanding and, except for their touchdown, Brookline never penetrated beyond our 30-yard line. Bill Maver, whom I consider a really outstanding coach, has done a tremendous job with our defense. I consider him one of the finest coaches around and the kids all like and respect him."

The game was the only one played by Quincy on artificial turf. Although the footing was better than on natural grass, the ball was very slippery.

Fitzie singled out Mike Shaughnessy, Mark Picot and Steve Goguen for their ball carrying and also praised the play of Bob Mudge at quarterback.

Bob Willard, Dave Donnelly, Steve Aluisy and Paul Quigley were praised in the offensive line, as were big Joe Harte, who kicked the extra point for the win, and Sean Martin. Quigley came up with a fine block on Quincy's touchdown.

On defense Maver had good words for John Carr, Mike Connors, Brian Callahan, Jamie Gravalesse, Glenn Straughn, who had a pass interception; Kevin Riggs, Steve Spencer, Mark Righini and Shaughnessy, who had several tackles in addition to running well.

"Callahan played an outstanding game," Fitzgerald said. "He did a terrific job on their option play. He also snapped the ball back perfectly on our punts and the big extra point. He was just outstanding. Picot sparked our touchdown drive and also did some excellent punting."

Brookline scored its lone touchdown with a minute left in the third period, its outstanding runner, Tim McMahon, scoring on a 24-yard run. Spencer broke up a pass for the attempted two extra points.

Brookline kicked off into the end zone and Quincy proceeded to march 80 yards for its touchdown. Goguen, Picot and Shaughnessy all ran well and Mudge threw a nice pass to Goguen which brought the Presidents from the 30 to Brookline's four-yard line. Shaughnessy went to the one and Mudge scored on a quarterback sneak with 3:35 to play. Harte then kicked the biggest point of his life to win it.

Brookline wasn't through and reached Quincy's 32 but the Presidents stopped a fourth down play, took over and ran out the clock.

KIDDY KILLERS

It is understandable how so many hunters can get killed when bullets are whizzing around the woods. But you are just as likely to be killed by a gun at home. About half of the 22,000 firearm fatalities per year happen at home. And about one-third of the dead are youngsters under fourteen who are often the luckless victims of a playmate.

To youngsters, a gun is primarily thought of as a plaything. For example, in California, a three-year-old boy climbed into bed with his mother one morning. Slipping his hand under the pillow, he felt a "toy gun" and pulled the trigger. It killed his mother.

If you keep a gun in the house and have young children, the only tolerable rule of safety is to keep the gun locked up - unloaded and uncocked. Another bonus precaution is to lock the ammunition in a separate place.

Quincy Girls Bow In Volleyball Semi-finals

The Quincy girls' volleyball team, seeded 11th, made an outstanding showing in its first Eastern Mass. Tournament ever, going to the South Sectional semifinals before bowing to unbeaten and top-seeded Boston Latin.

The First Ladies, 4-8 a year ago and 11-3 this season, gave the undefeated Boston team a tough struggle, losing the first game in overtime, 16-14, then losing the second, 15-3.

The Quincy girls, who had scrimmaged Latin at the beginning of the year, proved themselves equal in the first game as the lead changed hands four times, Quincy rebounding from a 5-2 deficit to tie it, 6-6, on a Christine Gallery serve, and went up by a point on an Ellen Deady spike.

Behind the serving of Carolyn Leonard and the front court play of Nancy MacDonald, the First Ladies ran off three straight points to go up, 10-7, their biggest advantage. Latin regained the lead, 13-10, but Quincy wouldn't quit and chipped away. Lisa Zannis served two points to cut the lead to one and a convincing slam by MacDonald tied it at 14, setting up the overtime.

"We had trouble blocking," said coach Ray Whitehouse. "We had a lot of potential blockouts that we didn't take advantage of. We play a power game, but we didn't play it well tonight. We ended up playing their game, and you can't do that against the number one seed."

Quincy had a young team and at one time had four sophomores, Leonard, Gallery, Sue Beven and Terry Munroe, on the floor. Three of them started and Whitehouse felt they felt the pressure.

"Next year we won't stop at the semis," Whitehouse, who was assisted by Chris Prendiville, told his disappointed players. "We were just thrilled to be here, but losing is still a disappointment to them."

Quincy had advanced to the semifinals by winning two of three matches in the Pool B round-robin event. Quincy defeated Newton North, 2-0, and Notre Dame of Hingham, 2-0. The First Ladies lost to Case of Swansea, 2-0.

MacDonald, Cheryl Carmody, Zanni, Leonard, Gallery, Barbara Fain and Mariou Arevalo all played well in these matches.

In its first tournament match ever Quincy had defeated Dartmouth, 2-0.

MacDonald and Arevalo were named to the tournament all-star team.

North Sophs Down Weymouth South

Coach Ted Sadowski's North Quincy sophomore football team tuned up for its annual meeting with Quincy Saturday by defeating Weymouth South, 12-8, last week. The win ended the young Raiders' record at 2-2.

North scored both touchdowns in the second quarter on passes. The first was a picture play that ate up 66 yards. Vicker DiGravio, whose father was an outstanding quarterback at Weymouth under Jackie Fisher and whose grandfather, Vic, was a top quarterback at Quincy High, caught an over-the-shoulder pass on his 34-yard line and outraced the defense to go all the way.

The second score was set up by the running of Mike Gill. His long runs brought the ball to Weymouth's 14 and Dan Ceurvels connected with Co-Capt. Nick Gelsomini, who scored.

Weymouth blocked a Raider punt after a penalty had put North deep in its own territory. The ball rested on the one-foot line but it took Weymouth four downs to finally score as Jack Bolster led a stubborn defense. There were only 45 seconds left in the game at the time.

Weymouth tried an outside kick but North recovered and ran out the clock.

North Quincy had only 21 players for the game at Weymouth and all played.

"Our defense deserves a lot of credit," said Sadowski. "They held Weymouth pretty much in check. We moved the ball fairly well and Gill had his best day. Bryan Ellis continued his hard running and Kevin Kelly blocked well."

Sadowski, in his 26th year at North Quincy, also had good words for John Panaro, Bill Jacobacci, Rich Regusa, Jack Burke and Paul Penzo on offense and Joe Callahan, who recovered two fumbles; Jim Kennedy, also recovered one; Jim White, Mark Wilkins, Paul Ceurvels, Joe DeLappe and Bolster on defense.

North Girls Win E-Mass X-Country Title

The North Quincy girls' cross country team, which finished its regular season with a 9-1 record, its best ever, last Saturday won its second straight Eastern Mass. Division 2 championship at Franklin Park.

Coach Lou Tozzi's Raiderettes finished with 97 points to handily defeat runnerup Wakefield, with 144. Masconomet had 153 points and Falmouth 173. Thirty-two schools were entered in the division.

North had two medalists, Sheila Barrett, who finished fourth, and Regina Nagle, 15th.

Linda Kennedy finished 18th, Diane Lindenfelzer 22nd, Tracy Corrigan 39th and Deirdre Donovan 40th.

Nancy McCarthy, one of the favorites, fell with a half mile to go while running third.

"Our first five finishers are underclassmen," said Tozzi, who has a remarkable record in cross country, spring and winter track.

This was North's third Eastern Mass. cross country title, the boys having won in 1976.

Barrett and Nagle are the 15th and 16th North runners to win medals in the Eastern Mass. meet since 1975 when North entered the Suburban League.

The Raiderettes ended their regular season by sweeping the first eight places and blanking Quincy, 15-50. North (7-1 in the Suburban League) finished second to Waltham (8-0).

Lindenfelzer won the meet, followed by Corrigan, Anne Gorczyca, Mary Ellen Timmins, Eileen Crehan, Terry Jones, Bernadette Murphy and Siobhan Corrigan. Quincy's Andrea Brown was ninth and Darlene Marston 10th.

The North girls have never lost to Quincy in cross country, spring or winter track since joining the league in 1975.

In the recent state coaches' meet several Raiderettes won medals. In the 11th and 12th grade division Barrett finished third and Kennedy 16th.

In the 9th and 10th grade division Lindenfelzer was seventh and Tracy Corrigan 13th.

Saturday the North girls will compete in the Mass. Invitational Meet sponsored by Falmouth Perriere at Franklin Park. This meet replaces the former state all-class meet, which was dropped this season along with other meets.

WEEK OF: NOVEMBER 19

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Beware of a reckless streak, surfacing especially in financial undertakings. Family is supportive of your latest scheme - but now you may be having some second thoughts.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Relatives are showing their devotion in unusual - but sincere - ways. Reunion featured on the weekend.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Where you shine is in the sphere of creativity; use time alone to translate feelings and ideas into a favorite medium. Any financial disputes require prompt and complete resolution.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Casual acquaintance can help you out of a dilemma and you shouldn't be shy about recruiting his/her aid. More time and money than planned spent fulfilling family obligation.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Watch for businesspeople out to impress you; insist on the basic facts, not a fancy display. Teacher or advisor can prove surprisingly sympathetic this week.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Variety is the week's keyword; you're sometimes tired, but never bored. Monday can be a lucky day in the romance department. Former acquaintance may contact you for a favor.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Someone with whom you share your home - a roommate, a spouse or other relative - may perplex you with his/her inconsistencies. Week offers several opportunities for diversification.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Diplomacy is keyword, especially in dealings with financial advisers and educators. In romance, rely more on judgment than intuition - and hold on to your sense of humor.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Be careful not to overcommit yourself financially. Opportunity opens up for enhanced professional status and love life perks up noticeably. Hunches strong through weekend.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Partners can be a little secretive now and you shouldn't be shy about asking questions. Good week for updating your wardrobe and tackling renovation and decorating chores.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Modest financial gains accented this week. Best advisers are established plain friends. Domestic burden may land on your shoulders by end of the period.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Financial loose ends should be tied together by Wednesday - even if it means putting in some overtime. "Helpful" friend may be less than reliable. Imagination is your strong point.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Enthusiastic, intuitive, and certainly controversial. Travel is highlighted through much of the year. Use the next months to simplify your life, and you can learn a lot about the direction that's best to take.

Morrissey Law Protects Sailboat Race Committees

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey announced that Gov. Edward J. King has signed his bill that would limit the liability of sailboat race committees in their conduct of races and regattas.

Morrissey said he filed the bill as a result of a liability suit brought in New York against a yacht club race committee because of an injury that resulted to a sailor during a race.

"The legislation would allow race committees to be sued only in cases of wanton recklessness or negligence, but it affords them a great deal of protection from suit," said Morrissey.

"The new law will also allow for the active youth, and class and cruising divisions sailing races to be continued without fear of interruption from frivolous law suits."

TREATMENT PLANT SITES

The Metropolitan District Commission is conducting a site options study for wastewater treatment locations in the Boston Harbor area. The study includes evaluation of siting alternatives at Nut Island, Long Island, and Deer Island. The third public meeting will be held at 8:00 p.m. on November 16th in the auditorium at the Winthrop Jr. High School on Pauline Street and again on November 19th in the conference room at Quincy Hall. The objective will be to discuss revised site layouts and preliminary costs. For further information, please contact Jean Haggerty (727-8880), Director of Project Planning and Management at the MDC.

Board Approves New Manager For Quincy Bay Inn

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
 The Quincy License Board approved on a 3 to 1 vote Tuesday a change of manager and transfer of stock of the lounge and restaurant portion of Quincy Bay Inn, North Quincy.

The inn's temporary 2 a.m. closing was also extended to the end of the year.

Voting in favor of the change of manager and stock transfer were City Clerk John M. Gillis, Fire Chief Edward Barry and Building Inspector Allan MacDonald.

Police Chief Francis Finn was opposed.

Barry was the dissenting vote in the 3 to 1 approval of the 2 a.m. closing extension.

Atty. Richard Barry told the board that manager Richard J. Vita, who is a lawyer but was not present at the meeting, wants to go back to servicing his law clients.

Purchasing Vita's stock in Quincy Motel Corp. is Thomas W. West, 37, of Centerville who has experience in real estate and insurance.

Since West will only be there about two days a week, he will appoint Colarusso as manager, according to Barry.

Colarusso, a substitute teacher in Holbrook for two years, was employed as a doorman at Quincy Bay Inn from February to May, 1981, and was then appointed assistant manager.

Attorney Barry told the board that Colarusso has effectively solved traffic problems on Denmore and Newbury Sts., and that the neighbors are satisfied.

Police Det. Robert Miller told the board that Colarusso has been cooperative and business-like,

"but experience-wise, I don't know."

"This is not a rinky dink cafe," said Finn, "the parking problems have been tremendous, and outside problems have been tremendous."

"Chief Barry agreed that Colarusso and West 'seem very inexperienced'."

West said that he has been in business for a long time and has done a lot of things. He told the board if the operation doesn't run properly, he will get advice to correct the problems.

"You'll be running a privileged business that has an impact on the community more than your other businesses," pointed out Finn.

"Quincy Bay Inn has been one great big pain in the neck to us."

Gillis told fellow board members, "the business is already there. He (West) is investing his money."

"If it doesn't make it, he'll lose."

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKegh, called away from the meeting before a vote was taken, said, "we granted a license to one person (Vita) who was supposed to be there eight hours a day."

"He's not there at all. And you want to transfer management to someone who's not going to be there at all, and who is going to make manager someone with little experience."

"That's a beautiful step up."

Chief Barry conceded that the two men's inexperience could be "a millstone around the board's neck."

"It scares the hell out of me," said Finn. "I think we made a mistake today."

MacDonald made the motion to grant the change of manager and stock transfer saying, "if they want to take the chance, then it's their business. Private enterprise."

Gillis suggested the board extend the inn's temporary closing hour "until we find out where we're going with 2 a.m. closings" referring to a proposal at that last week's meeting that all city bars shut down at 1 a.m.

The proposal was referred to City Solicitor Robert J. Fleming for a legal opinion. Gillis said he expects a decision on the matter very soon.

Councillor Joanne Condon had informed the board by letter that she opposed a permanent 2 a.m. closing for the inn.

That Man's Coming To Town Again--Page 2

Santa Claus To 'Drop In' By Parachute Saturday

Santa Claus will arrive by parachute Saturday, Nov. 28, at 11:30 a.m. to begin his holiday stay in Quincy.

The Old Gentleman will descend by parachute from a helicopter at Faxon Field behind the Vo-Tech School and will be joined by his elves.

After distributing candy canes to youngsters, he will be transported by fire truck to Remick's of Quincy, where he will be on hand to greet children until Christmas.

Santa's appearance is sponsored by the Christmas Festival Committee of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

'Christmas Island' To Honor George Fay

The island in Hancock St. near United First Parish Church will be dedicated as "Christmas Island" Sunday, Nov. 29, at 11 a.m. in honor of the late George C. Fay, longtime general chairman of the Christmas Festival Committee.

The dedication will include a rendition of Mr. Fay's favorite Christmas song, "We Wish You A Merry Christmas" by the Klassy Klowns Band.

Speakers will be Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, Mayor-elect Francis X. McCauley, City Council President Leo J. Kelly, QCBPA President Bernie Reisberg and General Chairman George F. White.

The Fay family will be introduced and a plaque in memory of George C. Fay will be unveiled.

'Toys For Tots' To Be Collected

The Toys For Tots program conducted by the U.S. Marine Corps has received the "heartiest and enthusiastic" endorsement of the Christmas Festival Committee.

Chairman George F. White asks all those attending the 30th annual parade Sunday, Nov. 29, to bring a toy for the under privileged.

Two Marine vehicles, one near the middle of the parade route and one near North Quincy High School, will be provided to receive donated toys.

White said Mayor Tobin and members of the City Council also have announced their 100 per cent support for the program.

Window Insulation Alternatives At Dec. 2 QCAO Workshop

A workshop on alternatives in window insulation will be presented Wednesday, Dec. 2, at 7:30 p.m.

The program, sponsored by Quincy Community Action Energy Crisis Intervention program in cooperation with the Norfolk County Extension Service, will be held at the QCAO Energy Office, St. John's School, 28 Phipps St., Quincy Center.

The workshop is designed to educate the public on types of window insulation suitable to this area.

All interested persons are invited to attend. For further information call 479-0301 or 762-2031.

Over 50 Floats, Bands, Special Units Expect 300,000 Plus For Christmas Parade Sunday

More than 300,000 people are expected to turn out to view the 30th annual Christmas Festival Parade, which starts at 12:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 29.

At least 23 bands and 23 floats plus 10 specialty units will cover the 2.8 mile parade route, which begins at Elm and School St. and moves down Hancock St. to North Quincy High School.

The parade is one of a series of holiday activities sponsored by the Christmas Festival Committee and the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association (QCBPA).

Floats, illustrating the theme, "Memories of Christmas Past", will be competing for prizes in the commercial and non-commercial categories.

Floats will be judged on the basis of adherence to the parade theme, originality, use of materials and colors and overall appearance. Sponsors of floats include:

Union Congregational Church, North Quincy K of C, Woodward School for Girls, Curtain Call Theater, Koch Club, Sen. Paul Harold, Rep. Michael W. Morrissey, The Hancock Bank, Ronald MacDonald.

Catholic Daughters of Houghs Neck, Montclair Park, Bernie's Modern Formal, Boy Scout Troop 27, St. John's CYO, Cerebral Palsy Workshop, Taleb Grotto.

Sacred Heart Youth Organization, Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, The Patriot Ledger, The Viking Club, Weymouth Theater Association, Braintree Girl Scouts, Toys for Tots.

Floats will be judged by Thomas Folan of the Milton Art Association, Harold Hawkes of the Braintree Art Association, June Osgood of the Weymouth Art Association, and Ann Mundy, program director of Quincy Cablesystems.

The high school bands in the parade will be competing for the state and New England championships with the winner accorded an opportunity to perform in the 1983 Cotton Bowl parade in Dallas, Texas.

They will appear in this order: 1. Silver Lake Regional, 2. Quincy, 3. East Bridgewater, 4. Norton, 5. Chicopee, 6. Gloucester, 7. Dedham, 8. North Quincy, 9. Hanover, 10. Whitman-Hanson, 11. Chicopee Comprehensive, 12. Fairhaven, 13. Somerset, 14. Holbrook, 15. Abington, 16. Hull, 17. Somerville, 18. Shepherd Hill Regional.

Milton High School, the Waltham and Canton Legion Post, the 215th Army Band, and the "Klassy Klowns" will also field musical marching units.

Specialty units in the parade include Binky's Party, Hi Wheelers, Hallamore, Boston Motorcycle Drill Team, Norfolk Vulture of the American Legion, Antique Cars, Scituate Safety Car, North Weymouth K of C Post Contest Winners, and Foo-foo the Clown and Monkey Machines.

The awards event will take place immediately after the parade in the cafeteria of North Quincy High School with brief talks by Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, Bernie Reisberg, president of the QCBPA, and George F. White, general chairman of the festival committee.

White will make a presentation to Mayor Tobin; Richard J. Koch will make awards to the winners of the fourth annual poster contest; and David Keefe of the committee will present float awards and gifts to float judges.

Band winners will be announced by Bill Morrill of the committee.

In case of inclement weather, the parade will be held on Sunday, Dec. 6. Any postponement will be announced over WJDA and other local radio stations at 8 a.m. Sunday.

Parking Banned All Day On Hancock St. Parade Route

Parking will be prohibited from 6 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday on both sides of Hancock St. from Elm St. to Kendall St. in North Quincy because of the Christmas Festival Parade.

Motorists also are asked not to park on Quincy Ave. from School St. to Faxon Park Rd., Scammell St. from Quincy Ave. to South St., Elm St. from Hancock to Mechanic Sts., Mechanic St. from Revere Rd. to Elm St., Revere Rd. from Mechanic St. to Dennis Ryan Parkway, and Dennis Ryan Parkway from Revere Rd. to Foster St.

Police Chief Francis X. Finn said towing ordinances will be strictly enforced on both sides of those streets.

Shaw's Market and the John Hancock Parking lots will be restricted to floats and parade personnel starting at 6 a.m.

The Newport Ave. Extension can be used as a replacement for Hancock St. as a route to North Quincy, Wollaston, Montclair and Quincy Square.

Parking for parade spectators will be available at the MBTA parking area on Burgin Parkway.

the Ross Parking Garage and the Ross Parkingway.

Police also suggest additional parking at:

Adams Academy, the Vo-Tech School, Quincy Junior College, Capital Market in Wollaston, Supreme Market in Wollaston, Burger King on Granite St.

Also the MBTA lots in Wollaston and North Quincy, State Street South and Kemper Insurance off Newport Ave. Extension, Pageant Field and Collins Rest Awhile in Merry-mount Park, and Southern Artery from Furnace Brook Parkway to the Stadium.

Parade Committee

Members of the Christmas Festival Committee of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association include:

General Chairman George F. White, Carole Pisano, Bill Morrill, Bryant Carter, Dave Keefe, Fran Flynn, Gloria Noble, Bob Noble, Tom McDonald, Ginny Ballou, Mary Collins, Brendan Gallagher, Paul McIntire.

Fleming Ruling Casts Doubt On Auditor Selection

By TOM HENSHAW

It appears that the City Council may not get to appoint a new auditor after all.

The mayor may get to do it.

City Solicitor Robert Fleming has ventured the opinion that the city has been doing it wrong for the past 50 or 60 years by insisting that the auditor be named by the City Council.

The Council's Committee to Select an Auditor, which has been going through the selection process since last spring when Auditor Charles L. Shea resigned, was scheduled to take the matter up Monday night.

Mayor-elect Francis X. McCauley said the problem came up recently when he received in the mail a copy of an opinion handed down by former City Solicitor Thomas Williams in 1977.

Williams made his ruling that the mayor is empowered to appoint the auditor during the administration of former Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, who was feuding with then-Auditor Shea.

The decision came down on the eve of Mayor Arthur H. Tobin's inauguration and it was ignored.

McCauley said he took his copy of Williams' ruling to Fleming who said that he agreed with it.

Fleming was not available for comment.

Mayor Tobin said that as far as he is concerned William Grindlay will remain as acting auditor, the post to which he was named temporarily after Shea resigned.

"It has no bearing on what I do," said Tobin. "I'll just stay out of it."

According to Tobin, if it were decided that the mayor has the right to appoint an auditor, the appointment would be good only until Feb. 1 when the terms of other department heads expire.

Council President Leo J. Kelly, who chairs the special committee that has been working on the selection of a new auditor, expressed some concern over the possibility of the Council losing the appointment.

"It would leave us almost naked when we vote for an appropriation," he said, noting that the auditor is always on hand with advice and information for the councilors.

"An auditor appointed by the Council is part of the important system of checks and balances in government," said Kelly. "The thing out to be straightened out quickly no matter who is mayor."

From Williams' ruling made in 1977, it appears that the Council appointment of an auditor was challenged once before by Mayor Thomas J. McGrath in 1930.

The court ruled that McGrath was correct but a special act of the legislature in 1933 took the appointment power from the mayor and gave it back to the Council.

But the coming of the Plan E form of government in 1950 apparently invalidated the legislation and it was not restored when the new Plan A charter was installed in 1958.

If the Williams-Fleming opinion is correct, it would appear that the

McCauley Learns Mayoring At Harvard

Call Mayor-elect Francis X. McCauley a Harvard man.

McCauley, who takes office Jan. 4, spent last Thursday through Monday at Harvard's John F. Kennedy School of Government with 26 other newly elected mayors from as far away as Anchorage, Alaska, and Hialeah, Fla.

"It was well worth the trip," said McCauley. "I picked up some useful information, particularly on time management and the transition period, how to recruit and screen prospective appointments."

The tab for the five days living and travel expenses was picked up by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Sears Roebuck Co. and the Kennedy School.

Mayor-elect Tony Knowles of Anchorage came the farthest (3,500 miles) and McCauley the shortest distance ("It took me 20 minutes to get there").

Seminar sessions were held at Harvard, Boston City Hall, and the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston and visits were made to Quincy Market and the Boston Globe.

Schools Take It On Chin, Says Creedon

The Quincy Public schools have taken more than their share of the budget cutting mandate Proposition 2½, says Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

In citing a 45-page budget analysis Creedon at last week's School Committee meeting emphasized the claim that the schools actually suffered the only budget cuts.

Creedon produced figures showing the school budget was cut by 67 percent of $6.5 million, while the city budget was cut by 33 percent or $3.3 million. And the bulk of that cut was padded by $3.7 million in additional state aid, of which the School Department received about $200,000 or five percent, he said.

"That is a wash," Creedon said. "The only place where a cut stands across the boards is the Quincy Public school system. I suggest we have done our job for 1981-82."

Creedon suggested the committee request $1.6 million in extra state aid this year to make up the deficit.

Concerned that City Council members might not be aware of the budget discrepancy School Committee member Joan Picard suggested that a joint meeting with the council be arranged to discuss the budget analysis.

"We can go through the budget analysis, in a friendly fashion," she said, "and lay our cards on the table."

Committee Member Frank Anselmo, who initiated the idea of a joint meeting was optimistic that the new administration would be interested in working together with the school committee.

"It behooves us to work together," he said, "without money to do the job we can't deliver what we are supposed to be doing for the kids."

Despite the enthusiasm and optimism about a joint meeting, Mayor-elect Francis X. McCauley, who attended the School Committee meeting, cautioned the committee as to the ramifications of a $1.6 million additional allocation to the school department.

"To give that money back it would have to be appropriated from city or raised from the revenue of 1981-82," he said. "If you charge it to the revenue you go way over the (limits) of Proposition 2½."

McCauley stressed to the committee that he would not, as promised in his campaign, inflate revenues to "balance a budget on paper."

He also added that, after a discussion with the city auditor, he learned of a $300,000 leeway in the budget. But he said he would be reluctant to appropriate those funds since the tax rate has yet to be set.

Even if the money was appropriated it would "just come from somebody else," McCauley said.

Committee members agreed unanimously to meet with city council members to discuss the budget. The date of that meeting, though, has not been set.

Looks Like Sullivan To Return

School Committeeman John Sullivan, a loser in November, looks like a winner come January.

Sullivan lost his bid for reelection to a third term in the city election when he was upset by political newcomer Nicholas Verenis who was laid off as a social studies teacher at North Quincy High School in June.

But the election of School Committeewoman Patricia Toland to a City Council at-large seat, opens the door for Sullivan's return to the school board.

The City Council and School Committee will meet in joint session in January to elect Toland's successor.

Sullivan is the sentimental favorite and reportedly already has enough votes to seat him.

In fact, election night he had — without the asking — the pledged votes of School Committeewomen Mary Collins and Toland. Both believe the job should go to someone who ran for the office.

And, Mayor-elect Francis McCauley says he will cast his vote for Sullivan. McCauley, of course, becomes the chairman of the School Committee by virtue of his office as mayor.

Sullivan should also be able to count on the vote of Frank Anselmo who was in the same position as Sullivan four years ago.

In 1977, Anselmo was defeated for reelection but returned to the school committee to fill the unexpired term of McCauley who was elected to the City Council at-large.

It looks like a little history repeating itself.

NOW THAT HE has slammed the door on the controversial East-West connector, Mayor-elect McCauley says one of his immediate top priorities when he takes office in January will be to find an occupant for the vacant Sears Roebuck store. He notes that while the connector was a possibility no one wanted to occupy the store because part of the building might have been razed.

JOHN LYDON quickly locked up the City Council presidency before anyone could even speculate as to who would win the honor. Only thing left to guess about now is who he will name to chair the major committees. Insiders think one of the most powerful committees — Finance — will go to Ward 5's Steve McGrath.

GREGORY BROOKS who finished seventh and out of the money in the City Council at-large preliminary election isn't throwing in the towel. Says he's planning on running again and hints it may be in the state arena next year. And whether he runs next year or not, he'll take another crack at the City Council two years from now.

WJDA'S HERB FONTAINE and wife, Barbara, are proud grandparents again — this time a grandson. Happy parents are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fine of Stoughton. Michael Eric was born Nov. 17 at Goddard Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Fine is the former Janice Shuman. The Fines have a daughter, Lynn.

Congratulations to Mayor Arthur Tobin for his proclaiming November honorary P.O.W. and M.I.A. month. I feel this is the first step in recognizing the many men and women who fought for our country in the Vietnam era.

The many veterans who returned to this country after the war were subjected to ridicule, and scorned by a large part of the United States for only being patriotic. Although history has yet to prove if the war was right or wrong, it's not the fault of these men and women, they only did what this country asked of them.

It's about time a community realizes this fact, and why shouldn't it be Quincy. These people should be honored for what they endured both physically and emotionally. Lets stop humiliating and start honoring.

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. William J. Deegan Jr. was Quincy's first city manager in its brief experiment with Plan E government. Name his two successors as city manager.
2. What well-known landmark is at 114 Whitwell St.?
3. Quincy and North Quincy High Schools first met on the football field in: 1898? 1925? 1933?
4. In what section of the city is Abbey Rd.?
5. True or false: City Councillor and Mayor-elect Francis X. McCauley is the only Republican who holds elective office in Quincy.

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. The administration of Mayor Francis X. McCauley will take over the reins of Quincy government on Jan. 4.
2. The commander of the Quincy Veterans Council is Roger Whitcomb.
3. The Islamic Center of New England is located at 470 South St., Quincy Point.
4. True. The first parking meters were installed in Quincy in 1949.
5. Governor's Rd. is in the West Quincy section of the city.

A Controversial Question: Which Of 6 Plans Best For Reorganizing Schools?

By KATHY DOLBEC

Aware of continued declines in student enrollment school officials have six possible plans for reorganizing the school system to ponder.

In detailing the plans, which ranged from leaving the organization as is, to closing six schools, Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon last week told the School Committee he was not ready to make a recommendation on the plan.

Creedon, however, admitted that by the time the enrollment figures "bottom out" the needs of the system could be met with five fewer schools.

Under the first plan, the system would remain the same and no savings would be realized.

Plan two, would see all junior high schools close and elementary schools would include kindergarten through grade eight. High schools would be grades nine through 12 and a savings of $457,800. This plan according to Creedon, would characterize the neighborhood school concept and maintain a four year high school, preferred by the school committee in earlier discussions.

This plan, though, was one of the least flexible as it leaves little room for possible increased enrollments at a future date, he said.

Plan three, would require redistricting of the entire school system resulting in a savings of $397,400 with the closing of six elementary schools including: Mass. Fields, Merrymount, Montclair, Parker, Pollard, and Snug Harbor. This plan would also require the reorganization of all kindergarten through eighth grade students into the eleven remaining elementary schools. Simultaneously ninth graders would be assigned to the high schools.

This plan, though, would mean the demise of neighborhood schools and would require extensive renovations to the schools involved.

Plan four would see all ninth grades assigned to the high school and cause the Pollard school and Central Junior High school to close for a savings of $186,900. And although the plan has generated some community support, Creedon said, it was not the most cost effective plan and could cause community unrest with the closing of Central.

Plan five proposes a 4-4-4 grade reorganization and features the middle school. This plan, has been favored by parent groups in the past and was presented to the committee last year by Creedon. Under the plan five schools would close: Atherton Hough, Mass. Fields, Pollard, Willard, and Wollaston, for a savings potential of $292,450.

The plan, though supported by building principals and successful in many communities is contrary to the neighborhood school concept and could cause certification problems for teachers, Creedon said. More redistricting and additional busing would also be required, Creedon said.

Plan six, also a middle school proposal would involve the closing of five different schools. For a savings of $340,850, Montclair, Pollard and Snug Harbor would close and Mass. Fields would remain open as would the others mentioned in plan five. But the plan calls for the closing of some of the newer schools and eliminates all schools in Quincy, therefore it requires extensive busing.

Creedon was reluctant to recommend any plan and he urged the committee to consider the options solely on their educational merits.

"We won't need to reorganize for fiscal problems if equity prevails," Creedon said. "Take action on the educational merits of these plans."

Committee members agreed to set aside an hour at their Dec. 2 meeting to discuss the reorganization plan with interested parents.

Pay Increases For Teachers

The School Committee listened to a preliminary report from its salary steering committee and voted to place an additional $14,000 in the 1945 budget to provide pay increase for most teachers.

It was estimated that the new salary schedule, which would do away with the $300 differential between men and women, would in eight to 12 years cost the city $290,000, or about $2.20 on the tax rate.

Teachers with four years preparation would start at $1,600 a year and reach $2,800 in 13 years. Those with six years preparation would start at $1,800 and reach $3,400 at the start of the 17th year.

Dr. William L. Connor, one of the three consultants who received $2,000 for helping out with the survey, told the School Committee that Quincy was one of the lowest paying cities in the East.

NEW CITY HALL

The City Council's Veterans Memorial Committee voted to ask Mayor Charles A. Ross and City Engineer Gerhard F. Schafer to ascertain the current and future space needs of the city departments.

It also voted to ask city Auditor Leo E. Mullin if the city was in a financial position to build a new City Hall to be dedicated to those who fought in World War II and past wars.

"In making an estimate of the future needs of a Quincy City Hall," said Ross, "I think we should look forward 50 to 100 years. This old City Hall, incidentally, has served us for a complete century."

NEW SQUANTUM ROAD

The Service Committee of the Squantum Women's Club decided to give priority to a second access road to Squantum after the East Squantum St. causeway was closed for several hours by an extraordinary high tide.

Mrs. Hubert A. Fraser, a leader of Squantum clubwomen, said she will place the item on the agenda, replacing a discussion of a waiting in North Quincy for Squantum street car passengers.

SKATING AT HOUGHS NECK

Stanley Cahoon, New England's foremost skating tempo organizer, was playing every night except Tuesday at the Quincy Gardens Roller Skating Rink at Houghs Neck.

KILLED IN ACTION

John J. Balzano, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ciro Balzano of 70 Arnold St., Quincy Point, was killed in action in the Normandy section of France after having been wounded twice in previous fighting.

NQHS Prom:

Boston O.K. For Seniors But Not For Juniors

By KATHY DOLBEK

North Quincy high school seniors will be spending their prom night in Boston, but the junior class will not.

On a 5-1 vote with committee member John Sullivan the only one in favor, the School Committee last week denied a request by the North Quincy junior class to hold their prom at the Park Plaza Hotel. Later in the meeting, though, committee members unanimously agreed that "the senior year is the year to go" into Boston and agreed to allow the senior class to hold their prom at the Park Plaza.

The junior class prom issue set off a flurry of controversy when it was first discussed at a meeting one month ago. At the time committee members argued that the hotel's location, near the combat zone, would jeopardize the student's safety.

Committee member Joan Picard, who opposed the request from the start, told her colleagues she had spoken to many parents opposed to the location.

"I have complete faith in the students," she said, "just no faith in the city of Boston."

Picard, though, was in favor of endorsing a prom held in one of the South Shore communities, including Quincy.

Committee member Sullivan, failed to support the denial, he said, because of the difficulty in changing the date and finding a new hall to accommodate the 450 students at such a late date.

He did, however, express his ideas on the proposed location.

"It is worse than the Combat Zone," said Sullivan, "it is the center of the gay area in Boston."

Committee member Mary Collins suggested that a list of available halls on the South Shore be compiled and approved by the school committee.

Then in the future students can choose their prom location from the list, thus curtailing the discussion of the issue by the committee, she said.

Amanda Mujica, junior class president, said she was confident another location, on the South Shore, could be found for the originally proposed June fourth date.

A Birthday Surprise

Nils Lundin Receives Swedish King's Medal

Musician and accordianist Nils Lundin was recently presented the King's Medal of Sweden at a surprise party at Masonic Temple, Quincy. The presentation was made by Wendell Gustafson, Swedish Consul in Boston, who represented King Carl XVI Gustaf of Sweden.

The medal, struck in 1976 when the King visited the U.S. to celebrate the American Bicentennial, is presented only to those who have performed outstanding service to perpetuate Swedish American ties and traditions.

Some 400 friends and relatives were on hand for the event which also celebrated Lundin's 60th birthday.

Lundin came to the event expecting to play his accordian for another party. Instead, he was met at the door by well-wishers singing "Happy Birthday" and "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow".

Karin Erlandson and Norma Beldon organized the event. Arthur Erikson was emcee.

Numerous telegrams and letters were read from Lundin's friends in Sweden and Finland. Gifts ranging from Swedish flags to money and a poem written by Maggie Erikson were presented.

Born in Sweden in 1921, Lundin emigrated to America with his family which included six brothers and one sister.

Interested in music at an early age, he joined with his brothers Carl, Eric, Lars and others to form an orchestra which, over the years, has entertained at many dance halls and for charitable organizations.

Lundin has been instrumental in having other Scandinavian musical groups visit the U.S.

Nils and Carl Lundin, and six other members of their orchestra, were heard on the Viking Radio Program hosted by Edward Myrbeck, Sr., on radio station WJDA in the early 1950's.

During Lundin's party, Scandinavian and American dance music was provided by 17 volunteer musicians. Lundin played the accordian accompaniment for Birgitta Akerblom and Carl Nelson.

Lisa Grahm, owner of Grahm's Bakery in Quincy, was on hand to cut her specially designed three tiered birthday cake.

Committee members poured coffee and distributed refreshments which had been donated.

Lundin stepped up to the microphone and thanked those on hand for the party.

"Do I have to pay for the band?" quipped Lundin who recently recorded a new album.

Committee members also included Elsa, Nicole and Andrea Linville, Birgitta,

NILS LUNDIN

Mona and Eva Akerblom, Jennie Christensen, Ethel Boudreau, Doris Prendiville, Greta Carlson, Nancy, Ruth and Carl Widman, Joanne and Howie Morse, Ralph Erlandson and Bob Beldon.

Volunteer musicians were Fred Anderson, Bob Bjell, Frank DiMare, Al Boyer, Dave Driscoll, Carl Jackson, Inez Fogelstrom, Warren Johnson, Carl Lundin, Ken McCraie, Bob Olson, George Palmer, John Sullivan, Larry Sharpe, Irving Walerin, Billy Walker and Duke Yoka.

I lost 39 pounds and 27 inches...

I tried exercising at home but I had stopped after 2 days. At Joy Health Spa, they gave me the incentive to stick to it.

My friends say ooh, la, la as we say in French.

I went from a size 14 to size 5. I can't believe it. I finally did it.

Be Thankful in Church-This Thanksgiving

At Point Congregational Pilgrim Costumes For Ecumenical Thanksgiving Service

Protestants and Catholics will appear together in Pilgrim costume for an Ecumenical service of Thanksgiving, Wednesday, 8 p.m. at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St.

St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church and Quincy Point Congregational for several years have celebrated Thanksgiving together with services alternating between the two sanctuaries.

This year, the New England heritage, which is also the Congregational heritage, will be highlighted.

Participants will appear in garb of the Pilgrims rented from Plymouth Plantation.

Worshippers will be summoned from the Social Hall by a drummer, as was the custom, and process into the Sanctuary.

Hymns will be "lined out" in the method used when hymnals were not available.

Rev. Winston E. Clark, host minister, will offer the welcome and prayers.

Other participants from the Congregational Church will be Deacon Christine Mendez, who will read the earliest account of the first Thanksgiving; Deacon Robert Gohl, with thanksgiving thoughts concerning our New England forebears; and Elizabeth Clark, a Mayflower descendant, will tell One Pilgrim's Story. Deacon John Bissett will describe the difficult winter of the early Pilgrims, and oversee the distribution of a special remembrance of that day to every worshipper present.

Student Assistant Donald Remick will lead the singing assisted by Susan Remick. Drummer will be Robert Moline, and the Chancel Choir will sing.

From St. Joseph's, Rev. Joseph Downey will preach the sermon. Rev. Joseph Raekle will offer the Litany, and Deacon the Rev. Mr. John Jeanette will read the Scripture.

The service is open to all interested people. Worshippers are invited to come in costume, if not of the Pilgrims, then of any day gone by.

Refreshments will be served in the Social Hall following the service.

Thanksgiving Service At Christian Scientist Church

A Thanksgiving Day worship service will be held Thursday at 10 a.m. at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 20 Greenleaf St., Quincy Center.

The service will open with the apostle Paul's admonition: "Whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him."

There will be readings and presentation of the President's and/or Governor's Thanksgiving Proclamation.

The hour long public service will include a time for silent prayer and a sharing of the Lord's Prayer, hymns, and spontaneous expressions of gratitude for blessings experienced through Christian Science study and healing.

Child care will be provided during the service.

'Would You Believe' Sunday At Faith Lutheran

A group of young adult singers from Newport, R.I., will present "Would You Believe" at the 9 a.m. worship service Sunday at Faith Lutheran Church, 201 Granite St.

The group of 10 college age Christians is dedicated to spreading the Good News of Jesus through music whenever and wherever the occasion arises.

Members of the group are Suzi Anderson, Linda Coffin, Melanie Colvin, Gayle Moorehead, Erica Peterson, Barbara Ratray, Mark Amaral, Dale Hughes, Steve Lyons and Jeff Pimental.

Walter Keith Jr. of Newport, R.I., is director of the group. The evangelism committee is sponsoring the group.

At 1:30 p.m., church members and friends will leave from Faith Lutheran Center, 65 Roberts St., South Quincy, for the annual Thanksgiving visit to the Fair Havens Rest Home, Middleboro.

Advent Services At H.N. Congregational

Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave., will hold Advent services Tuesday, Dec. 1, 8 and 15, at 7:30 p.m.

Worship leaders for the first service will be Harold and Dorothy Sparks.

There will be a special offering to aid the Protestant Social Service Bureau.

Following the service, everyone is invited to Fellowship Hall to make small gifts for patients at Long Island Hospital. The project is sponsored by the Social Action Committee.

In the past, the evening has given participants a feeling of Christmas spirit by helping others.

Refreshments will be provided by the Mothers and Others Club.

Dec. 8, worship leaders are members of Pilgrim Fellowship.

There will be a special offering to aid retired ministers of United Church of Christ, and a Christmas concert by the Quincy High School Choir.

Refreshments will be provided by Pilgrim Fellowship.

Dec. 15 worship leaders are Dr. Carol Lee Griffin and Margaret McDonald.

There will be a special offering to assist Pilgrim Congregational Church, Dorchester, provide Christmas meals and emergency food supplies throughout the year to people in need.

There will be a Christmas music program by the church choir directed by Arden Schofield.

Refreshments will be provided by the membership and hospitality committee.

Greeters for the three services will be members of the membership and hospitality committee.

There will be a Christmas Eve Candlelight Service Thursday, Dec. 24, at 11 p.m. led by ministers Rev. Dr. Peter V. Corea and Rev. M. Alicia Corea.

'Women In Ministry' Panel At ENC Dec. 1

The Evangelical Women's Caucus will sponsor a panel on "Women in Ministry" Tuesday, Dec. 1, at 7:30 p.m. in Peavey Lecture Hall, Angell Hall, Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston.

Women from fields such as school chaplaincy, academia, business, ordained ministry, administration and medicine will tell of their roles.

Several also combine their roles with those of homemaker and mother.

What a difference a year makes!

In the past 12 months, the earth made a complete revolution around the sun. Big deal.

In that same time period, new revolutions in the Massachusetts legislature have taken place: Mandatory sentencing; the Bottle Bill; and Proposition 2½.

Now that's a big deal! And each year Bob Cerasoli, your legislator, works to make these turns for the better ... for you ...

Representative Cerasoli invites you to "turn in" suggestions or ideas for this year's legislation. File a bill that may be Revolutionary!

The deadline for filing bills is December 2, 1981.

Send in all concepts and ideas you may have by December 2 to: Representative Robert A. Cerasoli, Room 251A, State House, Boston, MA 02133. Or call: 722 2040.

We will inform you on how your idea can be approached through other means or refine your idea to file as legislation in the next legislative session.

QJC To Present 'College Showcase'

"College Showcase" is the theme of Quincy Junior College's Open House, Tuesday, Dec. 8, 1 to 8:30 p.m., in the Method Center, Quincy High School.

Demonstrations from each college program will take place at two different times during the day.

Tables with information, brochures, and displays will be staffed by faculty members from each program including: culinary arts, hotel-restaurant management, business, office education, computer science, electronics, early childhood education, criminal justice, A.D. nursing, practical nursing, liberal arts, surgical technology, dental assisting and dental laboratory technology.

A special event sponsored by the Humanities Club will be a medieval booth. Students, in medieval costume, will play period music and serve food of the medieval period.

Career counselors, financial aid assistants, and admissions representatives will also be available during the entire event.

The public is welcome.

The program is an opportunity for anyone interested in career programs and Quincy Junior College to see programs in action, meet with faculty, and ask questions.

Visit the junior college or call "86-8777" for an open house brochure listing the demonstration times.

DEADLY PARLOR GAMES

Unbelievable as it may seem, many adolescents, and regrettably, even grown men, play games of death with guns. The most foolish is Russian Roulette, in which a person inserts one bullet into a revolver, twirls the chamber, places the muzzle against his temple, and pulls the trigger - gambling that he won't be shot. All too often, he is. About 70 persons a year senselessly die from this incredible stunt.

Another man shot down his young son who toddled into range. Their one common mistake was using live ammunition. Fast draw pros use nothing but blanks.

This information has been brought to you as a public service by NABORHOOD PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy.

Another deadly parlor game is the fast draw. A California teenager shot himself in the thigh when jerking a gun from his holster. A Chicago man, trying to outdraw a cowboy on television, whipped out his six-shooter and blasted his wife in the stomach.

26th Year For Koch Club Christmas Charities

The Koch Club of Quincy is planning its 26th year of Christmas charitable activities.

The club will again provide assistance to needy families, individuals and organizations in Quincy, the South Shore and Greater Boston area.

A Christmas Basket program has been conducted by the Koch Club for the past quarter of a century with hundreds of Quincy families and individuals assisted during the holiday season.

Food baskets are distributed through a number of local charitable agencies and community organizations.

Members and friends of the Koch Club wishing to assist in the endeavor by donating canned goods or non-perishable items are requested to leave them with the director of the four Koch Club districts, or officers in the recreational units.

Thomas F. Nestor is treasurer of the Christmas charitable projects.

Those interested in donating toward the purchase of turkeys for food baskets, which include fresh fruits and vegetables and canned goods, may contact Nestor at 69 Welland Road, Weymouth, or Richard J. Koch, executive director, at 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

Checks should be made payable to Koch Club Christmas Charity.

Canned goods have also been provided by the Koch Club to charities conducting food kitchens that provide free meals for persons who are unable to purchase them, and agencies and halfway houses serving those away from home.

Various agencies and individuals have been of great assistance in allowing the Koch Club to help so many. Students from Broad Meadows Junior High School for the past several years have collected 5,000 items of canned goods to aid the project.

The George F. Bryan VFW Auxiliary is participating this season, with Mrs. Rita Kelliher representing the group, in the collection of food and gifts for distribution to the needy.

The Granite City Grange, with Mrs. Sadie Wesley liaison, will again contribute food and gifts and has provided monetary donations for the purchase of turkeys.

Koch states that the Koch Club is the coordinating agency, but, many persons and groups make the project a reality.

St. Ann School Holds Curriculum Night

St. Ann's School, Wollaston, recently opened its doors to parents of students for curriculum night.

Sister Georgianna, principal, opened the evening's activities by reacquainting parents with the school's philosophy.

"Saint Ann School derives its status as a place where Christians are formed and educated from the guidelines given by the American Catholic Bishops in their pastoral message, To Teach As Jesus Did.

It is the teacher's role to provide instruction which is contemporary in presentation while being authentic in doctrine to meet the needs of the child in this changing world."

Sister Georgianna emphasized the importance of parents' participation in the educational process. She said it is through the interaction of faculty, children and parents in a warm, cooperative atmosphere distinguished by mutual respect that the goals of Catholic Education can be attained at Saint Ann's.

Mark Mulken, language arts and social studies teacher, was introduced to the parents.

Parents of Mrs. Norton's second graders wrote notes to their children and left them in the pupils' desks to surprise the youngsters when they arrived at school in the morning.

Following visits to classrooms, an informal Kaffee Klatch was hosted by Mrs. Mary Hagerty, Mrs. Alice Phillips, and Mrs. Pauline Bubencik.

Parents had homebaked "goodies" supplied by first grade parents.

Susan Murray QHS Homecoming Queen

Susan Murray, a pretty 17 year old senior who is vice president of her senior class, will reign as Quincy High School's homecoming queen at the annual Thanksgiving Day football game Thursday.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Waywood of 84 Albartross Rd., she considers it an honor to have been chosen from among 22 of her classmates.

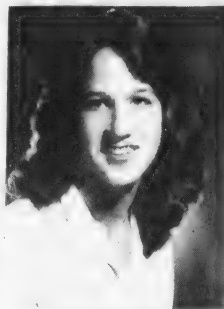

Announcement of the homecoming queen was made at a dance last Friday at Quincy Vocational Technical School. First runner-up was Susan Goguen, and second runner-up, Carla Casey.

Also chosen were Mike Shaughnessy, Mr. Offense; Mike Connors, Mr. Defense; and Steve Goguen, Mr. Touchdown.

Nominations for homecoming queen were made from each home room at the high school.

A member of the yearbook staff, Miss Murray is also a cheerleader and chairperson for the senior prom. She's a member of the gymnastics and track teams, and is also an honor student.

Outside of school, she is a member of the spiritual development group of Our Lady of Counsel Church.

A part time employee of Baskin Robbins, Quincy Center, she plans to go to college after graduation and possibly study business.

Regis College is among the colleges she's interested in. But for now, she's just excited about being homecoming queen.

Apartment Buildings Wired For Cable TV

Quincy Cablesystems Corp. is scheduling multi-unit apartment buildings to be pre-wired for cable television capability at no charge to the owners.

Installation crews from Coastline Communications Co. and C and S Communications Co. will begin the pre-wiring process after approval is received from building representatives.

Susan Crudginton, marketing coordinator for Cablesystems, said the company will assume full maintenance responsibility for the hookups, again at no charge.

Pre-wiring prepares a building for cable TV reception and marketing personnel will contact residents early in 1982 to explain service options and costs involved.

Beechwood Center Offering Intro Exercise Program

A physical fitness "Special" three-week introductory exercise program will be offered at the Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenn St., beginning Nov. 30.

The class, an opportunity to get in shape before the holidays, will be taught by Barbara Pettine, a graduate of physical education school who has much teaching experience.

She will also instruct the Senior Fitness Class.

Miss Pettine's qualifications also include First Aid and Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR), Certified Student Athletic Trainer, and Certified Physical Fitness Specialist.

The class will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 10 to 11 a.m.

Harrelson Going To White Sox Montclair Dinner Is Farewell To Hawk

By TOM HENSHAW

It was to have been a simple awards ceremony but it turned out to be a going away party for an old friend.

"I'm going to Chicago on Tuesday morning," Ken (The Hawk) Harrelson, the colorful Red Sox TV color man told the Montclair Men's Club Saturday night. "and this is the first time I've said anything to anybody about it."

"It's money. There's no question about that. You can have a situation as much as you want to but that's the first thing that comes into play, always money."

"I have turned down the offer from the White Sox twice previous to this. It was a lot more than I was making here. Finally it got to where you just can't turn it down."

"I'm very happy to be going out there. It's a great city. But there's one thing that I will be missing and that is New England because it is part of my family."

How much money did it take to lure Harrelson from Boston to Chicago?

"George," he said, turning to George Sullivan, the new Red Sox public relations man at the head table in the Montclair Men's Clubhouse, "outside of Rice and Eckersley, you ain't gonna have nobody on your ball club making that much money."

That would place Harrelson's stipend in Chicago at between $500,000 and $600,000.

After the dinner, Harrelson told a group of clubmembers that the person best qualified to take over his job as Red Sox TV colorman was Mike Andrews, former Sox second baseman now an occasional Boston radio broadcaster.

Harrelson and his alter ego, the Hawk, were in Montclair to receive the John B. Gillooly Award, given annually to someone who has contributed greatly to the Boston sports scene.

Bobby Orr, recipient of the award last year, made a return visit but insisted on sitting in the audience rather than at the head table.

Harrelson called Carl Yastrzemski "the greatest baseball player I have seen in my lifetime," but, he added, "the greatest athlete I have ever seen was Bobby Orr."

"The greatest thrills I've had in my life were in right field and at home plate in Fenway Park," said Harrelson, who played for the Red Sox in 1967 through 1969, when he was traded to Cleveland.

"One of the great things about playing baseball in Fenway Park is that you step out of the dugout and there's 35,000 people there with their arms just waiting to give you some love."

"It's a unique situation for a ball player. You people are special. You have a mystique about you. You have an aversion for baseball, a greed about your ball club. That's one reason why I'm leaving."

That was an apparent reference to the fact that, on occasion, Harrelson has joined the fans in criticizing the Red Sox and the management of owner Haywood Sullivan.

"You go to Fenway Park and you get all the 35,000 fans out there and it helps you," he continued. "It gets you up for the game."

"In the couple of short years I spent here, believe me, it was not Ken Harrelson going to the plate and leading the majors in RBIs and hitting 35 home runs because I was not that good."

Sports

"I got caught up in a syndrome or a vacuum that was created by the fans. When I got traded to Cleveland, I cried. I don't think that Babe Ruth in New York enjoyed it more than I enjoyed it here in Fenway Park."

In addition to the Gillooly Award, Harrelson received a citation as an honorary citizen of Quincy from Thomas Burke, executive secretary to Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, who was home ill.

The Gillooly Award, named for the longtime sports columnist of the Boston Record American, was presented by Club President Leo Doyle. Other head table guests included:

George Sullivan, new PR man for the Red Sox; Ken Fallon of WJDA; Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun; Bob Finnigan, baseball writer of the Patriot Ledger; Eddie Germano, sports cartoonist of the Brockton Enterprise; and Tommy McCarthy, Red Sox press aide.

The dinner was organized, as in past years, by Joe Gildea.

Presidents May Have Momentum Going

QUINCY

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy's football team will end a frustrating season on the holiday, but a victory over North Quincy will make up for past frustrations.

The Presidents take a 3-6 record into The Game, but if they hadn't been snake-bitten in three games, they could be 6-3.

"We never should have lost to Cambridge (6-2), Revere (13-12) or New Bedford (14-8)," Coach Tom Fitzgerald said. "We beat ourselves in those games. Brockton, Waltham and Newton North beat us legitimately, but we never should have lost the other three."

Fitzgerald feels his team has a bit of momentum going for it Thursday after coming from behind in the last quarter to edge Brookline, 7-6, in their last game.

"It's always good to win going into the North game and that win should give us a boost," he said. "The defense really did its job at Brookline and I will have to be at its best against North."

(Joe) Dudek is one of the finest running backs I've seen. He killed us last year (three touchdowns), and he is going to be hard to stop. And North has other fine runners. They have a good offense and I know Dave (Burke) will come up with something new.

Fitzie, a former North all-scholastic, is a former North assistant and last year lost to his alma mater for the first time after Quincy had won the previous three games.

"We can't afford to fall behind like we did last year (21-0)," Fitzgerald said. "We made a tremendous comeback and I was very proud of the team, but we just fell too far behind."

QUINCY Captain John Taglieri, left, and Co-Capt. Mike Nevins are set for North Quincy. The other co-captain is Mark Pico.

Last year's game was reminiscent of Quincy's games against Cambridge, Revere and New Bedford this fall. A 72-yard bomb gave North its first TD, then Quincy fumbled on the North seven and Dean Zoia raced 93 yards for a touchdown. Later Mark Picot, back to punt, fumbled the ball. North recovered on Quincy's 17 and soon scored to make it 21-0.

Fitzgerald moved Mike Shaughnessy from end to half-back three weeks ago and the move paid off as Shaughnessy, also an outstanding defensive player, has been one of the Presidents' best running backs and pass receivers.

Shaughnessy will start at halfback with Steve Goguen at the other halfback spot; Picot at full-back and Bob Mudge at quarterback. Mudge and Sean Martin will share the quarterback duties.

Picot, Goguen and Shaughnessy have all run well and given Quincy a good running attack, while Mudge and Martin are capable passers.

In the offensive line Fitzgerald will start Bill Walsh or Kevin Riggs and Paul Quigley at end, Jamie Gravalese and Dan Mahoney or big Joe Harte at tackle, Dave Donnelly and either Bob Willard or Joe LaRaia at guard and Steve Aluisi at center.

Others sure to see action on offense are Al Carpenter, John O'Donoghue, Mark Glynn, Mark Righini, Willie Cullen, Ted Walsh, Jim Kelly, Mike Miller, Chris Draicchio, Steve Ganno and Brian Ricciardi.

On defense John Carr and Brian Callahan, who have done an outstanding job, will be at end. Gravalese and Mike Connors at tackle, Mike Nevins noseguard, John Taglieri and Riggs linebackers, Steve Spencer, Glenn Straughn and Righini linebackers and Shaughnessy safety.

Also seeing their share of action will be Mike Kelsey, Paul Martin, Glenn Oriola, Dennis Obert, Mike LeBlanc, Joe Bush, Jim Zupkofska, Bob Burns, Paul Campbell, Dan Marsters, John DeForge, Bob McIsaac, Al Cheney and Darren DeCoste. DeCoste was a starter before being injured.

Ready For Rebound

Raiders Would Like Early Bombshells

NORTH

North Quincy coach Dave Burke won't mind if his Raiders get off to the same kind of a start they did in last season's 27-20 victory over Quincy.

In that game, which saw North end a three-game losing streak to Quincy and gain its first win over Quincy Coach Tom Fitzgerald, a former Raider assistant, the Raiders caught the Presidents with two early bombshells.

A 72-yard bomb from Jack Brown to Joe Dudek was followed by a 93-yard run by Dean Zola after a Quincy fumble on the North seven. A little later North recovered a fumble on Quincy's 17 and scored to take a 21-0 lead.

"Those plays gave us a big boost but even then we had to hold on as Quincy made a great comeback," Burke said. "And they'll be just as tough this year. They have a good club despite their record. We saw them beat Brookline and we were impressed with them, especially their defense which was outstanding."

In their last game the Raiders themselves were killed by a couple of Catholic Memorial bombshells.

After North had tied the game, 7-7, Memorial scored on a 92-yard runback of the ensuing kickoff, added another TD 1:17 later on a 65-yard punt return and added another score when the ball went over the North punter's head, giving CM the ball on North's seven. Memorial scored those three touchdowns despite running just two plays from scrimmage.

"I don't have to worry about the boys coming back after that defeat, because this is Quincy and the rest of the season is forgotten when this game is played," said Burke, who is a former North all-scholastic as is Quincy's Fitzgerald.

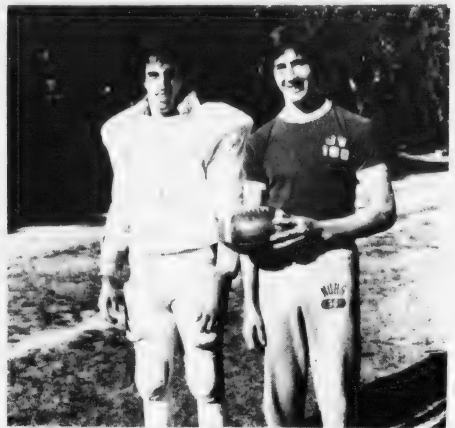

North takes a 5-4 record into the game and hopes to finish better than .500 for the second year in a row.

"Quincy has some fine runners in (Steve) Goguen, (Mark) Picot and (Mike) Shaughnessy, while their two quarterbackbacks (Bob Mudge and Sean Martin) can run as well as pass," Burke said. "And they have some big, rugged boys on defense and are going to Billy Gray, who missed the Catholic Memorial game, will be back and will start with Jim Hutchinson at end on offense, with Steve Lee and Bob Pound at tackle, Paul Ciarfella and Mike Panaro at guard and Neal Fisher at center.

Pat Burke will be at quarterback with hard-running Joe Dudek, who scored three touchdowns in last year's game, and Ray Mallory at halfback and Rich Stevens, another excellent runner, at fullback.

Also ready to see service on offense are Bill Bradley, an outstanding place kicker who has kicked a field goal and 13 extra points; Darby Flaherty, Ed Geran, Ed Leary and punter Mike Ellis.

Defensive coordinator Jack Raymer will start Jim Kelly and Fisher at end, Panaro and Gerry Connolly at tackle, Mark Miceli noseguard, Steve Howley, a standout all season, and Bradley linebackers, Rich Comeau or Mike Hutchings and Rich Brown cornerbacks, and Mike Cullen or Mallory and Burke or Dudek halfbacks.

Lee, Mike Pimental, Pound, Ellis and Pat McDonough will also see service on defense.

Whitelaw TD Gives North 6-0 Victory

Scotty Whitelaw punched over from the five-yard line late in the fourth quarter to give North Quincy a 6-0 victory over Quincy in the 12th annual renewal of their Thanksgiving Day football rivalry.

But the key play of the game came moments earlier when North's 136-pound guard Bob DesRoches brought down Quincy's Lou Marini short of a first down on fourth and inches at the Raider 20-yard-line.

The soggy weather made it a bad passing day but a pair of acrobatic receivers, Paul Clem of North and Mario (Mud) Casali of Quincy made sensational catches to set up scoring chances for both teams.

The running star of the game was the Presidents' halfback Marini, who broke away on a 53-yard run in the first period only to be caught and brought down by the Raiders' Whitelaw in the North 20.

The North Quincy lineup:
O'Connell, Keough, Clem, Riley, ends; Eastman, Martin, tackles; DesRoches, Seller, guards; Fisher, center; Whitelaw, Burke, Dunlap, Walsh, Reilly, backs.

The Quincy lineup:

NORTH WINS FINALE

Roy Shaughnessy intercepted a pass with seconds to go and raced 90 yards down the sidelines for the only touchdown as the North Junior High School football team upset favored South, 6-0.

Until that time it looked like the two teams were going to end the junior high season with a scoreless tie in spite of North's new deceptive "T" formation that had South looking for the ball time and again.

Key to the new offense was quarterback Gabby Reilly.
The North lineup: DiBona, Fisher, ends; Bell, Pontes, tackles; Moynahan, Chambers, guards; Norton, Finneran, centers; Reilly, Gilfeather, Shaughnessy, Richards, Nelson, backs.

The South lineup: Berardinello, Turner, ends; Battista, Deluse, tackles; Thomas, Cugini, guards; Ojala, McLoud, centers; Openshaw, Ceriani, Halloran, Montani, Sten, backs.

Dick Salvaggio and Lindsay Tait covered 35 yards in two plays to give Pete Zoia's Point eleven a 6-0 victory over Central in the second game of the season-ending doubleheader at the Stadium.

QUINCY CLUB HONORED

Umpire Artie Gore and Clyde Klutz, catcher of the Boston Braves, were the speakers as the Quincy Legion Post honored its junior baseball team with a testimonial banquet at the port home on Revere Rd.

Coach Billy Vargus presented maroon and gold jackets with the Legion emblem to the 15 members of the squad and a framed photograph of the team was accepted by Post Commander George H. Bonsall.

EAGLES WIN

Slum Salvati, Decka Cedrone and Lange scored three touchdowns in the last six minutes as the Quincy Eagles spotted the Leominster Lions a 12-0 lead and came back for a 25-12 victory.

RUN FOR POINT FAILS

The Quincy High School football team chose to run for the point after John Cattanaich's touchdown rather than kick into a strong wind and it failed so the President's bowed to Newton, 7-6, at Newton.

Blocked Point Paves Way Quincy Sophs Edge North, 8-6

The Quincy and North Quincy sophomore football teams were defense-minded last Saturday when Quincy came from behind, thanks to a blocked punt, to score in the third period and edge North, 8-6, at Veterans Memorial Stadium for its third straight win over its cross-town rival.

It was one of the best defensive games the two teams have played in some time. The playing field, thanks to the work of George Page and his crew, was in good condition following the heavy rains, although the ball was a bit slippery.

The young Raiders, coached by Ted Sadowski, in his 26th year at North, had taken a 6-0 lead in the opening period.

A North punt hit a Quincy player and North's Vic DiGravio fell on the ball on the young Presidents' 33. Two plays later Scott Messina, who had an outstanding day running, raced 32 yards for the touchdown. The try for two points failed.

Quincy, with quarterback Kevin Cabesas throwing two passes to Bob Coletti and Greg Keefe doing some fine ball carrying, reached North's 18, but Cabesas was sacked on fourth down as the Raiders took over.

Three successive 15-yard penalties were assessed against Quincy and North reached Quincy's 19 as the half ended.

Midway in the third period the entire left side of the Quincy line, Dan McCauley, Tom Deason Chris Connor and John Cacciatore broke through to block a North punt and the Presidents' Austin O'Malley fell on the ball on North's five.

The Raider line rose up and stopped Quincy for three downs but, on fourth down, Mike Notarangelo scored from the two and Keefe rushed for the winning points.

Two late North drives were halted by pass interceptions, the first by Cacciatore, the second by Keefe.

North received a tough break when starting quarterback Dan Ceurvels, who played a fine game, was injured and was rushed to Quincy City Hospital with a possible concussion.

"This was a good game to win and everyone played outstanding ball," said John Sullivan, Quincy's first-year coach. "The defense, in particular, was tremendous."

"Cabesas did a good job at quarterback and Keefe and Notarangelo (64 points going into the game) ran well."

"Coletti had two pass receptions, Jim Stasio had three and Chris Shaughnessy had a big one which got us out of trouble late in the game."

On defense Sullivan hailed the defensive ends, McCauley and Coletti, Tony Cascarano, Connor, Cacciatore and Gary Minassian. "The entire defense did its job," the coach said.

Sadowski, disappointed at his third straight loss to Quincy, also praised his defense, especially Kevin Kelly, Mark Wilkins, John DeLappe and Jim Kennedy.

He also praised the work of Ceurvels at quarterback and the running of Messina and Mike Gill.

"We couldn't run outside on them and that hurt our attack," the dean of South Shore coaches said. "And we had a few dropped passes which, if caught, could have made a big difference in the game. We contained Notarangelo very well."

Sadowski's assistant, Pete Zoia, took the defeat philosophically. "Usually when the sophomores lose, the varsity wins, so this could be a good sign for Thanksgiving," he said.

Quincy varsity assistant Bill Maver helped Sullivan with the young Presidents.

Dudek, Shaughnessy Top Scorers

Joe Dudek of North Quincy, who scored eight straight touchdowns, four against Brookline, three against Weymouth South and the first against Catholic Memorial, is the leading scorer going into the holiday game.

Dudek has nine touchdowns for 54 points, followed by Rick Stevens with five touchdowns for 30 points. Dudek had been injured and saw limited action before his outburst against Brookline.

Quincy's top scorer is Mike Shaughnessy, who was shifted from end to halfback in the Presidents' last three games and has four touchdowns and a pair of two-point conversions for 28 points. Mark Picot, Steve Goguen and Bob Mudge all have three touchdowns for 18 points.

North's Bill Bradley has kicked a field goal (winning the Milton game) and 13 extra points.

WHAT IS CALCULUS?

Those hard deposits often seen on the backs of lower front teeth — sometimes white, sometimes yellow or brown — are popularly known as "tartar". A better term is "calculus", for these deposits are formed from the calcium salts of saliva. They are similar to the deposits found on the bottom of an old tea kettle.

Calculus is most evident just behind the lower front teeth because glands secrete saliva there, but it can collect on all teeth (and on dentures and bridges), often under the gum margin. In conjunction with bacterial plaque, this causes inflammation of the gums and subsequent loss of bone.

In fact, calculus would not adhere to the teeth at all if it were not for the sticky matrix of the plaque.

Hope To Raise $1.7 Million

Sports Stars Team Up To Help Little Sisters Of Poor

Tommy Heinsohn, Casey Jones, Dave Cowans, Johnny Bucyk, Wayne Cashman, Brad Park and Terry O'Reilly will be among the many sports celebrities who will gather at Northeastern University Arena next Sunday to help the Little Sisters of the Poor raise $1.7 million to provide apartments for elderly poor and handicapped people.

Also present will be such local personalities as Jim Colclough, Bo Lyons, and John (Butch) Mahoney.

The sisters began their work in Roxbury in 1871, then moved to their present location in Somerville in 1883. Today, at their Jeanne Jugan Pavilion, they operate a large nursing home and are building a new 28-unit apartment house (with four units reserved for the elderly handicapped). Due to inflation, the total cost of the apartment house has soared to $2.6 million and the sisters have found themselves $1.7 million short of being able to complete the building.

Alfred J. Balerna and Fred Galeazzo are co-chairman of Sunday's event, which will run from 2 to 7 p.m.

Among those assisting will be Dick Mazzola, Mike Berba, Mario Lopez and Jim Hebert.

Admission is $15 per couple and $10 for individuals. Children under 16 will be admitted free if accompanied by paid adults.

The admission includes a buffet and dancing. There will be door prizes, special drawings and a cash bar.

Further information can be obtained by calling Balerna at 742-9700 or Galeazzo at 843-6300.

Season Tickets Available For Symphony Orchestra

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra, Robert E. Brown Conductor, has season tickets available for its 28th season which begins with a "Holiday Concert" Dec. 11, at the new North Quincy High School auditorium.

Other concerts will be March 5, mid winter concert, "A Symphonic Evening", April 2, young people's concert with combined area high school choirs, both at NQHS; and May, 19, 20 and 21, annual Pops Concert, at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Subscriber benefits include a 10-12% savings, priority seating, advance notice and refreshments.

For subscription information, write to Quincy Symphony Orchestra, P.O. Box 2, Wollaston, 02170.

Auction Saturday

At Quincy Masonic Temple

A large selection of new and used items will be featured at an auction Saturday at 6:30 p.m. at the Quincy Masonic Temple, 1170 Hancock St., Quincy.

Proceeds will benefit the Temple Restoration Fund.

Ken Johnson and Bill Tuori will be auctioneers.

General chairman is Roger Bettencourt of Wollaston Lodge, assisted by the Masons, Eastern Star, Rainbow Girls and Demolay organizations.

The public is invited. Refreshments will be served.

WEEK OF: NOVEMBER 26, 1981

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Your best approach to romance is a lighthearted one as partner is preoccupied with family or career matters. Mechanical troubles should be rectified lest they get out of hand.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Meetings are delayed but should not be postponed, especially if they relate to education or career areas. Good week for introductions, parties, trips and social events.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
Hold onto your hat - this is a lively week, offering romance, a possible promotion and the opportunity for travel. Pets, too, are in the picture; perhaps a stray adopts you.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Loved one may want you to make a commitment this week, and he/she can be terribly convincing. Home improvements are favored, with an accent on a natural look.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
A colleague or neighbor can bring a fresh point of view to a stale problem. One personal obligation becomes complex as another is transferred to a different party.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Emotional ups and downs are stabilizing, speak your mind, but to the right person and at the right moment. Good week for beautifying your surroundings.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Withdrawn friend comes out of his/her shell thanks to your efforts, but don't force anything. Conflict at work shows signs of resolution, but again, don't be impatient.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Open new lines of communication, especially with senior-level personnel. Meeting with someone from abroad can develop into an interesting, perhaps lasting, friendship.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
You're thinking "wealthy" - and it's easy to overextend yourself financially now. Former promises return to haunt you. Children make you feel happy and optimistic.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
An excellent money-making idea can be put to use now. Loved one may be in a serious mood, and it's a futile effort to try cheering him/her.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Colleagues seem to be working at cross-purposes, but don't challenge them prematurely. Modest financial windfall accented now. Decorating favors a subtle approach.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Loved one may be opposing your plans; allow him/her to offer point of view. Friday-Sunday accent buying over selling. Fellow Capricorn may step into the friendship picture.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Buoyant, adventurous and optimistic. You sometimes have trouble concentrating - and your enthusiasm is quick to wane. Travel and education are connected this year. Important projects are launched - but don't act on impulse.

BORN THIS WEEK
November 26th, comic Rich Little; 27th, producer David Merrick; 28th, actress Hope Lange; 29th, singer John Gray; 30th, actor Richard Gere; December 1st, actor Richard Pryor; 2nd, actress Julie Harris.

Fitzpatrick In Ireland To Coach National Team

Quincy's Paul Fitzpatrick, who played his high school basketball at Quincy High, later starred at Boston State and for the past three years coached the Boston State team, is in Ireland for the next month coaching the Irish National team.

Paul is the first Irish-American ever to coach the Irish team on a fulltime, paid basis.

He also will conduct a series of clinics in the Cork area.

"I am excited about this and am really looking forward to it," Fitzpatrick said last week before boarding a flight for Ireland. "Next year I expect to spend six months in Ireland and six months here."

Paul was an advisor to the Irish team during its recent tour which saw it play nine Eastern college teams in nine nights, together with former Holy Cross coach Buster Sheary, who coached such stars as Tom Heinsohn and Bob Cousy, and former U. of Connecticut coach Dee Rowe.

"That was a hectic schedule," said Fitzpatrick. "The team played St. Peter's, Navy, Harvard, Dartmouth, Manhattan, Loyola, Columbia, Yale and Siena on successive nights."

Harvard, the Ivy League pre-season favorite, coasted over the Irish team, 90-50, as Coach Frank McLaughlin tried to hold the score down by clearing his bench, but the Irish team was too young and too small.

"There are 40,000 people playing basketball in Ireland today, and three-quarters of them are under 17," Fitzpatrick said. "And they are hurt by a lack of height. Most of the college teams they faced were much taller."

"This is a pre-Olympic program and interest is continuing to grow over there. Basketball has only recently been widely played in Ireland."

Harvard coach McLaughlin was asked following their game what he thought the Irish team might do to improve itself. "Get some black players," he replied with a smile.

"An Irish foundation is being set up to raise funds to improve the facilities over there," said Fitzpatrick. Dan Doyle, former Trinity coach, is spearheading the drive. Facilities now are pretty crude and we hope to build a new facility in Dublin. It is hoped to have a 5,000-seat facility built there. Currently the largest stadium seats only 1000."

"In the last few years our semi-pro teams have been allowed two foreigners—meaning, of course, Americans—apiece and many of them have employed black former college players," said Noel Keating, president of the Irish National Basketball Association. "It's exposure to that calibre of play that's responsible for the quality of play now and what you might have seen a few years ago."

Fitzpatrick has been a lecturer at the Championship Basketball School operated at the Mass. Maritime Academy, of which former North Quincy coach Bob "Knobby" Nolan is a director, since the school's inception.

Apaches Roll By Panthers For 3rd Straight Title

The North Quincy Apaches rolled over the Quincy Panthers, 28-6, Sunday to win their third successive Quincy Youth Football League championship. The team also remained undefeated since 1979 with a 23-0-2 record.

Jim Milano scored in the first period on a 45-yard run and also rushed for the two-point conversion to put the Apaches up, 8-0.

In the second quarter John McCarthy sacked the Panther quarterback, forcing a punt and Mike Kubera scored the second Apache touchdown on a 25-yard run. Quarterback Mike Peters added the two points on a sneak and North led, 16-0, at halftime.

In the third quarter Panther Billy Shaughnessy raced 48 yards to the Apache's one from where Pat Ne scored the lone Panther touchdown.

The Apaches added two touchdowns in the final quarter. Peters scored from the two. George Hartford intercepted a pass on the Panthers 40 and Kubera soon scored from the 19 for the final score.

Milano had a big day, rushing for over 200 yards and Peters, Kubera, Gary McNamara, Toland, Steve Miller, Joe and John McCarthy, Mike Carnevale, John Ainsley, Scott Kearns and Matt McNamara also played outstanding ball on offense.

The defense also turned in an excellent game with John McCarthy, Ainsley, McNamara, Milano, Toland and Hartford all playing well. Injured Co-Capt. Pete Furtado was unable to play in the title game but had a fine season.

Tom Carter, Paul Moody and Bill Schmidt coached the Apaches to their third straight crown.

Monti, Mancuso Tied For Top

Tony Monti has moved his team into a first place tie with Al Mancuso in the Koch Club Men's Bowling League.

Each has a record of 34 wins and 14 losses. Mike Shields and Joe Keenan are deadlocked in second spot with 30-18 marks. Roger Galante is 22-26. Paul Koch and Jim Moody share identical 18-30 scores while Dick Koch, Jr. and his teammates are in the cellar with a 10-38 record.

Jim Broadbent, Jr. has moved back into top spot in the average department with a 111.7 while Mike Shields has dropped into second place with a 110.

Others in the top 10 include: Joe Keenan, 108.3; Tony Monti, 108.2;

Steve Palumbo, 106.6; Al Mancuso, 104.3; Roger Galante, 103.8; Stan Locke, 103.1; Jim Broadbent, Sr., 101.8 and Steve Mancuso, 101.7.

Joe Keenan led the five scorers in the weekly "320 club" with a 345. Mario Scorza was next with 335 while Steve Palumbo had 334, Steve Mancuso, 329 and Tony Monti, 328.

Mike Shields' team owns the highest three string total of 1497 and Dick Koch, Jr. and his teammates have the best unit single string of 519.

Joe Keenan has the top individual three string total of 396 and Jim Broadbent, Jr. has the solo single string of 142.

North Girls 2nd In Mass-Invitational Meet

The North Quincy girls' cross-country team ended another highly successful season Saturday when it finished second in the Mass. Invitational meet at Franklin Park.

This meet, not recognized by the Mass. Interscholastic Athletic Association (MIAA), replaced the all-state meet which was dropped this year, along with other meets due to Prop. 2½.

The teams (the top 20 teams in the state competed) were not allowed to compete as the school teams and the North girls ran as the Quincy Track Club. The winning Sharon team ran as the Sharon Striders. Billerica finished third.

North, which the week before had won its second straight Eastern Mass. Div. 2 championship, had one medalist, Sheila Barrett, who finished 13th. The Raiderettes' other scorers, Nancy McCarthy, Regina Nagle, Linda Kennedy and Diane Lindenfelzer, finished among the top 50. Deirdre Donovan and Tracy Corrigan also ran.

The North girls received T-shirts from Nike, which co-sponsored the meet, and also received medals for the second place finish from the Falmouth-Perrier Track Club, the other sponsor.

"I want to thank the Quincy Track Club for letting us run under its colors," said Coach Lou Tozzi. "This is the best showing we have made in the meet and it is just two bad it was not officially recognized as the school state meet."

You are hereby notified pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 72 that the first and final account of PATRICIA L. SHEHAN as Executrix of the will of said deceased has been presented to said Court for allowance.

If you desire to preserve your right to file an objection to said account, you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before the twenty-third day of December, 1981, the return day of this citation. You may upon written request by registered or certified mail to the fiduciary, or to the attorney for the fiduciary, obtain without cost a copy of said account. If you desire to object to any item of said account, you must, in addition to filing a written appearance as aforesaid, file within thirty days after said return day or within such other time as the Court upon motion may order a written statement of each such item together with the grounds for each objection thereto, a copy to be served upon the fiduciary pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 5.

Witness, ROBERT M. FORD, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this third day of November, 1981.

Historic Commission Public Hearing Dec. 3

The Quincy Historic District Commission will hold a public hearing Thursday, Dec. 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the Planning Department conference room on some proposed changes in downtown decor.

The changes include:

- Exterior painting and a new sign at Petal Pushers, 114 Franklin St.
- Site plan for plaza and new signs at Quincy Center Plaza, Hancock and Granite Sts.
- New doors at the Woodward School for Girls, 1102 Hancock St.

South Rd. Hearing Dec. 1

The Planning Board will hold a public hearing Tuesday, Dec. 1 at 3:30 p.m. at City Hall on a proposal to reduce the size of a turning cul de sac on South Rd. in the State St. South complex.

South Rd., provides vehicular access to the newly constructed Monarch III building.

School Committee To Seek $250,000 To Offset Deficit

School Committee members agreed to ask the City Council for $250,000 to offset a projected budget deficit this year.

The vote came after Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon told the committee that despite budget tightening equal to a savings of $500,000 the School Department is still shy of funds to meet $770,000 in unanticipated expenses.

Creedon, though, in justifying the $250,000 request of the City Council claimed that the money, was in fact, due to the school department. The money, he said, was returned to the city last year as a school budget surplus. And since the tax rate had yet to be set, he said, the $250,000 is still listed in a general government fund and could be redeemed by the schools without expense to the taxpayer.

"There would be no new or additional burden on the taxpayer," he said. "We would just benefit from the savings of last year."

Among the unanticipated costs that cut into the budget were positions not eliminated by the School Committee, but excluded from the budget set forth by the city council. Creedon cited $104,512 in positions left unfunded by the council.

He also cited:

- $51,000 in additional transportation expenses.
- $200,000 in special needs tuition and transportation.
- $55,000 in increased utility costs.

A hefty $243,839 in federal compensation due children of families who work or live on federal property, was also mentioned.

The school department anticipated those expenses would be met by the federal government, but the program fell victim to cuts from the Reagan administration, Creedon said.

While there were innumerable causes for deficits Creedon also detailed for the committee areas of the budget where savings have been realized.

For example, he said, because the fuel cost for buses has dropped to 94 cents a gallon from $1.15, as initially projected, a savings of $200,000 is possible.

The postponement of repairs to the stadium walls, replacing window shades and caretaking lawns will save the department another $130,000, he said.

Finally, Creedon said $75,000 will be saved from a 10 percent cut in instructional services.

He also added that there was a minimal savings from the closing of five schools last year.

School Committee member John Sullivan commended the administration for reaching a savings of $500,000.

"Unfortunately, though," he said, "there is nothing left to help our laid off employees."

Auditor Selection

only way to give the appointing power back to the Council would be home rule legislation plus a referendum on a charter change.

McCauley, who brought the matter up, said he does not plan to press the point with the Council, of which he is a member.

"It's a question of law," he said. "I'm not anxious to get into a fight with the City Council."

Seeks Legal Opinion

McCauley Questions 'No Cut' Pacts

By TOM HENSHAW

The city and the police unions are on the verge of agreement on a two-year contract that would include a "no layoff" clause until June 30 and a "negotiated layoff" clause thereafter.

Mayor-elect Francis X. McCauley asked City Solicitor Robert J. Fleming for a legal opinion on the legality of a "no cut contract" that would restrict the city's ability to lay off personnel. Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said McCauley "has misinterpreted" what is happening.

Tobin said that City Labor Negotiator Joseph McParland and police union negotiators have reached agreement in principle on the contract and a written draft is now being prepared.

The mayor said he understands the agreement contains language similar to that granted the firefighters, which bans any layoffs between now and June 30, when the current fiscal year ends.

The firefighters agreement also specified that any layoffs after that will have to be negotiated with the union and that, said Tobin, is where McCauley is misinterpreting what has been said about the contract.

McCauley, in a statement questioning the legality of the "no cut" provisions, noted that "Proposition 2½ severely limits the ability of cities and towns to raise revenue through property taxes." "Unless the state modifies or changes 2½," he said, "the city will be forced to reduce the property tax level by some $8.5 million in Fiscal '83."

"Since salaries comprise the greatest portion of the city budget, the implementation of contracts restricting the layoff of employees will make it difficult if not impossible to comply with the mandate of Proposition 2½."

Tobin said the clause banning layoffs prior to June 30 was inserted at the insistence of the union's executive board, which wanted to reassure those firefighters who were called back.

"All that is under the budget for fiscal 1982," he said, "It won't affect the budget for fiscal 1983 (McCauley's first budget) at all. There will be no layoffs until June 30. After that it's a moot point."

The mayor said the city was told by the state Labor Relations Board to negotiate any further layoffs as part of the standard operating procedure.

"All we have done is put in

City Sees No Big Snow Problems

Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti foresees no insurmountable problems with snow removal this winter, the first for the city under Proposition 2½.

"The work force has been cut back from about 130 to about 70," he said. "We have spent nothing on capital outlay so we will be short on equipment. Sanders are down from 17 to 15."

"We have asked the other departments to cooperate with us in assigning volunteer overtime drivers and we have made arrangements to supplement the city services from the private sector."

"We'll make out all right, barring any severe storms. There shouldn't be any slowdown in services. All the routes have been assigned, either public or private."

The National Weather Service has predicted a colder and snowier winter than those of the last two years when 13 and 22 inches of snow fell respectively. The average is 40 to 50 inches.

"We have been fortunate the last two years," said Ricciuti. "We have had a budget appropriation of $127,000 in each of those years and we have just about broken even in each year."

Any money spent on snow removal over the appropriation goes on next year's tax rate.

The city stopped removing snow last winter, finding it cheaper to just let it pile up at the sides of streets and wait for the sun to melt it.

There will be no cleanup of snow in Quincy Center again and, said Ricciuti, "we can't afford to do the churches and the funeral homes any more."

Ricciuti said his department will maintain the same priorities as before on routes.

Top priority goes to the road to the hospital, the main roads, the feeder roads to the bus stops, the MBTA and the Expressway, and the roads to Squantum and Houghs Neck.

"Once that is done," he said, "we hit the hills. The last category is the secondary roads. We don't have the resources to get plows in there right away."

"There shouldn't be any slowdown in snow removal. All the routes have been assigned, including equipment and men from the private sector."

Chilled 100,000 Enjoys Christmas Parade

The first chill of winter may have held down the crowd but it failed to cool enthusiasm for the 30th annual Christmas Festival Parade that wound its way for two hours down Hancock St. Sunday.

Police estimated that more than 100,000 people lined the street from the start at School and Elm Sts. to dispersal at North Quincy High School despite temperatures that never climbed out of the 30s.

The event was sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Santa Claus himself landed safely by parachute on Faxon Field Saturday and was up and about to join the parade riding on a fire truck. He'll be at Remick's of Quincy until Christmas.

The 125-piece Abington High School band won the New England high school championship held in conjunction with the parade and with it an invitation to perform in the 1983 Cotton Bowl parade in Dallas.

North Quincy's majorettes won their competition in Class B.

The float, "Going to Grandma's", sponsored by the North Quincy Knights of Columbus, won the $1,000 top prize and the Rev. Thomas Tierney Trophy as the best non-commercial float.

The Patriot Ledger float, which featured Santa's elves, was judged the top commercial entry and the Boston Police Department's motorcycle drill team took the Chairman's Trophy.

The Union Congregational

Church of Wollaston won the Mayor's Trophy for the best Quincy float. Its theme was "Baby's First Christmas."

In all, some 23 bands and 23 floats took part in the parade while specialty units, clowns and antique cars performed along the 2½ mile route.

In the overall band judging, Abington finished first with 75.7 points, East Bridgewater was second with 73.6, and Somerset was third with 68.2.

Winners in the band categories were:

Band, Class A - Abington. 2. Somerset.

Band, Class B - Hull. 2. Dedham. 3. Shepherd Hill Regional.

Band, Class C - East Bridgewater. 2. Gloucester. 3. Somerville.

Color Guard, Class A - Abington. 2. Somerset.

Color Guard, Class B - Hull. 2. Shepherd Hill Regional. 3. Dedham.

Color Guard, Class C - East Bridgewater. 2. Chicopee Comprehensive. 3. Somerville.

Majorettes, Class A - Somerset. Majorettes, Class B - North Quincy. 2. Dedham. 3. Whitman-Hanson.

Majorettes, Class C - Norton. 2. Chicopee Comprehensive. 3. Fairhaven. Drum Major, Class A - Somerset.

2. Abington.

Drum Major, Class B - Hull. 2. Shepherd Hill Regional. 3. Quincy.

Drum Major, Class C - East Bridgewater. 2. Somerville. 3. Gloucester.

Other prizes in the non-commercial float competition went to these Quincy organizations:

Sacred Heart Youth Organization of North Quincy. "Traditions Passed Unto Us," second prize, $500.

Church of the Nazarene, a Victorian Christmas carol, third prize, $300.

Taleb Grotto, fourth prize, $200.

SANTA CLAUS dropped into Quincy Saturday, landing in Faxon Field to start the Christmas Shopping Season. Gustly winds almost forced him to change his mode of travel from parachute to fire engine.

City Council Wants To Name Auditor

A special meeting of the City Council yesterday (Wednesday) was scheduled to pass on a home rule petition to the State Legislature that would restore the Council's right to select the City Auditor.

A ruling by former City Solicitor Thomas Williams, confirmed by current City Solicitor Robert Fleming, held that under the latest Plan A charter the appointment of the auditor was up to the mayor.

The Council has named the auditor for the past 50 years.

Council President Leo J. Kelly said he saw no problems with passage of the home rule petition. "Mayor-elect Frank McCauley has no problems with it," he said. "Mayor Tobin has no problems with it. He said he will sign it and send it on to the Legislature."

Kelly said he invited Quincy Reps. Robert A. Cerasoli, Thomas F. Brownell and Michael

W. Morrissey and Sen. Paul D. Harold to attend last night's meeting "to get the importance of it first hand."

If the auditor should be appointed by the mayor, Kelly maintains, the Council would lose its chief financial advisor, thus disrupting the checks and balances in local government.

A special Council committee of the whole has been considering applicants for the auditor's job since last spring when Charles L. Shea resigned. William Grindlay has been acting auditor since April.

The list of applicants is now down to five, including:

City Treasurer Robert E. Foy III; Ronan J. Fitzpatrick, principal accountant for the Boston School Committee; William J. McArdle, an auditor for the IRS; James E. Mullaney, a Quincy accountant; and Robert Trahan, an examiner for the State Department of Revenue.

Mobile Post Office At 1000 S.A.

Boston Postmaster Philip L. Sullivan announces a Mobile Post Office will be in operation at the Senior Citizens Housing, 1000 Southern Artery, Quincy, Saturday, Dec. 5 at 9:30 a.m.

The two new 1981 Christmas stamps will be on sale at the Mobile Unit. One stamp features a Teddy Bear seated on a sleigh, and the other depicts a Madonna and Child painted in the 15th century by Sandro Botticelli, one of the foremost painters of the Renaissance. Numerous philatelic items, suitable for gift giving, will also be available.

Sullivan urges all customers to mail as early as possible and to be sure to include ZIP Codes on all letters and packages.

Quincy Quiz

One winner in the Quincy Quiz this week.

M. J. Bell of Duxbury wins a T-shirt.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. City Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. appears to have the votes to become president of the council, succeeding Leo J. Kelly. Who was president of the council before Kelly?
2. True or false: Francis X. McCauley will be the 27th man to hold the office of mayor of Quincy.
3. Elcott Rd. is in what section of the city.
4. What Quincy landmark is located at 60 Murphy Memorial Drive?
5. What is the name of the pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Donald H. Blatt and Edward T. Lewis were William J. Deegan's successors as city managers of Quincy.
2. Quincy City Hospital is at 114 Whitwell St.
3. Quincy and North Quincy High Schools first met on the football field in 1933.
4. Abbey Rd. is in the Quincy Point section of the city.
5. False. Two registered Republicans hold elective office in Quincy: City Councillor and Mayor-elect Francis X. McCauley and School Committeeman Frank Anselmo.

Someday: A Woman Mayor

Quincy has been a city for 93 years.

Next month, Francis X. McCauley will raise his right hand and become the 27th man to serve as mayor. (Not counting acting mayors).

Will a woman someday have that honor?

Women have made significant strides in the political arena since Edna Austin was elected Quincy's first woman councillor in 1943.

For the first time, there will be two women in the City Council next year: Joanne Condon, who was re-elected to her third term as Ward 6 councillor. And, Patricia Toland, elected City Councillor at-large after serving six years on the School Committee. The School Committee again will have two women next year and one of them will be the new vice-chairman.

CONDON

Mary Collins who topped the field this year for the

TOLAND

Joan Picard finished second to Collins in the School Committee race to win an easy second term. (Newcomer Nicholas Verenis won the third seat) upsetting John Sullivan.

If there is a woman mayor in Quincy's near future it could be Condon, Collins, Toland or Picard. Providing, of course, one of them runs for it.

The name most frequently mentioned when political observers get around to talking about women mayoral candidates is Mrs. Condon's.

The City Council, of course, is considered the stepping stone to the mayor's office although usually from an at-large seat.

Toland who has run at-large for School Committee and now, for City Council, might be in a stronger position as a result than Condon.

But don't count out Collins who has been the strongest vote getter among women the last four years. Four years ago, on her very first try at politics, she topped the final election field. (There was no primary that year).

And this year, she was first in both the primary and final election. In the final, she took five out of six wards and 31 out of 39 precincts. She lost Ward 4 by only 10 votes.

It may be a few years yet, before a woman makes a bid to become Quincy's first female mayor.

But the day will come. And so will the day when one is elected.

Right now women voters outnumber men in Quincy by 6,463. The hand that once only rocked the cradle, now has a firm grip on the ballot box.

Womanpower! It's here!

KEN (HAWK) HARRELSON was quite a hit at the Montclair Men's Club annual dinner where he was honored as recipient of the John Gillooly Award. Harrelson, of course, showed up with his fancy Stetson. At the end of the night as he was leaving, he exchanged hats with Patrolman William O'Donnell who was on duty there as Roger Whitcomb snapped a photo of them. Hawk, of course, got his hat back before leaving.

HARRELSON

SEEMED LIKE OLD times at the Quincy-North Thanksgiving Day football game. Jack Donahue, North's only football coach from 1933 when the school opened to 1960 when he retired, has been sidelined since January when he broke his hip in a fall.

He wasn't able to get to the other games this season but he made it on Thanksgiving Day to keep intact his record of never missing THE GAME. Not only that, but he went down to the dressing room to give the Raiders a pep talk before the game.

Also keeping his record perfect was former Quincy Principal George Wilson, who like Donahue, has seen all 49 Quincy-North games since they started in 1933.

Huck Listman, a former Quincy star, was on hand for his 48th game in the series. He missed only last year's game because of leg surgery.

THE FLOAT SPONSORED by Rep. Michael W. Morrissey in the Christmas Festival Parade drew an unexpected marching visitor Sunday - State Auditor John J. Finnegan.

Finnegan got stuck in traffic, arrived late for the start of the parade, spotted a float with Morrissey's name on it and fell in alongside the Quincy Rep.

"We were in between the Quincy and Hanover high school bands," said Morrissey. "He said he has been to a lot of parades and that was the best quality music he has heard."

"He was also impressed with the size of the crowd."

AMONG THOSE ATTENDING the dedication of "Christmas Island" Sunday in memory of George Fay, the late Quincy Christmas Festival chairman, were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thompson of Clinton. Thompson worked with Fay at Burke Distributors in Randolph and they were good friends. It was at the Thompson's home that President Jimmy Carter stayed when he went to Clinton for that much publicized town meeting during the early months of his presidency.

NFPA Plans $12.5 Million Office Building

A public hearing is expected to be held Thursday, Dec. 17, on a proposal by the National Fire Protection Association to build a $12.5 million office building next to its headquarters in West Quincy.

The six-story, 210,000 square foot building on Batterymarch Park off Willard St. would be constructed on land that is zoned for planned unit development (PUD), thus the City Council hearing.

NFPA President Robert Grant said the building will include 34 guest rooms for overnight visitors, conference rooms, an auditorium and a private restaurant that will not be open to the public.

An architect's model of the complex was shown to some 60 nearby residents of West Quincy last Sunday.

City Council President Leo J. Kelly said that, with the new building, the whole NFPA complex on Pine Hill will eventually have a taxable value of some $700,000, compared to $30,000 before development.

The Council was scheduled to set the public hearing date of Dec. 17 at a special meeting yesterday (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m.

Audit Firm Recommends New City Controller Post

Touche Ross and Co., the Boston firm that audits the city's books, has recommended establishment of a post of controller to be responsible for the day-to-day record keeping.

That job is currently carried out by the city auditor in addition to his statutory functions of internal audit.

"Due to the size of the city," said the report, "the autonomous nature of each department's operations, and the volume and complexities of the city's transactions, the city should consider reorganizing the auditor's office."

"At present, the auditor's office is operating with only one accountant, the city auditor."

"Since the loss of two other accountants, the work load has piled up to the point where the office was six months behind in postings of the general ledger and appropriations ledger."

"Timely posting of all expenditures and encumbrances to the appropriations ledger is necessary for proper control over departmental spending."

Touche Ross also recommended:

- That city employees be required to take a minimum of vacation time each year.

- "Mandatory vacations are necessary part of a system of internal control."

- That the city establish a policy of having an annual audit, which it compared to the "annual physical exam" for an individual.

- That the various department adopt "procedure manuals to clearly define policies and procedures in conjunction with specific assignment of responsibilities."

- That the policy of advancing funds to city employees for unanticipated travel expenses be eliminated or that one person be made responsible for following up on the advances.

"As of Sept. 23, 1981," said the report, "there were approximately $22,000 of advances outstanding. Some vouchers were issued six years ago."

"At least three of the advances were made to employees who are no longer working for the city. One advance is applicable to a person who is known to be deceased."

Lakian Arrives By Air

They keep dropping in on us from out of the sky.

Last Friday it was Santa Claus, arriving by parachute to announce that Christmas was coming.

Tuesday it was John Lakian, arriving by helicopter to announce that he was running for governor.

Lakian, a Republican from Westwood, made his announcement on McIntyre Mall before a crowd of about 20 people, including Mayor-elect Francis X.

McCauley, the city's leading Republican.

It was a busy day for Lakian. He had already announced his candidacy in Worcester (8 a.m.), Springfield (9:30 a.m.) and New Bedford (11:30 a.m.).

Ahead were other announcements in Boston (2:30 p.m.), Lynn (3:45 p.m.), Lowell (4:45 p.m.) and Framingham (5:45 p.m.).

Wrapped in a gray topcoat, the youthful (38) Lakian promised his shivering listeners that he would "offer an exciting Republican alternative."

"I think," he said, "we have an excellent shot at winning the convention in Boston and taking the general election in November."

With that, he was off by MBTA (perhaps the most dangerous part of his travels) to Boston to continue his announcements at the Parker House.

'No Cut' Pacts

writing what Mr. McParland was told to do," he said. "We have to go to the bargaining table for an exchange of views. If we reach an impasse then we notify the state and proceed from there."

Tobin said he couldn't understand why McCauley was so upset over the new agreements.

"During the campaign," he said, "he and other candidates were making all sort of commitments to public safety. I am just putting into motion what he and others were campaigning for."

There was no report of injuries.

Residents Favor Quarry St. Access To SE Expressway

A number of Quincy residents spoke out in favor of an access to the new Southeast Expressway by way of Quarry St. in West Quincy.

Dr. Joseph P. Leone, director of Quincy City Hospital, said he endorsed the concept because it would relieve traffic congestion on Adams and Whitwell Sts. and make access to the hospital easier.

Mrs. Allene Tompkins, proprietor of Herron's Haven, a tourist home at 124 Merrymount Rd., said such access is "extremely important if we want to attract vacationists to Quincy."

George W. Nightingale of the G.W. Nightingale Coal and Oil Co. added that a Quarry St. link to the expressway would aid "the flow of traffic from distant points directly to Quincy Square."

SQUANTUM REPLACED

The old South Weymouth Naval Air Station was reactivated to replace the Squantum NAS as the new home of the First Naval Air Reserve, which had been based at Squantum since 1923.

Gov. Christian A. Herter and Rear Adm. Charles B. Momsen, commandant of the First Naval District, presided at the ceremonies after which Capt. Harry Sartoris switched his command to Weymouth.

The last weekend drill was scheduled for Squantum on Dec. 19-20; the first at Weymouth for Jan. 9-10.

CONSTITUTION OUTMODED?

Sen. Charles W. Hedges and Atty. Robert M. Ford, both of Quincy, called for a convention in 1954 to "streamline and bring in tune with the modern process" the 173-year-old Massachusetts constitution.

"Such a meeting would bring together the best brains of the Commonwealth in a united effort to rid ourselves of the archaic provisions now governing us as the supreme law of the Commonwealth," said Ford.

MCDONOUGH ENDORSED

The Quincy Rent Control Board gave a vote of confidence to Chairman Joseph P. McDonough after a member of the staff resigned over what was called "ill feelings" between the staff and the chairman.

It was disclosed during the Board's debate that all four members of the staff had tendered their resignations but City Manager William J. Deegan Jr. had persuaded them to withdraw.

Rev. Richard Malmquist Installed Wollaston Baptist Minister

About 150 people were on hand recently as Rev. Richard C. Malmquist was installed as minister of First Baptist Church, Wollaston.

An informal reception followed the service in Fellowship Hall.

Born in New Rochelle, N.Y. in 1944, Rev. Malmquist is married to the former M. Christine Watson.

They have two children, Anne, 9 and Mark, 7.

Rev. Malmquist received a B.A. degree in 1966 from the University of Colorado.

In 1969, he received a master of divinity degree from Colgate Rochester Divinity School, N.Y. He is attending Andover Newton Theological School and is working towards a doctor of ministry degree.

degree.

Rev. Malmquist served as pastor of First Baptist Church, Brockton, for seven years, and First Baptist Church, Akron, N.Y., for four years.

He also served as assistant minister and school chaplain in Rochester, N.Y.

Rev. Malmquist has served on the denominational boards of the American Baptist Churches at the national, state and local levels, and has taken part in interchurch and community activities.

Taking part in the service were Rev. Lloyd F. Martin, pastor, Wollaston Congregational Church; Rev. Dr. Lynn C. Smith, interim minister, minister of Mariner House, Boston; Mrs. John Semchenko, soloist, First Baptist Church of Wollaston.

Also, Rev. Theodore E. Romberg, pastor, Wollaston United Methodist Church; Rev. Dr. John Douhan, associate executive minister, Minister of Parish Ministries of the American Baptist Churches of Massachusetts; Allan G. Beardsley, pulpit committee chairman, First Baptist Church of Wollaston.

Also, Rev. Frank P. Parisi, associate pastor, First Baptist Church of Wollaston; Rev. Dr. H. Edward Whitaker, area minister for Metropolitan Boston of the American Baptist Churches of Massachusetts; J. Henry Johnson, moderator, First Baptist Church of Wollaston; and Robert E. Brown, minister of music, First Baptist Church of Wollaston.

RING OF TRUTH

The letter began, as hundreds do, "Dear Abby: I am one of those foolish wives who insisted my husband wear his wedding ring at all times... Yesterday, while jumping off a construction truck, he caught his ring on a piece of metal and his finger was practically torn off. He was lucky he wasn't killed as he lost his balance and fell under the truck wheels.

"Abby, please put this in your column as a warning to other women who want their husbands to wear rings to work."

This letter to columnist Abigail Van Buren could be written hundreds of times a year by other wives whose husbands were injured wearing rings around electricity, machinery and equipment

Sentimentality is a nice thing, but it should be tempered with discretion in situations where it can be the unwitting cause of injury.

Advent Services Begin At Squantum Church

The congregation of the First Church of Squantum joined in the first of four special Advent worship services Sunday.

Church pastor, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, talked to the children of the church about the many years that people were waiting for the Messiah to come.

He told them the story of Zachariah, who was one of those waiting.

Michael Stamos and Karen Reister light the first candle in the Advent wreath.

Later in the service, Dr. Langevin preached a sermon, "What Do You See?", the fourth sermon in a series on the deacon Stephen who was the first Christian martyr. It was also the first of a new series drawn from the Book of Acts.

The special Advent series will be called "Four Wise Men In The Book Of Acts And The Coming Of Jesus." It will include the following sermons, Nov. 29, Stephen: The One Who Taught Him; Dec. 6, Simon: The One Who Would Have Bought Him; Dec. 13, The Ethiopian: The One Who Sought Him; and Dec. 20, Paul: The One Who Fought Him.

There will also be an observance of the Lord's Supper Dec. 20.

Sunday the offertory anthem by the Chancel Choir was "Say To Them That Are Afraid Of A Fearful Heart" by Everett Titcomb. It was directed by Mary Ruth Scott.

Greeters for the morning were Ida and Bob VonRiegers. Ushers were Steven Williams, Sandra Ahearn, Paul Paulson and Don Frazer.

The Fellowship Hour was hosted by Genevieve Todd, Vi Willner and Gladys Chandler.

Since it was also Stewardship Sunday at the church, all of the congregation's pledge cards for next year were dedicated at the service.

Besides collecting money for itself, the church is engaged in three giving projects. For the past two weeks and continuing for one more Sunday, church members have been bringing in canned goods and other kinds of food to give to poor families associated with The Way Up or The Protestant Social Service Bureau.

On Dec. 13, children of the church will bring new items (mittens, scarves, gloves, hats and socks) for the Children's Gift Box to be given to poor children.

That same day, adults will contribute second-hand toys or items of clothing in good condition to be placed in a box marked "Ye Olde Things" also to be given to poor families.

Friday at 6:30 p.m., the Music Committee of the church is sponsoring a Ham and Bean Supper to earn money for new equipment needed for the church.

It will be followed by entertainment for the evening.

Tickets may be obtained from Adelaide Nelson, ticket chairman, or Renee Johnson or by calling the church office at 328-6649.

Sunday at 6:30 p.m., the Board of Christian Education is sponsoring an all-church arts night called "Hanging of the Greens".

After a brief worship service, persons of all ages will have the opportunity to make Christmas crafts, do some Christmas baking, decorate the church building or sing Christmas carols.

The program is open to the public without charge.

The service will begin Sunday at 10:15 a.m. Both the Junior Choir and the Chancel Choir will sing.

Quincy Camp Fire Holds Square Dance

More than 150 people attended the Quincy Camp Fire Square Dance recently at First Baptist Church, Wollaston.

Bob Johnson, who's been caller at the annual event for the last decade, led youngsters and their families through a series of line and circle dances as well as several traditional four-couple squares.

The dancers, ranging in age from 3 year olds through adults, enthusiastically joined in such dances as the Bunny Hop, Hokey Pokey, and Eight Steps.

They successfully managed, with the help of Bob's wife, Ruth, to execute some of the more intricate square dance maneuvers such as birdie-in-the-cage and digging-for-claims.

Each child received a chance for the door prize of two hand-painted ceramic Thanksgiving figurines donated by Carol's Ceramics.

Melanie Moffett, a second year Blue Bird, had the winning ticket.

Everyone attending brought a canned food for Quincy Camp Fire's annual Thanksgiving Food Drive.

Cartons of canned goods will be donated to needy families this season, in keeping with Camp Fire's slogan, "Give Service."

Munchkins and orange drink were served.

Audrey Wilcoxon, program coordinator, organized the event.

Two Questions:

Want to cut your taxes?
Want to retire richer?

One Answer:

Invest in an IRA!

What's an IRA? Here are three basic questions about Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) and brief answers:

Q. Who is eligible?

A. In 1981: Any employee not in a qualified pension or profit-sharing plan.
In 1982: Any employee.

Q. What is the yearly amount that I may put into an IRA and deduct from taxable income on federal returns?

A. In 1981: Lesser of $1500 or 15% of earned income.
In 1982: Lesser of $2000 or 100% of earned income.

Q. Can I begin an IRA right now to save taxes on this year's income and then still be eligible for next year's more generous deductions?

A. Yes. In fact, you have until April 15, 1982, or your tax filing date, to contribute for 1981.

For further details, please visit any office of the Quincy Cooperative Bank in Braintree, Cohasset, Hanover or Quincy, or call 479-6600 and ask for an IRA consultant.

Q.

I HAVE VERY HIGH CEILINGS IN MY HOME. IS THERE ANYTHING I CAN DO TO MAKE THEM LOOK LOWER?

A.

There are many ways to achieve the look of a lower ceiling, painting the ceiling a darker color than the walls is one way, also the use of a wide border at the ceiling line on the walls will visually lower your ceiling.

City Club To Hold Christmas Meeting

The Quincy City Club will hold its seventh annual Christmas breakfast meeting Sunday, Dec. 6 at 10 a.m. at the Wollaston Recreational Facility Hall, 357 West Squantum St.

Richard J. Koch, president, will announce the 1981 Christmas charity projects following the breakfast.

The City Club had donated more than $10,000 in gifts and equipment to hospitals, organizations and individuals who are caring for those confined to institutions.

Although the contributions have been distributed largely to hospitals and homes for elderly and mentally ill, the donations also have gone to social service organizations to aid them in providing additional enjoyment for their patients.

Donald E. Conboy and Paul Lee are the co-chairmen of the holiday charity activity and all funds are derived from personal donations of individual members and contributions from friends.

In the first year the project was initiated, five wheelchairs were purchased and are loaned to persons who have need of them. A hospital bed and walkers also have been made available to those in need.

Dr. Allan Yacubian is chairman of the services.

The City Club recently donated $1,000 to the Sidney Farber Hospital, Medical Oncology Research Fund.

Koch Club Dressing Dolls For Christmas

Mrs. Simone Koch of North Quincy and Mrs. Ginny Derringer of Weymouth, co-chairmen of the Dress-A-Doll Program of the Koch Club, have announced that new or used dolls in good condition are needed for the annual Christmas charitable program.

Mrs. Derringer has made a number and variety of dolls' clothing outfits from surplus material in past months and dolls are needed to prepare gifts for presentation to needy children at Christmas time.

Twelve-inch and 15-inch dolls are needed for dressing. However, all types of dolls both new and used can be used.

The Koch Club has distributed more than 12,000 items to needy boys and girls during the past ten years to make the holiday happier.

Richard J. Koch, executive director, said the project is so large and expansive now that the organization has become a coordinating agency with hundreds of individuals and groups assisting in the major effort.

The Granite City Grange, with Mrs. Sadie Wesley as liaison, has been assisting in the Food Basket and Children's Gift Program.

Mrs. Rita Kelliher of the Bryan VFW Post Auxiliary is assisting in the activity and coordinating the collecting of canned foods for the holiday charity program.

Koch said toys in good condition are welcome and will be cleaned and prepared for the Christmas Season while new toys will be presented to needy boys and girls in Quincy, the South Shore and Greater Boston area.

The Koch Club coordinates its efforts with church, social service and community agencies who are in need of serving needy families.

Squantum Community Association Planning Christmas Festival

Santa Claus will ride into Squantum on a float Sunday, Dec. 20, at 2 p.m. as part of the Squantum Community Association's Second Annual Christmas Festival.

The float will follow the Fourth of July parade route.

Santa will distribute candy canes at the Community Center at 3 p.m.

Festivities will continue with judging of the holiday door decorating contest at 4 p.m.

Winners will be announced at the Tree Lighting Ceremony at 5 p.m., following Christmas caroling.

The Squantum Christmas Tree is near the Fire Station/Community Center.

The community association hopes everyone in Squantum will turn out for the festivities which will be a continuation of the tradition started last year.

North Wins 21st Over Quincy

For Raiders It Was That Man Again

By TOM SULLIVAN

A year ago North Quincy's Joe Dudek ruined Quincy with a three-touchdown performance in the annual Thanksgiving Day classic.

Last Thursday Dudek was the man again as he scored the lone touchdown on a 55-yard run as the Raiders scored a 7-0 victory over the Presidents for their second win in a row over Quincy and their 21st in the series. Quincy has 25 wins and there were three scoreless ties.

Dudek, who ran for 120 yards, had another 28-yard touchdown run nullified by a penalty as he proved the difference in the defensive battle played before an estimated 12,000 fans in perfect weather.

"We knew we had to give the ball to Dudek if we wanted to win, said Coach Dave Burke. "He has been our bread and butter man all year and he did it again for us."

Dudek, who scored all four touchdowns against Brookline and all three against Weymouth South, ended with 60 points on 10 TDs and he scored nine of North's last 10 touchdowns of the season.

North finished with a 6-4 record, while Quincy wound up with a deceiving 3-7 mark.

"Quincy, as usual, was tough, and this was a good one to win," Burke said. "I feel this was our best team effort of the season as both the offense and defense did their jobs. The defense, in particular, was outstanding and the offensive line did a good job clearing the way for Dudek and Rich Stevens."

Dudek had 120 yards rushing. Stevens picked up 51 and Ray Mallory added 39. Pat Burke did another good job at quarterback.

In the offensive line Burke singled out Bill Gray, Mike Clarfella, Neal Fisher, Darby Flaherty, Steve Lee, Mike Panaro and Jim Hutchinson.

Defensive coordinator Jack Raymer was delighted with the work of the defense.

"This was our best game of the year and the entire defensive unit was just outstanding," he said. "Any time you get a shutout you feel good and it is especially satisfying when it is against Quincy. Quincy is a power team and goes up the middle and we stopped them very well."

Quincy penetrated beyond North's 40 only once, reaching the 22 where the Raiders held.

Raymer praised the entire defense and had good words for Steve Bradley, brilliant all year; Bill Bradley, Rich Comeau, Fisher, Gerry Connolly, Panaro, Mike Miceli, Mike Ellis, Mallory, Burke, Jim Kelly, Rich Brown and Bob Pound.

SCHOOL COMMITTEEMAN John Sullivan presents flowers to the Football Queens, North Quincy's Michelle Millane, center, and Susan Murray of Quincy.

The defense made things rough on Quincy quarterback Sean Martin, sacking him several times and on several other occasions he was unable to pass and had to run for little or no gain.

"We lost to a better team today, but I'm very proud of everyone of our boys," said Quincy coach Tom Fitzgerald. The defense did another fine job but that one big play was the difference. Steve Goguen (87 yards) ran well as did Mark Picot and Mike Shaughnessy.

"The team could have folded up earlier this year, when we lost some tough games, lost our captain for three games and had to make coaching changes, but they never quit for one minute. They showed me an awful lot of guts and desire and I won't forget them. They were just great."

Offensive coach Peter Chella had good words for Dave Donnelly, Steve Aluisi, Jamie Gravalese, Dan Mahoney, Kevin Riggs, Joe LaRaia, Paul Quigley and Joe Harte.

"The entire defense did an excellent job," said defensive coach Bill Maver. "Except for that one big play, we contained them very well."

He singled out Mike Connors, Brian Callahan, Capt. John Taglieri, Riggs, Gravalese, Steve Spencer, Glen Straughn, Shaughnessy and Mark Righini.

Both punters, Picot and Ellis, got off some fine kicks and twice Ellis set the Presidents back inside their five-yard line with his punts.

"I feel Mike Connors is one of the finest defensive linemen in the state," Fitzgerald said. "And Taglieri, who had to miss three games because of an unfortunate incident, proved a fine leader. He came back to play outstanding ball in the last few games and had been tremendous before missing those games."

Quincy kicked off and four plays later North apparently had a touchdown on Dudek's 28-yard run, but a penalty voided it.

Ellis punted to the Presidents' three and three plays later North's Howley recovered a fumble on Quincy's 16.

Bradley tried a 26-yard field goal but the pass from center was off the mark and the kick was blocked.

Quincy took over on the nine and Goguen sparked a drive which brought it to Quincy's 43. With fourth and inches, Quincy was going to go for it but was offside and Picot punted.

Dudek and Stevens picked up a first down on North's 39. Dudek added five yards and Mallory one, then Dudek, behind fine blocking, went around the left side and sped 55 yards for the game's only touchdown. Bradley kicked the point.

A little later Ellis punted to the Quincy two-yard line. Here the Presidents staged their best drive, picking up four first downs and moving to the Quincy 43. However, on third down Martin was sacked by Panaro and Picot had to punt.

Midway in the third quarter Quincy picked up three more first downs and, sparked by a 17-yard run by Goguen, reached the North 25. Martin was sacked again by Pound and, despite a 10-yard pass completion from Martin to Riggs, the Raiders took over on their 22.

North, adding four first downs, drove from its 25 to Quincy's 14 late in the game but Spencer intercepted a pass to give Quincy another chance.

However, Burke clinched things for North Quincy when he intercepted a pass and the Raiders ran out the clock.

North had a net gain of 196 yards on the ground to 104 for Quincy. Neither team did much through the air, Burke hitting on two of six for 27 yards and Martin completing five of 12 for 37 yards. Each team had 11 first downs.

Soph Adams Shines In First N.Q. Win

George Densmore scored the first basket only five seconds from the opening tapoff and Coach John Mullarkey's North Quincy High School basketball team went on to a 58-40 opening game victory over Natick.

With Joe Crowley, fresh from the football field, and Don Ames popping away from outside and Ed Gilbody hitting from the free throw line, the Raiders sprinted out to a 31-15 lead early in the third period.

Then Mullarkey turned to his bench and Al Adams, a 6-foot-3 sophomore from Squantum, fired in five field goals and two free throws, all in the fourth period, to lead the Raiders in scoring.

The North Quincy lineup included: Gilbody, Allen, Ames, Adams, forwards; Denneen, Penzo, Walsh, centers; Joe Crowley, Creedon, Jack Crowley, Densmore, Rockwell, guards.

SIX VETERANS BACK

Quincy High School Basketball Coach Munroe MacLean was counting on six returning veterans as his team faced four tough opening games with North Quincy, Everett, Chelsea and Somerville.

"Since Chelsea and Somerville were both Tech Tournament selections a year ago, we may be out of it before we're in it," said MacLean, who had been drilling a 16-man squad for two weeks.

Returning veterans included Marvin Weinstein, Bruce Williams, both seniors, and Bob MacDonald, Ronald Deardon, Dick Ruggles and Bart Robinson, all juniors.

Other candidates included Bob Coleman, Ed Mathieson, Mario Lopez, Steve Collins, Andy Oriola, Phil Vitale, Ralph Morrison, George Forsythe, Clem Nelson and Jim Kelley.

MELE'S TOUGHEST

Sam Mele of Quincy, outfielder for the Chicago White Sox, told Quincy's Little Leaguers and Pony Leaguers that Cleveland's Bob Lemon was the toughest pitcher for him to hit.

Speaking at their banquet, he also said that Phil Rizzuto of the New York Yankees was the toughest hitter to defense because "line drive hitters make it awfully difficult to play them right."

Commissioner Wally Forbush presented the Floyd Folmsbee Trophy to Charlie Fallon of the Rotary Little League champs and the Gilbert Crofts Trophy to Hugh Paul of Carroll's Pony League titlists.

TENNIS RANKINGS

Hobart H. Holly, president of the Quincy Tennis Club, reported that members of the club will make their best showing in years in the 1954 rankings of players by the New England Lawn Tennis Association.

The recommendation of the Ranking Committee placed Tom Raleigh No. 7 and Brooks Harris No. 17 in the men's singles and Raleigh and Harris as a team No. 3 in the men's doubles.

Barbara Keefe, a 16-year-old Quincy High School girl, was rated No. 21 among junior girls.

QJC Seeks First Win At Essex

The Quincy Junior College basketball team, off to one of its slowest starts, is still looking for its first victory after four games.

QJC will play at Essex Agricultural Friday night at 8, will be at Wentworth next Monday at 4 and will be home to Hellenic next Thursday at 7 at the Vo-Tech gym.

Coach Brian Buckley's Jaguars were edged by Daniel Webster College, 58-56, for their fourth loss in a row, a last minute rally just failing.

QJC was down by nine points with three minutes to play but came back to tie the score. John Caravella, who scored 28 points for the winners, hit on a 25-foot jumper at the buzzer to win it.

"It was a disappointing loss," said Buckley. "We played some great defense but our offense has been sputtering."

One of the bright spots this season has been the play of center-forward Jim Conboy. Conboy leads the team in rebounds and is the top scorer with an average of 23.3 points a game.

"Jim has played really well and is improving in every game," said Buckley. "I think he's the best forward in our league. Hopefully we can get some more offensive punch from other forwards."

After getting bombed by defending league champion Hellenic, QJC lost close games to Bunker Hill, Emerson and Daniel Webster.

"The boys have fought hard in every game, they never quit and the way they hustle you'd never know we were 0-4," Buckley said. "We could really use a win one of these nights."

Third Raider Shutout

Last week's win was the ninth shutout for North Quincy in the series, equalling Quincy's shutout figure.

These do not include three scoreless ties. The last tie was back in 1940.

Quincy has outscored North, 728-483 in the 49-year series. The Raiders have won four games by 6-0 scores, while Quincy has won by more than 20-0 six times.

The Raiders' longest win streak in the series was three in a row from 1971 to 1973, while the Presidents have won three in a row three times, four straight (three under the late Munroe McLean from 1949 to 1951 and one under Bill Sullivan in 1952) and five in a row under Sullivan from 1954 to 1958.

The most one-sided game was, in 1969 when the Presidents breezed, 53-0.

fine 17-7 season and an 8-4 ECAC Div. III mark.

Other Quincy players are Sophomores Dan Cronin and Don Perdios.

Ex-Hockey Pros To Play For Christmas Light Fund

A team from the Quincy Executive Hockey League will play a team of former pros for the benefit of the Christmas lighting fund Saturday, Dec. 5, at 8 p.m. in the Quincy Youth Arena.

The game is sponsored jointly by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the Quincy Youth Arena to help defray the cost of holiday lighting in Quincy Square.

Former pros among the Massachusetts All Stars include Paul Hurley, Doug Mohns and Davy Hynes of the Bruins, Tim Sheehy of the Whalers and Paul Stewart of the Quebec Nordiques.

Also Bill Langone, Jack Norwell, Wally Sogin, Ron McKenzie, Bob Fredo and Bill Dunn.

Executive Leaguers are Jack Aldred, Don Costa, Rich Gibbs, Jim Horner, Kevin Noone, Dave Towle, Bob Carroll, Ralph DiMattia, Kevin Glynn, Kevin Lewis, Dennis O'Connell, Joe Casey, Ed Hanson, Gerry Fitzgerald, Ed Grogan, Bob Murray and Martin Tolson.

They are coached by Ed O'Riordan and managed by Bill Lewis.

Tickets at $2 are available at the Youth Arena or from Quincy Square merchants. They will also be available at the door.

The Quincy Executive League will present two scholarships to two members of the Quincy Youth Hockey program which were drawn in November.

Lou DiPietro Awarded George MacGilvray Scholarship

Lou DiPietro, a former North Quincy High football standout now attending Northeastern University, was awarded the George D. MacGilvray scholarship at the first scholarship dance held recently at North Quincy K. of C. Hall.

This was the second scholarship awarded by the Friends of George D. MacGilvray and the first dance held by the group. More than 180 attended and $1300 was raised.

DiPietro was selected by the school for the scholarship.

Susan MacGilvray, sister of George, represented the family in presenting the scholarship.

MacGilvray, better known as Doug, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William MacGilvray of 10 Sharon Road, North Quincy. A North Quincy High graduate, he was a Raider football player in the 1950s. He died two years ago at the age of 45.

The only son of Mr. and Mrs. MacGilvray, he was a brother-in-law of Quincy football coach Tom Fitzgerald, a former North Quincy all-scholastic player and former Raider assistant coach, who was present for the award presentation.

The event, which included a buffet and dancing, was organized by Joe Newton and Joe Higgins, who were assisted by other Friends of George MacGilvray.

● Executive Hockey

Dayce's, Luke's Budget In Wins

Doug McLean scored twice to spark Dayce's Place to a 4-2 victory over Beau's Place Monday night in Executive Hockey League action at the Youth Arena.

Joe Casey and Jerry Ionanelli scored the other goals, both unassisted. Kevin Lewis, Jack Duffy and Ken Marini assisted on McLean's goals. For Beau's Bob Carroll scored both goals. Mark Mataunes had two assists and Ken Gardiner one.

Luke's Lounge topped Adams Sports, 4-2, on goals by Don Costa, Al McKay, Rich Gibbs and Kevin Sullivan. Ed Dwyer had two assists and Ralph Freeman and Costa one each. Dennis O'Connell and Paul Bauserme scored for Adams with assists for Bob O'Connell, Kevin Glynn and Don Fawcett.

Budget Rent-A-Car edged Washington Tap, 2-1, with Steve Marini scoring both goals. Jerry Fitzgerald had two assists and Mike Haynes one. Marty Tolson scored for Washington with Richie Fowkes assisting.

In the previous set of games Luke's Lounge topped Beau's Place, 4-2, with Ed Lenihan, Costa, Sullivan and Rich Gibbs scoring the goals. Sullivan had two assists and Gibbs, McKay, Dwyer and Ed Grogan one each. For Beau's Don Ronito and Carroll had the goals and Jack Hurley, Jack Aldred and Rich Craig had assists.

Haynes scored a hat trick to pace Budget Rent-A-Car to a 7-3 victory over Dayce's Place. Colin Campbell had two goals and Steve Marini and Jim Horner one each. Horner and Ted Ahola had two assists apiece and Chuck Behenna, Art Boyle, Dave Towle, Fred Cashman and Jerry Fitzgerald one each. Doug MacLean, Kevin Lewis and Ken Marini scored for Dayce's with Duffy and Lewis having two assists each.

Washington Tap and Adams Sports played to a 5-5 tie. Bob Simonelli had a hat trick for Adams and Paul O'Brien and Dennis O'Connell had one goal each. Bauserme and Bibby Lewis had two assists apiece and Dennis O'Connell, Bob O'Connell, Kevin Glynn and Bob Murray one each. For Washington, Bill Sweeney had two goals and Dick McCabe, Ralph Gibbs and Tom Roberts one each. Marty Tolson had two assists and Gibbs, Paul Hannon, Sweeney, Chet Brunstrum, Bernie Toland and Roberts one each.

Koch Basketball Program Resumes

The youth basketball program of the Koch Club will resume activity at Atlantic Junior High School gymnasium, Hollis Ave., North Quincy tonight (Thursday) following the Thanksgiving Day holiday.

The Atlantic Junior High School gym is the remaining location of the Koch Club basketball program now in its 33rd season. The Broad Meadows and Montclair Districts were terminated last season due to the increased cost of gymnasium rentals. However, boys from throughout the city are welcome to participate at the North Quincy site on Thursday evenings.

Ages 7 - 9 are scheduled at 6 p.m. with 10 - 13 year old boys reporting at 7:15 and those 14 and older participating at 8:30.

Track Club Members Qualify For Nationals

The Quincy Track Club qualified four athletes for the National Junior Olympics to be held Dec. 19 in Amarillo, Tex.

The club must raise an additional $500 for expenses and donations can be made to the Quincy Track Club, c/o Mrs. Irene Kelly, 65 Copley St., Wollaston 02170, or call 479-7032.

Brian Barrett placed eighth in the 9-10 boys group in the recent Region 1 Junior Olympics at Lakeville, Marta Martinez took fifth in 9-10 girls, Finn Kelly was fourth in 11-12 boys and Nancy Sullivan took fourth in 11-12 girls.

The meet featured teams from the six New England states, New York and New Jersey. The top 12 in each age division qualified for the nationals.

Fifteen other members of the QTC had qualified for the regional meet at an earlier qualifying meet at Lakeville.

In 9-10 boys Brian Barrett won the 300-meter race in 12:11 and Sutee Sirikanjanachal placed seventh. The top two in each race advanced to the regionals.

In 9-10 girls Marta Martinez won in 13:04 with Karen Cashan fourth, Cindy Bonner eighth and Nancy Sheehy 18th. Quincy's team qualified for the regionals by placing second. Deirdre Murphy and Liz Renda also advanced.

In 11-12 boys Finn Kelly easily won in 10:52, Stu Coull was 17th and Matty Warth 18th. In 11-12 girls Nancy Sullivan placed fourth in 12:04.

In 13-14 girls Tracy Coull was eighth, Karen Dunn was 20th and the team placed third.

Other QTC runners advancing were Mary Beth Bonner, Tracy Fostello, Laura Barrett, Sharon Barrett and Kathy Feeney. Also making the regionals were Shannon Gotter and Beth Tracey, who competed in the high school state meet.

Physical Education Therapy Workshop At NQHS

The Massachusetts Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation will sponsor a seminar-workshop Saturday, Dec. 5, at North Quincy High School.

The workshop, in the gymnasium area 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. is being co-chaired by Mary Lydon and Mary Pratt, physical education teachers in the Quincy School Department.

Both serve on the State Adapted Physical Education Committee which is involved in the implementation of programs, mandated under the guidelines of PL 94-142.

Theme of the sessions will be ADAPT-"A Diversified Approach to Physical Education Therapy".

Participants will include staff representatives from the public schools of Quincy, Cohasset, Boston, Brookline, and Waltham.

For further information, contact Mary Lydon at North Quincy High School or Mary Pratt through the Special Education or Physical Education Departments of the Quincy Public Schools.

Workshop Planned As Aid To State Grants

The State Council on the Arts and Humanities will hold a special workshop for organizations in search of state grants Wednesday, Dec. 9 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Quincy Historical Society.

The workshop is being held at the request of Sen. Paul D. Harold, who has expressed concern at the small number of state arts and humanities grants going to organizations in his district.

Communities, historical societies, cultural and artistic groups are all eligible to apply for the state grant programs.

The public is invited to attend the workshop, which is free of charge.

School Aid Info Programs Planned

A two-session financial aid information program for students, parents and members of the community will be held Monday, Dec. 7, and Monday, Dec. 14, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the Method Center at Quincy High School.

The program is sponsored by the guidance staff under the direction of Edward Nankin, the head counsellor.

The first meeting will concentrate on providing information on grants, loans, scholarships and work study programs. Significant handouts will be available.

The second session will provide help to parents and students in completing financial aid forms used in applying for federal, state and college grants.

Harold's Office Closed This Week

Sen. Paul D. Harold has cancelled his Friday constituent office hours this week as he will be in Washington to attend the Democratic National Committee's Eastern Regional Caucus.

Harold will participate in the caucus workshop on the effect of Reagan economics on state, county and local governments.

His regular office hours will resume Friday, Dec. 11, from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. in his office at 4 Maple St.

TEETH ARE WORTH SAVING

After years of cavities, fillings, abscesses, and gum treatments, the thought occurs to many people, "Wouldn't I be better off to just pull my teeth out and get a set of plates?"

The answer is almost always no. There are good reasons to save all the teeth you can.

Even the best dentures are a poor substitute for natural teeth. Studies have shown that even good dentures have only one quarter to one half the chewing efficiency of your natural set. And many people have great difficulty getting used to dentures — especially lower dentures. Denture sores can be a nagging problem. The shape of your gums can change, necessitating periodic relining or replacement of your dentures.

Be smart, and save all the teeth you can now.

Patrick McDonough Wins Top Prize Christmas Poster Winners Announced

Richard J. Koch, co-chairman of the fourth annual poster contest for the Quincy Festival Committee, has announced the winners and finalists in the competition on the theme "Memories of Christmas Past."

Patrick McDonough of 863 Sea St., a third grade student at the Atherton Hough School, won first prize in the Grades 1-3 category. Susan Doyle of 15 Pawsey St., also an Atherton Hough third grader, took second.

Gregory Clifford of 32 Essex St., a fifth grade student at Sacred Heart School was the top winner in the Grades 4-6 competition with Corinne Radzevich of 153 Vassall St., who is in the sixth grade at Sacred Heart, second.

Honorable mention in the Grades 4-6 class went to James Ferrara of 7 Piermont St., and Gary Rawdon, 36 Ruthven St. Both are fourth grade students at the Montclair School.

The winners were recognized at the awards ceremonies following Sunday's Christmas Parade in the North Quincy High School cafeteria.

The first prize winners received a $100 U.S. Savings Bond and the second prize winners were presented a $50 U.S. Savings Bond.

Honorable mention poster winners were awarded citations in recognition of their achievements.

Ten public and two parochial schools participated in the contest.

The preliminary judging of more than a thousand posters was done by classroom teachers and students. The final 200 posters were judged by Mrs. Marilyn Brooks, Mrs. Arlene Evans and Philomena Hastings.

Mrs. Gloria A. Noble was co-chairman with Koch. The contest is sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the city of Quincy.

WEEK OF: DECEMBER 3

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

A former rival becomes a trusted ally, perhaps with respect to a family affair. Weekend spotlights mental challenges. Monday-Wednesday favor cultural happenings.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Self-indulgent streak surfaces; you respond warmly to all who pamper you. Younger relative will be thrilled with some moral support from his/her favorite Pisces.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Look forward to domestic reconciliation, smooth financial negotiations and satisfaction over a job situation. Some friction may result when loved one challenges you on an item of past history.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Loved one is both more romantic and more democratic than he/she has been of late. Week accents public speaking, selling and hosting. Relatives may be distracted by their own romances.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Family seems a little insensitive to your needs - especially your needs for peace, quiet and cash. Human relations and diplomacy are your special strengths this week.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Your common sense can win you everything from a new friend to a job advancement. Hobbies are favored now - for their own sake, not as moneymaking ventures.

LEO - July 23-August 22

New tactics don't bring immediate results but they win you points for innovation. Short-cuts - especially in long-distance travel - may prove more costly, less convenient, than anticipated.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

A refreshed Virgo can win a brand new admirer this week. Practical decisions - especially regarding education and household affairs - are favored through the weekend. Travel may be delayed.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Travel enjoyed now, or arranged now, is done with more style than usual. Money matters shouldn't be delayed beyond weekend. Family can benefit from a comprehensive health inventory.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

It's tempting to volunteer, but you may soon regret having made certain commitments... or extended some invitations. Modest financial gains spotlighted starting Monday.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Secrets are revealed that may startle you; discretion is critical all week. Friday-Tuesday favor romantic reconciliation. Weekend is especially fortunate for sports/recreation enthusiasts.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Friendship may be strained over a companion's conclusion-jumping. Romance takes on a warm glow. Career rewards are intangible, but they're more significant than you might think.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You're enthusiasm personified: adventurous and ever eager to learn. But you're easily distracted - which makes the next 12 months challenging... to say the least. By seeing projects through to their finish, you can make significant financial advances.

BORN THIS WEEK

December 3rd, singer Andy Williams; 4th, actress Deanna Durban; 5th, director Otto Preminger; 6th, jazzman Dave Brubeck; 7th, actor Eli Wallach; 8th, actor Maximilian Schell; 9th, comedian Red Fox.

8 Motorcycles Banned At Lodging House Basement

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The owner of a Quincy Point Lodging house at 77-79 Cleverly Court was ordered Tuesday by Fire Chief Edward Barry to keep out of the building eight motorcycles the manager had worked on in the basement recently.

Barry and fellow License Board members also took to task owner Harold Rooney of Marshfield for allowing the fire alarm system to be temporarily out of operation and rubbish to be piled in the hallway.

The conditions were discovered during a routine inspection by Richard MacKenzie of the City Building Department.

MacKenzie told the board that the motorcycles (some owned by tenants), were apparently conveyed into the basement on a ramp from an open door.

When asked by Building Inspector Allan MacDonald, MacKenzie said he didn't consider the building's house-keeping to be good.

Rooney, who bought the building in October, 1977, told the board the fire alarm system, which he recently improved, was down because rooms were being painted.

Part of the alarm system was painted by mistake resulting in a delay in its being put back into operation, according to Rooney.

"It's your responsibility that the fire alarm system work properly," said Barry.

"If somebody died (as a result)," said MacDonald, "your explanation wouldn't do a damn bit of good."

Rooney said that Fred Prezioso from the Health Department had found nothing wrong during a recent inspection. He indicated MacKenzie's visit hadn't been announced as Prezioso's was.

"You should be ready for an inspection 12 months and 365 days a year," said City Clerk John Gillis.

Rooney told the board that he understood from Fire Dept. Lt. Robert Kelley that it was permissible to have motorcycles in the basement if the gas tanks were taken off or filled with a specified liquid.

The vapors in the tanks could still pose a danger in the basement, said Barry.

Rooney expressed his willingness to cooperate with the board and said the lodging house is "1000% better" than when he bought it.

He also said he voluntarily solved a problem with a neighbor who complained of water from the lodging house roof running onto his car.

MacDonald contended, "This thing is out of control. I think you've got a problem with your manager."

When Rooney answered that the manager is the best he's had, MacDonald said, "God help us if that's best."

Board members told Rooney that motorcycles should preferably be parked outside in the back of the building.

The matter was continued pending a final report by the Building Inspector.

"You better tell your manager to run a tight ship or it could cost you your license," MacDonald told Rooney.

ANOTHER HAZARD: CELLULOSE.

Our insulation customers can relax.

We don't use this product and we don't intend to!

We insulate with genuine Mineral Wool, a natural product. We don't use cellulose (see box).

People who purchased insulation "jobs" from "Here today - Gone tomorrow" companies are now suffering serious risks from the fire hazards of cellulose. It didn't have to happen. They could have believed what we said from the start.

For the record, let us state once again: "Let the Frank Evans Company inject Mineral Wool into your home for superior safe insulation".

We've been in Quincy for over twenty five years. Our products stand up; our reputation stands up; our word stands up.

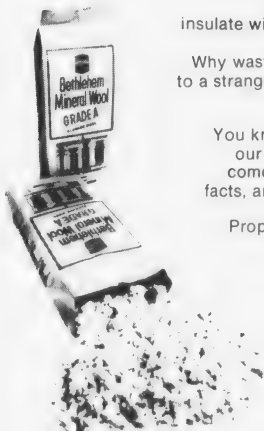

Proper insulation can save 25% on your heat bills right away and you'll likely save as much as 40% like our other customers.

And so you'll know that we'll give you a good value, here's our price in print: The average 1,000 square foot attic in Quincy costs about $650 to insulate with Mineral Wool; and that includes all our labor.

Why waste another heating dollar? Why give your money to a stranger when the Frank Evans Company will give you a fair price for a first class job? Why indeed!

You know our price, you know our product, you know our reputation . . . so give us a call. We'll cheerfully come to your home, give you a written quote, all the facts, and promise not to put you under any obligation.

Proper insulation is more than a question of money, it's a question of people's lives.

GENUINE MINERAL WOOL IS 100% NATURAL, WILL NOT CORRODE OR CAUSE FIRE AND IT DOES NOT SETTLE OR SINK. IT HAS NO ODOR OR HEALTH HAZARD.

Cellulose insulation fails 61% of US fire tests

Cellulose insulation, which manufacturers and installers label as fire-retardant, failed 61 percent of fire safety tests conducted by the US Consumer Product Safety Commission over the past three years.

That failure rate, which was consistent throughout the test program, has aroused the concern of fire authorities that consumers may have unknowingly bought inferior and perhaps highly flammable cellulose insulation for their homes.

The US Fire Administration suspects cellulose insulation was a factor in 1500 or more house fires last year, most of them electrical in origin, with an average property loss of $2500.

Massachusetts Fire Marshal O'Keefe, echoing the fears of other officials, said he is worried that consumers still have no sure way to know whether insulation they buy complies with federal rules, which will remain in effect and which have the force of law.

"I can't know what to tell consumers," O'Keefe said. "I would tend to tell them to rely on insulation other than cellulose."

Next Year:

Fines Up To $10 Set For Downtown Areas

It will cost motorists $10 to park illegally in certain critical business areas of Quincy once a new schedule of traffic fines goes into effect, possibly as early as two months from now.

That's an increase of $8, or some 400 per cent, under the schedule that was approved by the City Council Monday night. The State Department of Public Works must also give its approval.

One critical Zone A (Code Red), calling for fines up to $10, will include the Quincy Center MBTA station, the municipal parking areas, Hancock St., Washington St. and Burgin Parkway, plus side streets.

The $10 fine would cover such offenses as overtime parking, expired meter, defiance of the corner law, parking on a cross-walk, parking within 10 feet of a hydrant, blocking a driveway, double parking.

A $5 fine would be imposed on lesser offenses as all night parking, parking outside the lines, repeating coin deposit and parking with the vehicle not facing the curb.

There would be a $20 fine in all zones for blocking snow removal.

A second Zone A (Code Red) will be established around the Wollaston MBTA station and including the business area and a third around the North Quincy MBTA station and the Norfolk Downs business district.

Illegal parking in areas designated Zone B (Code Yellow) would call for $5 fines for most offenses and $10 for parking within 10 feet of a hydrant or blocking a driveway.

Zone B (Code Yellow) areas generally include the streets on the perimeter of the Zones A and all the remaining streets will be Zone C (Code White) carrying fines of $3 to $5 for violations.

The package passed on by the Council also includes a recommendation that all parking meters in Quincy be converted to single coins, with a 25-cent piece used for two hours of parking.

The Police Traffic Division noted in its recommendation that a quarter for two hours "is only a small increase to the consumer." The recommendation also noted that:

"The adding of two more meter persons to bring our total to five along with a systematic assistance from patrol personnel would on a conservative estimate double or triple our present meter receipts and fines.

"Without patrol assistance on enforcement, it is estimated that sufficient coverage could be maintained by a total of nine meter persons working under supervision of the Traffic Division."

The Traffic Division said plans are under consideration for parking of vehicles used by owners and employees of downtown business establishments.

The Council also designated a number of downtown tow zones, including: Chestnut St., Cottage Ave., Maple St., Temple St., Foster St. and Revere Rd.

The City Council's Finance Committee will meet tomorrow (Friday) at 5 p.m. to discuss the request by the mayor for $122,068.50 to rehire 10 additional firefighters.

The rehiring was negotiated by the city and the firefighters union and includes a pledge by the city not to layoff any more until June 30, 1982, and to negotiate any layoffs after that.

The mayor's request came up before the Council Monday night and was shunted into the Finance Committee by Councilor and Mayor-elect Francis McCauley, who has been critical of the no layoff clause.

He asked that a copy of the agreement be made available for tomorrow's meeting.

Part Of Compromise

No Vacancy Clause In Condo Law

By TOM HENSHAW

The City Council received a proposed condominium conversion control ordinance Monday night — minus a vacancy rate factor that some view as critical to its success.

Stephen J. McGrath, who chaired the special committee that studied the condo conversion problem, said the vacancy rate was left out as part of a compromise between the tenant and landlord factions on the committee.

"It was a concession by the tenants," he said. "In return the landlords made the concession of giving nine months notice to tenants and two years notice to the elderly and the handicapped."

He said that at one point the landlords' representatives were proposing notice periods of two and four months.

In a number of cities that have condo conversion ordinances, conversion is forbidden if the community's housing vacancy rate is below a certain figure, anywhere from 3.5 to 8 per cent.

McGrath said the committee spoke to officials of Everett, Lynn, Malden and Somerville, all of which have vacancy rate factors, and it really wasn't working as expected.

"None of them have found a foolproof way to find the vacancy rate," he said.

"The fellow from Lynn told us that when landlords in Lynn look at the low vacancy rate they take the rental unit off the market and the city ends up with vacant buildings."

"The committee recognizes that apparently a housing shortage exists in Quincy," McGrath told the Council. "This is an attempt to address one aspect of that shortage."

"Condo conversion is itself not a bad thing, however, if current tenants are harmed by displacement by condo conversion I believe the government must act to assist them."

Major provisions of the ordinance proposed by the McGrath committee include:

- Nine months notice to tenants and two years notice to elderly or handicapped tenants before a landlord can take action to dispossess them for condo

Parked Cars Make Snow Work Slow, Costly Job

The weekend storm that dropped upwards of a foot of unexpected snow on Quincy cost the city some $60,000, almost half the snow budget for the current fiscal year.

"In view of the money and manpower problems that the Public Works Department has faced, I think they did an excellent job," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin.

But it might have been a better and less expensive undertaking if the DPW had had more cooperation from the public, many of whom probably voted for the budget-slashing Proposition 2½.

"We had a severe problem with parked cars," said Public Works Commissioner James J.

Ricciuti. "We've always had the problem but it seems to get worse."

"There seems to be a deliberate flaunting of the problem by a large segment of the public that simply doesn't care. They park on both sides of the street so it's hard to get equipment through."

"Our snow removal equipment is big and wide. We have to slow to a crawl on these streets so that we won't damage the cars. Some streets we just have to let the plowing go."

Ricciuti said he had 45 to 50 city employees, volunteers at overtime pay on the basis of seniority, at work with 16 to 20 pieces of equipment during the storm, starting at 4 p.m. Saturday.

Private equipment was called in at 5:30 a.m. Sunday, he said, and some 50 additional vehicles with crews worked on until 12 midnight Sunday, a total of 18½ hours.

Ricciuti said the city spent an estimated $60,000 for labor, hired equipment, sand, salt, fuel and repairs.

The budget for fiscal 1982 contains $127,000 for snow removal and any expense over that incurred during the remaining three to four months of the snow season will have to go in next year's budget.

Tobin said snow removal during this storm was particularly difficult because its magnitude was not anticipated by the weather bureau and it came on a weekend when available workers were scattered.

The mayor noted that within a month and a half of his taking office in 1978 the city was hit with three major snow storms, including the Great Blizzard of February.

"We came in with a bang," he said, "and it looks like we'll be going out with a bang."

IRS Money For You?

The Boston District of Internal Revenue Service has $1,546,340.14 for Massachusetts individuals and businesses, 14 of which are located in Quincy.

The money represents federal tax refund checks mailed in 1981 and returned to the IRS by the postal department as "undeliverable".

Local taxpayers and businesses with money due them from the IRS are: Elizabeth A. Connolly, Margaret M. Connolly, John Dedoming, Lisa M. Falcione, Peter J. Finlay, Victor W. and Theresa Jordan, Mary L. McLaughlin, Peter Mozelewski, Elinor Parmeles, Lennart B. Plahn, Jr., William M. Veadar, Nirmala Madhavarac, James D. Scheele, Jimmy's Mobil Service Station; and Patriot Lunch Inc.

Taxpayers or businesses whose names are listed should call the Internal Revenue Service's toll free number, 523-1040 in Boston, and 1-800-329-6288 elsewhere in Massachusetts.

They should be prepared to provide IRS telephone assistants with proper identification: name, address and social security number.

Personnel will assist with application for reissuance of the refund check.

It is not necessary for a taxpayer to consult or engage services of a locating or searching service, or anyone else to obtain information about the refunds.

Kiwanians To Aid At Christmas Chimney

Members of the Quincy Kiwanis Club will lend their annual holiday hand to the Salvation Army Saturday Dec. 12, manning the fund-raising chimney in front of the Hancock Bank.

The Kiwanians will be at the chimney for a half hour at a stretch, starting with Club President Ronald McKee at 10 a.m. and continuing to 5 p.m.

Now At Quincy Hospital: Emergency Medical Consultation Via Radio

One of the most sophisticated emergency medical radio systems in the country is scheduled to go into operation by mid-December at City Hospital.

The new system will provide radio contact between Bay State Ambulance Co. vehicles and the emergency room at City Hospital and other hospitals by way of a regional control center in Boston.

The ambulance is equipped with a special medical consultation radio which allows an emergency medical technician (EMT) in the ambulance to care for a patient while receiving instructions from the hospital.

Dr. James Katz, director of the City Hospital emergency room, said the new program "will result in a more effective level of emergency care delivery to the citizens of Quincy."

It represents one of the first steps in implementing the city's new advanced emergency medical system.

In the event of a disaster or unusual problem, the control center will provide additional support through the regional network thus allowing coordination with specialty centers and rescue agencies.

The radio network which now includes the City Hospital also serves 17 Boston teaching hospitals and includes poison, neonatal, burn and trauma centers.

The control center, known as "Boston C-Med" (Central-Medical Emergency Direction), also coordinates helicopter medivac missions and communications for the Massachusetts Logan Airport Fire-Rescue.

The addition of Quincy to the network will allow the Bay State Ambulance Service, Quincy's primary emergency provider, with the same level of system-wide communications offered to those already in the network.

Michael Kitchen, director of City Hospital, said that the new radio system is a step toward the advancement of the City's emergency medical service system.

The radio system, combined with the advanced training of EMT's, will allow the advanced-life-support rendered within the hospital to be extended to the field.

In February, the radio system will again be expanded to include an "EKG telemetry" system. This will allow a hospital-based physician to read the patient's electrocardiogram while directing the EMT-Paramedics at the patient's side.

Similar advanced-life-support systems are currently operating in Los Angeles, Miami, Chicago and Boston.

Can you tell which one of these people joined our CHRISTMAS CLUB last year?

QCAO Opposes Sale Of State Aided Public Housing Projects

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Quincy Community Action Organization, Inc. is the local non-profit agency with the responsibility for advocating on behalf of low-income residents.

The Board of Directors of Quincy Community Action Organization, Inc. has determined from public hearings and data collected from our program components that the overwhelming problem facing poor people is the lack of affordable, safe and sanitary housing.

There is legislation pending in the Mass. Senate (S2363, Section II) which would authorize local housing authorities to sell off state aided public housing projects despite the desperate need. In Quincy and Weymouth, over 600 families live in apartments that could be affected by this legislation.

The Quincy and Weymouth

Housing Authorities have reported on the long waiting lists of applicants. These numbers dramatically demonstrated the great need for housing in the area. It is incredibly harsh for the State of Massachusetts to consider removing the only housing for the poor from them at a time when no new units are being built, the elderly are being forced out of "condoed" apartment buildings and high mortgage rates block our young families from home ownership.

There are presently 15,000 households living in state financed family developments throughout the Commonwealth. Where will the very old and the very young go?

Quincy Community Action Organization, Inc. opposes Section II of the "Housing Package" Bill Senate 2363.

4-Year Term? No!

Whenever a new mayor is about to take office, someone always wants to start a move to change the present two-year term to a four-year one.

An incoming mayor would hardly object. He would have an extra two years before having to worry about the next election.

And, of course, the outgoing mayor — if it were in effect — would have had an extra two years before he was outgoing.

You hear talk about a four-year term now. Main argument advanced for it is that under the two-year term, a new mayor hardly gets his feet wet before he has to run again.

Two years, proponents insist, just don't give him sufficient time to get his show on the road.

Another good reason, if you happened to be the mayor, is that it would save you a lot of money. You would have two extra years without having to print political flyers or place political ads in the newspapers.

There is a general suspicion among some people that newspapers mainly oppose a four-year term for mayor because it would cut down advertising revenue.

Well, it would mean less advertising.

But there's more to the opposition than that. A two-year term makes a mayor accountable to the people sooner and more often. Which is the way it should be.

With a four-year term, he could coast his first two years — knowing he still has two more years before having to face the people.

But the best argument against a four-year term would be the wrong man in the office. If you got the wrong one it would be a long four-years before you could do much about it.

A new mayor isn't expected to set the world on fire in his first two years. All the people want to see is that he is trying to do a good job. They usually reward him with a second term. So he gets those four years anyway. All he has to do is deserve them.

ACTUALLY, the present two-year term is twice as long as it used to be.

Quincy's first 14 mayors served one-year terms.

MAYOR-ELECT Francis McCauley is expected to disclose most of his administration appointments next week.

Meanwhile, the speculation continues. City Hall observers wouldn't be surprised to see Elmer (Mike) Fagerlund return as chairman of the board of assessors. He served under Mayors James McIntyre, Walter Hannon and Joseph LaRia.

4 Santa Mailboxes In Downtown Area

Richard J. Koch, member of the Christmas Festival Committee, announces the Santa Mailboxes for children are available again this season in Quincy Center.

The four locations include the rear of the Child World Store in the Parking Way, in front of Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream Store, in front of Colman's Sporting Goods and the front of City Hall, adjacent to the McIntyre Mall.

Letters to Santa must be deposited at the four locations no later than Tuesday, Dec. 22 for forwarding by special delivery to Santa Claus.

The Santa Mailboxes are sponsored by the Christmas Festival Committee of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the City of Quincy.

Latest guessing is that Arthur Foley who has been heading up McCauley's transition team, will become McCauley's administrative assistant. Peter Kenney is seen in line for the executive secretary's post for which Foley has been mentioned. Kenney was campaign coordinator for Paul Harold when he ran against Arthur Tobin for senator.

DURING THIS YEAR'S election, mayoral contender Daniel Raymond attempted to pull out a victory by appealing to registered Democrats in the city who far outnumber Republicans and Independents.

RAYMONDI

That alienated Republicans, a good many Independents and apparently a lot of Democrats who like their city elections non-partisan and showed it by giving Republican Francis McCauley a landslide victory.

But, it might surprise you that Quincy's first 14 mayors were elected on a partisan basis.

Nine were Republicans: Charles H. Porter (the city's first mayor); Henry O. Fairbanks, Russell A. Sears, John O. Hall, Charles M. Bryant, James Thompson, Eugene R. Stone, Chester I. Campbell and Gustave B. Bates. (Bates, who served in 1916 and again in 1923-24, originally ran as a Socialist in 1899 and lost.)

Four were Democrats: William A. Hodges, Charles F. Adams, Harrison A. Keith and William T. Shea.

One — John L. Miller was elected by the Taxpayers Party. He is the only Quincy mayor to die in office.

JOSEPH CORTESE who was defeated by Ted DeCristofaro for the Ward 2 City Council seat this year, may be back on the political path next year. Says he's seriously thinking of challenging Rep. Robert Cerasoli.

CORTESE

Home Rule Bill Passed

Council Moves To Save Stray Dogs From Experimentation

The City Council, urged on by antivivisectionists and members of the humane society, passed a home rule petition Monday night which, if approved by the legislature, would keep stray dogs from Quincy out of the hands of medical experimenters.

It might also add a few dollars to the city budget for fiscal 1983.

The petition would exempt the city of Quincy from the state law which allows stray animals in the city pound to be sold for purposes of scientific investigation and experimentation.

The problem is that the expenses of the Quincy city pound are paid out of such sales since the annual budget for the facility contains only enough money for salaries of the dog officer and his assistant.

"The next mayor and City Council are going to have to fully fund the budget for the pound or continue to operate it the way it is now," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin. "We can't have it both ways."

Tobin said he would sign the home rule petition and send it to the State House.

He said a plan to fund the expenses of the pound in the budget was discussed a couple of years ago but it never got out of the discussion stage before the state's 4 per cent budget cap went into effect.

John H. McDuff Jr. of Quincy Point spoke in favor of the home rule petition and its accompanying resolution, noting that similar stands have been taken by Weymouth, Everett, Saugus and Sharon.

"This is not a question of anti-experimentation in general but an attempt to spare pound animals in Quincy from the suffering and cruelty of medical experimention," he said.

Councillor James A. Sheets, who filed the home rule petition, noted that, once the exemption from the state law is obtained, the Council would have to pass an ordinance prohibiting the sale of animals for experimental purposes.

Sheets also filed the resolution which placed the Council in opposition to "the use of impounded animals for medical and other types of experimentation."

Passage of the resolution drew a round of applause from some 20 people in the audience, including Bernard Dellman of Sharon, executive director of the New England Anti-vivisection Society.

"We realize that the resolution has no force in law," said McDuff, "but it would set the tone, feeling and sense of the Council."

Tobin, LaRaia Spar Over FD Bookkeeper

Echoes of the old feud between Mayor Arthur H. Tobin and City Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia were heard at the Council meeting Monday night when the Fire Department asked to substitute a principal bookkeeper for a supervisor of payrolls.

The switch would require an appropriation of $8,859.50.

LaRaia, a former mayor who lost that post to Tobin in 1977 after a bitter campaign, saw it as "an attempt to circumvent the Civil Service law" and place a friend in the job.

"With three weeks to go," he said, "we should be duly aware of this last attempt to shuffle people in certain spots who are close associates of the mayor."

Mayor Tobin said it was no such thing.

"The responsible thing for Councillor LaRaia to have done was to investigate the facts," he said.

"If he had he would have been informed of the crisis confronting Fire Department personnel. Unless I acted immediately to loan a man the Fire Department could not have met its payroll."

Tobin explained that the department's supervisor of payrolls had died and his backup man was about to enter the hospital so he sent Al Sheehman from the Law Department to work on the payroll.

The mayor said that Sheehman, who has a background in accounting, "is not on the list of the job nor does he want it."

"As soon as the City Council acts on the request for a principal bookkeeper, whose job would include more than the payroll, then a person can come off the list," he said.

"Mr. LaRaia is incorrect in his conclusion. He should check out the facts."

At the request of Councillor and Mayor-elect Francis X. McCauley, the request was sent to the Finance Committee for further study.

● A 60-day opportunity for the tenant who rents or leases a unit to purchase his or her unit.

● Moving expenses paid by the landlord up to $300 for any displaced tenant who qualifies under the income section of the housing assistance law.

● A fine of not more than $200 a day per unit for each violation of the ordinance.

Passage of the ordinance will require the approval of the State Legislature and McGrath said he hopes that a home rule petition will be enacted with the ordinance and sent to the State House.

He said the ordinance was "a unanimous report of the committee" which include two

'Two Gun' Baker Quits, Condemns 'Lousy Politicians'

Officer James H. (Two Gun) Baker, the colorful and controversial motorcycle cop, announced his resignation after 11 years on the Quincy police force by poking his head into the editorial department of the Patriot Ledger and shouting:

"I've just quit! I'm free! My soul is my own and I am not being dictated to by a lot of cheap lousy politicians!"

Police Chief Ernest H. Bishop confirmed that Baker had resigned the day after he was refused a 10-day extension of his three-month leave of absence. Bishop said he gave no reason.

Baker, 39, with his Texas drawl and a pistol on each hip, became possibly the best known police officer in the East as a motorcycle cop chasing speeding automobiles and as a public speaker on highway safety.

When Chief Bishop took him off his 'cycle and put him in a patrol car, Quincy school children paraded with signs that read: "Put Baker back on his motorcycle."

It was reported that he once gave out 14 tickets for speeding and was told to prosecute only two of them. He looked at the two tickets in his hand and said:

"You poor SOB's. So you're the only two out of 14 who didn't have friends in high places. Well, dammit, you've got one friend."

Whereupon he tore the tickets up.

FAVORITISM CHARGED

City Councillor Thomas S. Burgin charged that favoritism was being shown and political pressure being exerted in the distribution of jobs by the local Federal Employment office.

"I have many cases coming to me who are most worthy, men with large families who were among the first to register at the employment office but are not getting any work," said Burgin.

"Today one man told me that several painters who are working in the schools never held a paint brush in their hands before."

DRUNKS WARNED

Chief Bishop, who was also the president of the Massachusetts Police Chiefs' Association, warned that the laws against drunken driving will be rigidly enforced when liquor returns to the state.

"I hope," he said, "there will be no return to the old days before Prohibition when almost every night the train from Boston would unload its cargo of drunks at the Quincy stations."

SETTLEMENT WON

Thomas Joyce and Arthur Peterson, who were fired from their jobs as skilled mechanics in the Highway Department when the city administration changed, won a $700 settlement in court for overtime owed.

The Wollaston Glee Club will entertain Monday, Dec. 14, at 7:15 p.m. at the annual Christmas Party at the William B. Rice Eventide Home, 215 Adams St., Quincy Center.

Introducing the program will be Mrs. Ainsley W. Dingwell.

The glee club will preselect Christmas Carols and other music.

"The Holiday Angels", a childrens group directed by Mrs. Jean Harnett, will also entertain.

Mrs. W. Robert Kilbourn, Mrs. Donald MacKenzie, Mrs. Albert Bailey and Mrs. Alfred T.

Napton will greet guests.

Mrs. Robert H. Reed, auxiliary president, will extend holiday greetings.

Santa Claus will stop for a visit and a social hour will follow.

Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Robert Blair and Mrs. Harold Beach, co-chairmen of the hospitality committee, and members.

The next regular meeting will be Monday, Jan. 25, 1982. Guest speaker will be Rev. Elden Zuern, Bethany Church, who will discuss "Youth and Senior Citizens - What Makes Them Tick".

Deborah McNeice Engaged To Christopher P. Ryan

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DiCesare of Quincy announce the engagement of their daughter, Deborah Ann McNeice, to Christopher P. Ryan, son of Mrs. Caroline Ryan of Quincy and the late Mr. Dennis

F. Ryan.

Miss McNeice, a graduate of Aquinas Junior College, attends Suffolk University School of Law. He is employed at the State House, Boston.

A June, 1982 wedding is planned.

Mr. Ryan, a graduate of Northeastern University, attends Suffolk University School of Law. He is employed at the State House, Boston.

A June, 1982 wedding is planned.

DUAL CELEBRATION was held recently in honor of the 40th wedding anniversaries of, from left, Quincy residents Corady and Lee (Antonelli) Solimini and Irene (Kemski) and Gerald Antonelli.

2 Quincy Couples Celebrate 40th Anniversaries

Quincy residents Mr. and Mrs. Corady Solimini and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Antonelli recently celebrated their 40th wedding anniversaries at a dual surprise party at the Viking Club, Braintree.

The double celebration was planned since Mrs. Solimini and Mr. Antonelli are brother and sister, and both couples were married during the same year.

The dinner reception was given by the children of the two couples: Vice Solimini of West Dennis, Loretta (Solimini) Bonfiglioli and Stephen Bonfiglioli of Braintree, Chris Solimini of Quincy, Loretta (Antonelli) Fermano and Domenic Fermano of Malden, Gerald C. Antonelli of New York, Irene (Antonelli) Sancinito and Joseph Sancinito of Wakefield.

Some 130 relatives and friends were on hand for the celebration. Toasts were given by Larry Antonelli of Quincy, brother of Mrs. Solimini and Mr. Antonelli, and Vincent Solimini of Quincy, brother of Mr. Solimini.

The Soliminis were married July 13, 1941 in Quincy.

Mrs. Solimini is the former Lee Antonelli. Mr. Solimini is a Quincy Police Department lieutenant. The couple has five grandchildren.

The Antonellis were married Oct. 12, 1941 in Dorchester, and have three grandchildren. Mrs. Antonelli is the former Irene Kemski. Mr. Antonelli is employed by L. Antonelli Iron Works, Quincy.

5-Year Total $470,101

Quincy-S.S. Telethon Committee Raises $109,361 For MDA

The Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee and pledge center raised $109,361 this year final tabulated figures show.

The figure brings to $470,101 the grand total realized in the five-year existence of the committee and pledge center.

The $109,361 includes $68,018 in special events during the year and $45,616 in pledges and $5,727 in fishbowl receipts at The Quincy Sun-based pledge center over the Labor Day weekend.

This year's total fell short of last year's $117,438 which was a record for the Quincy-South Shore area.

Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth and Richard Koch, executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board are co-chairmen of the committee.

Quincy led the special events with $25,551. Weymouth was second with $11,577 followed by Hingham, $9,147; Braintree, $8,092; Hull, $3,525; Randolph, $2,349; Cohasset, $1,500 and Milton, $552.

In addition, a mail campaign in the Quincy-South Shore area raised $5,722.

AN OPEN HOUSE was held recently by Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, 266 Water St., a non-profit organization assisting with neighborhood and housing improvement in Southwest Quincy. From left, are board member Martha Robinson; Margo Kelly, who received a plaque for her role in developing QNHS; board member Lucy Vespaziani; and Rev. James Kimmell, president of the board of directors. More information on Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services is available by calling 770-2227.

City Club Breakfast Sunday

The Quincy City Club's seventh annual Christmas Breakfast has been rescheduled for Sunday, Dec. 13, at 10 a.m. at the Wollaston Recreational Facility Hall, 347 West Squantum St., Montclair.

Postponed because of the snow storm last Sunday, the program will include an outline of the Christmas Charity Projects of the organization for 1981.

The Quincy City Club chartered in 1974 started series charity projects in 1975. Included in its activities were television sets, radios and equipment for hospitals, bedding and pajamas for institutions and individual gifts for the mentally ill.

Other major gifts by the organization included $1000 for a projector and six medical cartridge programs to be used in the Intensive Care Unit of Quincy Hospital, $1000 to the Medical Oncology Research Fund of the Sidney Farber Cancer Institute and $525 for a controlled basketball unit for the Mass. Hospital School in Canton to be used for recreation and therapy purposes.

Richard J. Koch, president of the City Club, said more than $12,000 has been expended on charitable projects with all funds derived from the personal gifts of the membership.

The City Club with 90 members meets four times a year. Members are primarily concerned with charitable and community activities.

☐. How Should You Park Your Cash? A. Any Way You Want!

☐. Want worthwhile tax savings, plus high yield?

A. Quincy Cooperative Bank has two answers:

1. All Savers Certificate that allows up to $1000 tax-exempt interest on Federal taxes if you file single, $2000 if jointly. Interest is based on current one-year U.S. Treasury bill yield. Early withdrawal causes loss of tax exemption and interest penalties.
2. IRA and Keogh retirement accounts that allow you to shelter significant amounts of your income, whether or not you have other pension plans. Tax and interest penalties under certain conditions.

☐. Want a short-term investment at high interest?

A. Check out these alternatives:

1. Ask about Quincy Cooperative Bank's 30-60-89-day Repurchase Agreements, known as REPOS. These are not deposits nor insured.
2. Call us for current yield on six-month, insured certificates of deposit. Interest penalties for early withdrawal.

☐. Want some funds readily available when need arises, but still earning interest?

A. Enroll in either or both of these accounts:

1. Regular passbook account, with interest at 5½%, compounded continuously.
2. N.O.W. checking account. Interest at 5¼% is credited monthly. No regular monthly charge. Fees for special services such as stop-payment, overdraft.

☐. Want to "lock-in" high interest for longer terms?

A. Invest in a Quincy Cooperative 30-month certificate.

It's fully insured and pays the highest interest rate allowed by law. Interest penalties for early withdrawal.

WHAT IS CALCULUS?

Those hard deposits often seen on the backs of lower front teeth — sometimes white, sometimes yellow or brown — are popularly known as "tartar." A better term is "calculus," for these deposits are formed from the calcium salts of saliva. They are similar to the deposits found on the bottom of an old tea kettle.

Calculus is most evident just behind the lower front teeth because glands secrete saliva there, but it can collect on all teeth (and on dentures and bridges), often under the gum margin. In conjunction with bacterial plaque, this causes inflammation of the gums and subsequent loss of bone.

In fact, calculus would not adhere to the teeth at all if it were not for the sticky matrix of the plaque.

Koch Santa Visits Dec. 19-20

The Koch Club will conduct its 25th annual Santa Claus visit to shut-in children, Saturday, Dec. 19 and Sunday, Dec. 20 between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. according to Richard J. Koch, executive director.

The program is for boys and girls who are confined to their homes year 'round or are unable to visit a Santa during the holiday season.

If the weekend is not convenient for the parents and child because of sickness or other reason, a special date and time may be selected for Santa's visit.

Only parents of the children may request the schedule of Santa's visit and those interested may contact Richard J. Koch, 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

Santa will arrive with a special gift for each of the children in advance of his Christmas Eve visit to the area.

The Santa Program was started in 1957 for children in Quincy and later expanded to include Weymouth, Braintree and other neighboring communities.

Richard M. Morrissey and Thomas P. Koch are co-chairmen of the Santa Visitation Program.

Glendon Sullivan Completes Health Mission To Remote Nepal

Glendon E. Sullivan, son of Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Sullivan, 33 Albion Road, Wollaston, spent the summer with an international health team in Nepal. A third year medical student at the University of Kentucky, he was chosen to participate in the three-month expedition by the Johns Hopkins University Department of International Health.

From Delhi, India, the group traveled into the remote western Mahakali Zone of Nepal, led by local tribal guides to two-mile-high levels of the Himalaya Mountains.

At Dhungar village, Baitadi District, never before served by modern medicine, a clinic was set up where many patients received medical or surgical treatment.

Sullivan was graduated from North Quincy High in 1972. After receiving a degree from McGill University, Montreal, he was engaged for three years in biomedical research before entering University of Kentucky in 1979.

Fenno Residents To See 'The Nutcracker'

Residents of Fenno House, 540 Hancock St., Wollaston, will attend the Boston Festival Ballet's performance of "The Nutcracker" Tuesday, Dec. 15, at 11 a.m. at the Strand Theatre, Dorchester.

A bus will leave the center at 10:15 a.m.

After the performance, luncheon will follow at the Milton Hill Restaurant.

Koch Club Christmas Drive Seeks Additional Gifts For Needy

Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Koch Club, announces the organization is seeking additional toys both old and new to fill the many requests being received from charitable, church, community and social service agencies.

Economic conditions have resulted in a greater need for assistance to families without means to provide gifts for their children, he said.

Used toys are acceptable and will be distributed for presentation to boys and girls where the need is greatest.

The Koch Club started the Toys Program in 1971 with 200 gifts collected and provided to families who lost all their belongings in a pre-Christmas fire. The project has continued and increased with over 10,000 items collected, cleaned, packaged and delivered for the needy in the past ten years. Those families with useable toys wishing to help are asked to leave the articles at 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

Persons may purchase and provide a gift for a particular boy or girl of any age and may contact Koch for further information if they wish to designate a specific gift.

The Koch Club has been a coordinator for the toys distribution the past 10 years with assistance and cooperation from the Parker School, Massachusetts Fields School, Sacred Heart School, North Quincy, Woodward School for Girls, Broad Meadows Junior High School, Central Junior High School, Otis Elevator employees, Granite City Grange, George F. Bryan VFW Post and Auxiliary and hundred of individuals.

Michelle Tulimieri High Honor Student

Michelle Tulimieri, a ninth grader at Central Junior High School, has named to the high honor roll.

Miss Tulimieri was inadvertently listed on the honor roll in last week's Quincy Sun from information supplied by the school.

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

THE BOTTLE EXPLOSION

The highest number of insurance claims involving household items comes from incidents relating to bottles, according to the National Commission on Product Safety after a three month survey of 545 major insurance companies that write product liability policies.

Total reported claims were 2,582. Injuries from broken bottles were involved in 452 cases. Next highest: 155 claims against makers of beauty aids; third, 112 claims involving stairs.

Many bottle-related injuries were the result of exploding bottles. The glass industry ships over 73 billion (yes, that's billion) items each year, so it's not surprising that injury by glass bottles is high. This may be a very deceiving figure - because only a small fraction of those people cut by broken glass ever put in insurance claims. Fortunately, for the consumer, glass containers are gradually being replaced by plastic, metal and cardboard.

Quincy Fund Raisers To Benefit Leukemia Society

Local residents can help in the fight against Leukemia at several fund raisers in Quincy and nearby towns this week-end, according to Norfolk County chairman, Sheriff Clifford H. Marshall.

Former Bruins star Bobby Orr is honorary chairman in Norfolk County.

A tag day will be held Friday at the Winter St. gate of General Dynamics, with members of Locals 5 and 90 as well as members of the G.D. administration taking part.

Tag day activities will also take place Saturday in Quincy at supermarket and shopping centers, as well as in other towns in Norfolk County.

Soliciting contributions will be high school students, boy scouts and members of the Honorary Deputy Sheriffs Association.

There will also be a tag day Sunday at the New England Patriots game at Shaefer Stadium, Foxboro.

Upcoming events to benefit the Leukemia Society include a reception sponsored by Sheriff Marshall Sunday, Jan. 31, 2:30 to 5:30 p.m. at Batterymarch Park, Quincy.

There will be hors d'oeuvres and entertainment.

Celebrity guests and sports figures will be on hand, as well as television personalities.

Ch. 5 will also broadcast from the event during the afternoon.

Tickets for a drawing on a 1982 Ford Escort L, four door sedan, will be available. Winning ticket will be drawn Feb. 6, and the winner presented keys to the car during Channel 5's "Five Hours for Life" telecast Feb. 7.

Tickets for the reception, and more information, are available by calling 479-2063 or 329-6730.

FUND RAISING ACTIVITIES to benefit the Leukemia Society, Inc., will be held this week-end in Quincy and other local towns. Sheriff Clifford Marshall, left, is chairman for Norfolk County, and Bobby Orr, right, honorary chairman.

Heart Saver Task Force Sponsoring CPR Course

The Quincy Heart Saver Task Force will sponsor a cardiopulmonary resuscitation course (CPR) Dec. 10 and 17, 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. at Quincy Masonic Temple, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

CPR is the emergency procedure for restoring life in a person whose heart beat and breathing have stopped.

A fee for the course is charged to cover cost of materials.

The Way Up Sponsoring 'German Christmas'

German cooking, songs and puppets will be available to the public at "German Christmas" Saturday, Dec. 12, at 6:30 p.m. at Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center.

The special Christmas dinner is being sponsored by The Way Up, a youth ministry in Quincy.

"The dinner is intended to be a very inexpensive vacation trip to Germany," said the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, director of The Way Up. "We really want to give people a good time."

Although the German language will be spoken during some parts of the program and most of the songs will be in German, persons who do not speak the language will be able to enjoy themselves.

The dinner will consist of apple cider, sauerkraut cooked with bacon, a pork chop, a bratwurst, vegetables, a special beet salad, a German dessert and beverage.

The meal will be prepared in an authentic German way and will be served by the girls and boys of The Way Up.

The Way Up provides counseling, advocacy, family services, employment, recreation and other programs for young people and their parents, regardless of church affiliation.

It is sponsored by interested individuals and churches near and far.

Dr. Langevin, founder and director of the program, is an ordained American Baptist minister and pastor of the First Church of Squantum.

(The Way Up is in no way related to The Way International which is based in Ohio.)

Tickets for "German Christmas" may be obtained by calling Muriel Burnhauser at 328-6649.

Christmas Nativity Program Sunday At First Parish Church

The final phase of the 1981 Christmas Festival Program will be held Sunday evening, Dec. 13 at 6 p.m. when the annual Christmas Pageant and Nativity in Scripture and Song will be held at the Church of the Presidents, Quincy Sq.

The public is invited to attend and participate.

Rev. Keith Munson, minister of the church and Rev. Charles Higgins, associate pastor of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy will host the program which will be climaxed with the Christ Child being carried across Hancock St. to be placed in the manger at the Hancock Cemetery.

Participating in the program will be the clergy of various faiths, the Sacred Heart Youth Choir of North Quincy and students of the Sacred Heart School who will attend in their Christmas Pageant costumes.

Following the completion of the program, a coalition will be held in the Church Hall for the various groups participating in the activity.

Christmas Concert At Point Congregational

The Braintree Choral Society and Lexington Boys' and Men's Choir will present a Christmas concert Sunday, Dec. 13, at 4:30 p.m. at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St.

The society and choir were also to perform Sunday, Dec. 6, at 8 p.m. at All Souls Unitarian-Universalist Church, Elm St., Braintree.

Christopher King is conductor, Julie Collins, organist.

For more information, call 843-1880 or 848-0084.

Candlelight Vesper Service At Wollaston Congregational

A candlelight vesper service will be held Sunday at 4 p.m. at Wollaston Congregational Church, Winthrop and Lincoln Aves., as one of several events planned for the Advent season. The service, with much lay participation, will feature poetry, scripture and Christmas music. Everyone is welcome.

Talk On Nuclear Weapons At First Parish

"A Nuclear Weapons Freeze: Why?" was the subject of a talk by Mrs. Pat Simon of the Council for a Nuclear Weapons Freeze, last night (Wednesday).

The meeting took place at 7:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall, First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

It was sponsored by the United

First Parish (Unitarian) Social Concerns Committee.

Mrs. Simon is one of five founders of the Council for a Nuclear Weapons Freeze.

The council's immediate goal is a mutual freeze by the U.S. and the Soviet Union on the testing, production, and deployment of nuclear warheads, missiles, and delivery systems.

They look on the freeze as an essential first step in the effort to end nuclear escalation, lessen the risk of nuclear war, and make nuclear disarmament possible.

Mrs. Simon, of Newton, was also founder of Gold-Star Parents for Amnesty, a group active during and immediately following the Vietnam War.

The meeting concluded with a question and answer period.

The public was invited.

Police Mass Saturday At St. John's Church

Members of the Quincy Police Department and their families will begin the Christmas season with a Mass Saturday at 8 a.m. at St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

Rev. Joseph Byrne of St. John's Church and Police Department

Chaplain, will be the Celebrant.

Breakfast and a film will follow. All members of the department, Catholic and non-Catholic, are invited.

Tickets are available through members of the police department.

Marriage Counselor To Speak To Separated, Divorced Group

Rev. Fulgens Buonanno, O.F.M., marriage counselor from St. Anthony's Arch St. Shrine in Boston, will be the speaker at a Tuesday, Dec. 15, meeting of St. John's Support Group for the Separated and Divorced.

Fr. Fulgens' topic, "Hope for the Separated and Divorced", should be especially appropriate during this Christmas season.

The talk will be held in St. John's Rectory Hall, 23 Gay St., Quincy at 8 p.m.

There is a free-will charge and the public is welcome.

Big J Sandwich Shop License Transfer Approved

Robert F. Megow of Quincy was granted transfer of the common victualer license for Big J Sandwich Shop, Quincy Square, at Tuesday's License Board meeting.

The license had been held by Mrs. Rose Salheney.

Atty. Rocco DeFazio told the board the shop will be open 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday to Saturday, and closed Sundays and holidays.

The menu may be expanded to include light lunches and soups, according to DeFazio who also said that four full time and two part time workers will be employed.

Megow is the nephew of Connie Affsa who operates Caesar's Deli, Cottage St., Quincy Square.

License Board Briefs

The City License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted North Quincy High School a permit to conduct an outdoor flea market Saturday, Dec. 19, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., rain date Jan. 9. Proceeds from the flea market will go towards the purchase of track shoes for students. Police Chief Francis Finn commended the track coaches for donating their time to put on the event.

- Granted the North Quincy Red Raider Hockey Boosters a one day all alcoholic license for Friday, Dec. 11, 7 p.m. to midnight to be used in conjunction with a Las Vegas night at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus hall.

- Continued for one week a request from the Bryan VFW Post for one video machine.

- Granted MGL Distributing (formerly R & J Concession), 651 Willard St., a common victualer and Lord's Day license for the MDC Rink.

- Agreed to postpone to Dec. 15, at the request of Councillor James Sheets, a hearing on the request from T.J.'s Red Carpet, 12-16 Brooks Ave., for change in the roll back of hours.

Greens Hanging At Squantum Church Sunday

Because of the heavy snow last Sunday, the "Hanging of the Greens" at the First Church of Squantum has been rescheduled to Sunday at 3 p.m.

The program of Christmas arts and crafts for persons of all ages is now a traditional part of the Advent Season at the church.

Also because of the blizzard Sunday, the morning worship service had to be moved from the sanctuary to a warmer room.

The new setting in the church parlor made for a congenial atmosphere for all who had been able to make it through the snow.

The sermon, "Not For Sale", was based on the story of Simon the Magician in the Books of Acts.

Earlier, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, had spoken to the children about the Christmas Star.

Melissa Stamos and Lori Ogilvie helped him light the second candle in the Advent Wreath.

The Junior Choir sang "Light One Candle" by Natalie Sleeth. Greeters were Genevieve and Charles Todd.

Next Sunday, the sermon will be, "How Does Jesus Come?" The service, which will include two choirs, will begin at 10:15 a.m.

Hosts High Scoring Hellenic QJC Still Looking For First Win

The Quincy Junior College basketball team, off to its slowest start in years with an 0-6 record, faces an unenviable task tonight (Thursday) when it tries for its first win against high scoring Hellenic College, which bombed QJC by 45 points earlier.

The game will be played at 7 p.m. at the Vo-Tech gym. The Jaguars will host Mass. College of Pharmacy Monday night and will be home to Northern Essex next Wednesday, both at 7 at Vo-Tech.

This will conclude the first half of the schedule and QJC will be idle until Jan. 8 when it races Bunker Hill.

Last Monday night's game with Wentworth was postponed due to the heavy snow.

In its latest outing QJC bowed to the Essex Agricultural Snorting Bulls, 55-51.

QJC started fast as Albie Burke of Braintree (12 points) hit his first three shots. Along with the shooting of Co-Capt. Drew Scheele (16 points), the Jaguars led by four at the half.

But the Quincy team was cold in the second half and is still looking for victory No. 1.

"We're certainly the most exciting 0-6 team in the league," Coach Brian Buckley said. "In fact, we are the only 0-6 team in the league."

Despite the efforts of Buckley to employ a pressing defense and a fast break, the team's lack of height has hurt the offense.

"Our defense has held the opposition to the lowest points per game output since I've had the team," Buckley pointed out. "Offensively our points are directly related to the press and the fast break, however. Our lack of height (only one player over 6-1) has limited our offense to one shot and therefore must have great shooters to stay in the games.

"Except for our opener, teams have not been able to use their bench players and I am pleased with the team's efforts. They have had to keep their starters in for the whole game because we've battled them down to the final buzzer. It's never fun to lose, but all 14 of our players have displayed great unity and cooperation with each other and that makes a coach's job more pleasant."

TD Called Back, Manets, Hingham Tie

George Bennett, the former Harvard star, passed 25 yards to Babe MacMurray for a Hingham Town Team touchdown in the fourth period but it was nullified and Hingham had to settle for a 0-0 tie with the Quincy Manets in their South Shore title game.

Officials ruled that the ball was touched by an ineligible Hingham player before it was caught by MacMurray in the end zone.

The Manets lineup included: Desmond, Rusconi, ends; Call, Cameron, tackles; Pantano, Cirillo, guards; Mathieson, center; Iovanna, Leone, Guidici, Hedlund, backs.

ALUMNI BEATEN

The Quincy High School basketball team rallied behind Joe Broderick in the fourth period to pin a 28-24 defeat on the Alumni in a pre-season game. Broderick led the scorers with six points.

BOYS CLUB WINS

Archie Ralston and Al Ritchie scored the goals as the Quincy Point Boys Club upset Clan MacGregor, 2-0, in a Boston and District Soccer League game in the mud at Faxon Field.

The Boys Club lineup: Jepson, Ralston, Quinn, A. Ritchie, McGuire, forwards; H. Logan, G. Desmond, Hampsey, halfbacks; Gosgrove, Jensen, backs; F. Desmond, goal.

PROTECTION NEEDED

Ted Germaine of South Boston had to have police protection from angry fans on his way to the dressing room after defeating Ed Flowers of Cubs in two straight falls at Quincy Arena.

In preliminary bouts, Cowboy Hughes of Oklahoma defeated Drop Kick Murphy of Alabama with a Japanese toehold and Johnny Iovanna of Quincy, the new South Shore champion, whipped Jimmy Demos of Greece.

ALL-CITY TEAM

The official all-City Football League team was chosen by league officers and officials of the Park Department. It included: Sullivan, Crescents, Joyce, Maroons, ends; Youngsworth, Atlantic, G. Nerio, Plains, tackles; T. Garcia, Crescents, E. Nerio, Plains, guards; Wallace, Plains, center; W. Melville, Moose, Smith, Atlantic, Jordan, Crescents, Hutchinson, Plains, backs.

PUCKMEN WIN

Ordway and McKenna scored two goals each as the Quincy High School Hockey team warmed up for the Bay State League season with a 5-0 victory over Braintree on Sunset Lake, Braintree.

The Quincy lineup: Pyne, Malvesti, wings; McKenna, center; Ordway, Shearer, defense; Wilmath, goal; Grogan, Langton, McMurray, O'Brien, Monahan, Sargent, Service, MacMulkin, spares.

CIVICS LOSE

Hobey Robinson had seven points and Red McDonald had six but the Quincy Civics lost to the Clapp Memorial Alphas of Weymouth, 43-22, in the opening games of the new South Shore Professional Basketball League.

SECOND STRAIGHT

Joe Winship and Bob Greenhalgh, with 17 points each, led the Quincy YMCA Basketball team to its second straight victory, a 63-37 decision over Attleboro in the Attleboro gym.

Hynes First Woman To Finish In Braintree Race

More than 700 runners, ranging in age from eight to 62, competed in the recent fifth annual Braintree Hospital 10 kilometer road race, in which 26-year-old Mary Hynes of Quincy was the first woman to finish with a time of 37:17.

John Flora of Boston was the overall winner in 29:15 and Bart Petracca, former North Quincy High and Cornell star and now a North assistant coach, finished fourth in 30:04.

Bob Hall of Belmont won the wheelchair division in 36:21. Harold Hatch of Braintree won the Masters division in 33:08. John Hubbard of Connecticut won the Senior division in 41:15, and Barbara Pike of Concord won the female Masters division in 38:42.

Sponsored by the hospital's Division of Sports Medicine, this 6.2-mile race was organized by Kenneth Massey, director of radiology services at the hospital, who also competed and was the first of 16 employees to finish.

Elks, Recreation Dept. Free Throw Contest

The Quincy Recreation Department and the Quincy Lodge of Elks will once again co-sponsor the Elks National Free Throw Contest.

The contest is for both boys and girls age 8-9, 10-11 and 12-13.

The Quincy championship is the first round of the National Tournament, with trophies awarded to the local age group winners, and national winners competing for scholarships.

The local tournament will be conducted by Quincy Recreation Department staff in 13 neighborhood locations according to the following schedule:

Atherton Hough: Girls, Friday, Dec. 11, 3 p.m.; boys, Saturday, Dec. 12, 9 a.m.

Merrymount: Girls, Friday, Dec. 11, 3 p.m.; boys, Saturday, Dec. 12, 9 a.m.

Point: Boys, Saturday, Dec. 12, 9 a.m.

Sterling: Boys, Saturday, Dec. 12, 9 a.m.

Atlantic: Boys, Saturday, Dec. 12, 9 a.m.

Participants do not have to be members of the Quincy Recreation Program to take part, and should report to the location of their choice at the appropriate time for registration.

The winners of the preliminary tournaments will receive certificates from the Quincy Recreation Department and will compete for the city championship on Saturday, December 19, at the Lincoln Hancock Community School. David Montani, Exalted Ruler of the Quincy Lodge of Elks, will host the Quincy tournament, while Buddy Morrell of the Elks is the chairman of the event.

Quincy winners will compete in the state-wide finale in January at a location to be announced.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1380, ex. 204.

Scanlan Goalie For Stonehill

Jack Scanlan of North Quincy, a junior at Stonehill College, is again the starting goalie for the Chieftains varsity hockey team.

A product of the Quincy Youth Hockey organization, Jim was a two-letterman, co-captain and MVP of the Boston College High School team in his senior year.

In his freshman year at Stonehill, Jim played backup to Paul Ridley and last year, as a sophomore, he was the starting goalie.

Another former Quincy Youth Hockey product, senior John Kelly, formerly of Quincy but now of Cohasset, is the team's co-captain. Kelly, a left winger on the first line, was a teammate of Scanlan's at B.C. High.

Women's Fitness Program At Fore River Club

Registration is underway for the Quincy Recreation Department's 10-week Women's Body Fitness Program at the Fore River Clubhouse.

Two separate groups of instruction under the leadership of Mrs. Anita Argyrople will be conducted at 9:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Registration is being taken on a first come, first serve basis at the Recreation office, 100 Southern Artery between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

For more information call the Recreation Department at 773-1380, extension 204.

QSO, Choral Society In 'Holiday Concert' Dec. 11

Selections from "The Nutcracker", the overture to "Hansel and Gretel" and Mozart's "Sleighride" will be featured at the Quincy Symphony Orchestra's "Holiday Concert" Friday, Dec. 11.

Performance time will be 8 p.m. in the North Quincy High School auditorium.

The 110 member Quincy Choral Society, under the direction of Robert Brown, will also perform.

Also featured will be Robert Shaw's "Many Moods of Christmas".

For tickets, contact Mary Vallier at 479-2408.

Paul Kelly Performing In Irish Classical Music

Paul Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Kelly of 53 Tyler St., North Quincy, will perform as part of the Westfield State College Choral for an all Irish contemporary classical music concert, Friday, Dec. 11.

The concert, to be held in Springfield, is under the patronage of the Irish Ambassador to the U.S. It is a benefit for the Irish American Cultural Institute, a non-profit foundation dedicated to preserving and promoting Irish culture.

Orchestral selections will be performed by the Springfield Symphony Orchestra.

Special Sunday Swim Schedule At Hancock Pool

The Quincy Recreation Department will have a special schedule of swimming on the next three Sundays at the pool at the Lincoln Hancock Community School.

On Dec. 8, 13 and 20 the pool will have supervised recreational swimming for ages six through adults from 1 to 4 p.m. The adult only swim will still be held from 4 to 5 p.m. as usual. Youngsters under age six may also swim during these hours, but must be accompanied by a person over age 18.

This special program is designed to allow parents to drop off youngsters, and take advantage of the special Christmas shopping hours at the local stores.

The usual pool membership is required or a guest fee may be paid. The Recreation Department's remaining schedule will not be affected, and will continue as previously announced for Monday through Friday.

For more information contact the Recreation Department at 773-1380, ex. 204.

We only use genuine Mineral Wool for superior insulation value and complete safety.

You might have been reading lately about the hazards of using other insulation products. Relax. The Frank Evans Company only uses Mineral Wool, which, as we have said for years, will do a better job without danger from fire and fumes.

Proper insulation, it seems, is more than just saving heating dollars. It's a matter of people's lives too. But where heating dollars are important you'll be pleased to know that a properly insulated attic can save you 25% on your heating bill immediately.

Not all companies have the sophisticated equipment to inject real Mineral Wool. Insist on the "blown-in" method. Other methods seldom measure up! Get a first-class job; and get it done right. Have it done by the Frank Evans Company.

Our products stand up, our word stands up, our reputation stands up . . . as it has for over twenty five years. Call us. We'll give you all the facts, straight talk and a written quote if you want it.

McCauley's Administration Team:

- Kenney Executive Secretary ● Foley Aide
- Anderson Public Works Commissioner
- Golden Solicitor ● Fagerlund Assessor
- Foy Treasurer ● Denvir Purchasing Head

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor-elect Francis X. McCauley has made the first 12 appointments to his administration, including longtime City Treasurer Robert E. Foy III and two others who served under former Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia.

Paul N. Anderson, who held the post in an acting capacity for the last year of the LaRaia administration, was named public works commissioner, succeeding James J. Ricciuti on Feb. 2.

Elmer K. Fagerlund, who was chairman of the board of assessors under LaRaia, returns to the board after an absence of four years, in place of John Bellcastro, whose three year appointment expires.

Others named by McCauley included:

- Peter M. Kenney, executive secretary to the mayor.
- William B. Golden, city solicitor.
- Arthur W. Foley, administrative assistant to the mayor.
- Barry Welch, recreation director.
- Robert F. Denvir Jr., purchasing agent.
- Dean P. Nicastro, assistant city solicitor.
- William E. Hickey, legal counsel.
- Eleanor M. Reidy, personal secretary to the mayor.
- Nancy A. Donofrio, secretary to the mayor.

mayor's office will start work Jan. 4, the day that McCauley is sworn in as the 27th mayor of Quincy. The others start Feb. 2 when previous appointments expire.

All the appointees except Anderson, who was away on a business trip, were present in the City Council chamber at City Hall when McCauley announced their names.

Golden, speaking for the appointees, said that they shared three things in common.

"The first thing is a confidence in this administration," he said. "This administration will be equal to the very difficult task confronting us in the years ahead.

"Second is a dedication to high standards of public trust and professional competence that I believe Frank McCauley has come to represent to all who know him well.

"Third is the opportunity for us to make a significant contribution to the future of the city of Quincy. I invite all of you to join us in that common purpose."

McCauley noted that the average age of his dozen appointments is 38; married with two children; and with 18 years of education.

"It will be a difficult two years, but we are going to do it," he said. Foy, 55, who lives at 51 Dickens St., Wollaston, has been city treasurer and tax collector since 1972 when he was appointed by former Mayor Walter J. Hannon. He was reappointed each succeeding year by Mayors LaRaia and Arthur H. Tobin.

Scion of an old Quincy family that once operated Foy's Markets in Quincy Center and South Quincy, he was graduated from Boston College and holds a certificate in financial municipal administration from Bentley.

He is a member of the Norfolk County Municipal Financial Officers' Association, the Massachusetts Treasurers and Collectors' Association and a director of the Municipal Financial Officers' Association of North America.

Back To 1977 Computer To Close In On Parking Violators

The cost of illegal parking may or may not be going up in Quincy but it is certainly going to be more difficult to get away with it after the first of the year.

And, if you have any old parking tickets dating back to 1977 laying around the house, you're not going to get away with those either.

Starting Jan. 1, all tickets passed out by Quincy meter maids and police officers will go on a computer at the U.S. Trust Co.'s Quincy office.

Right now, U.S. Trust is programming some $400,000 to $500,000 worth of old tickets dating back to 1977 that the Quincy District Court, which used to collect the fines, had not gotten around to.

"Violators should be receiving citations in about 60 days," said City Clerk John Gillis, who is also responsible for the collection of fines under a new state law adopted by the city.

Gillis figures the city will be fortunate, to collect $250,000 on the back tickets at the rate of $7 per ticket—the original $2 fine plus a $5 late charge.

"Some of the cars may be untraceable because of changes in registration," said Gillis, explaining the discrepancy in citations.

Fines for tickets given out after the first of the year may be paid at City Hall or mailed to a Post Office box number to be collected by the U.S. Trust Co.

U.S. Trust will receive $1.15 for each ticket collected, having won that contract in competitive bidding with 13 other companies.

"We will need at least a $5 fine to make it all worthwhile," said Gillis.

Last week, the City Council voted to raise parking fines in certain business areas to $10 a ticket but the move kicked up a storm of protest from merchants and it may be revised.

A full 100 per cent of the fines collected, less the U.S. Trust fee, will go to the city. Under the old system, the city got half and the court got the other half.

Behind the collection is the threat of revocation of license and registration.

But the illegal parker will get one break.

The first ticket given each year will be a warning. It's free.

Board Pulls QJC Video Machine Plug

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The use of two unlicensed video games in the lounge at Quincy Junior College was suspended Tuesday and a request for licenses for the machines continued to the Jan. 5 License Board meeting.

Richard Roper, of R & J Vending, Co., Duxbury, told the board that his machines have been at the college for three years.

Roper said he takes half the profits, and gives the other half to the college for a scholarship fund.

According to student Richard Ahearn, those attending QJC don't want the machines taken out.

Ahearn said the machines are used during recreation time, and do not take away from studying time.

Neither could produce a written document that QJC administration favored the machines.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh called the situation "flaky" and suggested the board deny the license request.

Fire Chief Edward Barry reprimanded Roper for not checking with the board on licenses for the machines.

"I'd like someone with authority from Quincy Junior College to explain their posture on this thing," said Police Chief Francis Finn.

Finn also recommended the board check with the city auditor with regard to the money made by the machine.

Public buildings such as the police station are not allowed to keep the money from their vending machines, said Finn who wondered where that would put QJC which he said is now an enterprise account.

The two men are to return to the License Board with someone in authority from QJC and an accounting of the last three years' finances.

Farm Grown And Better Shaped Fresh Christmas Trees Make Strong Comeback

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The fresh Christmas tree has made a strong comeback against artificial competitor.

More people seem to be buying them this year than they have in a long time.

There are two reasons, thinks Loren Strout who is doing a brisk business at the Winfield Tree Lot on Hancock St. across from Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"The trees are better shaped now because they are farm grown rather than just cut at random in the woods like they used to be," he says.

"And, you can't beat the aroma of a real tree. You just can't get that nice smell of a balsam out of a spray can."

"Business is fantastic" says Strout who expects to have sold 6,000 trees before Christmas.

Strout, who also owns the Winfield House, sells pruned Canadian and Vermont balsam trees, as well as wreaths, at his lot which opened for its eighth season Dec. 1.

"I will not sell my trees before their time," muses Strout who charges $2.75 to $14 for his trees.

"Nobody is able to sell them cheaper according to my supplier who goes all the way to Florida on the East Coast," says Strout.

His customers, many of whom come back year after year, are from as far away as New Hampshire, Gloucester, Lexington, Hingham, Scituate and Brockton, as well as local residents.

Strout says a good portion of his customers are buying their first real tree in years after being caught up in the artificial tree boom about 15 years ago.

Many customers report they miss the smell of a real tree, according to Strout.

His customers represent all age groups.

"Ninety-nine percent of the customers are pleasant," says Strout, "but I've seen some marriages practically go on the rocks while a couple picks out a tree."

"People are more fussy picking out a tree than they are a $10,000 automobile."

Some people select a tree without really considering how they'll get it home, according to Strout. He recalls one customer who took a 14 foot tree home in a Datsun.

"I suggested he drive the tree instead," laughs Strout.

When business isn't too busy, Strout gives customers a few pointers on caring for the trees.

"Make a fresh cut across the bottom of the stump of the tree," he advises, "and just give it water."

"That's what the growers advise because that's what Mother Nature gives the trees. We don't recommend preservatives."

Strout's trees are cut about 14 days before delivery and he has had six trailer load deliveries.

He has sold over 2,000 trees and has 4,000 to go.

One of the trees delivered was a 35 footer which Strout donated to Quincy Tourism which in turn donated it to the City of Quincy for McIntyre Mall.

The trees grow about a foot a year and are pruned and fertilized three to four times during the growing season.

The results are trees nearly as perfect as the artificial ones.

Apparently, customers appreciate the time spent in grooming the trees because Strout's business has been up every year so far.

"The first three or four years, we went up 500 trees a year," he notes. "After that it was 1500 to 2000."

The weather affects Strout's business. After the recent snow storm, he and his 14 workers had to shake each of the trees free of snow.

But business is so good Strout's lot has been sold out before Christmas for the last five years. Last year he sold over 4,000.

"I won't ever get an artificial tree as long as I can get a real one," he insists.

More and more of his customers feel the same way.

License Board Cancels 2 A.M. Closings Hearing

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Quincy liquor establishments with 2 a.m. closing hours can breathe a sigh of relief until at least after the new year.

A scheduled License Board hearing Tuesday on reconsideration of 2 a.m. closings in Quincy was cancelled when Police Chief Francis Finn, acting board chairman in the absence of City Clerk John Gillis, read a ruling from Assistant City Solicitor Laurence W. Cowley.

Cowley had ruled that the board must show cause to revoke 2 a.m. closings, and that establishments with the late closings must be considered on an individual, not a group, basis.

The License Board meeting was the last of the year so the matter will not come up again until at least next year.

Board members such as Fire Chief Edward Barry and Building Inspector Allan MacDonald have in the past voiced their opposition to the late closings.

Local establishments with temporary or permanent 2 a.m. closings had been invited to attend the hearing.

Those establishments are The Beachcomber, Quincy Bay Inn, China Star Restaurant, Dutton's, the Golden Bowl Restaurant, The Hollow, California, The High rise, Morrisette Post, Sherry's, Quincy Lodge of Elks Club, Bobby Dodd's Pub, Joy King Restaurant, Bryan VFW Post, and Luke's Lounge.

T.J.'s Red Carpet Hearing Set For Night Meeting

A request from T.J.'s Red Carpet, 12-16 Brooks Ave., for change in the roll back of hours will be heard at the first evening session of the License Board in January.

No official date has been set as yet for the meeting.

The request involves the establishment's closing hour which was rolled back from 1 a.m. to 11 a.m. recently.

The board was scheduled to hear the request at Tuesday's License Board, but the matter was postponed at the request of Councillor James Sheets.

In a letter to the board, Sheets said the evening meeting would give neighborhood residents and business people a chance to be present for the hearing.

New Student MBTA Pass To Cost $9

The MBTA is going to issue a new student pass for surface vehicles which will cost $9 a month, half the cost of an adult surface pass and purchased through the student's school.

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey said the new pass is a direct result of meetings between the MBTA and the Quincy legislative delegation which began when the MBTA raised fares and eliminated passes last summer.

The combination caused some students fares to increase from $4 to $20 a month.

"The new pass," said Morrissey, "will allow the student to transfer from one bus to another without having to pay an additional fare."

Thanks City Council For Vote Opposing Seizure Of Animals

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

On Monday, Dec. 7, the Quincy City Council unanimously passed a resolution opposing the seizure of animals from the Quincy pound for experimental purposes, and also voted unanimously for a home rule petition to the Massachusetts legislature which will, by a future council vote, exempt Quincy from the state Pound Seizure Law.

As co-chairman of the Quincy Grassroots Campaign of the New England Anti-Vivisection Society, I would like to express our appreciation to all our City Councilors for listening to our concerns and acting upon them. I would also like to express our special thanks to Councillor James Sheets for his introduction of, and support for, both of these measures.

Great strides forward have been made because of our council's action, but many battles still lie before us in our struggle for humane treatment of animals.

Research laboratories still can legally come into Quincy and seize lost or abandoned pets for unnecessary torture and mutilation in the name of science, because state law still permits them to do it.

However, there are two bills before the Massachusetts legislature right now which will repeal our infamous Mass. Pound Seizure Law. It is imperative that all pet lovers call and write their state representatives and senators at once and insist on a yes vote on H.7418 and H.7419.

Anyone wishing to help our Grassroots Campaign in their local area should call the New England Anti-Vivisection Society in Boston at 523-6020.

Sunbeams

By Henry Bosworth

THE JINXED USS William D. Porter looked something like this when an uninvited visitor rudely came to call. Earlier, the Porter had one of the most embarrassing experiences in Naval history.

Sarsaparilla And A Jinx

It was a name out of the long-ago past.

But, who could ever forget it!

The William D. Porter, a hard-luck or jinxed ship if there ever was one. Her story is a "believe-it-or-not" out of World War II.

It all came back the other day when the phone rang and the voice on the other end said:

"My name is Dean Slough. I was on the destroyer William D. Porter during the war and we are trying to get a reunion together."

He said he knew I had written a couple articles about the Porter some years ago and wondered if he could get copies of them for the reunion.

I had written the articles in 1950 when I was a reporter for The Patriot Ledger. They were about two incidents that happened when my ship, the destroyer Cogswell was with the Porter. One of them is almost unbelievable, but it actually happened.

It goes back to November, 1943 — and we were in Norfolk, Va. I had the signal watch that night and our skipper, Commander Harold Deuterman said to me:

"I'm expecting an important message sometime tonight. It might be only one word — sarsaparilla. If it comes wake me up immediately."

"Sarsaparilla?" I asked myself as he strode from the bridge, "Wonder what that's all about?"

It wasn't too long before the battleship USS Iowa reached out of the inky darkness with a flashing signal light.

Three dots, dot dash, dot dash dot and so on until the flickers spelled out S-A-R-S-A-P-A-R-I-L-L-A.

I notified the skipper and the message was relayed to two other destroyers, one the Porter, the other I forget.

Whatever else "sarsaparilla" meant, it told us to get underway. At midnight, the Iowa and her three escorts slipped quietly out to sea under cover of darkness while Norfolk, Va. slept unconcerned.

A couple of days later — the 15th I believe — the small convoy was "somewhere" off the Azores heading for Africa.

It was a mysterious trip. No one told us but we could tell something was up. Something big.

I was on the bridge with the other Cogswell signalmen. It was a peaceful day — until the silence was shattered by a booming cry: T-O-R-P-E-D-O!

And there it was — a torpedo — streaking through the water toward the Iowa.

The Iowa was warned by emergency flag hoists and a talk-between-ships telephone. She managed to turn to avoid the torpedo which passed harmlessly to her stern.

General quarters sounded and the Cogswell crew raced to their battle stations. Torpedomen stood eagerly by the depth charge racks as we prowled the area looking for the German submarine's periscope and attempting to make underwater sonar contact.

But we couldn't locate the sub. Then we learned there was no sub to locate.

The torpedo was not from a German sub. It had been fired — accidentally from the William D. Porter.

The division commander who was in charge of the escorts with his flag aboard the Cogswell sputtered, fumed and sputtered some more when the awful truth reached us in a message of humiliation from the embarrassed Porter.

Why the rage, I thought to myself, a civilian at heart? After all, it didn't hit the Iowa.

But the raging commander knew something that we didn't know at that particular moment.

On the Iowa was Harry Hopkins, Admirals Leahy, McIntire and Cook; Generals Marshall, Arnold, Handy, Somervell and Watson according to Hopkins' own private papers made public after the war.

Not only that but with them was Admiral Ernest King, the fleet commander.

So our division commander had plenty to rant, rage and roar about.

But he still had one more — and a much bigger — reason. Someone else was aboard the Iowa.

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt was a passenger on his way to Oran, then to secret dates in Cairo and Teheran with Chiang Kai-Shek, Stalin and Churchill.

And that was what sarsaparilla was all about.

We later turned the Iowa and her valuable human cargo over to another division of U.S. destroyers one day out of Africa. The Cogswell and Porter headed for Bermuda where we parted company.

The Porter remained to await a Navy board of inquiry to determine how the hell an American destroyer happened to fire a torpedo at an American battleship carrying the President of the United States.

The Cogswell headed for the Panama Canal, the West Coast, Pearl Harbor and the big show in the Pacific.

Slowly we moved across the South Pacific as part of the famed Third and Fifth Fleets from the Marshalls, to Truk, Saipan, Tinian, New Guinea, Guam, the Philippines, the China Sea, Formosa, the Bonins and so on.

Forgotten was the poor Porter.

Now it was June, 1945 and we had taken Okinawa, the vital springboard to the Japanese homeland.

The Cogswell was assigned to radar picket duty with other destroyers between Okinawa and Japan. Our job was to make contact with Japanese planes approaching from the Japanese homeland and alert our ships and land forces at Okinawa for an air raid.

On June 10 we moved out of the harbor to take our picket station a few miles off Okinawa. Then another destroyer got underway to join us as our picket partner for the day.

"DD579" remarked one of the newer signalmen, peering at the approaching destroyer through a long glass.

"Hell, that's the Porter, the William D. Porter," one of the older hands shouted.

RICHARD J. KOCH, JR.
Incoming City Councillor at-Large

'I WON'T ALIENATE either one of the political factions in the city but I don't feel in line with either one of them either.'

(Quincy Sun Photos by Dave Gillooly)

'AS FAR AS issues go, if something came up to do with the Park Department it would be a hands off situation with me.'

Koch, Jr. Sees Deep Political Divisions Ended

By TOM HENSHAW

Richard J. Koch Jr., one of the newest and youngest (26) members of the City Council, says he feels that the days of deep political division in Quincy are over.

"I think Frank McCauley (the mayor-elect) is a fair man who will take an issue and decide it on the issue, not on personalities," he told The Quincy Sun in an interview.

Koch said he is not a member of either of the two political factions in the city nor does he feel an affinity for either of them.

"I won't alienate either one of them but I don't feel in line with either one of them either," he said. "That may have been a reason for my loss in 1979 but I think it helped me coming back in two years."

Koch, a claims adjuster for the Kemper Insurance Co. in North Quincy, also made these points in The Sun interview:

- He plans to stand aside and let his colleagues on the Council vote on decisions involving the Park Department, which has been headed for the past 20 years by his father, Richard J. Koch Sr.

- The city would be "crazy" to set up a water-sewer commission to meet federal user charge standards. "I would like to see the homeowner taxed by an ad valorem method and others taxed on usage with sewer use based on 80 per cent of the water."

- Parking meters have seen their best days in downtown Quincy. "We have to have some type of control. The mayor-elect has talked about some type of parking validation. I think that's the way to go."

Here is a text of The Sun's interview with Koch, condensed for reasons of space and edited for clarity:

SUN - You're brand new to Quincy politics as well as the Council. Can you tell us a little about your background?

KOCH - I was born and brought up a few blocks from here in North Quincy. I went to school at Sacred Heart and North Quincy High School and I went on to Northeastern University.

SUN - What did you study in there?

KOCH - Criminal justice.

SUN - Did you want to be a cop?

KOCH - Yes. That's what I originally went to school for.

SUN - What happened?

KOCH - The times. When I first went I was very much interested in my last year. I still would have gone with an outfit maybe such as the state police or something if I could have got in but the way things are nowadays it's tough. It kind of got me discouraged and I gave up on that. I came to Kemper with the intention of working as a special investigator with auto fraud. But I've become interested in handling auto claims and I'd like to move toward getting out on the road.

SUN - When and why did you decide to run for the Council?

KOCH - I've been involved in things since, well, starting with the Koch Club and Muscular Dystrophy and the cancer crusades. Through those I got to meet a number of people in the city and I became interested and started following the Council. I felt I could make a contribution. I wanted to run in 1977 but I was a bit young and I was still in school. I decided to finish up and then give it a shot. I did and came close and waited my time and gave it another shot.

SUN - What happened in that first campaign? Why did you lose?

KOCH - Maybe inexperience. Maybe it was a sign of the times. It's difficult to explain. I came close and I lost to a former mayor. Coming that close, I was disappointed but I was very much satisfied. We got a decent vote. I looked around at some of the other officials and I said, "Well, they didn't win their first time out either. Maybe I still have a shot."

SUN - If you had lost the second time, would you have gone again?

KOCH - I don't think so. The night of the first election, after we'd gone through so much work and come up a loser, I almost felt that I had let all my supporters down by not winning. All those people stuck with me and worked again. I don't think I could have asked them a third time.

SUN - Do you have any ambitions beyond the Council? How would you like to be mayor?

KOCH - I could never see

Mayor Ross Calls For More Parking

Mayor Charles A. Ross dedicated the new parking area west of Hancock St. and called for the city to continue to progress by taking land east of the downtown area for a second large parking lot.

"The continued growth of the city demands that we keep pace with it or fall into a state of stagnation which I am convinced is not the desire of any public minded citizen," he said.

Public Works Commissioner Charles R. Herbert pointed out that the new west side parking area is the largest municipally owned metered parking lot on the eastern seaboard.

DUNN NEXT AUDITOR?

Miss Elizabeth Dunn, principal clerk in the auditor's office was considered the leading candidate to succeed Leo E. Mullin as city auditor when his retirement becomes effective Dec. 23.

Miss Dunn served eight years as city auditor in the late 1920s and early 1930s, the last one to be appointed by a mayor prior to passage of a law giving that authority to the City Council.

Other candidates included lame duck Councillors Clifton H. Baker and William J. Papile, who would not be eligible for selection by their colleagues until their Council terms expire Jan. 1.

Another frequently mentioned name was that of School Committee member Alexander Smith.

ROSS NAMED REGISTER

Charles N. Ross, a Quincy attorney and son of Mayor Ross, was named first assistant register of deeds for Norfolk County effective Jan. 1, according to an announcement by Register L. Thomas Shine.

Ross, who won a bronze star while overseas with the Yankee Division during World War II, was narrowly defeated in the first Plan E City Council election, finishing eighth among 59 candidates.

The starting pay for first assistant register was $4,680.

DR. ASH ASSAILS BARS

Health Commissioner Dr. Richard M. Ash opened a campaign against barsrooms that hold restaurant licenses on the basis of "a few slices of ham and a dozen eggs in the refrigerator."

"Two thirds of the places in Quincy should be closed on Sunday as they are open under false pretenses," he said.

CUSTODIANS CERTIFIED

Four Quincy veterans were certified by Civil Service for two jobs as junior custodians in school buildings.

They were Walter G. Lynch, 51 Curlew Rd., Adams Shore; James V. Corvi, 163 Bates Ave., West Quincy; Lawrence J. Perette, 125 Centre St., South Quincy; and George L. Losee, 1145 Sea St., Houghs Neck.

Council On Aging Gets $8,886 For Transportation

The Council on Aging has received a grant of $8,886 from the State Department of Elder Affairs to provide transportation for senior citizens in Quincy.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said the money will be used to hire an additional driver to help the six who are currently meeting the transportation needs of the elderly.

It is expected that an additional 100 senior citizens per month can be assisted.

The Council on Aging provides transportation for the elderly to medical facilities, lunch sites, shopping facilities and recreational activities. More than 500 are served per month.

For further information on transportation services, call or visit the Council on Aging at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., or 773-1380, extension 243.

Low Fee Dental Care Available For Elderly

A program of comprehensive dental care at reduced fees has been developed by the Massachusetts Dental Society for financially disadvantaged elderly persons, notes Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli.

The services include cleanings, fillings, partial dentures, extractions, root canals and gum treatments.

They are offered at reduced fees to persons 60 years of age or over who are without public assistance, have no personal dental insurance and who meet the requirements of the Dental Society's Consumer Full Denture

Access Program.

The program is designed to provide full dentures (upper, lower, or both) to economically disadvantaged persons who cannot afford them at a regular fee.

More than 600 dentists have volunteered to participate in the program. In addition, Councils on Aging, and other social services agencies have agreed to participate.

Cerasoli said any elderly residents who are financially disadvantaged and need dental care, may call the toll-free number, 1-800-342-8747 at the Dental Society, Monday through Friday, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. for further information.

All affiliated dentists are pledged to maintain a level of care consistent with accepted professional standards. Any discussion of fees will be between the dentist and the patient.

"This service is a prompt and efficient way to provide necessary dental service to qualifying elderly," said Cerasoli. "The Comprehensive Dental Care Program also provides an effective incentive to continue good dental health practices and regular dental care."

Retired P.O. Manager To Lobby For Senior Security

"We grew up respecting the elderly; they were always safe," recalls Frederick Sterritt, 69, of Quincy. "Now, it's well known they're the prime targets for attacks."

Sterritt, retired manager of the North Quincy Post Office, has gone to Washington to lobby for improved security in the areas where senior citizens live and shop.

Sterritt was appointed by Cong. Brian Donnelly as the official delegate to the White House Conference on Aging, representing the 11th Congressional District.

For several months, he has been participating in forums sponsored by Donnelly at senior citizens centers and housing development in the district.

"The issues of crime and security always come up," he says.

"The elderly have become regular victims of harassment, assault, robbery and vandalism. This wouldn't have to happen if there were good security."

Donnelly and Sterritt are studying suggestions to require improved security at Federally-subsidized elderly housing. Donnelly expects to present Congress a formal proposal in the near future.

Sterritt is president of Save Our Shores (SOS), an environmental organization, and also president-elect of the Quincy chapter of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees.

He retired recently after 37 years with the U.S. Postal Service.

Sterritt lives at 844 East Squantum St., with his wife, Ellen. She is an attorney, serving as the Executive Secretary of the Massachusetts Board of Bar Examiners.

During World War II, Sterritt served with the Army Air Corps in North Africa and Italy. A native of Boston, he has lived in Quincy for the last 30 years.

Anthony Vardaro 30 Year Edison Employee

Anthony P. Vardaro of Quincy, was recently recognized by Boston Edison Company for 30 years employment.

He is a member of the company's Transmission and Distribution Department, Cable Division.

Teachers Launching 'Good News' Project

Quincy teachers will launch a new project today (Thursday) to give deserving students a pat on the back.

The Quincy Education Association (Q.E.A.) is providing teachers with "Good News" notes to be sent home with the good news about student effort in the classroom.

"This project is one way of communicating with parents on the positive things that are happening in school. Students who are making progress in class deserve a note of commendation from their teachers," JoAnn O'Malley, Q.E.A. president said.

"Parents need to hear about the good things that are taking place in the classrooms. Too often, news from school usually means something has gone wrong," the

Q.E.A. president added. "Students who are trying hard to improve their grades need to have their work recognized."

Mrs. O'Malley said the notes give Quincy teachers a convenient way to send messages home to fill the gap between regular report cards. The notes contain space for individual messages about student's success or hard work.

The Good News Notes will be used to recognize such things as: extra effort in homework, improvements in subjects, special acts of kindness shown to others, work beyond normal assignments, and improved attitude.

The Good News Notes project was developed in cooperation with the Massachusetts Teachers Association, the state affiliate for local teachers, according to Mrs. O'Malley.

Cerasoli Named To Draft Board

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli has been named by President Ronald Reagan to serve as a member of the Selective Service, Local Claims Adjudication Board 26 in Massachusetts.

The responsibilities of the board include consideration and decision on draft registrants' claims for deferment, exemption and postponement of induction.

Cerasoli noted that there are no plans at the present time to resume the military draft, which could begin only with the passage of a law by Congress and approval of the President.

Cerasoli was recommended for the appointment by Gov. Edmund J. King.

Hanukkah Marks Religious Freedom For Jewish People

By LESTER H. GLASSER

In December of every year, the Jewish people observe a joyous holiday that celebrates the first great victory for religious freedom won by the Jews more than 2,000 years ago.

Hanukkah, which means "dedication," is a holiday enjoyed by children because of the exchange of gifts.

This year it will commence with the lighting of the first candle Sunday evening, Dec. 20. (The 25th day of the Jewish month of Kislev) and will continue for eight days, adding a candle each night. A Menorah holds the candles and it stands in a window facing the street.

The following blessings are recited:

"Praised be you, O Lord, our King of the universe who has sanctified us by your commandments and commanded us to kindle the Chanukah Lights.

"Praised be Thou, O Lord our God, Ruler of the world, who didst wondrous things for our fathers in days of old at this season."

Lastly, this blessing is recited only on the first night:

"Praised be Thou, O Lord, our God, Ruler of the world, who hast granted us life, sustained us and permitted us to celebrate this joyous festival."

According to popular legend, Judah (Maccabee), leader of a Jewish army much smaller in numbers and arms than the enemy force, set up a dummy camp.

The Syrian-Greeks, believing this to be the complete Jewish encampment, attacked in full force—only to find themselves surrounded by the major part of the Hebrew army which, under cover of darkness, had left the dummy camp and encircled the entire area.

George Washington, who studied the Book of Maccabees, used the same stratagem against the British when the outnumbered American troops were also struggling to achieve independence.

Judah Maccabee was finally able to lead his troops victoriously into Jerusalem, where the Jews cleansed and purified the Temple of every pagan object that had been brought into it and made it once again a house for the worship of God.

In cleaning the Temple, it is told, they found a single jar of holy oil, enough to keep the Eternal Light before the Holy ark burning for one day. Miraculously, this one jar burned for eight days and nights.

Judah Maccabee, then proclaimed an eight day holiday to celebrate the rededication of the Temple to God. Thus the festival received its name, Hanukkah, or "dedication."

It is generally agreed by scholars that if Judaism had been defeated by the Syrian-Greeks, the religious foundations upon which Christianity was later established would have been lost to the world, and neither Judaism or Christianity would have exerted their influence upon civilization.

In some homes the children receive a small gift each of the eight nights.

The favorite game on Hanukkah is spinning of the dreidel, a small four-sided wooden or metal top that is spun by hand.

The sides are inscribed with the four Hebrew letters which begin the words: Nes gadol haya sham (A great miracle happened there).

Many Hanukkah parties are held at the Synagogues or in homes at which the traditional latkes, or potato pancakes, are served.

With the centuries, the small, colored Hanukkah candles have taken on a deep meaning for the Jewish people, symbolizing the light of religious freedom that Judah Maccabee and his followers kept alive. In the glow of the candles, many Jews rededicate themselves to the ideals of their faith.

Because Hanukkah symbolizes the triumph of faith in God over brute force, it has long been a source of inspiration to the weak and small in number who fight for liberty and justice against stronger and tyrannical foes.

It strengthens the conviction that religious freedom is the right of every people and that God desires man to worship Him in freedom.

TEACHERS' CORNER

"Parents As Partners"

Sponsored by the Quincy Education Association

In these days when Public Education is more important than ever, your children's teachers would like to share some ideas with you about how we can work together to help your children to get the most benefit out of time in school and at home. We hope you will share your ideas with us by writing, calling or visiting us. Most important of all, we know that what your child learns at home that child brings to school. You can be a valuable partner in your child's successful education by encouraging a natural curiosity for learning.

Another important factor which a major study has found is that a positive attitude toward education is more important than a parent's income or the child's abilities. If parents and teachers enjoy learning and value education highly, your child is likely to do the same.

Attendance at school and in every class is essential. A child can't learn and a teacher can't teach a child who is not attending. This takes a good deal of cooperation. Let's find out if there is some problem and work on it early to find the best solution.

Get to know your child's teachers so we can know you. Think about what you want to find out about your child's progress or problems in school and what you want to tell the teacher that you think the teacher should know about your child. Don't be afraid to express your opinions. When problems begin to occur, meet with the teacher right away. The longer school problems go unattended, the harder they are to solve. Teachers and guidance counselors and other school personnel will share in keeping you informed of the good news about your child as well as the not so good.

Become a parent watchdog for your child's school. Create your own school calendar at the beginning of the school year. Write down dates of meetings and special events, and set dates for visiting your child's classroom or checking on a problem so you don't forget. Join the PTA, work on school activities, or volunteer your help in the classroom. Take time to familiarize yourself with broader issues that affect your child's education—school budgets, proposed reading texts, etc. If you think that your child's school has serious deficiencies—a poor reading program or inadequate facilities, insufficient budget, for example—find others who feel the same way and then work as a group to change the situation—contact your representative on the Quincy City Wide Parent Council.

In future columns, we plan to share more "Tips From Teachers." Let's talk! As your child's teachers we look forward to sharing a partnership in the educational growth of your child. Feel free to visit with us. Call or write to us at school or at our office, Quincy Education Association, 590 Hancock Street, Quincy, MA. 02170. Telephone number: 479-2283.

WHY DAILY FLOSSING?

Social standards of hygiene demand that we brush our teeth every day, yet flossing is even more important! For 70 percent of the bacterial plaque — the cause of both tooth decay and gum disease — is located between the teeth. Brushing alone can only remove the remaining 30 percent.

Proper flossing technique — best demonstrated by a dentist or hygienist — takes less than two minutes, certainly a small investment considering the positive benefits.

Flossing fixed bridgework takes a little longer, but it is just as important. The supporting teeth as well as underneath the false teeth can be flossed with the aid of a soft plastic floss threader or bridge cleaner.

How Should You Park Your Cash? A. Any Way You Want!

☒ Want worthwhile tax savings, plus high yield?

A. Quincy Cooperative Bank has two answers:

1. All Savers Certificate that allows up to $1000 tax-exempt interest on Federal taxes if you file single, $2000 if jointly. Interest is based on current one-year U.S. Treasury bill yield. Early withdrawal causes loss of tax exemption and interest penalties.
2. IRA and Keogh retirement accounts that allow you to shelter significant amounts of your income, whether or not you have other pension plans. Tax and interest penalties under certain conditions.

☒ Want a short-term investment at high interest?

A. Check out these alternatives:

1. Ask about Quincy Cooperative Bank's 30-60-89-day Repurchase Agreements, known as REPOS. These are not deposits nor insured.
2. Call us for current yield on six-month, insured certificates of deposit. Interest penalties for early withdrawal.

☒ Want some funds readily available when need arises, but still earning interest?

A. Enroll in either or both of these accounts:

1. Regular passbook account, with interest at 5½%, compounded continuously.
2. N.O.W. checking account. Interest at 5¼% is credited monthly. No regular monthly charge. Fees for special services such as stop-payment, overdraft.

☒ Want to "lock-in" high interest for longer terms?

A. Invest in a Quincy Cooperative 30-month certificate.

It's fully insured and pays the highest interest rate allowed by law. Interest penalties for early withdrawal.

Some last minute gift suggestions

There is still time to give just a few more things in the real spirit of Christmas. And all they cost is a little of you. You can probably think of many more, but these are just a few suggestions to start with.

- ★ Ask someone who's far from home (or has no home) to share your Christmas dinner
- ★ Use your mistletoe generously
- ★ Say thank you a lot
- ★ Take one of your favorite presents to that kid in your class you suspect Santa might miss
- ★ Take a thermos of hot chocolate to your school crossing guard
- ★ Pick someone up and take them with you to Christmas services
- ★ Put out bread crumbs for the birds and nuts for the squirrels
- ★ Pull out your mother's chair for her when she sits down to dinner
- ★ Offer to say 'grace' yourself
- ★ Invite someone who has no fireplace over to enjoy yours
- ★ Call your doctor and ask how he's feeling
- ★ Help the little kids in your neighborhood build their first snowman (if there's snow)
- ★ Tell someone you love them

Merry Christmas from the people who care

Christmas Sunday At Wollaston Congregational

A "Good Wishes" coffee hour will follow the 10 a.m. service of inspiration this week-end on Christmas Sunday at Wollaston Congregational Church, Winthrop and Lincoln Aves.

Youth carolers, who will bake cookies in the afternoon, will sing at the homes of shut-ins beginning at 5 p.m.

A special Commissioning Scroll was recently presented to the family of Robert Laycock Sears with prayers of dedication.

He is now teaching in Nagoya, Japan under the auspices of The United Church of Christ Board for World Ministries.

A reception followed the worship hour where congratulatory greetings were given to the parents, paternal grandparents and other family members.

Linda Hayes Roberts was ordained into the Christian Ministry in a candlelight service.

The combined choirs of Bethany and Wollaston Congregational Churches rendered inspirational music under the co-direction of Donald A. Reade, church organist, and Thomas Vozella of Bethany.

Guests filled the main body of the large sanctuary and rejoiced with the ordinand at the reception which followed.

The Rev. Mrs. Roberts has been called to pastor The First Congregational Church of Billerica.

An installation service will be held there in the spring. Her home church pastor, The Rev. Lloyd Martin, will deliver the installation sermon.

'Characters Of Christmas At Wollaston Baptist

"Characters of Christmas" will be presented by church school boys and girls of the First Baptist Church of Wollaston at the White Gift Service Sunday at 5 p.m.

Everyone in the church is invited to attend the program in Fellowship Hall.

A visit from Santa Claus is expected. Refreshments will be served.

White gifts will be sent to Lakeville Hospital which has some 130 patients ranging in age from infants to 90 year olds.

Some suggestions for children are simple games, coloring books, crayons, rag dolls, match box cars, white stretch socks, children's records, puzzles to age four and five with large pieces, and toilet articles.

Gifts for adults and teenagers could be handkerchiefs, white stretch socks, greeting cards, stamps, stationery, combs and brushes, shaving cream, toothpaste, perfume, bath powder.

Each package should be tagged with the name of the article.

Everyone is invited to share in the White Gift Program.

Advent Christmas Concert At St. John's Church

St. John's Parish Choir will present its annual Advent Christmas Concert Friday at 8 p.m. in the upper church, Quincy Center.

The concert will feature choral selections, vocal solos and instrumental music.

The congregation will be invited to join in singing carols.

The concert is under the direction of John Cice. Phyllis Ross will provide organ and piano accompaniment.

A reception will follow in the church hall.

Christmas Celebration At Christian Coffee House

The public is invited to celebrate Christmas Saturday, 8 to 10 p.m. at the Fire Escape Coffee House, sponsored by Glad Tidings Church, Quincy.

The Christian coffee house is located at 49 Hayward St., East Braintree.

The evening will include Christmas carols, skits and surprises.

The film, "The Christmas Bus", will be shown.

For information on transportation, call the church office at 773-9797.

St. John's Church School St., Quincy Center

Christmas Events Schedule

Confession - Tuesday through Thursday Dec. 22 to 24 - 3 to 4 p.m. Also 7 to 8 p.m. Tuesday Dec. 22.

Italian confessions - Check church bulletin for time and date.

6th Annual Christmas Concert - Friday Dec. 18 at 8 p.m. p.m.

Christmas Mass Schedule:

Thursday December 24 - Masses at 4 and 7:30 p.m. in upper and lower church. 7:30 p.m. (upper) will be a children's Mass.

Thursday, December 24 - Midnight Mass - upper and lower church.

Friday December 25 - Masses at 8:00, 9:45, and 11 a.m. (upper church only, Children's Mass) and 12:30 p.m.

There will be no 5:15 p.m. Mass on Christmas Day.

Christmas Sunday Service At Bethany

"I Knew You Would Come" is the title of Pastor J. William Arnold's sermon this week-end at 10 a.m. on Christmas Sunday.

The early chapel service will be omitted so that the Bethany Church family can gather in the sanctuary for the service of praise and celebration.

A trumpeter will herald the Good News with a fanfare and will accompany the hymns.

The Advent wreath candle-lighting ceremony will be conducted by Marianna Fallon and her family, Matthew, Kelley Rachel, and by the Park children, Jiyon, Soyon and Miyon.

There will be special Christmas music with Children's Choir singing, and the Chancel Choir offering Handel's "And the Glory of the Lord."

Alto soloist Jean E. Bettinson will present a selection from "Messiah", "He Shall Feed His Flock".

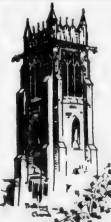

Over 100 red memoria: poinsettias will be banked around the altar and chancel.

Later, many of the plants will be taken to members and friends of Bethany who are confined to home, are rest home residents, or are hospital patients.

Everyone is welcome to share in the worship service, and to invite friends and neighbors.

At 7 p.m. Bethany Carolers will keep the tradition of bringing Christmas cheer to the patients at the Norfolk County Hospital.

Keeping Central Open School Senate Objective

Keeping Central Junior High School open was the most talked about objective of the school's senate at the first meeting of the year recently.

Mayor Leslie Hayes presided over the meeting.

Senate members, elected by peer votes, are John Cassetta, Elizabeth Dudley, Sandra Dunn, Maureen Gralton, Wayne Keddy, Christopher Marshall, John Mitchell, John Nee, Maura O'Garra, Gerald Pacciorotti, Amanda Peduzzi, Scott Sacchetti, Cheri Vialpando and James Phelan as an alternate representative.

Other objectives mentioned for this year were music in the lunchrooms for all grades, junior olympics for all grades, raising money for class trips, school spirit day, more dances, sports and pep rallies, sharing school government information with groups that members represent, involving more students with school projects, making students more conscious of their share in keeping Central cleaner.

Suggestions for a Christmas project were toy drive, dance, concert for the elderly, decorating the school, helping students develop more respect for one another, an open house, bazaar, clothing drive, food drive, ornament drive sales promotion, Christmas concert for parents, bake sale to raise funds for a charity or to entertain the elderly, party for teachers.

Community projects mentioned were working for the needy, starting a cleaner Central with weekly clean-up of lockers and desks, drive for victims of Leukemia or Muscular Dystrophy, helping the elderly, drama presentation for the elderly, carnival to raise funds for field trips, camp, concert for the elderly, cleaning up the square, Christmas carolling at nursing homes.

Regular meetings are scheduled with school principal, Vincent Moscardelli, and head counselor Mary Catherine Iannoni as advisors to the group.

This is the second year that the school government is functioning in this manner.

Christmas Breakfast At Squantum Church Sunday

Members of Cinnamon Toast will sponsor a Christmas Breakfast, open to the public, Sunday at 9:15 a.m. at the First Church of Squantum.

The young people will serve a meal of orange juice, scrambled eggs or a Christmas omelet, hashed brown potatoes, pastry and a beverage.

Reservations, which must be made in advance, can be obtained by calling Muriel Burnhauser at 328-6649 any weekday morning. Three choirs will sing at the service which will begin at 10:15 a.m.

Members and friends of the church participated in the "Hanging of the Greens" last Sunday afternoon at the church.

After a brief worship service, participants decorated the church, sang Christmas carols and made Christmas crafts.

Earlier that day, the congregation had observed the third Sunday of Advent at the morning worship service.

As a worship prelude, flutist Sarah Harrison played "O Holy Night" by Adolphe Adam and "Gesu Bambino" by Pietro A. Yon, accompanied by Mary Ruth Scott on the organ.

The Junior Choir sang "Light One Candle" by Natalie Sleith. Children of the church helped the pastor light the candles in the Advent wreath.

Assisting the pastor were Brian Colwell, Ruth Adams, Melissa Stamos, Blythe Bumpus, Amanda Young, and Kristin Reister.

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, told the children the story of the shepherds.

Later, he preached on the topic, "How Does Jesus Come?" based on the text in the Book of Acts.

The Chancel Choir sang "Round the Glory Manger" as arranged by Arthur Hardwicke. Greeters for the morning were Ellen Ogilvie and her children, Andrew and Lori Beth.

The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Hazel Mayne, Jennie Preston and Edna MacIntyre.

Koch Club Toy Appeal Response 'Most Gratifying'

The response to an appeal for donations of used and new toys for needy boys and girls has been most gratifying, according to Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Koch Club.

As a result hundreds of children in Quincy and the Greater Boston Area will be provided with a more enjoyable holiday season due to the generosity of students, organizations and individuals.

Koch praised the Committee that has been cleaning and preparing the toys for shipment to church, charitable and social service organizations.

Mrs. Rita Kelliher and Thomas McDonald have been largely responsible for the repairing, cleaning and packing of the hundreds of items donated to the Christmas Charity Program.

Groups participating in the 1981 project include the Massachusetts Fields School, Francis W. Parker School, Sacred Heart School, North Quincy, Woodward School for Girls, the Granite City Grange, North Quincy Catholic Women's Club, Tobin Tower residents and dozens of individuals from Quincy and neighboring communities.

Koch said the program will continue until "Little Christmas" on Jan. 6.

Koch Club Basket Fund Nears Deadline

Only three days remain for those who wish to participate in the Koch Club's 1981 Christmas Basket Fund, which is part of the 26th annual Christmas Charity Program for needy families.

Sacred Heart Scouts, Tour Old Sturbridge

Sixty seven cub scouts, webelos and leaders, from Pack 27, Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, recently enjoyed a days tour of Old Sturbridge Village.

The scouts were divided into several groups so that they could participate in many workshops offered.

A sing-a-long was enjoyed on the bus ride home. Richard Powers is cubmaster.

The next scout activity will be caroling at local nursing homes.

NQHS Christmas Vocal Concert

North Quincy High School will present a "Christmas Vocal Concert" to be held Monday, Dec. 21, at 8 p.m. at North Quincy High School.

The concert will feature the Atlantic Junior High and Central Junior High Morning Chorus, the North Quincy High School Madrigals, the North Quincy High School Concert Choir, and the Alumni Choir.

The deadline is Saturday, Dec. 19.

Recent donations from the Hancock Bank, the Granite City Grange and parents of Sacred Heart School will allow the Christmas Charity Committee to purchase turkeys and the trimmings for Quincy area families.

The Koch Club's 25th annual

Santa Claus visit to children confined to their homes year round will be held Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 19 and 20, between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Although scheduled for Saturday or Sunday, the program will be arranged to the convenience of the parents of the children confined to their homes with illness.

Koch Sees Deep Political Divisions Ended

myself running for the mayor's job. I hate to make it negative but it just appears to be a dead end job. The guy that's in there is a sure loser, maybe not after one term but after a couple. We have the type of government that's a strong mayor and everything falls on his shoulders. Proposition 2½ hasn't helped the mayor's job at all.

SUN - How about state level?
KOCH - I really haven't studied state government and watched it to see if I'd be interested in it. I've been discouraged with state government. Year after year, they talk about tax reform and, no matter what happens, nothing gets done. I don't know if I'd like to get involved with such a large body of people that just doesn't seem to change things at all.

SUN - How much influence has your father had on your going into politics?

KOCH - My father never encouraged me to get into it, but he never discouraged me either. My mother tried to discourage me. She and my father have been in a position over the years where they have really lost their private life. The phone rings any hour of the day about a problem. I remember on a Sunday a guy called and he was squawking about a ball team playing at Atlantic Junior High without a permit and he thinks they're from Boston and I started to tell the guy, 'Look, why don't you call the office tomorrow. No one liked to be bothered on a Sunday.' And I got hell from Dad for telling the guy that. He was used to it. They kind of lost their private life where they could sit back and enjoy their children. But, by the same token, I don't feel shortchanged.

SUN - How much of a role did your father play in the campaign?

KOCH - Two years ago, in '79, I had a good group around me; we'd sit down as a group and discuss things. I think I let it get to the point where we almost depended on my father to come up with ideas. When I was deciding to run this past year, Dad and I went out to lunch and talked about it and we kind of agreed that he should be in an advisory capacity, if at all. We had to make the decisions and come up with the ideas and if we had a question he'd be glad to help us out. It went well.

SUN - How much advice will you be looking to him for on the job?

KOCH - I won't say I won't look to him for any advice. I'd be crazy not to. It's a resource that I can tap. I think the most important thing he can do for me is to give me a background on people and personalities in the government as to where they're coming from. He's been 20 years in city government. As far as issues go, if something came up to do with the Park Department, it would be a hands off situation with me. I would let my colleagues make the decision that had to be made. That would be the only area where he could give me a lot of advice. But then it wouldn't apply because I wouldn't be making decisions in that area. He has told me, 'You're on your own now. You stand on your own two feet.'

SUN - For the past 10 years or so the city has been divided into two camps. Do you belong to either one of them?

KOCH - No.
SUN - Do you feel an affinity toward one of them?

KOCH - I won't alienate either one of them but I don't feel in line with either one of them either. That may have been a reason for my loss in 1979, not lining up with one or the other. But I think that helped me coming back in two years. People said, 'He didn't. He wasn't full of baloney. He didn't stand independent.' Maybe they respected me for that.

SUN - Was there an opportunity to line up with one side?

KOCH - Yes. There was. I don't know that I should get into which one.

SUN - How did you turn it down?

KOCH - Yes.

SUN - How was it proposed to you?

KOCH - It didn't come to me directly. I really don't want to get into the details of it.

SUN - Was there a similar proposition in the second campaign?

KOCH - No. None at all.

SUN - Do you have any thoughts on the division in the city?

KOCH - I think it's pretty much ended. I think Frank McCauley as a mayor, although he has been aligned by some people with one of the groups, I think he's a fair man who will take an issue and decide it on the issue, not on personalities. I look forward to working with him. And I see a Council that isn't factionalized. They may not always agree on everything but I see some thinkers in there that will look at an issue similar to Frank McCauley and say, 'Hey, here's the issue regardless of where it came from.'

SUN - What do you see as the council's role now under Proposition 2½?

KOCH - It's going to be difficult. The mayor has some real trimming of the budget to do and there are three very sensitive areas, the police, the fire and the school departments. Some cuts are going to have to be made there. You have to make them but you're going to have residents of the city screaming for fire protection, police protection and good quality education for their children. I think the biggest thing the Council is going to have to do is relate to the public and say, 'Listen. We're not full of baloney. This is the money we have. These are the cuts we propose.' And ask them if they have a better idea.

SUN - Would you push for a change in 2½?

KOCH - Not right now but I think there has to be maybe two, four years down the line, to some degree. But by the spring I think we'll know if it's possible at all to live with 2½.

SUN - How do you feel about 2½? Good law? Bad law?

KOCH - I can't blame the people for voting for it. But I feel the whole idea of 2½ was aimed at the wrong government, that is, local government. There was waste in local government, or there was at that time, and certainly there is room for improvement, but, my God, we've talked about tax reform at the state level for years and years and years and it hasn't been done. I would rather have seen something to deal with in that area. I think Prop 2½ was aimed at the wrong level of government and I think something ought to be done about tax reform. This being an election year for the state I don't think you'll see anything done.

SUN - One of the big issues that is facing the council is a sewer use charge. How would you like to see that handled?

KOCH - I don't want to see a sewer and water commission. After Boston's experience with it, it's crazy to even try to attempt it. Actually, this is the perfect way for us to get some money out of the different areas that aren't paying any property taxes. Schools, churches, this type of thing. That's a service they're getting free that should be paid for. What I would like to see is the home owner taxed by an ad valorem method and others taxed on usage with sewer use based on 80 per cent of the water.

SUN - That sounds like the plan McCauley advocates. Have you talked to him about it?

KOCH - No. I haven't. Other than to congratulate him, I haven't talked to him about anything. He appears to be the type of mayor who would come into the council and sit down and, if he has to spend the evening there talking to us, he will.

SUN - The past four years have been ones of aggressive development in the city. Would you like to see that continue?

KOCH - The way Proposition 2½ stands we have nothing really to gain by development. The homeowners' tax bill would continue to go down. But we would have to provide more service to the developed areas and I don't see how that's possible on the same amount of money. State Street South is continuing to develop and the traffic there is getting rough. I would like to see an access road out to Granite St. but Milton has been opposed to it. Hopefully, we can work something out.

SUN - Would you do anything to encourage development?

KOCH - I don't think there is too much to do to encourage development. I think we have a pretty good quality of life for the residents of Quincy. If an outfit looks at Quincy I think that has to be one of the primary decisions, what the community is like and what it provides for the people who live and work there. I think we have a perfect situation. We have all the advantages of Boston without all the disadvantages, well, maybe a couple but not all, I'm sure. I think primarily that's what a company coming into Quincy is going to look for. It's beyond me why we can't get a decent retailer in Quincy Square of the magnitude of a Caldor, Bradley's, K-Mart, J. C. Penney, this type of outfit.

SUN - Some people would tell you it's because there is no East-West connector.

KOCH - To me, this East-West connector primarily was to benefit the merchants. If the merchants are opposed to it, I don't see where the benefit is. I can't see proposing it if they're opposed to it. They've been there for a number of years. They've put up with everything. We have to consider them also. But I think the off Burgin Parkway Extension will help Quincy Square. I look at people passing through Quincy. If they go up Newport Ave., they have a beautiful road to travel from North Quincy until they get to Burger King. If the road comes in there then they can continue on their way. If they're not going to stop, they have an exit and they're not traveling on our side streets. It's a problem getting to Quincy Square. It's not even accessible from Sea St. and that area. Maybe closing Hancock St. to all traffic except pedestrians, taxi cabs and buses, something on that idea. If we could get one large size store there ... we'll never compete with South Shore Plaza. But I don't like to pay the prices at South Shore Plaza. Maybe we could come up with some alternative.

SUN - Do you think parking meters have seen their day?

KOCH - Yes. I really do.

SUN - What would you like to see in place of them?

KOCH - The mayor-elect has talked about some type of parking validation. I think that's the way to go. I would really like to see nothing but obviously we'd have all the T parkers and all day parkers there. We have to have some type of control and I think validation is the best at this stage.

SUN - The great issue everywhere is public safety. In view of your college background, what would you propose to increase public safety?

KOCH - I think we have a very good level in this city of both fire and police protection. We're lucky that we have very professional departments. We've had minor problems over the years but for the most part they've been personality conflicts within the departments. But it's going to be difficult to save money without taking men off the street. I was around talking to the firefighters in the stations. I visited one station that had three men on and they said if something came up there would be no point in having the station open. They said it's a farce. It's just to keep the public quiet. You keep the station open and hardly man it and at the same time you're taking that manpower away from another station. I don't know what the answer is. I would like to sit down and look into the two departments and talk with the chiefs and some of the people inside to see if there are other ways to save some money. I don't see all that much room for cuts in the fire and police departments. It's going to be difficult. Who's to say how many firemen we need? There's never been a study done. My guess is as good as yours as to how many firefighters we need in this city. And I don't know that any study has been done with regard to the police department either.

[This is the second in a series of Quincy Sun interviews with the newly elected city officials. Next week: Theodore P. DeCristofaro.]

Stay Alive!

LITTER-ALLY UNSAFE

Litter isn't merely ugly - it's unsafe. Land pollution goes beyond being an eyesore; it's the "match" that lights thousands of home fires each year, costing homeowners and insurers an estimated $140 million in fire losses. In addition, litter is a highway hazard and a danger to boating and swimming.

In the home, litter starts approximately one out of four fires. On the highway, litter causes untold numbers of accidents. In Connecticut alone, over a three-year period, 621 auto accidents were caused by cars swerving to avoid objects on the road.

The situation has become so bad in Los Angeles that helicopters and television cameras have been put to work to keep expressways free from hazardous debris. The helicopters maintain surveillance and dispatch emergency patrol equipment to clear roadways. Keep America clean - and you'll keep it safe too.

No Deficit This Year At Wollaston County Facility

James J. Collins of Milton, chairman of the Norfolk County commissioners, has announced that income from the Wollaston Recreational Facility for the past season was $238,817, up 33 per cent over last year's $179,056.

"Operating deficits at Wollaston are a thing of the past," said Collins.

"At the current rate of growth, the facility will realize an operating surplus of over $30,000 for the current fiscal year," added John C. Nourse, administrator of the facility.

There has been a move afoot in other parts of the county to sell the 90-acre facility, which used to be the Wollaston Golf Club, because it was running a constant deficit.

County commissioners pegged the fiscal 1982 budget for the facility at $231,000, a reduction of nearly 20 per cent from the previous year.

Nourse said the budget for the current year "is absolutely barebones with no capital outlay, reduced maintenance and personnel and a severe cutback in supplies and materials."

"Wollaston can operate in the future on income only and we will be proposing shortly that a revolving account be established that would allow us to operate on income only.

"This will be added assurance of a no-deficit operation on a permanent basis."

"We are conducting an ongoing education program in Norfolk County to familiarize citizens of what Wollaston has to offer."

"Emphasis is being placed on the fact that, in addition to golf, horseshoe pits, slides, a picnic area and 10 tennis courts are also available for use in the summer."

"During the winter people ice skate on the pond, cross-country ski and coast on the golf course and it is open to all 610,000 residents of the county."

License Board Briefs

The Quincy License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted permits for two video machines to the Bryan VFW Post, Quincy.

- Granted a request from Francis L. MacLeod of MacLeod's Surlside Sunoco, 305 Quincy Shore Drive for licenses for 14,000 gallons of gasoline under ground, 1600 gallons of miscellaneous inflammables, and a repair shop license.

Granting of the license is subject to a police check and approval of the sign by the building inspector.

- Building Inspector Allan MacDonald instructed MacLeod to keep the property clean and to maintain the landscaping.

- Allowed to be withdrawn a request from George E. Montilio, whose business address is 29 Chestnut St., for a common victual all alcoholic license for Harbournview Restaurant, 145 Commander Shea Boulevard.

- Agreed to postpone, at the request of the applicant, a request from Stop & Go Transmissions, 21-27 Adams St., for a permit for transmission repairs and 150 gallons of gasoline in tanks of cars.

Ice Skating Registration Underway

The Quincy Recreation Department will hold registration for its Instructional Ice Skating Program, beginning today (Thursday) at 9 a.m. in the Recreation Office, 100 Southern Artery.

This Instructional Program is co-recreational and is open to children ages 6 through 16. Instruction is offered according to skating ability under the direction of Mrs. Anne Eagles, a United States Figure Skating Professional. Classes are based upon the U.S.F.S.A. standards and testing is done at the conclusion of each nine week program.

The program is conducted at the Quincy Youth Arena on Sea Street in the Merrymount section of the city.

The classes are available at the following times: Monday, 3:10 to 4:00 p.m., 4:10 to 5:00 p.m.; Wednesday 3:10 to 4 p.m., 4:10 to 5 p.m.

Registration is done on a first come first serve basis and enrollment is limited. The total fee is $16.50 and is payable at the time of registration. The Winter session runs for nine weeks.

Additional information including starting dates is available by contacting the Quincy Recreation Department, 773-1380 Ex. 204.

PUD Hearing Thursday On W. Q. Development

The City Council and the Planning Board will hold a joint public hearing today (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall to discuss a proposed development on Planned Unit Development land in West Quincy.

The National Fire Protection Association is planning to build a $12.5 million, six story office building next to its headquarters on Batterymarch Place off Willard St.

Sarsaparilla And A Jinx

(Cont'd from Page 4)

And, sure enough, it was. We hadn't seen her since we left her quite embarrassed in Bermuda nearly two years before.

The Cogswell and Porter moved into picket position about 500 yards apart.

It was June 10, 1945. Another rather quiet day like the one in November, 1943 until suddenly, it happened.

A Japanese Kamikaze plane came high out of nowhere, and was zooming down on the Cogswell.

Down plunged the plane, down, down, onto the — Porter! — It opened a gaping hole along her waterline. For some reason, the suicide pilot changed his mind in the final few seconds and picked the Porter instead of the Cogswell as his target

Tiny LSMs hurried to the vessel's side and took off the 350 or so survivors.

Three hours later, the stricken Porter rolled over on her side. Her bow shot up like the grasping hand of a person drowning and then she slipped into her watery grave.

"They sent us to the Aleutians after the Roosevelt incident so we couldn't get into any more trouble," Slough laughed as we reminisced by phone the other day.

And, as we discovered, it really is a small world after all.

He was calling, he said, from "Quin-see", Ill. "You mean Quin-zee," I corrected. "That's the way it's supposed to be pronounced."

We both laughed and hung up.

Well, we can laugh now. But it wasn't very funny back then.

Ledger Wins Early OK For $750,000 Bond Issue

The George W. Prescott Publishing Co. won the first round in its bid for $750,000 in low interest industrial revenue bonds to help modernize the computer system at the Patriot Ledger.

The Quincy Industrial Development Finance Agency approved the application Monday after a polite but sharp exchange between former Mayor Walter J. Hannon and Ledger Publisher K. Prescott Low.

The vote of the board was 3-0, with Hannon voting present, to pass the application on to the City Council for consideration at its next meeting, Monday, Dec. 21.

The board as a whole questioned whether the new computer system would increase or decrease employment at the Ledger, one of its criteria for approval, since the company supplied no figures.

Hannon also questioned whether the Ledger might not be financially too strong to qualify for the bonds, which are designed to spur growth by reducing the cost of borrowing money for expansion.

Robert Bergman, comptroller of the Ledger, told the board that there was no anticipated reduction in employment, in fact, the move "will tend to enhance employment over the long term."

General Manager Richard D. Allen said the Ledger's recent acquisition of two cable TV channels in Weymouth, for which the new computer system will be needed, could mean 10 to 12 jobs over the next few months.

It would also mean the transfer of 17 full time employees from the newspaper's Norwood office to Quincy.

The hearing before the IDFA began with three business representatives of the Ledger on hand with their lawyer but when opposition developed, the meeting was recessed and a call put through to Low.

The move irritated Hannon. "With all due respect to Scott Low," he said, "they're bringing in the heavy hitters and we are supposed to roll over."

Low laid out a forceful case for approval of the bond application.

"We find ourselves," he said, "in a position where we have a work force that makes us a good sized business for Quincy, but everything goes through an antiquated computer system that prevents our growth."

"With obsolete equipment, we can't expand. We have been talking about a Sunday paper. With the system we have now, we can't do it even if we start the previous Monday."

"There would be more jobs with a Sunday paper but if we don't have the option open to us we can't do it."

Allen said the Ledger has been studying a Sunday paper for a few years "and we're talking about 30, 40, 50 additional jobs. It's out there but we don't have a firm grasp on it."

Low said the Ledger has been trying since 1961 to move its editorial and business offices out of the building on Temple St. in Quincy Sq. to South Quincy where it has its mechanical departments.

"It has cost us about $750,000 over the past few years to rehabilitate an old building that we want to move out of," he said, adding that land-takings by the DPW and the MBTA are making it more difficult to move to South Quincy.

"It is not in our long-term plan to stay in Quincy Center," he said. "We would maintain a small downtown office, probably on Hancock St. Our customers don't want to come to Quincy Sq.

"We have spent a bundle to stay in Quincy. It would be cheaper to do this in an industrial park in Norwell. They would be glad to give us an industrial bond."

"Why is it so difficult to project a number for future employment?" asked Hannon. "We have to hang our hats on something."

"We would be perjuring ourselves if we gave you hard numbers," said Low. "For me to tell you that there will be six new jobs in 1983 I can't do that."

"I'd be a damned fool to come in here with The Quincy Sun and the Boston Globe and spell out our plans for the future." I can tell you that we need this to remain competitive.

"There are not going to be any hard numbers."

But Hannon still sought them.

"If someone stopped me on the street and asked 'Why are you giving these guys a tax-free bond?' " he said, "I want to be able to tell them."

Permitting the bond to pass without employment figures, he added, would set a dangerous precedent for other applicants.

Chairman Vito Barresi, George E. Montilio and Carmela Hammerle voted to approve the application. Hannon voted present and the fifth member, Cornelius O'Connell, was absent.

The Ledger said in an earlier release that it plans to spend $1,825,000 to renovate the paper's news and advertising departments, including more than 100 video display terminals (VDTs) on which to process news stories and ads.

The $750,000 bond issue would pay for part of the cost. It still has to be approved by the City Council and the State Industrial Finance Agency. The issue would be purchased by the State Street Bank and Trust Co. of Boston.

NEED AN EXTRA $76,949?

Deposit early instead of late!

Let's say you're planning to take advantage of the liberal new tax laws by opening a tax deferred individual retirement account (IRA) for yourself.

To avoid the tax on your 1982 tax return you must open the account before you file—sometime previous to April 15, 1983. Now that seems like you've got forever to think about it. Almost!

Example:

If you're 29½ years old and you deposit the maximum amount ($2,000) per year for 30 years and have an average earnings of 12% . . . by making your deposit on January 2nd you'll actually earn $76,949 more interest at retirement than if you waited until December 31st to make your deposit.

Remember, we're not talking about a different deposit amount; we're just talking about your timing of that deposit . . . a $76,949 difference!

Your spouse can open a second account to double the difference to $153,898. (All working people are now eligible).

So, don't wait. If your timing is good, you and your spouse will have an extra $153,898 to spend at retirement.

Tell our New Accounts Department you want to open a 1982 IRA. They'll do the rest.

Brooks Announces For Cerasoli Seat

Gregory P. Brooks, 24, of 596 South St., Quincy Point, who lost out in a bid for a City Council seat last September, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for state rep from the Third Norfolk District.

The seat, which embraces

Ward 2 in Quincy and parts of Weymouth, is currently held by Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli, a Quincy Democrat.

Brooks, who describes himself as a conservative Republican, made his announcement during a reception attended by several Republican gubernatorial candidates at the Neighborhood Club last week.

He called it an informal announcement with the formal one coming in the spring. But, he added, he plans to begin actively campaigning right away.

Telephone Pioneers Install 6 Quincy Officers

Six Quincy residents have been installed as officers in the Telephone Pioneers, a group of active and retired employees of the telephone company who have more than 18 years service in the industry.

Barbara A. Kelley, 207

Whitwell St., was installed as president of the South Council with Steven Slicis, 78 Arnold St., Quincy Point, vice president, and Jean Hynds, 107 Lincoln Ave., Wollaston, secretary.

John J. Desmond, 93 Sims St., Wollaston, was installed as president of the Neponset Life Member Club with Clifford R. Benoit, 1 Bay State Rd., Atlantic, vice president, and James G. Farrell, 182 Babcock St., Houghs Neck, secretary.

7 Residents At Dental School

Seven Quincy residents are enrolled for the 1981-82 academic year at Forsyth Dental Center's School for Dental Hygienists in Boston, conducted in conjunction with Northeastern University.

They are: Sharon J. Cooper, 68 Edgemere Rd., Louise G. Noonan, 86 Highland Ave.; Anne Campbell, 326 Granite St.; Mary Sarion, 109 Stoughton St.; Denise Quintiniani, 119 Cranch St.; Marianne Orlando, 93 E. Elm Ave.; and Maryann V. Salenius, 1 Webster St.

Dr. Quinn President Dental Society

Dr. Thomas W. Quinn of Quincy was elected president of the American Dental Society of Anesthesiology at the recent convention of the American Dental Association in Kansas City.

North Girls Open Quest For Third Title

The North Quincy girls' track team will be shooting for its third straight state title when it opens against Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at 5 p.m. at Northeastern University.

Coach Lou Tozzi's Raiderettes were 8-0 last year, winning the Suburban League title, the state relays and the state Class A championship. They also won the state crown in 1980, while the North boys won the state title in 1976 and 1977.

"We expect to be strong once again and will be shooting for the top again," said Tozzi, who has had phenomenal success with the North girls in winter and spring track and cross country.

In the high jump senior Kara Crehan leads the way. A Patriot Ledger all-scholastic last year, she won the state meet at 5-6½ and she is expected to have another outstanding year, although she has had a late start due to illness.

Behind her are freshman Georgia Traricante, a Quincy Track Club veteran as are many members of the squad, and sophomore Kristin Howard.

"We are loaded with high jumpers but are planning to give our youngsters plenty of meet action," Tozzi said.

In the shot put North has one of the best in the state in senior Michelle Millane, another Patriot Ledger all-scholastic who did over 40 feet last season, placed second in the state in Class A and hasn't lost a dual meet in her career.

Senior Caryn Smith, whom Tozzi feels is underrated, is right behind Millane. Tozzi also plans to give his new people every opportunity to break into the varsity level in this event.

Other shot putters include sophomores Ann Souza and Julie Clark, junior Michelle Elgart and freshman Michelle Palmer.

For sprinters there are senior Kathy McCarthy, a talented veteran and the best on the squad last year; freshman Lisa Fitzgerald, an impressive newcomer; junior Debbie Kiley, out for the first time, and junior veterans Diane Flynn and Liz Wiot.

Sophomore Marie McGurl leads the hurdlers. She was a league medalist last year and has loads of potential. Junior veteran Linda Welby, Traricante and Howard are other hurdlers.

North will be especially strong in the long sprints.

Senior Mary Kate Kennedy, was third in the state meet in the 300 last winter, was a Patriot Ledger all-scholastic and holds the school record in the 300.

Senior Deirdre Donovan is one of the best all-purpose runners in New England, having run everything from the 300 to 1000 yards. She was the league champion in the 600 last year and is a member of the relay team.

Senior Karen Lindenfelzer would be No. 1 on most teams. She was a league medalist in the 300 last season and runs on the relay team.

Junior Mary Gannon has been injured but will be a key performer when she is healthy.

Other top prospects are Seniors Siobhan Corrigan and Kathy Moriarty and juniors Janet Zdanowski and Lisa Reynolds. Others in the long sprints are Juniors Monika Reilly, Nancy Wildes and Chris Comeau and sophomores Laura Coughlin, Andrea Gelsomini and Donna Stein.

As usual, the Raiderettes will be very strong in the distance runs. This group romped in the Eastern Mass. Div. 2 cross country meet this fall and was second in the all-state meet.

Senior Nancy McCarthy tops the list. "The sky's the limit for her," said Tozzi. "She is moving up this year to longer races and better competition. She was the state champion last year in the 600 and is our best college prospect."

Junior Sheila Barrett was a state meet medalist in the two-mile last year, second in the Suburban League mile and this fall was a Patriot Ledger cross country all-scholastic.

Junior Linda Kennedy was a state meet medalist in the two-mile, second in the league mile and is running well in practice after being bothered by asthma during the cross country season.

Junior Regina Nagle was the surprise of the league in cross country and was a medalist in the Eastern Mass. meet.

Rounding out the list of distance runners are senior Anne Gorczyca and junior Terry Jones, veterans; sophomores Eileen Crehan and Tracy Corrigan, promising newcomers; freshman Tracy Coull, a Quincy Track star; freshman Meg Leary, who stood out for Atlantic Junior High; and sophomore Bernadette Murphy.

Tozzi has his largest squad ever, over 70 girls, and others out for the first time are juniors Amy McGrail, Mary Lou McTigue and Cindy Olson; sophomores Krisanne Bridges, Lynn Cahill, Kelley Coutts, Kerry Grealish, Debbie Leonard, Nancy Linnehan, Donna Lydon, Susan McGrail, Chris Mulvey, Karyn Reilly, Alice Reilly, Liz Toland, Ann Carroll, Michelle Fish and Areti Pappas, and freshmen Joan Climo, Joanie Doherty, Christine Edmonds, Susan Edmonds, Barbara McCarthy, Jean O'Hare, JoAnn Zdanowski and Suzette Chass.

"We are looking forward to defending our league and state titles," Tozzi said. "We have a very large group and many newcomers and we are trying to teach them to develop a positive attitude through motivation and hard work."

Tozzi has several assistants, Bart Petracca, a former North standout who is working with the boys in addition to John Jacoppo; Mike Burke, who placed seventh in the 1979 Boston Marathon; Steve Nofle, former Eastern Nazarene star; Doc Doherty, a former North great and Ken McPhee, coaching the weights.

Priscella Playing For B.U.

Freshman Steve Priscella, who starred for the Quincy High teams the past three years and led them into the Eastern Mass. Tournament, is playing on the Boston University varsity basketball team.

Priscella, a two-year Suburban League all-star, was planning to attend Merrimack College but was told by the coach there that he didn't think he could play Division II basketball.

This astounded Steve, the only Quincy player ever to start on three Eastern Mass. tournament teams.

With the help of Quincy coach Joe Amoroso, a friend of BU coach Rick Pitino, he received a chance to try out for the Terriers.

"He (Pitino) didn't promise me anything but a chance to make the team as a walk-on," Priscella said. The tryout worked out and the former President became a member of the Div. I BU team.

Even though he hasn't played much, he isn't complaining. He figures to see much more action during his next three years.

Amorosino Faces Another Rebuilding Job

By TOM SULLIVAN

Last season Quincy basketball coach Joe Amorosino faced a rebuilding job but, by winning their last two games, the Presidents ended 14-6 and qualified for the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the fourth year in a row and the fifth time in six years.

Quincy then topped Barnstable in the opening round of the tournament, but bowed to B. C. High in the second round.

Now, with most of last year's varsity gone, Amorosino faces another rebuilding job.

"We have a young squad and very little size," Amorosino said. "We won't have anyone over 6-1 in the starting lineup and we lack varsity experience."

"However, we will be quick and I don't think our lack of height will be a deterrent. The boys worked hard in the off-season, they know what it takes to win, they are intelligent and I liked what I saw in scrimmages with Don Bosco and Dedham."

The Presidents opened their season Tuesday against Newton North in a Suburban League game. Next Tuesday they will host defending league champion

JOE AMOROSINO

Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 3:30 p.m. and Dec. 26 will play Scituate at 6:30 p.m. in the opening round of the Hingham Christmas Tourney. The finals in this tournament, which also includes Weymouth North and host Hingham, will be played Jan. 2.

Amorosino is building around three returning seniors.

Jim DiPietro (6-1) was a starter last winter until the final 2½ weeks of the season when he was sidelined by an injury and the flu.

"In our first Brockton game last year Jim played the entire game with a bloody nose, showing what a determined player he is," Amorosino pointed out. "He is an excellent ball player and should have a fine season."

Peter Papile (6-1) played well all season and was the hero of the 46-44 overtime win over Barnstable in the tournament. Papile sank two three throws to send the game into overtime, then scored the winning basket in the extra session.

Jeff Morrison (6-1) alternated between the varsity and junior varsity last season.

"Jeff is steady and intelligent, is an excellent passer and I expect a good season from him," the Quincy coach said.

The other starters are expected to be juniors Paul Gilbody (6-0) and Kevin Riggs (6-0). Gilbody, according to his coach, has improved 100 percent and will play either point guard or shooting guard.

Riggs who had an excellent football season, could be one of the Presidents' keys. Amorosino describes him as a "natural, all-around athlete." He is a good shooter and has good sense on the floor.

The top candidates for the 6-7-8 players are Bob Mudge (6-0), a junior quarterback on the football team; Paul Connolly (5-10), a junior guard who starred for the jayvees and only needs a little more confidence, and Bob Ready (5-8), a senior guard who is quick and has a lot of hustle.

Rounding out the varsity squad are Dave Noonan, 6-2 senior; Bill Foley, 6-2 junior; Dennis Downing, 6-3 sophomore, and Mike Bates, 6-2 sophomore.

"Bates looks especially good," Amorosino said. "He and Downing played at Central Junior High and they, as well as Foley, are Vo-Tech students."

Amorosino's assistant this year is John Franceschini. Last year's assistant, Doug MacFarland, was a victim of Prop 2½.

Despite Prop. 2½, Winter Varsity Coaches Back

Although it was expected that many of the Quincy and North Quincy coaches would be gone this year due to Prop. 2½, all the winter varsity coaches are back.

Some of them are no longer in the school system and some had lost their jobs but were later recalled.

Bob Sylvia is back as Quincy hockey coach with Jack Crowley again his assistant. The Presidents, who opened last night (Wednesday) against Weymouth North, will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Saturday at 7:50 at the Youth Arena.

Kevin Lewis has returned as North's hockey coach and Kevin Jago is back as his assistant. The Raiders open Saturday against Newton North at 7:30 at the Watertown Rink.

Paul Bregoli is again coach of the North girls' basketball team with Tom White his aide. The Raiderettes opened Tuesday against Weymouth South. Friday will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 3:30 and next Monday will be home to Pope John at 3:30.

Peter Swanson will again lead the Quincy girls' basketball team and Bob Dacey is his assistant. The First Ladies opened at Newton North Tuesday, will host Boston English Friday at 6 o'clock and will be at Cambridge Tuesday at 3:30.

Carmen Mariano is back as coach of the Quincy wrestling team, which has had phenomenal success in recent years. The Presidents will compete against Cambridge and Brookline Saturday at 1 o'clock at Brockton.

Steve Joyce has returned as North wrestling coach. His Raiders are at Marshfield tonight (Thursday) at 7 o'clock and Friday will be at Norwood at 4.

Barbara Donelin again coaches the North Quincy girls' gymnastics team, which opens Dec. 28 at home against Milton at 10 a.m., and Wayne DeSchamp coaches the Quincy boys' gymnastics team which will be at Revere Dec. 30 at 3 o'clock.

Lou Tozzi is once again the coach of the highly successful North girls' track team which opens against Cambridge Friday at 5 o'clock at Northeastern University, and Bart Patracca and John Jacoppo are coaching the boys' team, which meets Cambridge Friday at 6:30 at Northeastern.

Jim Piccini is coaching the Quincy girls' track team, which opens against Brockton Friday at 5 at Northeastern.

Bill Walker, the only coach the North Quincy swim teams has had, is again handling the North boys, who opened Tuesday against Newton and will be at Cambridge Tuesday, Jan. 5, at 3:30.

Broad Meadows Girls In 3rd Straight Win

Coach Chris Prendiville's Broad Meadows Junior High girls' basketball team is off to a fast start with a 3-0 record.

The BM girls opened by winning a 27-25 squeaker over Central, with Denise Loud scoring the winning basket from the corner with only seconds left in the game. Capt. Joan Agres was the high scorer with 10 points.

BM rolled over Sterling, 33-16, with Agres and Susan McDonald scoring nine points each and Loud and Laurie Frattillo playing strong defense. Linda Mahoney controlled both boards.

In their third game the BM girls topped Point, 16-7, with McDonald leading the way with eight points.

The BM girls played Atlantic Tuesday and next Tuesday will play at Central.

Other members of the squad are Kathy Thornton, Kerrie Ogilvie, Debbie Thurston, Lynn Light, Caroline Madden, Nancy Mellyn, Judy Clasby, Laurie Anson and Mary Connolly.

Beniers Shines For Cornell Freshmen

Bob Beniers of Quincy was the favorite target of quarterback Dave Jones this fall and caught seven passes for 80 yards and a touchdown for the Cornell University freshman football team, which finished with a 3-2-1 record.

Tracy Maloney Wins Tufts Letter

Tracy Maloney, a sophomore from Quincy, has earned a varsity tennis letter at Tufts University. Tracy had a 4-3 record in singles competition and, in doubles, had a 2-0 record playing with Lisa Goldstein and a 1-0 mark playing with Laura Weissman.

Miller Has Height, Speed, Sharpshooters

Last year the North Quincy basketball team won its last six games of the season and, with a 16-4 record, finished second in the Suburban League and made the Eastern Mass. tournament for the second year in a row and the fourth time in six years.

The Raiders provided one of the big upsets of the tournament, topping undefeated Plymouth-Carver in the opening round, but lost to Boston English in the second round.

This season Ed Miller's North team could be one of the top teams in the league with good height and speed and some excellent shooters, although only two players were varsity starters a year ago.

North opened Tuesday against Weymouth South in a league game, will play defending league champion Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at 5 p.m. at Cambridge, will host Don Bosco in a non-league game Monday night at 8 p.m. and will be home to Cathedral in another nonleagueur next Wednesday night at 8 p.m.

North will have one of the league's tallest players this season in 6-10 Chip Bunker, who will give the Raiders a lot of help on the boards and also is an excellent shot.

"Chip has improved a lot and right now is an excellent player," Miller said. Bunker played for the Boston Amateur Basketball Club, made up of the top schoolboy players in Eastern Mass., was one of the top players at the Champion Basketball School at the Mass. Maritime Academy of which former North coach Bob Nolan is a director, received All-America honorable mention from Street and Smith basketball magazine and was named by the same publication as a starter on the Metropolitan Boston all-star team.

The other returning starter is West Paul (6-1), an excellent shooter and all-around performer. Miller's other candidates are Ed Carroll, 6-5 senior; John Phelan, 5-8 senior, who follows several brothers at North; Bob Flynn, 6-2 junior, whose brother John was a North standout; Ray Mallory, 6-foot senior, whose brother Paul also was a Raider star; Bill Gray, 6-3 senior; Steve Racette, 5-8 junior; Tim Ryan, 5-10 junior; Jim Kelly, 6-3 junior; Dan Marsters, 5-9 senior, who also comes from a North basketball family, and John Purland, 6-1 junior.

"We lack varsity experience, but most of the boys played junior varsity ball and gained valuable experience scrimmaging the varsity," Miller said.

"Bunker will give us good shooting inside and Paul from the outside. Right now my big job is finding a floor general to succeed Paul Gill, who did a great job in that capacity last season."

Miller again, has Rick DeCristofaro as his assistant coach.

For QJC, It's The Wrong Streak

The winless Quincy Junior College basketball team continued to find the going rough during the past week and lost to Hellenic, 73-54, and to Mass. College of Pharmacy, 60-57, for their seventh and eighth losses in a row.

QJC faced Northern Essex last night (Wednesday) and will be idle over the holidays until meeting Bunker Hill on Jan. 8.

Against powerful Hellenic, the class of the Greater Boston Small College Conference, the Jaguars were much closer than the score indicates.

Hellenic led by 10 points at the half but QJC fought back to within five points with 10 minutes left to play. Then Hellenic's all-league guard, John Kontsiakakis, got hot down the stretch to enable his team to pull away.

Hellenic Coach Dick Dukeshire, former Northeastern University coach and coach of the Greek National team, was impressed with Quincy's teamwork.

"They move the ball to the open man very well and they really look for the big guy," he said. "Quincy's defense was good and they stayed in the game most of the way."

Jim Conboy led QJC with 22 points and Albie Burke scored 16.

Against Mass. College of Pharmacy the Jaguars played a nearly flawless first half, scoring from the inside and outside in building up an eight-point lead. But foul trouble and some costly turnovers down the stretch put MCP back in the game.

With 12 seconds to play the Cardinals led by one and Quincy had the ball. The Jaguars got off a shot that missed and in the fight for the rebound MCP's Tom Fitzgerald was fouled. He hit both ends of a 1 and 1 that clinched the win.

"This was the toughest loss of the year for our young team," said coach Brian Buckley. "We got some outstanding play from our forwards and Tom Dunscombe, Mark Linana and Tony Cavallo had their best games."

Drew Scheele, who was five for five from the foul line, led the scoring with 19 points, while Conboy had 12.

McGinn Holds Lead In Bantam House

McGinn Sunoco held its two-point lead over the Quincy Sun in the Bantam House League with a 5-0 victory over Burgin Platner, in a rough game which saw 11 penalties called. Keith Freeman had two goals and Peter Schuerch, Steve O'Connell and Dennis Doherty one each.

The Sun walloped Doran &

Horrigan, 8-4, as Mike Miller, Mark Walsh and Steve Constas had two goals each, Ed McArdle had a goal and two assists and Ed Flynn a goal and an assist. Miller had two goals for Doran, Bob Fleming a goal and assist and Kevin Zanardelli a goal.

Baskin Robbins topped Johnson Motor, 6-3, Gerry

Layden had a goal and assist and Bob Ellis, John Cataldi, Bob Burgess, Dave Maimaron and Steve Perdios a goal each. Jim Kane had two goals and Tim Gardner one for Johnson.

The standings: McGinn, 7-0-1; Sun, 6-1-1; Burgin, 4-4-0; Baskin, 4-4-0; Doran, 1-6-1; Johnson, 0-7-1.

Rent-A-Car Wins, Washington, Dayce's Tie

Budget Rent-A-Car defeated Luke's Lounge, 3-1, in Executive Hockey League action Monday night at the Youth Arena.

Mike Haynes, Ted Ahola and Steve Marini had the goals, while Haynes had two assists and Ahola and Jim Horner one each.

Washington Tap and Dayce's

Place played to a 3-3 tie. Dick McCabe, Chet Brunstrom and Tom Roberts scored for Washington with two assists for Bernie Toland and one for Richie Fowkes. Joe Casey, Jack Valle and Bob Morrell had Dayce's goals with assists for Casey and Frank McAuliffe.

Paul O'Brien scored twice as Adams Sports edged Beau's Place, 4-3. Dennis O'Connell and Don Fawcett had one goal each. Bob Murray had two assists and Alan Gullickson, Bill Hanson and O'Connell one each. For Beau's Jack Aldred scored two goals and Charlie Chambers one. Ken Gardiner, Steve Dymant and Wayne Gauthier had assists.

D D's, Bersani Win

First place Dee Dee's defeated Mug 'n' Muffin, 4-3, in the Pee Wee House League.

Shawn Craig had a goal and an assist and Joe Straughn, Kevin Marston and Jim Lamparelli a goal each. Kevin Kustka had two goals and David Nogler one for M 'n' M. Paul Hanscom had two assists.

Wheelock, Burke Lead Quincy

Game Capt. Walker Wheelock and George Burke led a second half spurt that propelled the Quincy High School basketball team to a 32-24 victory over North Quincy before a full house in the Quincy gym.

The Red Raiders, coached by Jack Mullarkey, pulled away to a 16-13 lead at halftime on the strength of the shooting of Dick McLaughlin and the playmaking of acting Capt. Gus Cuneo.

But Coach Munroe MacLean's Presidents, playing a strong pressing game and with Dick Drake and Doug Campbell rebounding at both ends of the court, came back to earn the win in the second half.

North's McLaughlin led all the scorers with 11 points while Wheelock had nine for Quincy.

The Quincy lineup included: Ramponi, Burke, Campbell, forwards; Drake, center; Salvaggi, Wheelock, guards.

The North Quincy lineup included: Player, Dodd, McLaughlin, forwards; Kilpatrick, Reed, center; Leary, Draheim, Cuneo, guards.

CITY CLUB BOWS

Gus Fletcher and Warren Mills scored goals but the Quincy City Hockey Club dropped its third straight decision, a 4-2 loss to Hudson, in a Greater Boston League contest at Boston Arena.

The Quincy lineup: Rich, goal; R. Gallagher, H. Guest, defense; Condos, Libertine, Mills, forwards; Yoerger, Erickson, T. Guest, Wheeler, Reynolds, Swanson, E. Gallagher, Fletcher, Francario, spares.

SACCHETTI THRILLED

Charlie Sacchetti, Quincy High's best running back in recent years, went south with a team of Suburban League all stars and came back with a 39-6 victory over a similar all star team from Charlotte, N.C.

"It was the greatest thrill of my playing days," said Sacchetti, "even though I didn't carry the ball much. I was assigned to do the blocking for Joe Terrasi of Waltham and I played defense."

COLUMBUS CLUB WINS

Sid Cedrone had 16 points and Francis "Inga" Walsh 13 as the North Quincy Columbus Club triumphed 54-44 over the Worcester Tadcasters in their season's opener at Boston Garden.

The Columbus Club lineup: Pettinelli, White, Ryan, Reid, forwards; Meade, Walsh, centers; Cedrone, Whelton, Clem, Reilly, guards.

CELTICS' CLINIC

Five members of the Boston Celtics -- Ed Leede, Tony Lavelli, Bob Kinney, George Kaftan and Dermie O'Connell, along with assistant coach Art Spector -- held a basketball clinic at Quincy High School.

Quincy Coach Munroe MacLean selected seven of his players to dress and participate in the drills. They were Dick Drake, Walker Wheelock, Henry Salvaggi, Skip Campbell, Pete Ramponi, George Burke and Bob Mariani.

ALUMNI BEATEN

Pete Ramponi scored 10 points to lead the Quincy High School basketball team to a 30-28 victory over the Alumni, who almost tied the game on Pete Lura's basket a split second after the final buzzer.

RAWSON RE-ELECTED

Stanley A. Rawson was re-elected commodore of the Squantum Yacht Club. It would be the first full term for Rawson, who was elected in mid-year to fill out the term of the late John J. Jennings.

ALL SCHOLASTICS NAMED

Running back Charlie Sacchetti of Quincy and tackle Ray Doherty of North Quincy were named to the Patriot Ledger All Scholastic football team along with Bob Dee of Braintree and Jim Kane of Weymouth.

BOYS CLUB OPENS

More than 50 boys showed up for the Quincy Police Boys Club's first boxing and wrestling program under Officers Ed Kusser, Bill Spencer, Jim Gardner, Doug McKinnon, Johnny Bacon and Guido Pettinelli.

SPORTS BITS '49

A field of 200 golfers, the maximum under a new rule, were set to tee off in the 19th New Years Day tournament at the Wollaston Golf Club....Del Crandall, Boston Braves catcher, received three votes for National League rookie of the year....The Bay State League rejected a bid by North Quincy High School for membership in its basketball program....Inga Walsh with 11 points and Sid Cedrone with 10 led Sam Mele's All Stars to a 53-14 rout of the South Quincy Paddock Club....Elbie Fletcher of Milton, a major league baseball star for nearly 15 years, was given his unconditional release by the Boston Braves....Bill Connolly topped the scorers with 30 points but the Quincy Vikings bowed to the Randolph Amvets, 63-48, in the Randolph Town Hall.

Sterling Essay Winners Announced

Sterling Junior High School has announced the winners on three grade levels of the sixth annual American Education Week essay contest on the theme: "American Education and You: Partners in Our Children's Future."

They are Lorine King, seventh grade; Peter Orenberg, eighth grade; and Michele DelVecchio, ninth grade.

King wrote about "The Most Unforgettable Teacher I Ever Had" Barbara DeWolfe, a teacher at the Willard School who says goodbye to her class each year with a candy bar and a card with a dollar bill.

Orenberg won with the essay "My Mother, the Teacher," in which his mother's lessons in the meaning of the word "no" resulted in his father giving up smoking and Peter no longer needing to get his hands slapped.

Del Vecchio's essay, "My Family and Mr. Education," illustrated how a person "needs more than a formal education to do well in life."

Seven other Sterling students received honorable mention. They are Mary King, Kym Henry, Patricia Malvestuto, Steve Brooks, Laurie Pitts, Ann Chou and Rita Malvestuto.

The Quincy Savings Bank will award trophies to the winners and each participant will receive a booklet containing the winning essays.

A HOLIDAY CONCERT was presented Friday at North Quincy High School by the Quincy Symphony Orchestra and the Quincy Choral Society conducted by Robert Brown. The concert featured selections from "The Nutcracker" and other holiday favorites.

WEEK OF DECEMBER 17

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Much of the week's fun takes place inside your home. Loved one's status receives a boost and you're invited to share fully in his/her glory. Family conferences favored now.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Enjoy satisfaction at work, regarding a personal, not a professional, situation. Avoid snap decisions, especially in transactions involving sales or exchanges.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Curiosity over new places finds you taking positive action. Launch dates for projects may be delayed. Recent yearning for independence ends - to your considerable delight.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

It's to your advantage to know a little about a lot of things. Educational success can lead to financial breakthrough. Think twice before making controversial statements.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Highlights include partnership endeavors and a livelier-than-usual social life. Loved one may resist your surprises. In business, more compromises are in order.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Bright spots include minor financial coup, good news from abroad and an invitation to a glamorous event. Dispute may grow out of loved one's impatience or your own procrastination.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Happiest times are those spent with new friends, but you can't ignore oldtimers. Financial matter may require a conference with a pro. Leadership skills are at a peak.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Budget needs prompt and realistic review. Recent tensions with older relative are happily resolved thanks to anonymous third party. Your talents as a performer are well used.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

There's a trend to be braver and bolder, starting this week. Friends seem quick to overreact to your shortcomings, but you enjoy the last laugh. Some travel confusion on weekend.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Be more trusting - and also more observant. Leisure, with a hint of luxury, is emphasized on weekend. Loved ones are either hard to contact or hard to please right now.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Be wary of smooth salesmen and anyone eager to show you how to make something from nothing. Education accented through the week, with emphasis on original, imaginative ideas.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Clash with supervisor may be inevitable this week; the important thing is to remain objective, not emotional. Organizational talents stressed, leading to monetary gain by Wednesday.

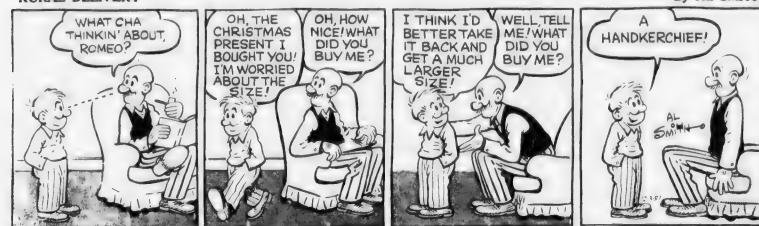

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Outspoken, lively and energetic. Security and stability are important, and you realize your materialistic aims through a conservative approach. Academic achievement and communication through ideas are accented beginning early spring.

BORN THIS WEEK

December 17th, actor Gene Rayburn; 18th, actress Betty Grable; 19th, actor Ralph Richardson; 20th, actress Irene Dunne; 21st, actress Jane Fonda; 22nd, conductor Andre Kostelanetz; 23rd, actor Harry Guardino.

Quincy Bay Inn Reconsideration Move Fails

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
A motion by Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh to reconsider the License Board's Nov. 24 vote to transfer licenses for the Quincy Bay Inn failed to receive a second and was withdrawn Tuesday.

Dr. McKeogh had requested that those involved in the transfer appear again before the board because he felt a "poor decision" was made.

He also questioned Quincy Bay Inn, technically Quincy Motel Corp., holding an innholder and motel license.

Dr. McKeogh, who had been called away from the Nov. 24, meeting before a vote was taken, said that Richard J. Vita, previous holder of the license, had not lived up to the requirement of being on the premises eight hours a day, 40 hours a week, and when functions take place.

McKeogh said the situation was going from bad to worse by transferring the license to Morton West who has no experience in the business.

In addition, West had appointed as manager Albert Colarusso who had been assistant manager only since the summer.

Vita told Dr. McKeogh at Tuesday's meeting that until the transfer got underway, he had been on the premises 40 hours a week.

Vita also said his decision to sell his interest in the inn was a personal one, and he hoped the board would not see fit to "harness him" into remaining in the situation.

Police Chief Francis Finn agreed that the board would have little to gain by keeping Vita at the inn after his interest had waned.

Finn said that the board might be subject to strong legal action if it reconsidered the vote.

McKeogh also asked Atty. Richard Barry, representing the inn, about the motel and innholder's licenses.

Atty. Barry told McKeogh the motel license would not be renewed at the end of the year, since the innholder's license is all that is necessary.

Barry also assured the board that Colarusso would keep the surrounding area clean. Finn had reported that Councillor Joanne Condon complained of rubbish under the Neponset Bridge from inn patrons.

Board members voted to place the matter on file.

YMCA Promotes 4 Staff Members

The South Shore YMCA has announced the promotion of four of its key staff members.

Donald F. Brownell, former associate executive director, is now Executive Director of the Quincy Division, which includes the building at 79 Coddingdon St.

Brownell, a graduate of Bentley College and a retired Navy chief petty officer, has served the Quincy Y as business manager and associate executive director for the past 12 years.

William V. Johnson, former physical and fitness director at the Quincy division, has been appointed Senior Program Director for this Division.

A graduate of Barrington College, Johnson has for the past eight years served as assistant physical director, physical and fitness director and also director of Camp Burgess in Sandwich for the past two years.

Paul S. Harvey, former senior program director of the Quincy Division, is now Executive Director of the Community Service Division serving Weymouth, Braintree and other South Shore communities.

Harvey is a graduate of Eastern Nazarene College and for the past 15 years has served the Quincy YMCA as youth director, physical director, senior program director and associate executive director.

Ralph L. Yohe, former resident camp director has been assigned as Executive Director of the Camping Division and will be responsible for Camp Burgess and Camp Hayward in Sandwich.

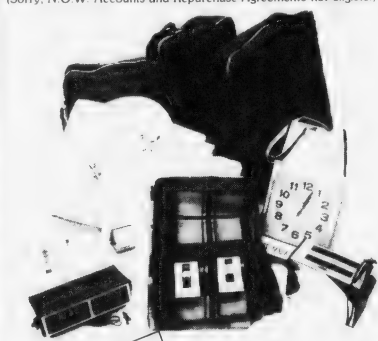

Yohe has a Master's Degree from Arizona State and has worked as director for five years at Camp McConnell, Micanopy, Fla., and three years as business director at YMCA Camps Becket and Chimney Corners in Becket.

Would Serve On Board Tobin Says He May Run Again

By TOM HENSHAW

Arthur H. Tobin becomes the 26th ex-mayor of Quincy on Jan. 4 at the age of 51, but don't count him out for public office in the future. He may even run for mayor again.

"There are those who say that once you've had a taste of public service it never leaves you," he told The Quincy Sun in an interview on the eve of his departure from City Hall.

"There could be a possibility that I'll run for elective office again. I just need a little time to myself and maybe after I have this little refresher people will judge me on what I did.

"Run for mayor? I think you're going to have to wait and see how people perceive what I did this time, whether they're happy or whether they're not happy with the way things are going.

"If they're happy, perhaps they would not be prone to change. If they're unhappy, they may look to bring someone back who has the experience and knows how to get things done."

Tobin said he does not plan to be a constant critic of the new mayor, Francis X. McCauley "unless there is something really out of the ordinary. It certainly won't be constant nitpicking."

"I said to Frank the other day, 'The last thing you need right now is people to criticize you. You need help,'" he said. "I don't think Mr. McCauley needs any undue criticism from me."

"Perhaps I will speak out in the same way that Frank has spoken out in the past. If someone where to ask me a question, I would answer it. But I don't intend to go out of my way to criticize."

In fact, said Tobin, should the occasion arise when Mayor McCauley felt that he, Tobin, could be of service to the city on some unpaid board he would be happy to accept the appointment.

"I told him," he said, "that I'm not looking for any appointment but if he felt that an appointment to a particular board would be helpful to him and to the city and he wanted to consider me I'd accept."

"But I didn't want him to feel bound by it or that I was looking for anything."

Tobin said he has also offered to be available to McCauley for consultation because "as mayor I have been fortunate to pick up a phone and talk to Mayors Burgin,

ARTHUR TOBIN

"I ENJOYED being part of the history of what happened in this city in the past four years."

Tobin Highlights

Outgoing Mayor Arthur H. Tobin made these points during an interview with The Quincy Sun this week:

- He would run for mayor again if the people wanted him.
- He would accept appointment to an unpaid city board if it were offered to him.
- He still hopes for an appointment as clerk-magistrate of Quincy District Court.
- He would have run for a third term if the clerk's job had not come up.
- He is proud that his administration saved City Hospital and brought $200 million in development to the city.
- He would encourage his children to enter public service but none of them have shown interest in it.

- He feels that the coming of cable TV may have the most lasting effect on the city of any decision of his administration.

As Next Mayor McCauley Casts 'No' Vote On Raise Funds

Francis X. McCauley is still only one of nine members of the City Council but Monday night he voted as mayor.

McCauley, who becomes mayor Jan. 4, cast the lone dissenting vote on orders appropriating $229,500 and $178,384 to fund pay raises negotiated by the Tobin administration with the police and fire unions.

"The vote represents an endorsement of the contracts which have no cut clauses," explained McCauley.

"We have funds to pay this raise but we're adding a total of $820,000 to next year's budget by the action the Council took tonight."

"With a $10 million cut in the property tax levy and no relief from the state legislature in sight it sets a bad precedent for other unions who are going to be looking for their contracts to be renewed July 1."

"I will be sitting in the executive's chair in two weeks and I will be the person who negotiates with the unions, not the city council, but me."

"The unions will be looking to my record and to the votes that I've been making in recent months when they come in and ask for salary adjustments."

"What we're doing is adding to fiscal 1983's budget and we've got to cut. Every dollar that goes in there has to come out somewhere else."

Acting City Auditor William Grindlay said the contracts represent a 7 per cent salary increase for police and firefighters as of Jan. 1 and will add $820,000 to next year's budget.

All police and fire contracts have now been negotiated, ratified and signed, except for one civilian union in the Fire Department, he said.

Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia complained that City Labor Negotiator Joseph McParland was not at the Council meeting to explain the contracts but he voted to fund them nevertheless.

Christmas Miracle On Hospital Hill

Call it the Christmas miracle of Hospital Hill.

George Coleman, 84, had a stroke in August in a Quincy nursing home. It left him speechless in City Hospital. He hadn't put more than two words together in four months.

Monday morning, carol singers from Quincy and North Quincy High Schools paid a visit to the hospital, entertaining patients in their rooms and caroling in the hallways.

"We went into this one ward and asked an old gentleman what carol he wanted to hear," said Mike Magrath, one of the carolers. "He didn't say anything so we started singing 'O, Come All Ye Faithful'."

Suddenly, to the utter astonishment of Dorothy Boughter, the nursing supervisor who accompanied the carolers, the previously mute Coleman joined them, lifting his voice in song.

"He's been talking quite a bit since then," said Mrs. Boughter. "And he certainly has brightened up."

"I suppose there's a medical explanation for it," said Bill Henderson, hospital spokesman, "but let's let it be until after Christmas."

Carolers who took part in the "miracle" were Debbie Bryant, Sue Ryan, Garth Petracca and Magrath of North Quincy and Sue Dacey, Robin Lytle and Debbie Bonvie of Quincy.

Kindergarten Through Grade 8

81% Atherton Hough Parents Favor Plan 2

By JOHN NOONAN

A majority of the members of the Atherton Hough Parent Teachers Association indicated a preference for Plan 2 of the six-proposal school reorganization plan.

PTA Vice-president Michael Cheney told the members of the School Committee, before a near capacity audience, that a poll taken by his organization last week showed that 81 per cent of the parents of pupils attending that school expressed a definite preference for Plan 2 over the other five plans.

Cheney told the Committee that a poll based on an article appearing in The Quincy Sun (Nov. 25) clearly indicated that the parents wish to maintain the neighborhood school concept. He praised The Sun Article as being most objective in dealing with a highly controversial issue.

Some parents responded that they preferred the grammar school, K-8th grade concept, which had been proven successful in certain parochial school systems, Cheney stated.

"Plan 2 is best educationally, financially, and more important, best for our children," Cheney said.

Plan 2 would see all junior high schools close and elementary schools would include kindergarten through grade eight. High schools would include grades 9 through 12 with a resultant savings to taxpayers of $457,800. According to School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon this plan would characterize the neighborhood concept and maintain a four year high school. This concept had been favored by the school committee in previous discussions.

Parents from the Atherton Hough School were present to hear Cheney tell the School Committee of their wishes concerning the reorganization of the Quincy School system.

Cheney said that 81 per cent of the parents polled favored the so-called Plan 2 proposal. He cited an article appearing in The Quincy Sun (Nov. 25 by Kathy Dolbec) explaining the six plans proposed on this controversial question as being the most objective article on the subject that has been available.

Two other spectators at the meeting were William O'Connell, long time head of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce and past President of the Quincy Historical Society, and Ward Two Councillor-elect Ted De-Cristofaro.

Before going into its final executive session for 1981 the Committee voted to hold over for next year a few items such as proms and out of city student social events, school reorganization, opinion of the Massachusetts Association of School Committees legal counsel on the recently adopted policy on suspension and expulsion.

Creedon Sees School Budget Ruling Binding On Either Tobin Or McCauley

Superior Court Judge Herbert Abrams recently ruled that Mayor Arthur Tobin must submit the Quincy School Committee's proposed 1981-82 fiscal year budget, not his own, to the City Council for approval.

Judge Abrams' ruling noted that Tobin erred in submitting his own budget and not the budget prepared by the School Committee last spring.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon brought the Abrams decision to the attention of the school board at its meeting last week and several members expressed approval with the court ruling.

The school budget was $1.7 million higher than the one submitted by Tobin to the council.

Should Mayor Tobin fail to submit the school committee's budget before leaving office it is the opinion of School Supt. Lawrence Creedon that Judge Abrams' order will be just as binding on Mayor-elect McCauley when he takes the oath of office.

Committeeman Frank Anselmo asked Dr. Creedon to have the school department legal counsel look into the matter of possible contempt of court should the Mayor, whoever is in office, fail to act within a reasonable period of time following the issued order. There was no time element specified in the order which read:

"The defendant (Arthur H. Tobin, Mayor of the City of Quincy) shall forthwith submit to the Quincy City Council by means of an appropriation order or supplementary appropriation order, the School Department budget approved on May 15, 1981, by the Quincy School Committee."

For 1,220 Needy Families Koch Club, Salvation Army, Elks Put Merry In Christmas

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

This is a special time of year to think of others.

Reflecting that spirit, three local organizations, the Koch Club, Salvation Army and Quincy Lodge of Elks are providing food and toys for some 1,220 families in Greater Boston, up from last year's total.

For the 26th year, the Koch Club will provide 35 to 40 families with a week's worth of food including fresh fruits, vegetables, a turkey and canned goods, according to executive director Richard Koch.

Recipients will include needy families and senior citizens who live alone.

Major thrust of the club's efforts, however, is providing toys for needy children.

Over 2,500 items will be distributed through little Christmas, Jan. 6, providing for 15,000 the number of toys given away since 1971.

"We couldn't do it without assistance," said Koch who explained that his organization acts as a coordinating agency.

"It's far from a one man show," said Koch who acknowledged the help of Hancock Bank, Granite City Grange, South Quincy Social Club, Quincy Nursing Home, Bryan VFW Post members, Mass Fields, Parker, St. Joseph's and Sacred Heart Schools, and North Quincy Catholic Women's Club.

"There are also several dozen individuals who annually provide assistance for the program," added Koch who explained that toys are often left on the porch of his home anonymously.

"This has been our most successful year in allowing us to help so many," said Koch who estimated over 1,000 families would be helped.

He expressed his thanks to all who helped despite the bad year economically.

The Elks delivered about 125 Christmas dinners to needy families Sunday.

Lodge members donated their time and vehicles to deliver the packages.

Purchased by donations from lodge members, the baskets contain a Christmas turkey with all the trimmings.

Capt. Gerald Stephens of the Quincy Temple Corps of the Salvation Army reports that at least 95 families will receive toys, canned goods, and vouchers for meat, potatoes, bread and other items at the Stop & Shop.

A Toy Shop was held Tuesday and Wednesday which allowed parents to come in and select toys for their children.

Capt. Stephens reported that while financial donations received through the mail are "just a little over" last years, income from the kettles are "down a bit".

"This reflects the general economy and the pressures families are feeling," said Capt. Stephens. "We thank all of the donors, who out of their need, shared with us."

"We're still accepting donations of new toys right up to Christmas," added Capt. Stephens.

"Anything that is not used this year will be stored and used next year."

Capt. Stephens also said that the Salvation Army van which was stolen recently was recovered Saturday at 4 a.m. in South Boston with a minimum of damage.

"That's just wonderful," said Capt. Stephens.

"The Lord's been very good to us. And we're grateful to all who have helped."

QUINCY LODGE OF ELKS delivered 125 Christmas dinners to needy families as part of its annual Christmas basket program. Lodge members like Robert Graham donated their time and vehicles to deliver the baskets.

High - Risk Old And Young Drivers

Young drivers are involved in more major accidents than any other age group. Last year, 108 of every 100,000 drivers aged 16-24 were implicated in fatal auto accidents. At the other end of the spectrum are the old-timers who hold the dubious distinction of being the second and most dangerous group on the road. Last year, 84 of every 100,000 drivers over the age of 75 were involved in fatal accidents.

With the older drivers it's a matter of slower reaction time, failing eyesight or super-caution, such as driving at a snail's pace on a high-speed highway which can create havoc.

With the youngsters, it's most often a case of over-aggressive driving such as "drag-racing", burning rubber on the go, weaving in and out of traffic or racing through yellow lights. Give both the aged and the young drivers plenty of room if they exhibit any of these tendencies.

Kaufman Named Political Director Of National GOP

Ron Kaufman of Holbrook, formerly of Quincy, has been named political director of the Republican National Committee, one of the most prestigious posts in the party.

A spokesman for the RNC said he will be responsible for directing the committee's field forces in priority races, training programs, the Republican Governors Association and the National Voter Registration and Turnout Program.

He will assume the new post on Jan. 4.

Kaufman has been serving as the regional political director for the

RON KAUFMAN

Republican National Committee covering New England, New York and New Jersey since August, 1980.

He and his brother-in-law, Rep. Andrew Card of Holbrook, were active in the presidential campaign of George Bush, who later accepted the Republican nomination for vice president. Card is now a candidate for governor.

Before that, Kaufman, then a resident of Quincy, served as a legislative aid to then - Rep. and City Councillor James A. Sheets of Quincy, a Democrat.

He and his wife, Allison, live in Holbrook with their two children.

Wollaston Manor Tenants Advised To Seek Injunction

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell has advised the Wollaston Manor Tenants Association to seek an injunction against the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency.

"The tenants at Wollaston Manor have been wronged by an outrageous rent increase which averages about 25 per cent per apartment," he said.

"The facts indicate that such an increase should not have been granted and indeed the increase was turned down once on Nov. 30 before the MHFA suddenly reversed itself Dec. 3 without a public hearing or tenant input.

"The MHFA is not holding full adjudicatory hearings on proposed rent increases for housing complexes under its control.

"In at least one recent ruling, the Boston Housing Court issued a preliminary injunction against the MHFA after legal counsel charged that the agency did not adhere to the Administrative Procedures Act.

"The Wollaston Manor is similar in nature."

Patrick Barry Finishes Training

Pvt. Patrick J. Barry, son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Barry of 41 Talfrail Road, Germantown, has completed One Station Unit Training at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training.

Barry is a 1981 graduate of Quincy High School.

Dental Corner by

Lee A. Welky D.M.D.

BABY TEETH SHOULD BE FILLED

All dentists have seen children with neglected tooth decay. While it is understandable that parents don't want their children undergoing expensive and uncomfortable dental treatment on teeth which will be lost in a few years, these teeth should be treated, for several reasons.

First, the set of baby (primary) teeth is complete at about age three. The last of these teeth will not be lost, on average, for nine years — plenty of time for small cavities to become toothaches.

Second, the baby teeth help form the shape and size of the growing jaws. Often, a baby tooth lost too early causes the permanent teeth to erupt in the wrong space.

Third, an infected baby tooth can cause damage to the permanent tooth forming underneath.

Finally, untaught decayed teeth can cause emotional problems in children once they enter school.

Children should have dental care early to prevent serious problems from occurring later.

"ALWAYS THE LEADER"

School Committee In Tribute To Toland, Kennedy

By JOHN NOONAN

A stranger walking into the last meeting of the Quincy School Committee for the current year might have wondered at the endearment, harmony, euphony, nostalgia, and just plain comradery that permeated the atmosphere throughout the abbreviated session.

The meeting was purposely delayed an hour to allow committee members sufficient time to attend a special student recognition event that was held at Bethany Congregational Church across the street from school headquarters. A Christmas season concert featuring the combined choir and band of Quincy High School was the tour-de-force that set the stage for the later meeting of the Committee.

Each committee member expressed high praise for the quality of the music that wafted to the upper reaches of the church.

"Super-concert ... should have been seen on TV ... real professional affair ... shows what our youth today can do ..." those were but a few of the positive comments expressed by Committee members.

After extolling the music director, the leaders of the band and choir, and the parents involved in putting on the concert the committee settled down to the business at hand.

PATRICIA TOLAND

Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon announced that the School Committee will meet in a joint organizational meeting with the City Council and Mayor-elect Francis McCauley Monday, Jan. 4, at the Monroe MacLean Gymnasium in Quincy Vocational Technical School.

The next order of business concerned Mrs. Patricia Toland's resignation from the School Committee so that she may assume her new duties as a City Councillor-at-large effective Jan. 4. Mrs. Toland said she will resign from the School Committee at 10 a.m. that morning so that she may be sworn in as Councillor-at-large. Proper notice of Mrs. Toland's intended action has been forwarded to Mayor Arthur Tobin, Mayor-elect McCauley, and City Clerk John Gillis.

Under the city charter the School Committee vacancy that will be created by Mrs. Toland's resignation must be filled by joint action of the city council and the school committee. Toland had two more years to serve on the School Committee.

Dr. Creedon said that filling the vacancy would be a top priority agenda item at the Jan. 4 meeting.

Discussion of Mrs. Toland's resignation evoked personal plaudits and fond remembrances of her six years on the committee from colleagues. Every member expressed special fondness for her and best wishes for success in her new endeavors.

They said she was an example of what a dedicated member of the school committee should be, that she had earned high honors and was now graduating to higher responsibilities after several fruitful years of public service apprenticeship.

Creedon commented that under her influence the Quincy school system has become renowned for the development of one of the finest basic skills programs and teacher evaluation systems in the state.

It was quite evident from what was said, and, the manner in which it was said, that Mrs. Toland was graduating from the School Committee summa cum laude.

Seated in the audience were three of Mrs. Toland's school age youngsters, John of North Quincy High, Brendan of Furnace Brook School, and Gregory of Central Junior. The children sat with rapt attention while their mother responded appreciatively to the tribute paid her.

Later on, John Sullivan, committee member, singled out Gregory Toland and his fellow students at Central Junior for having filled in rather unexpectedly to provide entertainment for more than 300 cerebral palsied children at a Christmas party.

The late George Fay, prominent in Quincy civic and Lodge of Elks affairs, had been in charge of providing the entertainment for this special party for many years. Sullivan said he volunteered this year to see what he could do to assist in filling the void caused by the untimely death of Fay.

"I made a few phone calls to school officials and we came up with Gregory and his classmates at Central, thanks to Mrs. Toland and Mrs. Jim Clancy," Sullivan explained.

He commended the Central group for stepping in with short notice and for providing "a most memorable presentation" of the musical selections and songs for the less fortunate children.

Mother Toland, in turn, beamed as her son was recognized.

A second Committee member accorded a share of accolades was Christopher Kennedy who has served two years as vice-chairman. Under school committee rules a vice-chairman cannot serve two consecutive terms. Kennedy had presided over his last meeting as vice-chairman.

There was another round of expressions of gratitude and best wishes from School Committee members directed to Kennedy. He was cited for his patience, tranquility, and calmness while presiding during some difficult and trying years fraught with Proposition 2½, a four per cent cap, inflation, pay raise negotiations, budget litigation, dwindling school population, closing of schools, and the never ending quest to maintain quality education for all Quincy pupils.

At one point Frank Anselmo, a 21-year member of the committee, interjected that being superintendent, vice-chairman and simply a member of the school board required not only a great deal of patience but a sense of humor and long, tiring hours of unsung dedication to the cause of high standards of excellence in education.

He referred to some jobs that required the attributes of a saint. Anselmo stopped short of invoking the spirit of St. Nicholas and did not attempt to initiate papers leading to canonization for any person in particular.

Kennedy received however all A's in his report card on handling the vice-chairmanship the past two years.

The meeting ended, as it began, on a positive note and in a festive holiday mood.

Council To Seek More Info On Ledger Bond Bid

The George W. Prescott Publishing Co.'s bid for $750,000 in low interest industrial revenue bonds popped up in the City Council Monday night and quickly popped down without any action taken.

But some councillors indicated that the company, which publishes the Patriot Ledger, will have to show its balance sheet and provide employment figures, current and projected, before the bond is considered.

The Ledger gained approval from the Quincy Industrial Development Finance Agency (IDFA) for the bond, a low interest, tax free loan which would be used to modernize the computer system at the newspaper.

The question came up at the Council meeting when Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. introduced a letter he received from former Mayor Walter J. Hannon, the only member of the IDFA to object to the bond.

Hannon listed two objections: "The purpose of tax-free loans at low interest rates is because without it a company might not be able to meet the debt service at prime rates. The Ledger is not in that financial circumstance.

"Secondly, the trade off is that the company employs additional personnel, thus paying state and federal taxes, and increases the tax base of the city. The Ledger does not meet either of those things."

No one from the Ledger was on hand for the meeting since the matter was not on the Council agenda, although the IDFA had indicated that it would bring it up at the next session.

Lydon asked that the Ledger be requested to provide with its application "their balance sheet of the corporation and personnel figures, current and projected as a result of the loan."

"I think they ought to be put to the same set of standards as any other individual applying for that particular bond," said Councillor Daniel G. Raymond.

There was no indication when the bond bid would come before the Council.

ENRICH YOUR HOLIDAY COME TO CHURCH THIS CHRISTMAS

The Christmas Story

Luke, 2, 1-14. At that time, there went forth a decree from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken. The first census took place while Cyrenus was governor of Syria.

And all were going each to his own town, to register.

And Joseph also sent from Galilee out of the town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem - because he was of the house and family of David - to register, together with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child.

And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled.

And she brought forth her first-born Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a Manger, because there was no room for them in the Inn.

And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night.

And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the glory of God shone round them, and they feared exceedingly. And the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people; for today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you. Who is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign to you; you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men of good will."

'God Bless Him' Priest Finds Shelter For Homeless Family Of 5

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"Fr. William McCarthy... God bless him... he didn't turn us away," says a Weymouth man whose homeless family will spend Christmas in a warm, dry place thanks to help from the pastor of St. John's Church, Quincy.

"If it hadn't been for him, I don't know what we would've done," the man said.

He, his wife and three children, including a seven-week old infant, were forced to leave an unheated "uninhabitable" apartment near the water in Weymouth.

"We've tried to do the best we can, but we've never been in a predicament like this," he said.

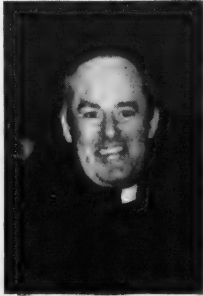

The man, who requested that his name not be used, had been employed as a carpenter and was doing well. But, he was laid off in early November.

He searched for a job, but had no luck.

"I went everywhere," he said, "you can't even get a dishwashing job."

Meanwhile, he and his wife and the children, including a seven-week old baby stayed in the unheated apartment.

"It was liveable before it got cold," said the man who bought electric heaters to keep his family warm, then stayed up most of the night afraid to leave the heaters on unattended.

The family, originally from New York, finally left the apartment which has since been classified "uninhabitable".

He sold his car to pay for a motel room for three nights. Then resources ran out.

A friend suggested he talk with Fr. McCarthy.

"God must be up there," said the man, a Catholic, who explained that Fr. McCarthy "didn't turn them away, but got them to sit down and relax."

Fr. McCarthy put the family up in a local motel last week using his own money and resources from St. Vincent de Paul Society.

He told them he would find them a place to live, since secured, within the Quincy Housing Authority. Fr. McCarthy also brought a few toys for the children.

"He made things seem pleasant," said the grateful man, "he made things look up."

"Everybody has hard times," said the man, "but we have faith and we've stuck together."

"I just hate to see my kids go through this. I love them too much."

He expects to be able to find work "when the weather breaks" and says he intends to save money so this won't happen again.

"I may try to go to school to learn to do something steady all year long."

"Things will work out. We're going to make it."

Fr. McCarthy is going to help us."

State Law Drops $10 Parking Fines To $5

The City Council discovered Monday night that it made a mistake, maybe even did something illegal, when it voted to boost the parking fines from $2 to as much as $10 in some sections of the city.

Seems a state law which was accepted by the city some time ago limits the fines to $5 for the first three violations.

So the Council voted to amend the ordinance, which was not wildly popular with downtown merchants, to reduce the $10 fines to $5 and also upgrade the old $3 fines to $5.

Starting with the fourth violation, however, it's back to the $10 fine.

Tobin Still Hopes To Get Quincy Court Post

(Cont'd from Page 1)

Hannon and McIntyre."

"I told Frank that I always enjoyed that relationship and if he felt at any time that he wanted to call me to seek an opinion just feel free to pick up the phone," he said.

"Just to show you the spirit of cooperation we're working in, there are several vacancies that I have a chance to fill at the end of the year and he expressed a concern to have some input.

"I told him I agreed that the new mayor ought to have some input into appointments that would affect decisions in his administration and if he wished to make the appointment it was all right with me."

Tobin said he probably would have run for a third term as mayor if his name had not been offered to Gov. Edward J. King for appointment as clerk-magistrate of Quincy District Court.

"We took a preliminary poll in January or February to see where I was," he said. "Was I too far out of it? Was I in a catch up? Was I the frontrunner? Where was I?"

"Believe it or not, with all the criticism I received from certain political circles, our poll showed it would be a tough fight but I topped it."

"We took another poll in April or May to see if anything had changed and in that particular poll we got 52 per cent. In a field of two or three candidates, I got 52 per cent."

"I'D LIKE TO think we turned the city around. We attacked problem headon and corrected many things that had gone on down through the years."

"In other words, a lot of people said that, under the circumstances, we think he's doing a hell of a job."

"I think we were in the process of gearing up to announce for re-election. We were doing all the things that had to be done to make a decision. That's the best way to say it."

Tobin said he's still hopeful of getting the clerk's job "but it would be totally inappropriate for me to comment on it at all. It's the governor's appointment and there isn't anything you can say about it."

"If it happens, fine," he added. "If it doesn't happen then you just congratulate the individual chosen and you go on to other things."

One of the other things will be back to the law practice that he put aside 16 years ago when he was first elected a state representative.

"I've probably had 10 days vacation in the past four years," he said. "The mayor is entitled to four weeks vacation a year so I suppose I could have taken an additional 15 weeks."

"But I am not one to sit around. I just can't do it. I can't sit still. I have to keep moving and I have to keep occupied and I have to keep doing things."

"I plan to go to the inaugural on Jan. 4 and I probably will take the remaining part of that day off. Then, Jan. 5, I'll be back to work."

"If I hear from the governor, that will resolve one issue. If we don't hear, there'll be another set of plans. If I've got it set and I like where I'm going, we may take a week's vacation."

Tobin said he will be associated with other lawyers in Quincy but it will not be a partnership.

"I don't want it that way," he said. "I would be going into a law office but I would have my own clients. Several business people have approached me already about representing them."

"They told me that they saw the way the administration conducted itself for the past four years in a very high professional manner and they were impressed and they would like to talk to me."

Tobin said he agrees with those people who feel that being mayor of Quincy cost him the political job that he really wanted, that of state senator. He lost that post to Paul D. Harold, largely on the two-job issue.

"The issue of me holding two jobs didn't set well with a lot of people," he said. "The polls at that time showed it would be an issue but we figured we would be able to address it at the time."

"The only thing that hurt was that the very people who asked me to consider running for mayor to save the city, the ones who said, 'We'll support you' and gung ho and rah, rah, were the very same people who turned around and voted me out of the Senate."

"That's the part that took a while to accept. But that's behind me now. I don't dwell on it."

But, in spite of it all, said Tobin, the experience of being mayor for two years was worthwhile.

"I enjoyed being part of the history of what happened in this city in the past four years," he said.

"The bicentennial celebration of the state constitution happened during my administration. We stirred the imagination of the people by bringing the constitution back to Quincy for the first time."

"The economic development boom and the new building in excess of $200 million ... it never happened in any previous administration."

"To be able to walk down Hancock St. some day and tell your grandchildren that the Campanelli complex happened while you were mayor, I find that very rewarding. It makes it worthwhile."

"I'd like to think that we turned the city around. The city was being held up to ridicule. It was mired down in scandal and corruption and arrests and indictments and nothing was being done. The city was totally mismanaged."

"We were in the process of losing our municipal hospital. My administration faced up to it and took the hospital out of politics by hiring the Hospital Corp. of America to run it. They are going to give the citizens of Quincy a new $8 million hospital."

"We put on a dynamic economic development program. When the National Fire Protection Association gets approval to build another office building in West Quincy we will go over the $200 million mark."

"But I would like to think that the accomplishment of my administration that will have the most lasting effect on the city will be the selection of Quincy Cable-system to provide cable TV."

"I think my committee did an excellent job in making the selection, particularly when you see the problems encountered in other communities and some of the things that are not going right."

"George Riley, who was the chairman of my committee, is keeping close tabs on progress and he tells me that work is right on schedule and the company is doing everything it contracted to do."

"When it is finally hooked up the people of Quincy will be more community-involved than ever."

"They can watch City Council meetings and School Committee meetings and listen to the discussions that go into important decisions. It will bring government closer to the people."

"Cable TV could have the most lasting effect of anything that happened in my four years, if it is done right."

Tobin said he is handing the mayor's office over to McCauley in much better shape than he received it.

"When I became mayor I was left with a $7.5 million deficit and 14 collective bargaining contracts that were about to expire with no money to pay them. On top of that I had to address the blizzard of '78."

"I'm leaving the new mayor a budget that's in compliance with Proposition 2½. There's no deficit in the appropriation account. The bonded debt of our city has been reduced almost $5 million. The $200 million in new development will help to broaden the tax base."

"We have a highly qualified professional firefighting organization that has not been decimated as in other communities. We have a police department that has not been decimated. There is a long list of accomplishments."

Tobin said the thing that disturbed him the most while he was mayor was the constant confrontations with city employees over contracts and pay raises and layoffs under Prop 2½.

"The picketing and the boycott was alien to my political beliefs," he said. "I stand for helping the working class because I come from a working class family."

"I was confronted by a problem where I had contracts and I didn't have the money to fund them. I had to confront the problem headon and say, 'no.' It was a hard thing to say, 'no.'"

"I was looking for help and nobody was offering any. Some people understood. Others didn't want to understand. It bothered me to see some nice people and families laid off under 2½. It was a job that had to be done. But it bothered me."

In spite of the trials and tribulations of 16 years in public office, Tobin said he would encourage his sons and daughters to enter public service -- if they showed any interest in it.

"They've never shown a real keen interest at this time," he said.

"I think it's because they've lived through it. They grew up with it and they were very close to it and they heard some of the things that were said about their father, things which they knew were not so."

"You and I get upset when we hear somebody say something about us but I've often wondered about the children of elected officials. You're talking about children now, not adults."

"As they grow up they read something in the paper or they hear something in their classrooms -- you know how other children can be cruel -- and you wonder how deep the scars are or if you ever know."

"I think my children, if there have been any scars, they've kept them inside of them."

"I will say that if any of my children at any time during their lives show a desire to do public service, I would encourage them and support them openly and I would go out and ask my friends to do it too."

"But I would want them to do it because they felt a sense of wanting to serve, not just because they were my children."

"I have no regrets," he added. "I faced a lot of problems headon. Perhaps I made mistakes. But I can honestly say I tried to do a good job. And on the whole people have been fair."

"Since I am not a candidate, people have been extremely kind. They come up to me on the street; they write me letters; they say what a good job they thought I did and they were sorry to see me leave."

"That's very encouraging."

Some last minute gift suggestions

There is still time to give just a few more things in the real spirit of Christmas. And all they cost is a little of you. You can probably think of many more, but these are just a few suggestions to start with.

- * Ask someone who's far from home (or has no home) to share your Christmas dinner
- * Use your mistletoe generously
- * Say thank you a lot
- * Take one of your favorite presents to that kid in your class you suspect Santa might miss
- * Take a thermos of hot chocolate to your school crossing guard
- * Pick someone up and take them with you to Christmas services
- * Put out bread crumbs for the birds and nuts for the squirrels
- * Pull out your mother's chair for her when she sits down to dinner
- * Offer to say 'grace' yourself
- * Invite someone who has no fireplace over to enjoy yours
- * Call your doctor and ask how he's feeling
- * Help the little kids in your neighborhood build their first snowman (if there's snow)
- * Tell someone you love them

McGrath, Landlords Clash On Condo Conversion Law

Roger Lyons, spokesman for Quincy's landlords, and City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath clashed Tuesday over a proposed condominium conversion ordinance that apparently had been worked out by both of them.

The Council Monday night passed a home rule petition asking state permission to have the ordinance and then they endorsed the ordinance itself although it will remain for a future Council to pass it.

McGrath was chairman and Lyons was a representative of the city's landlords on the special tenant-landlord committee that spent several months developing the ordinance, ostensibly as a compromise.

Tuesday, however, Lyons declared it was no such thing.

"We wish to inform the public that the report as submitted to the City Council not only does not have our endorsement but we are utterly opposed to it," he said in a statement.

He said that he had twice notified the Council on Dec. 7 and 15 that "there is no way I can accept the proposal as changed" and that "it is not what we agreed to."

He indicated that on Dec. 7, when the committee report was first presented to the Council, McGrath tricked him and John Marrone, the second landlords' representative, into signing the report.

"If he is saying that I made changes after we finished the report, that is not the case," said McGrath. "I absolutely deny it and I resent the implication."

"If he didn't understand what he was signing he should not have affixed his signature. All six of us who were members of the committee signed the report."

Lyons said he sent a letter to the Council on Dec. 7, informing councillors that the ordinance "is not what I agreed to Friday afternoon, Dec. 4."

"There is no way I can accept the proposal as changed," he said. "I have already been intimidated and pressure into cooperating. I have given in more than I should."

"The backlash of this proposal will do more harm to the real estate industry and to the tenants it is supposed to protect. The city will be the biggest ultimate loser."

In his Dec. 15 letter to the Council — which Council President Leo J. Kelly said he

Hancock Group

Increased Dividends

Hancock Group, Inc., Quincy-based parent of Hancock Bank, reports increases in both its regular quarterly dividend and its year-end extra.

President William E. Kelley announced the quarterly dividend increase from 50 cents to 55 cents per share of common stock while the year-end extra dividend doubled from 20 cents to 40 cents compared to year-end last year.

The up-coming 95 cents per share payment brings to $2.40 the total pay-out for fiscal 1981.

Kelley explained the 95 cent per share payment will be disbursed on Jan. 4, 1982, the first business day of the new year to provide shareholders advantages of 1982 Federal income tax reductions.

The increased quarterly dividend and 40 cents per share extra at year-end reflects the best-ever year for Hancock Bank in profitability and growth.

never received — Lyons explained what happened next.

"I submitted the letter to you (Kelly) just prior to the Council meeting on Dec. 7 protesting the changes made without our knowledge and you then requested that he (McGrath) work it out with us."

Lyons said McGrath then left the room to get tenants approval of certain changes the landlords requested. The tenants' representatives approved.

"He said he would have the proposal typed within two working days with the proper deletions for signatures, and we signed the draft," said Lyons.

"The chairman did not delete all the issues we agreed to from his report, only one. He has not had the proposal retyped for our approval and final signature as promised."

McGrath said Lyons asked him to make three changes in the report.

"I went to the tenants and they agreed to the changes," he said. "That is how it was submitted to Mr. Lyons and he signed it. He can check with the other members of the committee."

"Every change he requested was agreed to by the tenants and he signed the report after the corrections were made. If he had a problem with it, he shouldn't have signed it."

The proposed ordinance would, among other things, require landlords to give tenants nine months' notice before conversion. Senior citizens or handicapped would get two years notice.

The ordinance also includes a right of refusal for current tenants and would require the landlord to pay moving expense up to $300 for low income tenants.

$623,745 In New Construction

The building inspector issued 85 permits for construction work estimated to cost $623,745 during the month of November.

Only one of the permits was for a single family home, valued at $30,000.

There were 33 residential alterations at $88,945, 13 other alterations at $376,300, one garage at $4,000, one removal at $12,000, six signs at $5,450 and 30 miscellaneous projects at $107,050.

The inspector collected $10,237 in permit fees and $1,150 for public safety inspections.

7 Residents Performing In 'The Nutcracker'

Seven residents have been performing in the Boston Ballet's production of Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker" which continues through Jan. 3, at the Metropolitan Center, Boston.

Three children of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Gralton of 196 Marlboro St., Wollaston, have again been appearing in the production.

Maureen Gralton, 12, a seventh grader at Central Junior High School, is a soldier in the battle scene of Act I.

Performing in the production for the second year, she is in Cast C.

Kathryn Gralton, 11, a sixth grader at Mass. Fields School, plays a reindeer in the snow scene of Act I.

A member of Cast B, she is performing for her fourth year.

Karen Gralton, 8, a third grader at Mass Fields, plays a polichinelle (mini clown) in Act II. A member of Cast C, she is performing for her third year.

Lynda Lee Rice, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Rice of 282 Palmer St., Germantown, is performing in the production for her seventh year.

A member of Cast A, she plays a dragon fly in the "Waltz of the Flowers".

She is a ninth grader at Broad Meadows Junior High School.

Angela Cristiani, 17, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Vincent A. Cristiani of 39 Sturtevant Rd., is dancing in the production for her eighth year.

An apprentice with the Boston Ballet Company, she plays a flower in the "Waltz of the Flowers".

She is a graduate of Fontbonne Academy.

Anne Hogan, 21, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hogan of 15 Vassall St., has been dancing with the company since she was 12 years old.

She has played the snow queen in the production and appears in the marzipan, party, snow queen and snowflakes scenes.

Miss Hogan, a full member of the company, is a graduate of North Quincy High School.

Joanna Vermette, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Vermette of 16 Montclair Ave., is performing in the production for the first time.

A fifth grader at the Montclair School, she plays a soldier in the battle scene and is a member of Cast B.

Entertainment Planned For Ruth Gordon Amphitheater

A subcommittee of the Quincy Tourism Association is planning to sponsor a series of Sunday afternoon entertainments next summer in the still unfinished Ruth Gordon Amphitheater in Merrymount Park.

The amphitheater seating 450 was built with $500,000 in federal CETA funds in 1977 but was never finished.

Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Park and Recreation Department, estimated that it would cost some $20,000 for material and labor to complete the job but the city doesn't have the money.

Paul Headley, chairman of the subcommittee, said the Sunday afternoon entertainments would include such things as the Quincy Symphony Orchestra, barber shop quartet singing and plays.

"If we can bring in this type of entertainment so people can see the amphitheater in operation, maybe it will get the attention of groups that will help to finish it," he said.

Admission to the amphitheater, which is named for Quincy-born actress Ruth Gordon, would be free of charge, as specified by the Adams family grant of Merrymount Park to the city.

Chief Barry Warns Of Space Heaters

Fire Chief Edward F. Barry has warned home owners who are supplementing their furnaces with space heaters that those fueled with kerosene can be a danger in an enclosed room.

"An unvented or improperly vented space heater can produce deadly quantities of carbon monoxide and the units can deplete the oxygen in an enclosed room where it is operating," he warned.

The Chief noted that some of the newer types of space heaters have a safety device that senses an oxygen deficiency and a safety cutoff switch but he added that more than 300,000 of them do not have it.

Deputy Chief Carl Valenti of the Fire Prevention Bureau said the heaters with safety devices will be legal after Jan. 1 under a federal ruling but the others will still be banned in Massachusetts.

"Safety devices or not," he said, "we don't like it but there is nothing we can do."

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates that nearly 6,000 persons received hospital emergency room treatment in 1977 for injuries associated with space heaters.

Since unvented space heaters were outlawed for use in Massachusetts in places of human habitation in 1962, there have been no recorded deaths due to space heaters, according to the State Fire Marshal's office.

"I bring this information to the public's attention in the interest of fire prevention and to correct conditions that are, or may become dangerous as a fire hazard, and are in violation of the law," Chief Barry said.

Dear Santa:

Dear Santa:

I'm embarrassed. Last year I promised I would write sooner. But here I am, late again. I guess it's just my nature. I have the best of intentions but I just have trouble getting around to doing what I intended to do. You should see my desk. I've been trying to clean that off for months. Right now it looks like the city dump.

Santa, I know you're really busy and have a lot of things to do and places to go. And I know I'm late. But I would really appreciate it if you could squeeze these last minute gift items into your sleigh for delivery Christmas.

And tell Rudolph and the rest of the gang that I promise to get to writing a lot sooner next year. I'll start my list on the Fourth of July. I promise.

As you know, Santa, some of these gifts this year as always, are being asked in fun and a few in a serious vein. Please do your best to get the following to the following:

Outgoing Mayor ARTHUR TOBIN, a telephone call from Gov. ED KING . . . Incoming Mayor FRANK McCAULEY, a dozen dazzling neckties for his press conferences on cable television . . . Fire Chief EDWARD BARRY, a day without fires . . . Police Chief FRANK FINN, a night without crime . . . BOB FOY, a citation proclaiming him "The Great Survivor". (He will be serving under his fourth mayor as city treasurer. Guess they all know a good man when they see one.) . . . New City Councillors DICK KOCH, JR., PATRICIA TOLAND and TED DeCRISTOFARO, good resolves . . . Retiring Councillor JOHN QUINN, a political comeback . . . RUTH GORDON, completion of the Ruth Gordon Amphitheater in Merrymount Park and a visit home to dedicate it. (Santa, I've asked for this the past three years, but no luck so far. So, I'm giving it another try.) . . . JOHN SULLIVAN, a return to the School Committee . . . PETER O'CONNELL, an Empire State - like office building . . . SANDY (COMFORTMAN) ROUNSEVILLE, an invitation to climb it . . . School Supt. LAWRENCE CREEDON, the right school reorganizational plan . . . MAX LONDON, School Committee member FRANK ANSELMO, and GEORGE WILSON, former Quincy High School principal, another gallon each from The Fountain of Youth . . . BOB COLMAN, a toy tow truck . . . Outgoing Public Works Commissioner JAMES (PETE) RICCIUTI, a toy plow to keep in the swing of things during snowstorms . . . New DPW Commissioner PAUL ANDERSON, an easy winter . . . JOHN GILLIS, three hats. One to wear as City Clerk, second as chairman of the City Licensing Board and third as watchdog of traffic tickets . . . DOWNTOWN QUINCY, a tenant for the old Sears building . . . TOM BURKE, who will be returning as assistant city clerk in January, "A Welcome Back" party with darts and everything . . . STEVE DODGE, BARRY LE MIEUX and DAVE KEEFE of Quincy Cablesystems, nice, clear pictures . . . Senator PAUL HAROLD, Reps. TOM BROWNELL, BOB CERASOLI and MIKE MORRISSEY, suitcases to carry around all those Senate and House citations they present to constituents . . . GENERAL DYNAMICS, a super duper aircraft carrier contract . . . CHARLIE SHEA and DENNIS HARRINGTON, their own video games . . . QUINCY TAXPAYERS, a box of handkerchiefs for when revaluation hits . . . City Councillor JOANNE CONDON and School Committee-woman MARY COLLINS, a coin to toss to see if they should make a bid for mayor in the next few years . . . Councillor JOE LA RAIA, a book entitled, "The Other Side" . . . BARON HUGO, the return of the big band era (I'll take some of that, too, Santa). . . New School Committeeman NICK VERENIS, a gold star on his first motion picture . . . WJDA's HERB FONTAINE, new fences to view . . . Judge ALBERT KRAMER, a new revolving door for the House of Correction . . . JIM SHEETS, an ouija board to help him decide in '83 . . . DANNY RAYMONDI, inspiration from JAMES McINTYRE and CHARLES ROSS, who lost their first tries for the mayor's office . . . Park and Recreation's DICK KOCH SR., a moratorium on vandalism . . . Cong. BRIAN DONNELLY, guidebooks to Weymouth, Rockland and the Bridgewater, the new towns in his district . . . DEBORAH ORMON of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, a Benny Goodperson record . . . To all of you who give of your time, money — and heart — to help Jerry's Kids, a great big, sincere, "Thank You"

And, to everyone, a very Merry Christmas and a healthy, happy New Year.

A Sleigh Ride With Santa

Dear Santa,

I would like to take a sleigh ride, with you on Christmas Eve.

To fly o'er all the housetops, and help with gifts you leave.

To give to all the needy, and tend to all the sick.

And from your Christmas stocking, pull out a magic stick.

Give things not bought with money, no patents to be claimed.

No diamond rings, or silver things, no gold mines and no fame.

Just warmth and love and happiness, and peace left everywhere.

Joy and laughter all around.

enough for all to share.

I think I'm getting sleepy, I'll take a wink or two.

I'll close my eyes, and try to think, of what I want from you.

Oh Santa could you leave me, a box of make believe.

A bag of chock full of pleasant dreams, upon this Christmas Eve.

A fairy tale that's not been told, a star that I can reach

A sun that shines both day and night, a rainbow on a beach.

A Christmas Day that never ends, a snow that's colored blue.

A type of heart no one can break not me - not even you.

Oh Santa let us hurry to deliver all this joy.

I'm getting so excited, for all the girls and boys.

These bags are bursting over, they're splitting at the seams.

I just spilled out some happiness, and sprinkled someone's dreams.

Give me the clown that's crying, I'll take him to repair.

I'll use the love and laughter, from children everywhere.

Oh Santa let me thank you, I did enjoy the ride.

And thank you for the magic box.

I TOOK A GLANCE INSIDE.

Hospital Thanks PW Dept. For Superb Snow Plowing

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

On behalf of the staff and patients of Quincy City Hospital, I would like to thank the Quincy Public Works Department for the excellent service they rendered to our hospital in the recent snow storm.

They did a superb job in keeping "hospital hill" well plowed and sanded so that our Medical Staff, employees and emergency vehicles could reach the hospital.

THEODORE P. DeCRISTOFARO
Ward 2 City Councillor-Elect

TED DeCRISTOFARO — 'Many times people have asked me, "Why don't you run?" I just felt this time I was the most qualified candidate.'
(Quincy Sun Photos by Mary O'Keefe)

'IT MAY SOUND CORNY, but I love this city. I don't know of anybody else up there can say that and mean it more'

Sees 3 New Councillors As 'Stablizers' DeCristofaro: 'I Want To Do My Own Thing'

By TOM HENSHAW

Theodore P. DeCristofaro, the newly elected City Councillor from Ward 2, plans to start his new political career at the age of 58 with a clean slate, no preconceived ideas on the issues facing the city.

"I plan to go in there like the guy who was just born and we'll go over it from there," he told The Quincy Sun in an interview.

"I only know what I read in the papers like everyone else. I hope when I do get into the Council meetings that I will act on what's there right now and not what somebody said two years ago."

"I want to do my own thing," DeCristofaro said he is coming to the Council with no specific proposals on the big issues of the times -- a sewer user charge, public safety under the Prop 2½ gun or parking meters downtown.

"At this time I'm just going to keep an open mind and wait until I get into the crux of it," he said.

DeCristofaro also made these points in the interview:

• He has been deeply involved in community affairs in Quincy Point for the past 20 years and "to me being councillor from the ward is only a continuation of things I've been involved in all these years."

• He and the two other newly elected councillors will help to stabilize the political factionalism in Quincy. "I'm the oldest person there and being older -- but not necessarily wiser -- I might be a little bit slow in jumping."

• Under Prop 2½, "people are going to have to be more community-minded. They're going to do a lot of things that before they could call up and say, 'Hey, send somebody down.' (Prop. 2½) is what the people wanted and hopefully they'll get out and help it work."

Here is the text of The Sun's interview with DeCristofaro:

SUN - You've been pretty active in the community in Quincy Point, haven't you?

DeCRISTOFARO - I've lived in Quincy Point all my life. I live in the house I was born in, which is certainly unique in these times. I've been there 58 years. About 20 years or so ago I got active in the community. Before that I was active in the church. I was basketball coach. I helped with the YMCA program. I was committeeman in Cub Scouts. All the usual fatherly duties. In the spring of '66 Kippy Marshall got a group together to have some kind of a Fourth of July celebration for the youngsters in Ward 2. That was the start of the Ward 2 Civic Association. We had a nucleus after the Fourth of July and we just stuck together. That's what really got me started communitywise. I was the vice president the first year and president the next year and so forth. I'm the only person that's been on the board of directors since the inception of the Ward 2 Civic Association. We were fortunate to have a good group of people to form the base of the outfit and we were able to accomplish a lot of things. We got into doing things in the area like the liquor establishments which were a real thorn in everybody's side down there. Fortunately,

Tuesday was my day off so whenever there was anything at the Licensing Board I was the one who was elected to go there. We were able to eliminate three of the worst bars in Quincy. We're not through yet. We still have some work that has to be done. We have a lot of clout. I think the Licensing Board has a lot of respect for our association. There was a group of us at every single City Council meeting, just to see what was going on.

SUN - Was this the first time you ever ran for anything?

DeCRISTOFARO - The first time. Many times people have asked me, "Why don't you run?" I really had no desire to do it. I just felt at this time that I was the best qualified candidate. That's why I ran. Of course, the result was just so satisfying because in our day and age people are constantly saying, well, people forget. Nobody can convince me of that because people certainly didn't forget the things that I was involved in.

SUN - Did you ever consider running before and reject the idea?

DeCRISTOFARO - No, I have never wanted to. As a matter of fact when Danny (Raymondi) ran the first time, lots of people said, "Ted, why don't you run?" As a matter of fact, Dan called me up himself and said, "Ted, if you run I will not run against you." I said, "No, Danny, go ahead and run." So I could have run at that time. I never really had aspirations of it. I've been mentioned many, many times, I know.

SUN - There's a big difference between ward councillor and councillor at-large. What do you see as the difference?

DeCRISTOFARO - A ward councillor is a real sounding board for everything that goes on in the ward. We're closer to the people, of course, because we are in our own wards. The at-large councillors have the whole city to be concerned about. We're the ones that are probably under attack more than anybody else. But I think it's a more gratifying job because you are dealing with people more personally than the at-large councillor.

SUN - Do you have a laundry list of things you'd like to do for the ward? Is there one big thing you'd like to accomplish?

DeCRISTOFARO - Not really. I think that to me being councillor from the ward is only a continuation of things I've been involved in all these years. So I really can't say there's anything special. I want to be one of the people, like I've always been. I want to be there when they call me. I certainly want to be as close to them as I can. In view of the fact that I have been so close to them in the past I think it'll be easy for me.

SUN - For the past 10 or 12 years the city has been divided into two camps politically. Do you belong to either one of them?

DeCRISTOFARO - Not really. I think that I have always worked for the benefit of the people and it never made a difference to me who was up in City Hall. Who was councillor, who was mayor, never had any bearing on the things that I was involved in. So I really can't say I was in anybody's camp.

SUN - You were rather close to Raymondi during the campaign.

DeCRISTOFARO - Oh, yes, but

Quincy's Yesterdays

By Tom Henshaw

State Urges New Fore River Bridge

The Massachusetts Department of Public Works recommended construction of a new Fore River bridge, possibly as part of a proposed Shawmut Trail from the Southeast Expressway to Lincoln St. in Hingham.

The DPW further recommended that the bridge be a vertical lift that could be opened to 175-foot clearance "enabling all vessels that could be constructed in the foreseeable future to pass up and down the river."

It was estimated that the bridge alone with minimum approaches could be built for $13.5 million but if it were tied in with the Shawmut Trail project the overall costs would be about $27.4 million.

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa said he will ask for the legislation necessary to have the bridge built.

VETO OVERRIDDEN

The City Council, by an 8-1 vote, overrode Mayor Della Chiesa's veto of an amended salary schedule for city employees. Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia cast the lone dissenting vote.

The new salary schedule would cost the city $569,000. LaRaia said that he favored a salary schedule as originally recommended by the consultant firm of Barrington Associates after a $14,500 study. That schedule would cost $525,000.

"Six months from now," said George Yarrington, executive secretary of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, "Councillor LaRaia will be considered the most intelligent member of the Council for his stand tonight."

ADAMS STATUE STUDY

A six-member committee was named to look into the feasibility of erecting memorial statues to John and John Quincy Adams under legislation filed by Rep. Joseph E. Brett of Quincy.

Named to the committee were William C. Edwards, city historian; Thomas F. McDonough, Boston architect; Sens. Newland H. Holmes of Weymouth and Edward C. Stone of Barnstable; Mayor Della Chiesa and Rep. Brett.

MAIL RUSH

The Quincy Post Office hired 500 temporary employees to handling the rush when it was called on for help after the automation system became jammed in the Boston Post Office.

Quincy Postmaster Frank Anselmo said the Quincy office handled a record 8,950,053 pieces of mail up to Christmas Eve, an increase of 10 per cent over the previous year.

QUINCY-ISMS

Sen. Charles W. Hedges of Quincy was sworn in as sheriff of Norfolk County to fill the final two years of a vacancy . . . Dr. Oliver J. Harris of 5 Priscilla Lane, Quincy Center, was named chief of outpatient clinics for the Veterans Administration's New England and New York area . . . The special children's show at the Strand was "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," starring Eddie Hodges and Tony Randall, and "Tom Thumb," with Russ Tamblin, Alan Young, Terry Thomas and Peter Sellers . . . Chief William F. Ferrazzi warned that there were only five eligible names on the Civil Service list to fill 11 vacancies in the Police Department and there would be no new candidates until March, 1962 . . . Sirloin steak was 79 cents a pound at the C.F. Anderson supermarket in the Parkingway . . . Pvt. Judith Follansbee of 22 Richfield St., Squantum, was chosen the outstanding trainee in the Women's Army Corps basic training course at Ft. McClellan, Ala. . . The animated Christmas angels in Remick's window were halted from 10:30 p.m. Friday to 2 a.m. Saturday to allow still photographers to take pictures of them . . . There was a fish fry, all you can eat of fried fish, french fried potatoes, cole slaw, rolls and butter, for $1 every Wednesday from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Howard Johnsons on the Southeast Expressway in West Quincy . . . Edward G. Rahaim Jr. of 4 Abbey Rd., Quincy Point, was promoted to lieutenant in the Weekend Warriors at the South Weymouth Naval Air Station . . . The new Quincy Junior College was discussed by a panel headed by Director Kenneth P. White and School Committeeman Charles T. Sweeney at the weekly Rotary luncheon . . . Joseph Barron, 6, son of Deputy Fire Chief William Barron of 6 Birch St., Norfolk Downs, received a Christmas card and a formal apostolic blessing from Pope John XXIII after he had sent the pontiff a card for his birthday . . . Foster Furcolo said he had twice offered a Supreme Court appointment to Superior Court Judge Paul C. Reardon of Quincy and twice Reardon had turned it down . . . The New Year's Eve party at the Cabin Restaurant, 231 Copeland St., West Quincy, was $15 for two, including baked stuffed lobster, champagne and favors . . . The Rev. Roy M. Shoaf resigned as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church to accept a similar post in Lansing, Mich. . . Capt. Charles A. Dennen, son of Mrs. Ruth T. Fontaine of 694 Sea St., Houghs Neck, completed the 16-week associate officer course at the Army Command and General Staff College at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

DeCristofaro: 'I Want To Do My Own Thing'

not during the campaign so much. During the campaign I didn't see him but very little. Of course, I worked with Danny for four years. That maybe made us closer than I was with anybody else. Frank (McCauley) was with us. He came to a lot of our meetings. He was one of the few councillors at large that would. Frank had been doing that for several years. I have much respect for Frank as well as Dan.

SUN - Do you feel there'll be any problems between McCauley and the City Council?

DeCRISTOFARO - For me personally? Not at all. I've known Frank for a long time and I have much respect for him. I don't see any problem whatsoever.

SUN - Do you feel that your election and the election of other new councillors will help to close the gap between the factions in the city?

DeCRISTOFARO - I think we could probably be stabilizers to a degree. Being three new people I think we definitely could be stabilizers. I'm the oldest person there and being older -- but maybe not necessarily the wiser -- I might be a little bit slow in jumping.

SUN - The city is pretty much run by Proposition 2½ now. What do you think of 2½. Good or bad?

DeCRISTOFARO - First, of course, it's here. We can't close our eyes to it. We're going to have to do our best to contend with 2½. I think the basics are already there. They've already started it. The people now know what to expect and what they're going to get and what they're not going to get. I've been told I'm wrong but I think the next two years may be easier than it has been the last two because, as I say, the groundwork has been laid. The one thing, to me, is that the people are going to have to be more community-minded than ever before. We're going to have to work and do things that we never did before. People are going to have to get out there and do more snow shoveling than before. They're going to have to help keep their streets clean.

They're going to do a lot of things that before they could call up and say, 'Hey, send somebody down,' and 'Would you do this?' and many times it would get done. I think now that if the word can get to the people that we have to do so much more ourselves now to make the thing work better. It's what the people wanted and hopefully they'll get out and help it work.

SUN - Some cities are taking steps to get themselves out from under 2½. Would you like to see something like that for Quincy?

DeCRISTOFARO - I certainly wouldn't want to go against the mandate of the people. The people said they want it. I think that's the way it has to be. Cambridge, if I remember correctly, voted the other way. They probably had the option to do it because a majority of the people didn't want it. But here the people gave the mandate and I believe that's the way it has to be. I would not be one to go against the people.

SUN - Why do you think they voted so strongly for it?

DeCRISTOFARO - I guess they feel they've reached their limit as far as taxes go. People would do almost anything to see their real estate taxes cut down. You can't blame them, the way things have spiraled. I think that was the main thing. People could see their taxes either stabilizing or dropping under 2½.

SUN - Do you think they saw waste in city government?

DeCRISTOFARO - Absolutely. I don't think there's any doubt about that.

SUN - Is there still waste?

DeCRISTOFARO - I'm certainly not in the top levels of everything but I imagine that there still has to be a certain amount of waste in city government as well as county, state and federal. I'm sure there's a certain amount of waste there.

SUN - The big issue that has to be sharpened by 2½ is public safety, the layoff of police officers and firefighters. Is there anything that can be done to keep the level of public safety high while cutting numbers?

DeCRISTOFARO - I don't have anything right offhand that I could propose. I really don't know. I would do everything in my power to maintain public safety, fire, police and schools. I would do all that is in my power to maintain them at the level that they are. As far as proposing anything, I don't have anything at this time.

SUN - One of the first things that is going to confront the City Council is a sewer user charge. It's going to have to come. What form would you like to see? Would you be favorable to a Water and Sewer Commission?

DeCRISTOFARO - I really don't know, to be honest with you. I have never been in on some of the debates that the councillors have had. I'm going to keep an open mind until I get into the middle of it where I can really see both sides of it. At this time I'm just going to keep an open mind and wait until I get into the crux of it.

SUN - The emphasis in the city for the past few years has been on a very aggressive development policy. How do you feel about that? Would you like to see it continue?

DeCRISTOFARO - I definitely think so. In the last six or eight years the city has moved ahead. I think that it's definitely on the upswing. It has been good for the city. Hopefully, this next administration will just continue with it, try like heck to bring in more things. I think it's moving good.

SUN - One of the most controversial things in recent years was in your ward, the East-West Connector. What was your opinion on it?

DeCRISTOFARO - I was torn between two sides. I heard people on both sides and arguments on both sides were legitimate I thought. Going by what I read rather than being in the middle of it I don't know at this time what I would have done had the decision been mine.

SUN - It sounds like you're going to start on the Council with a clean slate. You're not going in there with any preconceived ideas.

DeCRISTOFARO - No way. I don't plan to do that. I plan to go in there like the guy who was just born and we'll go over it from there. I only know what I read in the papers like everyone else -- not that the papers don't come out with what's supposed to be, I hope when I do get into the Council meetings that I will act on what's there right now and not what somebody said two years ago. I want to do my own thing. I hope that I will do the right thing because, it may sound corny, but I love this city. I don't know of anybody else up there can say that and mean it. But I can say and I mean it. Possibly that's why I'm here because I love where I live.

SUN - We are going to hear a lot about parking meters downtown. Do you have any feeling on that? Would you like to see another method of controlling parking?

DeCRISTOFARO - That's a good question, too. I have to find out what the revenue from the parking meters pays for first. This is something I don't know. What do they do with that money? That's something I'd have to find out before I said get rid of the parking meters or whatever. That's another thing that would have to wait.

[This is the third in a series of Quincy Sun interviews with newly elected city officials. Next week: Patricia Toland.]

Gerald Lyons North's Math Head To Retire

Gerald Lyons, the Mr. Chips in mathematics at North Quincy High School, notified the Quincy School Committee last week of his intention to retire from the faculty effective March 19, 1982.

Lyons, head of the Math Department, has been a teacher at North for the past 34 years.

The School Committee unanimously approved Lyons retirement request with a glowing comment from School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

Creedon recounted how he attended North Quincy High in 1948, the first year that Lyons became a member of the faculty. Creedon studied math in one of the classes taught by Lyons.

The School Committee also approved the retirement of Margaret Woods from the Quincy Point-Central schools effective Dec. 31. She was appointed Sept.

1969.

The resignation of elementary teacher Ann Bove effective Jan. 4, was accepted. She was appointed Sept. 1971.

Maureen O'Brien of Quincy High was granted a half time leave of absence. She was appointed Sept. 1969.

Mary Ellen Elinson of North Quincy High was granted a maternity leave from Dec. 14 until June 28, 1982.

What Christmas... And Chanukah Mean To Me...

Pupils in Quincy's public elementary and junior high schools have submitted the following articles on the themes "What Christmas Means To Me" and "What Chanukah Means To Me." The Sun is happy to share their unedited thoughts with you.

We are unable to print all of the articles because of space limitations. We are sorry about that because there were many others worthy of publication.

To all who participated, we wish a Merry Christmas, a Happy Chanukah and a Healthy New Year.

Christmas to me is all about Jesus' birth. That's how Christmas came about. I like this time of year.

I like Christmas because it's Christ's birthday. I like decorating the Christmas tree too. I think Christmas is a most joyful day. We sometimes listen to Christmas records, and watch television. I like to exchange and open gifts with my family.

Sean Burke

Hanukah is not just a holiday of giving and receiving gifts. It's a time of year for warmth and affection. It's a time of year when the Family can join together and sit around the fire on a cold night and eat potato latkes and other traditional foods. Before we do those things we have the highlight of the evening. We light the candles. Everynight we light one more and we light them with a traditional prayer.

What Christmas means to me is open hearted people with the spirit of Christmas and Jesus. People celebrated Christmas because of the birth of Jesus. People put up mangers to remind people of Jesus's birthday. And also what Christmas means to me is Love, Sharing, Caring and Giving. That's what Christmas means to me.

Christmas is a time to give and take both helping to prepare the goodies for dinner on Christmas day. On Christmas day it is joyful waking up running downstairs and finding all the gifts under the tree. It is fun to open them and find what you want. Trying on the clothes you received and playing with the toys you got. When Christmas day is over and it is time to sleep we will thank mom and dad and kiss them goodnight. That's what Christmas means to me.

To me Christmas means many things. It means gathering together with relatives and celebrating Jesus's birth. It means getting many exciting presents, waiting for Christmas and getting all the Christmas shopping done on time. We show how we care for our family by exchanging gifts. I think its just the Thanksgiving but Thanksgiving has no presents. It means decorating the Christmas tree, the house and our church.

Jim Evans

Christmas is a time of year for gathering the families to show their love and care. Its when the snow falls and everything is white. Your trees are bright covered with lights, topped with a star. The carolers go door to door, exchanging gifts wrapped with a bow. Hanging stockings and hoping St. Nick will be there.

What Christmas Means To Me...

Christmas means to me decorating a very beautiful tree with sparkling lights that shine so brightly and placing decorations around the house. I see more of my family around Christmas time when we give and receive presents. It is the day Our Lord was born. This is probably the most exciting holiday of the year.

Jennifer Killilea

Christmas means giving but also getting. Christmas means happiness for me and for others. Christmas means carols and trees. Christmas is Holy night and Silent night. Christmas is Bethlehem and Baby Jesus. Christmas means decorating the tree and being joyful. Christmas means fun and forgiveness. Christmas is little children and Santa Claus. Christmas is good dreams and getting what you want. Christmas is unselfishness and helping the needy. But most of all Christmas means love.

Jay Lespasio
Broad Meadows Jr. High
Grade 7

Christmas means a time of joy, happiness, giving and being together with people you love. Christmas is my favorite day of the year. Even though there is so much to be done, it is always fun doing it. Rushing from store to store trying to finish getting your gifts, and coming home to a warm fire is all a part of Christmas. Finally, getting your home decorations out and putting the Christmas tree up with the lights and tinsel and all the little ornaments, gives a warm glow to my house. A real Christmas to me is when we have snow on the tree and all the rooftops. Sitting by the fireplace, looking at the tree, spending the day happily on Jesus Christ's birthday, this is what Christmas means to me.

What Christmas Means To Me...

Christmas means getting a tree, and brightening it up with lights, tinsel, and ornaments.

Christmas means waking up on Christmas morning, building a warm, cozy fire, and sitting around it opening presents.

Christmas means going to my grandmother's house and eating Christmas dinner.

Best of all, Christmas really means the birth of Christ, a time of love and joy.

Joe Kingsbury
Central Jr. High
Grade 7

Christmas to me means snow, sledding, going skating, and coming home having hot chocolate, and popcorn then warming up. It also means going Christmas caroling on Christmas Eve, then going to twelve o'clock Mass. It means waking up on Christmas morning with the house smelling of turkey and other good things, running in to open all the presents. That's what Christmas means to me.

Carol Steeves

Grade 5

Christmas means loving and caring and full of joy. You and your family friends and relative coming over and giving and receiving presents and being happy. Having Christmas dinner and putting up your Christmas tree. Having lots of color lights in your window and toys under your tree. That what Christmas means to me.

Kimberly Moore

Christmas means a time for giving love. A time to see relatives you never see. I am a time to decorate your house and to decorate your tree. Time for fun and to see Santa Riding on his slight with eight tiny reindeer right in front. It is a time to remember the day Jesus was born.

Christmas means to me the time when your family all gathers together and we all exchange gifts with each other.

When we go over our grandparents house we get to see all our aunt's, uncles, and cousins. When we exchange gifts with each other it shows how much we love each other.

I like when we put up our Christmas tree. When we buy presents we put the presents under the tree.

When we go to church we thank God for all the gifts we have, the food we have on our table, and a house we have.

That's what Christmas means to me.

To me, Christmas means caring, and sharing. It means hanging stockings, decorating Christmas trees, and stringing lights. Its a time for children to play, and a time for Santa to come around in his sleigh. Its a time to be thankful and a time for good cheer. Its a wonderful time of the year.

Christmas is the time of the year when friends gather around and celebrate the birth of Christ. Groups of people gather together to celebrate, and sing Christmas Carols. Christmas is a time for happiness to come to life, and make everybody's day wonderful.

This Christmas, we have plans to spend the day at my mother's best friend's house, in Plymouth. Christmas is also a time to express your love to family members. This Christmas will probably be the best one of all. My family will gather around the Christmas tree opening up our gifts, while thanking our parents for their wonderful thoughts about us. Sometimes I do down to my real father's house to share my thoughts and express my love to him. I love giving the presents to my Aunts and Uncles and seeing their lovely expressions on their beautiful faces.

Christmas is the time of year when your family, and everyone else's family gathers to share their love and feelings of each other. Christmas is a very special feeling to every one around the world, and they share the same thoughts with each other. There are families who make a feast for this beautiful time of year. Children all around go from house to house singing Christmas carols, and the people just enjoy the songs of Christmas. People all around love to shop for their presents to give to their children or other people part of their family.

I should know and because when it comes to Christmas I love to give and make other people part of my family, and friend of mine happy.

That's what Christmas means to me.

Two Candlelight Services At Squantum Church

There will be two Candlelight Services at the First Church of Squantum on Christmas Eve.

The first, the Family Candlelight Service, will be at 7 p.m. The Junior Choir will sing.

The second, the traditional Christmas Eve Candlelight Service, will be held at 11 p.m. Both the Youth Choir and the Chancel Choir will sing. The public is invited.

Worshippers are urged to bring one or more bells with them to jingle during the carols.

Last Sunday morning, the service began with a medley of Christmas carols arranged by Mary Ruth Scott and played by Robert Gorrill, solo trumpet, Ann Lombardi, trumpet, and Mark Paul, clarinet.

The Junior Choir sang and danced to the traditional carol, "I Saw Three Ships". The Youth Choir sang "Hallelujah, Glory Hallelujah" by Natalie Sleeth.

The Chancel Choir sang Bach's "Break Forth, O Beateous Heavenly Light" and combined with the Youth Choir to sing, "Slumber Infant Jesus" by Eugene Englert.

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, told the children the story of the three kings. He was assisted in lighting the candles in the Advent Wreath by Blythe Bumpus, Lori Ogilvie, Louie Morales, Ruth Adams, Kristen Reister, Derek Di Palmo, Eddie Stamos and Matthew Sumner.

Dr. Langevin preached on the subject, "The Sudden Light", in which he related the conversion experience of the apostle Paul to the coming of Jesus at Christmas.

The pastor also announced that the church's Christmas collections had all been delivered: canned goods to the Protestant Social Service Bureau and The Way Up, children's gifts to the Twelfth Baptist Church in Roxbury and used clothing to the People's Congregational Church in Dorchester.

Greeters for the morning were Henry and Pat Sorensen. After the service, the congregation was invited to a Baby Jesus' Birthday Party in Fellowship Hall, hosted by Barbara Fluhr, Barbara Colwell and Pat Olson.

The special birthday cake for Jesus was made and decorated by Genevieve Todd.

After the children sang "Happy Birthday" to Jesus, the cake was cut and refreshments served.

Both candlelight services Christmas Eve will include a reading of the poem "The Lamb" by William Blake, carols and candlelighting.

In the first, there will be an instrumental prelude, "Silent Night" played by Karin Reister, Kristen Reister, Lori Ogilvie, Kimberly Olson and Amanda Young on recorders with Andrew Ogilvie on greeters.

The Junior Choir will sing and dance to three pieces: "I Saw Three Ships", "Angels We Have Heard on High" and "While By My Sheep I Watched At Night".

Later in the service, the recorder players will be joined by other instrumentalists to play "Joy To The World". The others include Blythe Bumpus on glockenspiel, Melissa Stamos on xylophone and Krista Olson on the bells.

In the later service, the youth choir will sing, "Hallelujah, Glory Hallelujah" by Sleeth. The Chancel Choir will sing "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming" by Baker and Praetorius, "Silent Night" by Mohr and Gruber and "Glory Be To God in Heaven" as arranged by Francis W. Snow.

The two choirs will also combine to sing "Slumber, Infant Jesus" by Eugene Englert.

Next Sunday, the service at 10:15 a.m. will be led entirely by young people of the church.

NEED AN EXTRA $74,949?

Deposit early instead of late!

Let's say you're planning to take advantage of the liberal new tax laws by opening a tax deferred individual retirement account (IRA) for yourself.

To avoid the tax on your 1982 tax return you must open the account before you file—sometime previous to April 15, 1983. Now that seems like you've got forever to think about it. Almost!

Example:

If you're 29½ years old and you deposit the maximum amount ($2,000) per year for 30 years and have an average earnings of 12% . . . by making your deposit on January 2nd you'll actually earn $74,949 more interest at retirement than if you waited until December 31st to make your deposit.

Remember, we're not talking about a different deposit amount; we're just talking about your timing of that deposit . . . a $74,949 difference!

Your spouse can open a second account to double the difference to $149,898. (All working people are now eligible).

So, don't wait. If your timing is good, you and your spouse will have an extra $149,898 to spend at retirement.

Tell our New Accounts Department you want to open a 1982 IRA. They'll do the rest.

Paul Scores 16

Raiders Bow To Don Bosco

The North Quincy boys' basketball team, which lost to two of the top teams in the state after an opening night victory, faced Cathedral last night (Wednesday), will play at Newton North Monday night at 8 and will host Waltham next Wednesday night at 8 in Suburban League games.

The Raiders lost to Don Bosco, 68-53, Monday night in a non-league game as the Catholic League led from the start.

Don Bosco held an eight-point halftime lead and never looked back.

For the third game in a row Wes Paul paced the North Quincy scorers with 16 points and a fine all-around game. Chip Bunker, 6-10 center, had his best night with 12 points, 10 rebounds and four steals.

"This was as good a team as we'll face all year," North coach Eddie Miller said. "Playing the 'iron' (Don Bosco and Cambridge Rindge and Latin) at the start should help us as the season progresses."

Last Friday North played defending state champion Cambridge Rindge and Latin at Cambridge and dropped a 58-47 decision, but gave Cambridge, which has won 45 straight games against Massachusetts opponents, all it could handle. The winners couldn't clinch things until the final three minutes.

"They are tough kids,"

Cambridge coach Mike Jarvis said. "They came to play."

North's Bunker was given a rough time from the vocal Cambridge fans, who remembered some physical battles he had with 7-foot Pat Ewing a year ago. Although Bunker had only five points, he rebounded well and blocked several shots.

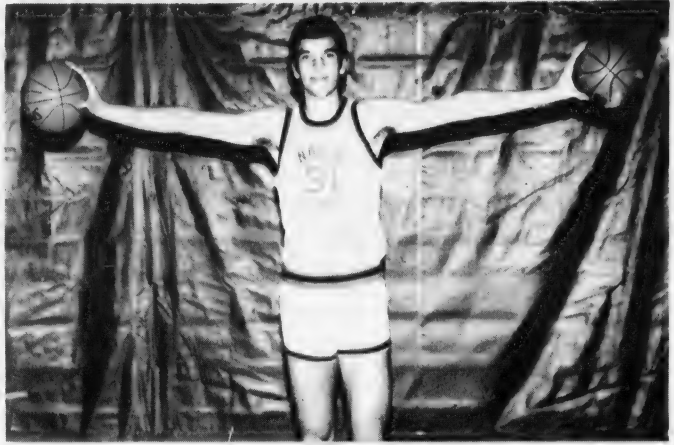

Paul for the second straight game was high scorer with 18 points and 6-5 Ed Carroll had 14 points and took down 15 rebounds. "Carroll was all over the place," Miller said.

"It's different playing Cambridge than any other team in the league," Miller said. "They are very quick and we tried to slow the tempo. But when we did make a steal, we couldn't capitalize."

Paul was also the spark earlier in the week when North opened with a 48-43 win over Weymouth South. He scored 17 points, including two key baskets during an early fourth-quarter surge.

Bunker scored 10 points and had a fine rebounding game. "You can look at the book and think he didn't do much, but that isn't the case," Miller said. "He handled the ball on the break very well and he got the quick-out pass down-court. You can't measure what he does in points, but he is capable of scoring more."

Bunker was double-teamed most of the game, leaving Paul free outside and Carroll free inside. He scored 13 points.

CHIP BUNKER, North Quincy's 6-foot-10 center, is expected to be one of the more dominant players in the Suburban League this year, with Cambridge's 7-foot Pat Ewing now at Georgetown.

First Ladies Could Be Contender In Suburban League

The Quincy girls' basketball team lost eight of last year's Eastern Mass. Tournament players to graduation but Coach Peter Swanson has some good talent back and could be a contender in the Suburban League.

The First Ladies, 1-1 going into last Tuesday's game with Cambridge Rindge and Latin, will host Waltham Monday at 2:30 p.m. and Wednesday will be home to Weymouth North at 2:30 p.m.

The Quincy girls, who lost a heartbreaker in their opener to Newton North's defending state champions, evened their record last Friday with a 61-49 victory over Boston English in a non-league game.

Nancy MacDonald sparked the attack with 21 points, sparking a 24-point third period outburst, hitting on seven field goals. She also had nine rebounds. Mary Kamb had 10 points and 12 rebounds and Ellen Deady had nine points and six rebounds.

In the opening game Quincy appeared set for a major upset as it led Newton by a point with just six seconds to play. But Newton's Jenna Lammers hit a pair of free throws to give the state champs a 33-32 win.

The First Ladies, again led by MacDonald with 20 points and 13 rebounds, led, 18-10, at one time and had an 18-13 lead after a period.

Kamb had another outstanding game and pulled down 19 rebounds.

Swanson is experimenting this season with 5-10 senior MacDonald at guard. A 20-point-a-game scorer last year as a forward, Nancy is one of the tallest guards in the league. Kamb, 5-11 center, is an outstanding rebounder and can shoot.

Maryann Agres is the team's quarterback, Kathy Duggan is a fine swing player, Meg Goldrick is an excellent defensive player and Deady and Tricia Travers are fine all-around players who will see a good deal of action.

North Wrestlers Pin Marshfield

The North Quincy wrestling team got off to a good start last week when it defeated Marshfield, 33-30.

The Raiders will host Weymouth North and Weymouth South next Wednesday, Dec. 30, at 5 o'clock.

Coach Steve Joyce got pins from Lester Geary (140 pounds), John Kowlowski (147), Tom Morrell (187) and Rich Ragusa (heavy-weight).

Also winning were Chris Butler (128), 2-0; and Mike Pimental (169) by disqualification.

North Quincy losers were Mike O'Donnell (107); Danny Dodd (114); Matt McGuiggan (121); Jay Pillard (140), and Frank Scanlon (156). North was forced to default in the 100-pound class.

Suburban All-Stars

Three North Quincy football players, center Neal Fisher, lineman Mike Panaro and running back Joe Dudek, were named to the Suburban League all-star offensive first team.

Two Quincy players, lineman Mike Connors and defensive back Mike Shaughnessy made the defensive first team.

North Quincy's Steve Howley, Jim Hutchinson and Pat Burke were named to the second team.

Quincy Icemen Pack Scoring Punch

Quincy's hockey team this season could be involved in some of the highest scoring games in the Suburban League.

Coach Bob Sylvia, in his 17th season as the Presidents' coach and the dean of Quincy varsity coaches, has plenty of firepower but has a problem in goal that he is working hard to solve.

"We are going to score a lot of goals this season, but I'm afraid the other teams are also going to score a lot," Sylvia said. "At the start of the season I felt if we could hold the opposition to four goals, we would be all right because I thought we could score five."

Quincy hosts Brockton Saturday at 7:50 at the Youth Arena.

Quincy has a high scoring veteran first (royal blue) line of senior center Kevin Craig, one of the league's top scorers last winter, and junior wings Mike Chenette and Frank Reynolds.

The second (green) line also has some excellent shooters in junior center Steve Baylis and wings Bob Silcox, a senior, and junior Mike Nourse. All were with last year's squad.

Sylvia has been experimenting with the left wingers on the third (red) line. Senior Tom Hennessey is at center and junior Doug Concannon at right wing. He has been using junior Jim McSweeney, senior Bob DeFranco and junior Rich Monahan at right wing. Whoever doesn't play in this line teams up with junior Mike Lamie on the fourth (navy blue) line.

The defense is led by senior veterans Steve Hall and Paul Bamberry. Senior Bill Bomar and junior Brian Silcox make up the second duo, seniors Mike Nevins and Paul Reinhardt are the third unit and junior Ted Walsh is the swing man.

"Most of these boys played junior varsity hockey last year," Sylvia said. "Hall and Bamberry make up a strong unit and the others are coming along."

The Presidents' coach has four goalies, senior Dave MacMurdo, who played on the jayvees a year, senior Andy Shannon and juniors Bob McElman and Tom Good.

"All have a lot of desire but I have to work hard with them," Sylvia said. "McElman started our first game but was nervous. MacMurdo went in and did a pretty good job."

Quincy's manager is Pete Lennon, a ninth grader at Vo-Tech.

Penalties plagued the Presidents in their opener, a 9-6 loss to Weymouth North.

Quincy fell behind, 7-2, after two periods, but fought back to move to within a goal, 7-6.

"Every time we were hit with a penalty, Weymouth took advantage and scored," Sylvia said. "But I was happy at the way the kids fought back instead of dying. We had a man advantage when the third period started and I felt if we could score with the advantage, then score again, we would be in a good spot. We did just that and then scored two more goals to make it 7-6, but Weymouth then clinched it with another power play goal."

Craig scored two goals and had two assists, Reynolds had a goal and two assists, Concannon a goal and assist, Nourse a goal, and Bamberry, Nevins and Baylis an assist each.

The Presidents were scheduled to play Cambridge Rindge and Latin last Saturday, but Cambridge, through a schedule mixup, failed to appear for the game.

"This was the first time in my 17 years at Quincy that an opponent has failed to show," Sylvia said. "We were disappointed as we felt we could win and get on the right track."

"It will be up to the league to decide if we get a forfeit win or if the game will be replayed."

captured three medals and a ribbon last Saturday in its finest showing ever in the National AAU Junior Olympic cross country championships at Amarillo, Texas.

Brian Barrett, a 10-year-old running in his first national meet, finished ninth in the 9-10 division with an 11:50 clocking over the 3000-meter course.

Marta Martinez, also 10, placed 31st in the girls 9-10 division.

Finn Kelly, a seasoned veteran of national competition, came in third in the boys 11-12 race with an outstanding 10:20 timing.

In girls 11-12 Nancy Sullivan, another old hand at national competition, placed 12th in 12:08. The top 25 in each division received medals and 26-50 received ribbons.

Lauren Andrews placed second in the shot put in the recent Boston University relays with a toss of 40-9 1/2.

Malvesti Goals Lift Quincy To Tie

Pat Cleary set up Nick Malvesti for two goals late in the third period to lift the Quincy High School hockey team into an upset 2-2 tie with Wellesley in a Bay State League game at Boston Arena.

After two scoreless periods, Wellesley moved out in front on goals 33 seconds apart on goals by Capt. Al Juliani, who beat Quincy goalie Bud Gavazza at 2:10 and 2:43.

Then Cleary passed to Malvesti for a goal at 5:05 and repeated the play for the tying score at 7:00.

Coach Ken Hudson's Presidents played without the services of Capt. Joe Monahan, who suffered a six-stitch cut when he was slashed by a skate during a practice session at Sailors' Home Pond.

The Quincy lineup: Gavazza, goal; Langton, Sargent, defense; Hebert, Finn, Joe Clancy, forwards; Cleary, Malvesti, Lehtonen, Cook, Keefe, McKenna, Yoerger, Jim Clancy.

WINS RIGHT TO PRAY

Melsheka, the wrestler from Arabia, won the right to pray to Mecca before the match but he lost to Ted Germaine of South Boston, two falls out of three, in the main bout at Quincy Arena.

The Massachusetts Wrestling Association ruled the day before the bout that any wrestler is entitled to a full five minutes in which to practice any religious service he desires before the match starts.

Germaine was a last minute substitution for Jose Firpo of Argentina, said to be a nephew of former heavyweight boxing contender Luis Firpo. His manager, Don Juan Vareles, had protested the prayer.

In a preliminary bout, Buck Jones, the Harlem Terror, and Cannonball Grange of Quincy, battled to a 30-minute draw.

'Y' OPENS WITH WIN

Bob Greenhalgh scored 20 points and Fred Comparato chipped in with 16 to lead the Quincy YMCA basketball team over the Waltham Tri-Mus quintet 81-34 in its season's opener.

The one-sided victory indicated to most experts that the Quincy Y team would once again be a contender for the national championship that it narrowly missed in the 1934 tourney at Williamsport, Pa.

The Quincy lineup: Greenhalgh, Mattson, Winship, forwards; O'Connell, Collins, center; Comparato, Reid, Smith, guards.

CLAN DROPS LYNN

Russell, Logan and Ballantyne scored the goals, two of them in the second half, as the Clan MacGregor soccer team upset the Lynn Riversides in the third round of the State Cup Tournament.

The Clan MacGregor lineup: Findlay, goal; Milne and J. Hay, backs; MacIntyre, T. Hay, A. Russell, halfbacks; Ballantyne, S. Hay, Logan, Wilson D. Russell, forwards.

QUINCY WALLOPS TUFTS

Coach Jimmy LeCain cleared the bench as his Quincy High School basketball team built up an 8-3 lead at halftime and went on to rout the Tufts Junior Varsity, 25-11 in Cousins Gym, Medford.

Eddie Dunn led the Quincy scorers with nine points.

The Quincy lineup: Pearson, Almstrom, DiNardo, DiTullio, Hill, Pappas, Dunn, forwards; Hantinen, Gladwin, Kapsis, centers; Crimp, Ollia, McCollom, Buckley, Gulino, Avery, DiGravio, Frenchuk, Fagerlund, guards.

MERRYMOUNT IN UPSET

Eddie Gallant scored the tying goal in the third period and Jimmie Rawson tallied the winner moments later as the Merrymount Hockey Club upset the strong Brookville HC of Holbrook, 4-3.

The Merrymount lineup: Sabean, goal; Gavazza, Dodd, Griffen, defense; Duffy, Gallant, Jacobs, J. Rawson, R. Rawson, F. Griffen, Clancy, Beausang, Hansen, forwards.

SHARKEY KAOYES DEMPSEY

Former world heavyweight champion Jack Sharkey flattened Dynamite Dempsey of Toledo with one punch when the wrestler attacked him while he was refereeing a tag team match at Quincy Arena.

SPORTS BITS '34

Nick Malvesti, Quincy's football star, was named to Sports Editor Johnny Garro's Italian all scholastic team in La Notzia, the Italian language daily in Boston....Coach Leland H. Anderson postponed eliminations for the Quincy High School wrestling team until after the Christmas holidays....LaHive limited high-scoring Tibbs to seven points and the United Presbyterian basketball team edged Pilgrim Congregational, 24-20, in a Great Quincy Sunday School League game....Defenseman Whimpy McDade tallied two goals as the Hough Neck Pals skated by the Merrymount AC, 5-0, on Manet Lake....Stanley "Tut" Thompson of Quincy was a candidate for the Colby College hockey team.

Bradley Injury Hurts But North Has The Potential

North Quincy hockey coach Kevin Lewis has the potential for his best team ever, but he is concerned by the absence of his top defenseman, Co-Capt. Bill Bradley, who will miss several games due to a knee injury.

"Bill means so much to us defensively," Lewis said. "He is a three-year veteran and a truly outstanding defenseman. We have some other capable defensemen, but I would be much more optimistic if Bill was ready."

Lewis has a wealth of experienced players and most observers rate the Raiders among the leading Suburban League clubs.

He has an excellent first line of senior veterans Dan McNeice (co-capt.) and Tom Lester and junior Mike Cullen.

The strong second line includes seniors Kevin Duff and Rich Stevens and sophomores Scott Messina, a transfer from B.C. High, and Keith Smith.

An all-junior third line also looks good with Dave DiCarlo, Dean Phillips and Dick Tapper.

Another promising line has Don Reidy, Darby Flaherty and Fran McCormack, all seniors.

"We have three very decent lines for the first time since I've been coaching," said Lewis, whose team went 6-8-2 (5-8-2 in the league) last year and lost several tough games. "We have great offensive potential and if the defense does its job, we should do well."

Lewis has shifted senior Billy Nee, an excellent veteran forward, to defense where he has looked good. Other capable defensemen are Kevin White, another transfer from B.C. High; veterans Tim Joy and Bobby Lynch; Mark Tenney, Kevin Lydon, Rich Riordan and Steve Dennelsbeck.

North has one of the league's best goalies in Co-Capt. Danny Newcombe, but one of the most pleasant surprises has been junior Shawn Cunningham, who was outstanding in the Quincy Youth Hockey program.

"Shawn has really looked good, and, with him and Newcombe, we should be strong in goal," Lewis said.

"If we can just get off to a good start and the boys have a winning attitude, I am confident we will have a fine season."

"In a game against Braintree, a strong club, in a jamboree, I was very pleased. Although we lost, 2-1, we had twice as many shots."

North, which plays Weymouth North Saturday at 2:40 at the Pilgrim Arena in Hingham and faces Cambridge Rindge and Latin next Wednesday at 4 at the Gore Street Rink, opened impressively last week with an 8-3 non-league win over Hull.

Eight different players scored for the Raiders, Messina, Stevens, Tapper, Smith, McNeice, Lester, Reidy and Nee. Lester added two assists and Duff had three assists.

Last Saturday the Raiders outplayed Newton North, but dropped a frustrating 5-3 decision in a league game.

"This was very frustrating," Lewis said. "With the score tied, 3-3, in the third period, we dominated but a fluke goal gave them the lead and that was that. We completely outplayed them until that goal."

Newton took an early 1-0 lead but North tied it on a goal by Stevens. Smith and Duff assisting.

Newton took a 3-1 lead in the second period but North came back to tie it when Duff scored (Stevens and Nee assisting) and McNeice added the tying goal with White assisting.

"The line of Duff, Smith and Stevens played an outstanding game," Lewis said. "We are still not up to par on defense, although the defense did a pretty good job in this game."

Face Scituate Saturday

Quincy Opens With Win Over Newton N.

The Quincy boys' basketball team, which got off to a good start last week with a 53-48 victory over Newton North, despite the absence of two starters, was idle last Friday and Tuesday were scheduled to meet the defending state champion, Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

The Presidents will face Scituate Saturday night at 6:30 in the opening round of the annual Hingham Christmas Tournament. Monday they will be at Waltham at 2:30 and next Wednesday will play at Weymouth North at 8.

Coach Joe Amoroso, hoping to lead Quincy into the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the fifth straight year and the sixth in the last seven years, was without the services of Peter Papile, out with the flu, and lost Kevin Riggs with a sprained ankle with only six minutes gone in the Newton North game.

Despite these losses, Quincy came from behind to top Newton as Jim DiPietro scored 20 points, 10 in the final period. Junior Paul Gilbody scored 14 in his first varsity start and junior Bob Mudge had eight points, 10 rebounds, five assists and five steals. Riggs had six points before leaving the game. Jeff Morrison rebounded well.

The Presidents bottled Newton up with a pressing defense in the second half which results in several steals.

"I was very satisfied with our performance and the boys did well," Amoroso said. "We missed Papile and Riggs, but Gilbody did an excellent job in his first varsity start and got his baptism of fire. DiPietro played an excellent game and everyone did a superb job."

North Girls Track Team Breezes By Cambridge

The 'North Quincy girls' track team, unbeaten (8-0) Suburban League champion last year and state champ the past two years, opened its season as usual last week with an easy 54-32 league victory over Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

Lou Tozzi's Raiderettes will face Brookline Friday, Jan. 3, at 5 o'clock at Northeastern University.

4 New Coaches Named

The Quincy School Committee accepted recommendations for the appointment of coaches for the 1981-82 school year as follows:

Jane McGilvray, head coach for girls gymnastics, North Quincy

North swept the 2-mile with Linda Kennedy first, Regina Nagle second and Tracey Corrigan third. Sheila Barrett took second and Ann Gorceyza third in the mile.

Nancy McCarthy won the 1000 and Tracy Coull was third; Deirdre Donovan won the 600 with Mary Gannon second; Kennedy won the 300 with Karen Lindenfelzer second, and McCarthy won the 50 with Debbie Kiley third.

As usual, Michelle Millane won the shot put with Caryn Smith second, Kara Crehan was second and Georgia Traincane third in the high jump and Marie McGurl was third in the hurdles.

Quincy Wrestlers Eye 4th Straight Title

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy High's wrestling teams have enjoyed phenomenal success under Coach Carmen Mariano and, with more than 50 candidates for this year's team, things look promising again.

The Presidents are seeking their fourth straight Suburban League title and their fourth South Sectional Div. 1 championship. Last year they were 8-0 in the league and 20-1-0 overall, losing only to state champion Lowell.

Quincy, which will compete in the annual Lowell holiday tournament Saturday and Sunday, had to come from behind with wins in the last four bouts to defeat a tough Stoughton team, 36-27, last week.

In those four bouts Ricci won, 6-0; Bob Willard pinned his opponent, Rollins won, 7-2, and Picot won by a pin.

Earlier Quincy winners were Notarangelo by pin, McSharry by pin, and Oriola, 9-2 decision.

Quincy completely outclassed Brookline and Cambridge Rindge and Latin last Saturday in its first league meets.

The Presidents rolled over Brookline, 60-6; with Coulter winning, 15-8; Monahan by pin, Notarangelo by forfeit; McSharry by pin, DePolo by forfeit; Oriola by pin, DeCoste by pin, Ricci by pin, Rollins, 3-2; Willard by pin and Gravelle by pin.

Quincy achieved a rare shutout, 70-0, over Cambridge, with Coulter winning by pin, Monahan by pin, Boyle by pin, Notarangelo by forfeit, Madden by pin, DePolo by pin; Oriola by forfeit, DeCoste, 9-1; Rosberg by pin, Rollins by pin, Willard by forfeit and Picot by pin.

Since wrestling was resumed in 1974 Mariano's teams have an amazing 105-26-1 record in regular season competition.

"Our program has always been based on numbers, depth and involvement," Mariano said. "The sport is extremely demanding -- as tough as high school sports get, and we push. But over the years, our kids have proved themselves strong enough to stay with us and thanks to that strength, we've been successful. From that I've seen this season in practice, this team is made up of the type of committed athlete we need to continue our tradition."

Quincy's experience will come from senior captains Mark Picot (188 pounds) and Gerry McSharry (128/134). Both are three-year veterans and returning starters from last year's championship team.

Seniors Steven Ricci (157) and John Taglieri (169) will also play key roles, with both being relied upon to fill holes left by graduating sectional champions.

Peter Connolly (128), Ken MacDonald (128), Steve Klaiman (140), Jim Mullin (128), Jim McCue (140) and Dave Silcox (169) add to the talent in this year's senior class.

The junior class is loaded with talented athletes and will be a key to this year's success. Allen Costigliolo (114), Michael Miller (134), Mario Venturilli (140); Shaun Wynn (134); Glen Oriola (140); Darrin DeCoste (147), Bill Rollins (147/157), Paul Silcox (107/114); Bill Marston (121) and Joe Madden (121) are all promising juniors. Marston and Madden gained varsity experience as sophomores.

Jamie Gravelle (210) has the potential to be as good a heavyweight as the Presidents have had.

Walter Rosberg (147), Charles McIsaac (121), Bob Willard (101), Al Carpenter (191), Jim Lennon (100/107), John Depolo (128/134), Bill Eastwick (134) and Steve Johnston (128/134) return from Quincy's best junior varsity team ever.

"They round out the most gifted group of second-year athletes I've ever coached," Mariano said.

The first-year talent includes Mike Notarangelo (114/121), David Coulter (100), Joe Monahan (100/107), John Cacciatore (128), Kevin Cabezas (147/157) and Chris Conostas (140), who had very successful junior high careers and are supported by Gary Minassian (147/157), Tom Houlihan (100), Jim Willard (107), MacAuley (157), Ed Diworth (100/107), Bob Ward (128); Jim Katsikis (107/114), Dan Kenney (128), Randy Forest (147), David Kerr (147), Dan Kelly (124) and Arthur Stone and first-year juniors Fran Gaudiano (157), Rich Boyle (107/114) and Jim Hutchinson.

"Our schedule includes such powerhouses as Lowell, Waltham and Brockton," said Mariano. "It will be a most interesting year. If we can bring our young talent along fast enough, the sky is the limit. The pressure is on us and the kids will have to work harder than any of my teams."

Mite A's Remain Undefeated

Quincy's Mite A team remained unbeaten and in first place in the league with a 5-2 victory over Neponset.

Richie Brooks, Joe Bevilacqua, Tony Spinelli, Steve Carroll and Joe Zona scored the goals. Sean McArdle had two assists and Matt Riley and Tommy Collins one each.

Street Hockey Tournament Planned

The South Shore Roller Hockey Association will sponsor a street/floor hockey tournament in February at Skateland Rink in Marshfield for teams made up of players 15 and older.

Further information can be obtained by calling 479-2169 after 6 p.m.

Mass. All-Stars Defeat Executive League

The Mass. All-Stars walloped the Executive Hockey League all-stars, 10-3.

Proceeds went to the Quincy Center Businessmen's Association to help defray the expenses of the Christmas lights.

The Mass All-Stars, made up of former pro players including Paul Hurley, Doug Mohns and Davy Hynes of the Bruins, Tim Sheehy of the Whalers and Paul Stewart of the Quebec Nordiques, proved too much for the Executive Leaguers.

Don Costa, Bob Carroll and Kevin Lewis scored the goals for the Executive League with two assists for Jerry Fitzgerald and one for Bob Murray.

The Executive League presented scholarships to two Quincy Youth Hockey Association players, Annmarie Kane (to Assumption College) and Paul Hurley (to UMass/Amherst).

Guerriero Paces St. John's League

Dick Guerriero leads the St. John's Holy Name Bowling League with a 111.0 average, followed by Bob Saluti at 110.2.

The rest of the Top Ten: Lou Facilla, 109.7; Ed Linehan, 108.7; Mike Panarelli, 105.9; Dick DiRamo, 102.3; Tom Darcy, 101.7; Jim Mastrantonio, 100.9; John O'Donnell, 100.3; and Joe Matarazzo, 97.9.

Darcy rolled the weekly high single of 145 and also had a 131, and DeRamio had 124. Darcy also had the high three of 366 and Facialla had 356.

Guerriero's team had the high team single of 507 and Saluti's team had 500. Dan Mastro's team had the high three of 1458 and Harley Jordan's team had 1441.

Linehan has the season's high single of 151 and Guerriero the high three of 409. Jordan's teams has the season's high team single of 555 and Guerriero's team had the high three of 1549.

The standings: Jordan, 44-28 (total pinfall of 17,153); Mastro, 40-32 (17,253); Saluti, 35-37 (17,324); DiRamo, 34-38 (17,354); Linehan, 33-39 (17,265), and Darcy, 30-42 (16,675).

Braves Hockey Team Holds Christmas Party

The South Shore Braves, coached by Quincy High coach Bob Sylvius and perennial champions of the N.E. Junior Hockey League, held a Christmas Party Sunday at the Furnace Brook Golf Club.

The Braves, again leading the league, had a large number of Quincy and North Quincy players in past seasons but the only Quincy player on the squad this year is Jim Campbell, one of Sylvia's former stars at Quincy High.

WEEK OF: DECEMBER 24

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Holiday socializing brings you together with a one-time close acquaintance; this may prove the year for a reunion. Avoid snap decisions, especially ones related to property.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Loved ones are more cooperative, specifically regarding your work commitments. Unexpected payment brightens the financial picture. Visitors bring a bundle of news.

ARIES - March 21-April 22
Despite greater-than-usual activity this holiday week, you manage to involve yourself in a new special interest group. Rewarding times are shared with fellow Aries or a Pisces.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
The accent is on meeting people from unusual walks of life and, through them, expanding your horizons. Relatives still don't agree with your ideas, but they no longer oppose them.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Extremely sensitive to the moods of others, you find that people are drawn to you for advice, understanding and sympathy. Meanwhile, try not to hide your own emotions.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
A prestigious assignment is yours for the asking — but do you really want to ask for it? Use time alone to sort out priorities, especially those involving much time or money.

LEO - July 23-August 22
There's good news for your social life, particularly for single Leos. The key is to be yourself, to accent your strengths. Fine week for improving your mind and your physique.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Career boost comes for partner, and standard of living may be increased. Your own vitality peaks and a pet project could be given a long-sought-after endorsement.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Through Sunday, the accent is on speaking out — talking your mind or selling your product. One caution: be less aggressive and emphasize your innate warmth and sense of humor.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
A generally upbeat week, especially with the reversal of a recent career or academic setback. Fighting for your beliefs brings immense personal satisfaction.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Family member needs your moral support, and you should make yourself accessible. Award comes your way, reflecting a supervisor's appreciation of normally unheralded talents.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Be more generous in showing your affections, especially to younger relatives. Financial news improves, especially as it relates to land holdings. Popularity soars by Tuesday.

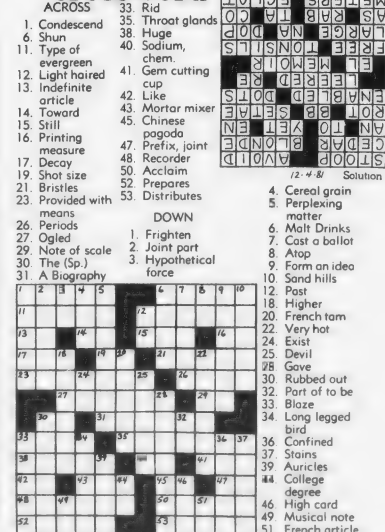

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You're an "action" person; no matter what your circumstances, you take positive steps to improve them. Changing values are accentuated over next ten months, and you successfully play down materialism in favor of human relationships.

BORN THIS WEEK

December 24th, actress Ava Gardner; 25th, singer Cab Calloway; 26th, comedian Alan King; 27th, designer Pierre Cardin; 28th, actor Martin Milner; 29th, actress Mary Tyler Moore; 30th, host Bert Parks.

Project VITAL Seeks Funds For Virgin I. Trip

Project VITAL is selling Christmas trees in the parking lot of the old A and P store on Southern Artery to raise money for a week-long ecological trip to the Virgin Islands in February.

The trip, sponsored by the Northeast Marine Environmental Institution of Falmouth, will include 30 students from Grades 8 through 12 who have demonstrated maturity enough for such an intense course.

Fifteen youngsters from Quincy, Milton, Weymouth and Worcester have signed up with room for 10 to 15 more.

The course in tropical ecology is scheduled to be held from Feb. 11 to 19 on St. John Island, under the direction of instructors Paul Shave, Mary Hathorn and Bill McWeeny.

Project VITAL (Virgin Islands Travel Aggregate of Learners) is trying to raise $12,000 to supplement about half the tuition costs for each participant.

Inquiries should be directed to William T. McWeeny, 201 Wessagusset Rd., North

Daryl DeLuca Receives Award

Quincy native Daryl DeLuca, assistant director of Boston University's Residence Life Office, was named "Outstanding New Professional" recently by the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators, Region I.

DeLuca received the award during a ceremony at the association's recent annual conference, in Lenox. Recipients must have served four years or less in a full-time student affairs position. DeLuca, who came to the University in 1978, has developed several publications for Residence Life, including its 200-page staff resource manual.

McCauley To Take Reins On Monday

It will be Mayor Francis X. McCauley starting at 10 a.m., Monday, Jan. 4.

That's when the 52-year-old former bank president will be sworn in as the 27th mayor of Quincy in ceremonies in the Munroe MacLean Gymnasium at the Vocational Technical School.

The new City Council also will be sworn into office and hold its first meeting of the new year at which Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. is expected to be elected president.

Then the School Committee will be sworn in and hold its first organizational meeting with Mary P. Collins in line to be elected vice chairman. The mayor, by virtue of his office, is chairman.

After the new Council and School Committee are organized the members will get together to select a successor to Patricia M. Toland, who is moving to the Council with two years left on her Committee term.

John J. Sullivan, who finished fourth and out in his bid for a third term on the Committee last November, is expected to get the nod from the mayor, the nine councillors and the five committee members.

The new members of the Council are Toland, Richard J. Koch Jr. and Theodore P. DeCristofaro. They will join Lydon, Joanne Condon, Leo J. Kelly, Joseph J. LaRaia, Stephen J. McGrath and James A. Sheets.

The only new member of the School Committee is Nicholas C. Verenis. Returning are Francis F. Anselmo, Christopher F.

FRANCIS X. MCCAULEY Kennedy, Joan C. Picard and Collins.

Invitations have been sent to former Mayors Thomas S. Burgin,

James R. McIntyre, Walter J. Hannon and Arthur H. Tobin. Another former mayor, Joseph J. LaRaia, will attend as a member of the Council.

Clergymen in attendance will be the Rev. James Hart of Blessed Sacrament Church; the Rev. M. Alicia Corea of the Houghs Neck Congregational Church; and Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue.

A special clergyman guest will be Msgr. Peter F. Hart of St. Clement Church, Somerville, who was pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church, Houghs Neck, when Mayor McCauley was growing up.

McCauley emphasized that the ceremonies in the Vo Tech gym are open to the public as is the reception Monday from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight at the Neighborhood Club.

Tobin Gets Nomination For Quincy Court Post

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin was expected to be nominated for clerk-magistrate of Quincy District Court yesterday (Wednesday).

A source close to the office of Gov. Edward J. King said Tuesday that Tobin's name would be submitted to the governor's council at its weekly meeting yesterday (Wednesday) morning.

If not then, the source said, the submission would be made Wednesday, Jan. 6.

Tobin declined to comment on his prospects.

"I hope I'm in the running," he said, "but it's the governor's appointment. It's entirely up to him."

Tobin, who leaves the mayor's office Monday, Jan. 4, has been mentioned as a leading candidate for the clerk's post since last spring when Dennis F. Ryan retired. Ryan later died.

1981 In Review:

For Many A Year To Forget

By TOM HENSHAW

It seems like only yesterday — and in some cases it was.

The South Shore National Bank building was wrapped in a yellow ribbon to celebrate release of 52 American hostages in Iran. Quincy Cablesystems was chosen to wire up the city for cable television.

Charles L. Shea retired as city auditor, bending under the demands on his time brought on by Proposition 2½. City Hospital was cut loose from the city budget with an enterprise account of its own.

Sunday dancing was the big issue facing the city. The MBTA faced the possibility of a blockade against added busing. The East-West Connector won mixed reviews at a public hearing.

Revaluation was stalled by a computer snafu in McLean, Va. Condo conversion became a dirty word in the lexicon of the City Council. And so did the term "video game center."

Frank McCauley was elected mayor of Quincy and his predecessor Arthur Tobin was set to move on to be clerk-magistrate of the Quincy District Court.

All these things happened in 1981, the year that passes from all but our memories at midnight tonight.

Here is a month by month rundown of the high spots — and a few of the low ones, too — in Quincy during 1981:

JANUARY

Mayor Tobin's midterm address, delivered six days into the new year, unveiled plans for $63 million in new downtown development and listed a number of proposals for accommodating the tax-cutting provisions of Proposition 2½.

The new developments included a $14 million, 10-story office complex on Chestnut St., a $20 million office-retail complex on Hancock St. next to the Bargain Center, and a $28 million retail mall in the John Hancock Parking Area.

By year's end, little progress had been made on any of them.

Tobin promised to meet the challenge of Prop 2½ by streamlining the city budget for presentation to the City Council, by consolidating various departments and services and by finding alternative funding for other services.

Specific proposals included an enterprise account for City Hospital under the Hospital Corp. of America, a self-supporting Quincy Junior College and a self-supporting Water and Sewer Department to be modernized with state and federal funds.

But the city was faced with a financial crisis even before the Council could turn toward the fiscal 1982 budget, the first under Prop. 2½.

Tobin, quoting City Auditor Charles L. Shea, told a special Council meeting that the city was faced with a budget shortfall of $3.5 to $4 million by the end of fiscal 1981, which could mean that 700 city employees could lose their jobs.

Shea suggested that "enactment of the sewer use charge could reduce this job loss."

Tobin presented a package of proposals to the Council the same night, including the enterprise accounts for the Hospital and the Junior College and, the most controversial proposal of all, establishment of an independent Water and Sewer Commission.

The initial concern of the Council was that the three-pronged proposal would remove

City Council Meets On Fire Appropriation

The City Council and its Finance Committee was scheduled to meet yesterday (Wednesday) at 5 p.m. to take up, among other things, an appropriation of $24,000 for extraordinary repairs to fire apparatus.

The Finance Committee was to meet at 5 p.m. to discuss the fire appropriation and the Council set its special meeting for 5:10 p.m. to take up an eight-item agenda, including the appropriation.

The Council was also scheduled to make a final determination on raising the fines for illegal parking in some sections of the city to $5 per ticket for the first three offenses.

Tenants' Representative Backs McGrath In Condo Clash

Joseph O'Brien, president pro tem of the Quincy Tenants Organization, has come to the defense of City Council Stephen J. McGrath in his dispute with landlords over a proposed condo conversion ordinance.

McGrath chaired the committee that drew up the ordinance proposal while O'Brien and Roger Lyons, spokesman for the landlords, also served on the six-member group.

Lyons charged last week that the committee report which formed the basis for the ordinance "not only does not have our endorsement but we are utterly opposed to it," despite the fact that he signed it.

Lyons indicated that he felt the report had been changed and that "it is not what we agreed to."

"I think the statements made by the representative of the apartment house owners are reprehensible and I believe their implications are untrue and abominable," said

O'Brien in a statement.

"Councillor McGrath was honest, fair, knowledgeable and patient. And although I didn't do as good a job as I had hoped to do I can't fault him in any way."

O'Brien said the special committee met many times to study the condominium conversion situation in Quincy before members "finally came to an agreement and each of the six members signed."

"Furthermore," he said, "I made it a point to shake hands with both apartment house representatives, signifying trust in their action. This took place Friday afternoon, Dec. 4."

"During the Council meeting of Monday, Dec. 7, the apartment owners delayed the presentation of the agreement to the Council by pressuring Councillor McGrath for four more concessions from the renters."

"We agreed to them reluctantly, figuring a quarter loaf was better than none.

"We, the tenants, gave up far more than we had intended; far more than the elderly should have had to sacrifice; far more than all the apartment house renters should have been called on to give up."

"But we did it to get some protection from the devastating effect condo conversion has on the apartment house dwellers in our city. So we signed the agreement — all six members of the committee."

The committee wound up with an ordinance proposal that included, among other things, nine months notice to tenants and two years notice to the elderly and handicapped before conversion.

The City Council passed a home rule petition asking the state legislature for permission to have such an ordinance and then the Council passed a resolution approving the McGrath committee's proposal.

$4.4 Million Funds For Winterization

Congressman Brian Donnelly announced that $4.4 million in federal funds will soon be available to help elderly and low income families winterize their homes.

Donnelly said Massachusetts would receive the funds as soon as the state's plan for weatherizing homes is approved in Washington.

"Providing home insulation is one of the most cost-efficient energy programs ever devised," Donnelly said. "The administration tried to shovel this onto one of their catch-all block grants earlier this year. Fortunately, we were able to save the program."

As a member of the House Budget Committee, Donnelly insisted that some government money be set aside specifically for the winterization program.

In addition to the specifically dedicated federal funds, the state has been allowed to use a fraction of its Low Income Energy Assistance money for home insulation.

Donnelly said the winterization grant to Massachusetts is likely to be approved within the next month.

NEED AN EXTRA $74,949?

Deposit early instead of late!

Let's say you're planning to take advantage of the liberal new tax laws by opening a tax deferred individual retirement account (IRA) for yourself.

To avoid the tax on your 1982 tax return you must open the account before you file—sometime previous to April 15, 1983. Now that seems like you've got forever to think about it. Almost!

Example:
If you're 29½ years old and you deposit the maximum amount ($2,000) per year for 30 years and have an average earnings of 12% . . . by making your deposit on January 2nd you'll actually earn $74,949 more interest at retirement than if you waited until December 31st to make your deposit.

Remember, we're not talking about a different deposit amount; we're just talking about your timing of that deposit . . . a $74,949 difference!

Your spouse can open a second account to double the difference to $149,898. (All working people are now eligible).

So, don't wait. If your timing is good, you and your spouse will have an extra $149,898 to spend at retirement.

Tell our New Accounts Department you want to open a 1982 IRA. They'll do the rest.

McCauley Candidate, Hospital Under Private Operation

some 25 per cent of the budget from the purview of the Council, which would go a long way toward upsetting the balance of power between the executive and legislative branches.

The day after Tobin delivered his mid-term address, City Councillor Francis X. McCauley kicked off the political year 1981 by announcing his candidacy for mayor. He said he was not satisfied with the way the current mayor was doing the job.

"Too many important decisions have been made for short term political considerations in the city," he told a gathering at the Neighborhood Club. "They are not being made in the best interests of the city."

McCauley said he made his decision to run in December when he read a newspaper clipping in which Tobin called him a "hatchet man who should have run for mayor if he thought he could do a better job."

"I decided that that I was going to take Mayor Tobin's advice and run," he said.

Tobin said he hadn't made up his mind whether or not to run for a third term and he really didn't care who the other candidates were.

Hospital Corp. of America, of Nashville, Tenn., a $1.5 billion company that operates 191 hospitals, was chosen to operate City Hospital and Mayor Tobin assured a skeptical City Council that the days of "politicizing" the hospital are over.

But, under questioning by McCauley, City Solicitor Robert Fleming conceded that the mayor "still has sole authority to hire and fire and make all other administrative decisions" under the city charter.

Anthony DeFalco, 55, of Needham, retired from the $41,600 post as hospital director and was succeeded by Michael D. Kitchen, a 34-year-old West Virginian, as interim director under HCA's temporary six-month contract.

The city received bad news from the U.S. Census Bureau, which announced that the official 1980 population will be 84,068, give or take slight last minute changes. That's 3,898 fewer than in 1970 and 7,410 less than the state census in 1975.

But Quincy moved up from 12th to ninth in the state, passing Lynn, Newton and Somerville, but still behind Boston, Worcester, Springfield, New Bedford, Cambridge, Brockton, Fall River and Lowell.

The Mayor's Advisory Committee on Cable Television, which had been studying the issue for a year under Chairman George Riley, recommended Quincy Cablesystems, a subsidiary of American Cablesystems, for the coveted Quincy franchise.

The MDC disclosed that its Nut Island Sewage Treatment Plant had suffered a 50-million gallon spill of partially treated sewage during Christmas week because retirement, illness and death had left the facility with one diesel operator to cover all shifts.

The furor over the spill shook up the administration of Gov. Edward J. King enough that it released funds to fill 11 vacancies at Nut Island, including one diesel operator.

Quincy observed the release of the 52 American hostages held in Iran with an interfaith service at United First Parish Church and exhortations to think of peace and freedom, not revenge.

"Vengeance is mine," says the Lord," said the Rev. Winston Clark of Quincy Point Congregational Church. "That means it is not ours."

Flags flew at full staff for the first time in 13 months when word was finally received that the hostage release had been

Howe Family Holds 40th Christmas Reunion

Nearly 100 members of the Howe family, including a number of Quincy residents, gathered recently for their 40th annual Christmas time reunion held this year at the Montclair Men's Club.

Local residents included Joseph Howe of Wollaston, Mrs. Grace Talbot of North Quincy, Mrs. Virginia Giblin of South Quincy, and Mrs. Carol Wood of Quincy.

Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Joseph Howe organized the reunion which included relatives from Dorchester, Rockland, Pembroke, Falmouth, Wareham as well as Quincy.

Four generations of relatives from the age of six months to 74 years attended the reunion which included dinner, caroling and a visit from Santa.

Joseph Howe explained that all of those on hand were descended from his father, Thomas A. Howe of Savin Hill, who with his wife had 11 children.

Five of the 11 offspring were on hand for this year's reunion: Mrs. Lillian Prince of Arlington, Robert Howe of Westwood, Mr. Howe, Mrs. Talbot and Mrs. Giblin of Quincy.

Miriam R. Bowman Married To George B. Westhaver

The chapel of Quincy Point Congregational Church was the setting for the recent wedding of Miriam R. Bowman of 1000 Southern Artery and George B. Westhaver of 179 Presidents Lane. Rev. Bedros Baharian officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Roberts of Wollaston, was given in marriage by Steven King of Quincy.

A graduate of Dorchester High School, she was employed as a secretary at Otis Elevator Company.

She has two children, Jean Ellen McGiffin of Schenectady, N.Y.,

and James Bowman of Aberdeen, N.J., and two grandchildren.

The bridegroom, formerly of Andover and Osterville, is a graduate of Hobart College, Geneva, N.Y., and recently attended the college's 50th reunion.

A former headmaster of Woodstock Academy, Connecticut, he was also an instructor at Wentworth Institute and Northeast New England Distributor for Plibrico Firebrick Company.

Mr. Westhaver has one daughter, Sally Ann Kydd of Boston, and three grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Pickering of Wollaston were attendants.

Mrs. Gordon Troupe was organist.

After a wedding trip to Boca Raton, Fla., the newlyweds will live in Quincy.

Tobin Presents $63.8 Million Budget accomplished and a giant yellow ribbon was tied around the South Shore Bank building.

The Quincy Sun won third place in its division in New England Press Association competition for its 15-part series on the drug problem in Quincy, which the judges called a "blockbuster" series and "a valuable public service." They indicated it would have won first place honors if it had been entered in the Public Service Category rather than feature.

Deaths during January included:

Retired Police Capt. Joseph P. Flaherty, 81, who was acting chief in 1964-65; Msgr. Daniel Scully, 80, of West Quincy, who served as pastor of St. John's Church, East Bridgewater; Mrs. Mary R. Sullivan, 88, mother of School Committee member John Sullivan.

Paul Lentini, 32, and James Gibbons, 31, both of Quincy, both Boston firefighters who were killed in a fire in the Back Bay; Grace M. Lamb, 91, a teacher at Lincoln School for 48 years; Ethel C. Crockett, 94, a Quincy teacher for 30 years.

Mrs. Grace Wallace, who was the first female funeral director on the South Shore when she took over her husband's Wallace Funeral Home in Wollaston in 1937.

FEBRUARY

Mayor Tobin presented the City Council with a fiscal 1982 budget of $63.8 million, well under the previous year's $102 million, and one which Tobin said would bring the city well within the $56.9 million tax levy permitted under Proposition 2½.

The catch was that the mayor's budget did not include financing for City Hospital, Quincy Junior College or the Sewer and Water Departments which Tobin proposed in a separate legislative package be given revolving accounts independent of the budget.

Strangely, the mayor presented the budget to the Council at a special meeting which had been called to consider his legislative package, a move that Tobin charged was made to kill the package before its importance was fully understood.

"I want everyone to know that if the City Council does a butcher job it will mean between 200 and 300 additional layoffs in this city," he said.

Tobin said the $63.8 million budget represented the loss of 275 city jobs but that if the hospital, the junior college and the sewer and water departments had to be reinstated, layoffs could top 500 and the Squantum and Germantown fire stations closed.

The City Council thought Tobin's proposal for the junior college was a good idea, had some reservations about his plan for the hospital, but looked absolutely askance at the proposed Water and Sewer Commission.

Councillor McCauley sought to add an amendment which would give the Council the power to cut the Commission's annual budget but it was defeated 5-4 and McCauley said he could not vote for the package without the amendment.

Temper flared at a meeting of the Council's Finance Committee when a large number of city employees showed up to sit in the audience and Chairman John J. Lydon Jr. suggested that they were motivated to attend by the mayor.

"Anyone who is out of order will be removed by the police," Lydon warned.

"I find your statement insulting to city employees," snapped Councillor Daniel G. Raymond. "And I find your conduct disgusting. You are the one who should be removed."

"Somewhere between the mayor and the City Council a game of Russian roulette is being played with my life and my family's future and I don't like it," said city employee, Bart Caggiano. "I will not tolerate politics as usual in this city."

Tobin's handling of the city budget also drew fire from the School Committee, which had been stripped of fiscal autonomy by Proposition 2½ and had not yet adjusted to its new subordinate role.

Without consulting members of the School Committee, Tobin set the school budget at $26.6 million, down $8.4 million from the previous year, and then let members of the committee parcel it out as they wished.

"He has become a tyrant, a Caesar," growled Frank Anselmo.

UP AT LAST! — Flags in Quincy flew at full staff for the first time in 13 months in January when word was received that the 52 American hostages held in Iran were finally released. Flags at the U.S. Naval Reserve Center (right), Mt. Wollaston Cemetery (left) and on the South Shore Bank Building, (far background) were lowered to half staff in December 1979, one month after the hostages were taken.

Creedon said that 443 school employees would lose their jobs or be bumped to power playing ones under the new budget, schools would be closed, junior high school sports eliminated, and art, music and language programs eliminated.

Quincy Cablesystems Awarded TV Contract youth groups using picnic areas would have to pay a minimum $25 fee and other hikes were planned.

And the board of trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library, faced with a $100,000 cut in its $1.1 million budget voted to eliminate 33 positions. Chairman L. Paul Marini warned that the library would run out of money before the end of fiscal 1981.

Quincy Cablesystems was awarded the cable TV franchise in the city and General Manager David J. Keefe said that some Quincy homes could be hooked up to the cable service by late fall or early winter, depending on how long it took to sign the contract.

A quarter mile section of Quincy Shore Drive in Merry-mount, site of five accidental deaths in the past 15 years, became the center of attention again when teenagers Bonnie MacMurdo and Tracy Duclos were killed in a car crash.

Mayor Tobin named Frank Terranova, retired maintenance superintendent, to a five-year term as a commissioner on the Quincy Housing Authority to replace Alphonzo Papile.

Pat Ewing, the 7-foot center who was rated as the top high school basketball player in the country, came to Quincy and the North Quincy basketball team held him to 12 points only to lose 51-42 before a standing room crowd in the North gym.

Deaths during February included:

John E. Weurth, 73, retired Quincy police captain; Dr. Saul Goldstein, 63, a Quincy dentist for 35 years; Dorothy J. Shea, 71, who was graduated from Quincy Junior College in June, 1980; Mrs. Sally Naser-Corey, 82, proprietor of a famed Wollaston beach clam stand from 1932-56.

MARCH

The city's financial plight under Proposition 2½ continued to dominate the news in March and the first major casualty of the infighting turned out to be Charles L. Shea, the 53-year-old former city councillor and state rep who had been city auditor since 1974.

"I can't stand the hours anymore," he said. "I just can't take the 70 to 80 hour weeks anymore. I can't remember the last time I put in less than 60 hours a week. And since Proposition 2½, it's gotten worse."

William S. Grindlay, 39, a research analyst for the Police Department who once served as budget coordinator for former Mayor Walter J. Hannon, was named by Tobin to fill the $34,509 auditor's post until a successor to Shea could be named.

Meanwhile, less than 24 hours after Shea announced his retirement, Tobin appointed him to a five-year term on the Hospital Board of Managers, succeeding John J. Cheney Jr., a frequent critic of Tobin's handling of hospital affairs.

It was a month of protest on the part of Quincy firefighters, who faced the layoff or demotion of some 17 men -- actually 11, said Tobin -- and the possibility that the Fire Department might wind up understaffed by 65 men if the worse circumstances were to prevail.

"Fire protection in this city is at a dangerous level now," said George Lamb, president of the Quincy Firefighters Association. "If these cuts go through, there's going to be a disaster in this city, no question about it."

"Everyone is being asked to sacrifice," replied Tobin. "Little elementary school children are having their schools closed. Every department, every budget of the city of Quincy is being affected."

EASING EXTRACTIONS

Having a tooth extracted? Here's how you can minimize the discomfort that may follow.

Bleedings: Bite on gauze for 30 to 40 minutes. You can change the gauze then and leave it in place longer if you wish. Biting on a moistened tea bag will also help stop bleeding. Some slight oozing may continue for up to 24 hours, but most bleeding should stop within a half hour. For persistent bleeding, always check back with your dentist.

Swellings: Place an ice pack on the face over the extraction site, 15 minutes on, then 15 minutes off, for two to four hours, to minimize swelling.

Pain: Take pain medications only if needed, and only as your dentist directs. Don't rinse the mouth or do anything to disturb the extraction site for 24 hours. After 24 hours, you can rinse with warm salt water, 1/2 teaspoon to the glass.

McCauley Urges Care In Selecting QHA Director

Mayor-elect Francis X. McCauley has written to members of the Quincy Housing Authority urging them to give careful consideration to a choice of successor to retiring Administrator Clement A. O'Brien.

"The individual selected should have experience in the area of public housing who would be an effective administrator so that the high quality of service rendered by Mr. O'Brien will be continued," he said.

McCauley said that as mayor-elect and a former member of the QHA he is very much aware of the significance of public housing, noting that Quincy has more than 2,000 units.

The mayor-elect had high praise for O'Brien, the outgoing administrator.

"He has done an excellent job," he said, "serving with integrity and expertise. His replacement will not be an easy task."

Postal Service To Inaugurate Electronic Mail Jan. 4

A new era in U.S. Mail service will arrive Jan. 4, when the United States Postal Service inaugurates its Electronic Computer Originated Mail (E-COM) service.

According to Boston Postmaster Philip L. Sullivan, the city will be in the forefront of the new service.

E-COM is an electronic mail system for volume mailers that provides paper copy conversion, enveloping and delivery of computer-originated messages of up to two pages. E-COM messages will be delivered within two days provided the messages entered through a Serving Post Office (SPO) are destined for delivery within the area that SPO serves.

Mailers can transmit E-COM messages 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The Boston SPO will service the 010-067 ZIP Code area.

E-COM has been in the planning and development stages for three years, Sullivan said. Two-day delivery will be achieved by allowing the mailer to connect with computers in 25 Serving Post Offices via telecommunications carrier transmission services, the postmaster said.

One of the E-COM Serving Post Offices will be based in the General Mail Facility, 25 Dorchester Avenue, Boston, MA 02205. Other SPOs will be operated in 24 other large metropolitan areas throughout the country.

Inaugural Tidbits

Next Monday morning, Francis Xavier McCauley will raise his right hand and become the 27th man to take his oath as mayor of Quincy.

At age 52, he will be the oldest incoming mayor since Amelio Della Chiesa first took office under Plan A at age 56 in 1958.

Outgoing Mayor Arthur Tobin, now 51, was 47 when he took his oath.

McCAULEY

QUINCY'S YOUNGEST MAYOR was Russell A. Sears who was only 27 when he became the city's fourth mayor in 1898.

Five other youngest mayors: Charles Francis Adams, 29; Thomas S. Burgin, 33; James R. McIntyre, 35; Walter J. Hannon, 40; Joseph J. LaRaia, 43.

McCAULEY will be the 20th Republican mayor and the first since Hannon. Last one before Hannon was Della Chiesa.

MAYORAL LONGEVITY HONORS belong to Della Chiesa who died in retirement in 1975. He served 12 years — four under Plan E and eight under Plan A. There are those in Quincy today who entered the first grade when Della Chiesa was mayor and received their high school graduation diplomas from him while he was still mayor.

DELLA CHIESA

BUT THE MAYORAL champion under a single form of government was Charles A. Ross who served nine years as Plan A chief executive.

WHEN TOBIN LEAVES office Monday, Quincy will have five living former mayors. The other four: Burgin, McIntyre, Hannon and LaRaia. Burgin, now Quincy's "elder statesman" will be 80 in April.

BURGIN

UNDER QUINCY'S ORIGINAL charter, mayors served one year terms. Joseph L. Whiton, 14th man to hold the office, was the first elected to a two-year term. He served from 1917 to 1920.

QUINCY'S FIRST MAYOR was Charles H. Porter who took office Jan. 7, 1889. A Civil War veteran, he was elected in Quincy's very first city election, Dec. 4, 1888.

ONLY ONE OF the past 26 men to occupy the mayor's office at Quincy City Hall has gone on to become a national figure. He was Charles Francis Adams (1896-97) who served as Secretary of the Navy under President Herbert Hoover.

Adams, of course, had a good political name going for him. He was the great-great grandson of President John Adams and great-grandson of President John Quincy Adams.

DEATH HAS TAKEN only one Quincy mayor in office. John L. Miller who became mayor in January, 1941, died Oct. 6, of the same year after having been ill for virtually most of his term. If he had died three days earlier, a special election would have been necessary. He was succeeded by Chester I. Campbell.

THE CLOSEST MAYORAL election in the city's history was between William A. Hodges, a Democrat, and Republican Stephen O. Moxon in 1894. Hodges won by a 28-vote margin out of 3,124 votes cast.

THE FIRST 14 mayors were elected on a partisan basis. Nine were Republicans: Porter, Henry O. Fairbanks, Sears, John O. Hall, Charles M. Bryant, James Thompson, Eugene R. Stone, Campbell and Gustave B. Bates.

Bates, mayor in 1916 and again in 1923-24, first ran as a Socialist in 1899 and lost.

Four of the first 14 mayors were Democrats: Hodges, Adams, Harrison A. Keith and William T. Shea. Shea served from 1908 to 1911. More than a half-century would go by before another Democrat was elected: McIntyre in 1965.

Miller, who died in office, ran under the Taxpayers Party banner.

TWO OF THE incoming City Councillors will hold age honors. Richard J. Koch, Jr., new Councillor at-large is the youngest at 26. And, Ted DeCristofaro, who takes the Ward 2 seat, is the oldest at 58. In between are: Steve McGrath, 28; John Lydon, 40, (who will be council president); Joanne Condon, 41; James Sheets, 46; Leo Kelly, and Patricia Toland, 47, and Joseph LaRaia, 49.

TOLAND WILL BE Quincy's third woman councillor in the city's history. The first was Edna Austin who served from 1944 to 1959. Joanne Condon, now entering her third term was elected in 1977. This will be the first time two women have served together in the City Council.

SOME OF TODAY'S City Council meetings drag on some spectators think. But they should have been around when Quincy first became a city.

Instead of nine, there were 23 councillors. All trying to get a word in.

Burgin Urges More Police, Firefighters

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin called for the addition of 10 men each to the Police and Fire Departments to meet the rising emergency of civil defense in Quincy in his inaugural address to the City Council.

Burgin, starting his third full term as mayor, also called for a careful study of plans for a new $500,000 City Hall to be built on the old Adams Academy property.

The mayor also recommended:

- A new fire station in the Quincy Point industrial area to replace the current wooden one.

- Consolidation of the Park, Cemetery and Forestry Departments under a trained Civil Service supervisor.

- A centralized bookkeeping department under the direct supervision of the City Auditor's office.

City Clerk Emery L. Crane, hospitalized with the gripple, missed his first inaugural since he took office in 1912 so Mayor Burgin was sworn in by Assistant City Clerk Hattiemae Thomas.

Councillor William W. Jenness was chosen president of the City Council after Councillor Christian A. Burkard was summoned from a sick bed to break a deadlock among Jenness, Aldo Della Chiesa and himself.

Harry W. Tirrell, the only city messenger the city had since its incorporation in 1889, was re-elected to a 53rd term.

RAISE AT FORE RIVER

The Independent Union of Fore River Workers, fighting for control with a CIO union, announced pay increases of $2.45 to $5 a week for all workers at the shipyard.

The pay of mechanics was to be hiked to 99 cents an hour, handymen to 71 cents an hour and helpers to 50 cents an hour.

President William H. Norton said that his independent union had signed up more than 6,000 Fore River workers in its bid to become the official bargaining agent for the yard.

SENDOFF PARTY

Three National Guard units from Quincy were given a sendoff party at the Masonic Temple on the eve of their induction into federal service for a year of duty at Camp Edwards.

They were Co. L, 101st Infantry, Capt. Robert S. Knapp, commander; Headquarters Co., Third Battalion, Lt. Edward T. O'Donnell; Headquarters Co., 51st Brigade, Lt. Henry B. Shea.

OFFICERS COMMENDED

Mayor Burgin commended Police Officers Joseph Lind, who had been on the force less than 24 hours, and Henry Pitts for excellent police work and gallantry at a fire in Wollaston.

Lind and Pitts climbed a trellis at 51 Warrn Ave., to rescue Miss Catherine Glynn and then caught George Ballard, 14, as he dropped from a window in the attic where he was trapped by the flames.

QUINCY-ISMS

Firefighters Picket, Sewer, School Problems

By month's end, the dispute had spread to the streets, the courts and the advertising pages of local newspapers.

Firefighters, carrying signs that said, "Cut Fat, Not Fire Safety," picketed City Hall, the union sought an injunction to block the layoffs and demotions, and ads placed by the firefighters cited no layoffs in 11 other departments and $19.6 million in unpaid taxes owed the city.

Meanwhile, the Hospital, Library and Public Employees Union filed unfair labor practices charges against the city claiming that layoffs of other municipal workers were not being conducted on the basis of seniority city-wide as demanded by a state arbitrator.

"The mayor is picking and choosing who will be laid off," said John Keefe, director of the union.

The Tobin Water and Sewer Commission was faring badly before the City Council, which rejected it by a 5-3 vote after a month of hearings and debate.

"The people perceive it for what it's to be," said Councilor McCauley, who led the opposition to the plan. "It's the creation of an additional layer of bureaucracy that will be far more expensive than the present method."

Tobin challenged the councillors to come up with an alternative plan to solve the city's sewer problems and McCauley suggested an ad valorem tax on residents with industry and tax exemptions paying on the basis of use but Tobin said he found nothing new in the suggestion.

The school picture brightened slightly when, through a misunderstanding, it was discovered that the junior college budget of $1.7 million had been included in the school budget. Given the extra $1.7 million, said Supt. Creedon, 25 to 50 teachers' jobs could be saved.

But Creedon had little hope for the future of the Quincy school system under Proposition 2½.

"Five years from now," he told The Quincy Sun in an interview, "the school population will be such that we can consolidate into one high school, possibly in 1986."

"In two years we are talking about cutting the budget from $33 million to something less than $15 million. We go out of business. These are not scare tactics at all. This is the way it is."

The School Committee denied that any "backroom deals" have been made in the vote to close five elementary schools.

The committee had recommended closing the Adams, Beechwood Knoll, Gridley Bryant, Cranch and Pollard Schools but later Creedon substituted the Quincy for the Pollard and some saw the hand of City Councilor Daniel G. Raymond behind the switch.

Radical changes were made in the junior college, which was well on its way to becoming independent of the city tax levy, and Creedon called it a "high risk" plan to save the school.

The career technical programs at the Vo Tech School were added to the junior college curriculum and tuitions were raised to $1,650 for the technical courses and $1,050 for the arts and science courses and a pitch was made for more private endowments.

The long-awaited revaluation of real property in Quincy, which was scheduled to be announced in mid-March, was delayed at least two months by a computer problem in the headquarters of P.R.C. Jacobs in McLean, Va. Assessor Patricia Ceriani said final figures should be set by early July.

Meanwhile, she promised, because of certain options, elderly homeowners in Quincy need not worry about losing their homes under the financial pressure of reval, even though there may be some variation up or down in the total bill.

A proxy battle for control of the $1 billion Multibank Financial Corp., which includes the South Shore Bank, ended in victory for Chairman and President David B. Lynch, who turned back a bid for control by rebel stockholders supporting Abraham D. Gosman.

The North Quincy High School basketball team scored a stunning 54-51 upset of unbeaten Plymouth-Carver to reach the semi-finals of the East Mass

"ALWAYS THE LEADER"

QJC To Offer 7 New Courses

The Quincy Junior College Division of Continuing Education is offering seven new courses during the semester which begins Jan. 25.

According to Dean Richard Mula "We offer new courses when students request new areas of study and when the business and career areas warrant new areas of learning.

"We try to keep abreast of the needs of the business community and to educate people for employment in today's world."

Among the new credit courses are Scientific Programming Fortran; "Making it Count" a television course in data processing concepts and problems; Hotel Restaurant Marketing; Hotel-Restaurant Accounting; Cable Television Technician Training; Arson Investigation; and "It's Everybody's Business", another television broadcasted course. Also, four new non-credit courses will be available: Writing for Public Relations, Principles of Nutrition; Self Assertion and Business Success, and Hypnosis and Self-Hypnosis Seminar.

For more information about these and other Quincy Junior College evening offerings call 786-8741 or 786-8777 for a brochure.

Raymondi In Mayoral Ring, Prayer Service For Reagan

(Cont'd from Page 12)

APRIL

After a month of careful consideration, City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi took the big step and announced that he would be a candidate for mayor, thus becoming the second mayor candidate in the race.

Raymondi's star as a mayoral candidate began to rise early in the month after it was disclosed that Mayor Tobin was likely to be named clerk-magistrate of Quincy District Court succeeding the late Dennis F. Ryan and would not be a candidate for re-election.

Tobin finally pushed his home rule petition creating a revolving account for City Hospital past a reluctant City Council but only after Councillor Joanne Condon switched her vote at the last minute to defeat an amendment that would have limited the mayor's power.

The amendment would have given the Council the right to appoint three members to the Hospital Board of Managers and Tobin had told councillors that he would veto the petition if the amendment were added. The vote on the amendment was 5-4 after which the petition passed, 7-2.

Both Tobin and Condon denied that any deal had been made to switch Condon's vote.

"I finally rationalized that the petition was not going to go through unless it went the way he wanted it," said Condon. "It was a case that if one of us did not change his vote the hospital would not have an enterprise account. I worked so long and so hard for that."

At months end both home rule petitions for enterprise accounts for the hospital and the junior college were before the State Legislature.

The failure to adopt a sewer user charge, which was demanded by the state and federal government's before they would provide funds to update the antiquated sewer system, continued to haunt the city.

Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti disclosed that the city was in imminent danger of losing state and federal funding for construction of the $2.5 million South Quincy-Faxon Park Wastewater Collection and Pumping Facility for lack of the charge plan.

"If the city does not file for a grant within the next month or so, present funding will be distributed and Quincy will be out," said Ricciuti.

Mayor Tobin indicated that he had no plans to submit another sewer user charge proposal to the City Council.

"I've been out there four times with proposals and I haven't got the votes to do anything," he said.

The School Committee continued to wrestle with its financial problem and member John J. Sullivan predicted "a fiscal mess worse than the one the Boston schools are now going through" if the city does not set aside funds to overdue wage hikes for teachers.

The raises were negotiated in 1979 but the City Council refused to fund them. The teachers sued to force payment, which amounted to about $1.4 million.

"If the judge says we have to pay this money -- and he will -- we'd better have it," said Sullivan. "God forbid if the mayor and City Council order us to pay it out of our current funds. If that happens the only thing to do would be to close the schools down."

Elsewhere in the city, the layoff situation was relieved somewhat when some 50 city employees decided to take advantage of sweetened retirement benefit to retire early, thus saving 50 jobs for employees at the bottom of the seniority scale.

Tobin ordered "lenient enforcement" of parking regulations in downtown Quincy for the Easter shopping season in an attempt to boost local business which, merchants complained, was "very slow" due largely to parking restrictions.

Mrs. Marsha Brady Cannon of Squantum was named the first female manager of the Quincy Post Office, with its 175 employees and responsibility for the delivery of more than a million pieces of mail a week.

An Ecumenical Expression of Concern and Prayer Service was held in United First Parish Church in response to the shooting and wounding of President Ronald Reagan, which the Rev. Keith C. Munson called "this inexplicable act of violence."

Mayor Tobin announced that negotiations have been completed for construction of a $17 million, 10-story office building in the city's North Quincy "gateway area", on the site of Menard Chevrolet. Construction was to begin in September.

Deaths during April included:

Paul A. Kennedy, 53, of Wollaston, acting superintendent of Boston schools; Dr. Alfred V. Mahoney, 71, former city health commissioner; Emilino F. Volpini, 86, former owner of the Liberty Granite Co.; his wife, Mrs. Rose M. Volpini, 77, four days later.

George C. Fay, 64, leader in many civic and charitable causes, including the annual Christmas Festival parade; Mrs. Louis C. Meredith, 85, former chairman of the City Hospital Board of Managers; Msgr. Aloysius R. Finn, 94, former pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Merrymount.

MAY

Assessor Chief John P. Comer said that final figures on the revaluation of the city will not be available until September and he had some bad news for taxpayers: In spite of Proposition 2½, their tax bills are probably going up.

The total valuation of the city will probably hit $1.5 billion, he said. Since the current valuation is now $270 million and the state estimates the value at $1.1 billion, the new valuation is likely to produce higher bills for homeowners.

"With Proposition 2½ and all the layoffs and cuts in service it's going to boggle some people's minds to find that their tax bills are going up," said Comer. "It's going to be a long hot summer."

But, he added, "no one in Quincy is going to be put out of his or her home because of taxes."

The long-running housing controversy got its start early in May when Jane Reikard, the executive director of the Rent Grievance Board, was laid off, despite the fact her job was funded in the 1982 budget. She had not been paid for five weeks.

The City Council reluctantly appropriated $1,493 to give her back pay plus vacation pay and councillors took turns reminding their colleagues of her value to the city.

Sunday Dancing Banned, Condo Ordinance Studied

"If we have a vacuum in that office," said Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., "then we will be leaving ourselves open to cries for rent control and that would be an unhealthy thing for this city when we have before us so many proposals for condominium conversion."

"I don't see Jane Reikard's case as any different from any other layoff," said Mayor Tobin, when several councillors showed up at a meeting wearing "We Want Jane" buttons. "How come the Council doesn't have the same concern for the teachers and firefighters who had to be laid off?"

By month's end, the City Council's Ordinance Committee was considering a condominium conversion ordinance to protect tenants who were being forced out of their homes in increasing numbers as more and more apartment houses in Quincy went to condominiums.

"It may not be the best legislation," said Joanne Condon, chairman of the committee, of the hastily drawn up proposal, "but it's a step in the right direction. Without the Rent Grievance Board, there is no protection for anyone."

The issue of Sunday dancing took up more official time and energy in May than many of the important problems facing the city. It began with a request from Quincy Bay Inn for a Sunday entertainment license to allow its patrons and guests to dance.

City Clerk John Gillis, chairman of the License Board, disclosed that as far back as the 1930s the Board had a policy of prohibiting Sunday dancing except for weddings, anniversaries and the like. The board was divided on the subject.

"I'd rather see people dancing then drinking," said Police Chief Francis X. Finn but Building Inspector Allan MacDonald cautioned, "If you give a Sunday license to one, you have to give it to them all."

The License Board postponed its decision on the Quincy Bay Inn request but Councillor Raymond stepped into the breach with a proposal for an ordinance that would ban Sunday dancing except at social functions on fraternal or other halls hired for that purpose.

"I haven't received as many calls on anything as I have on this," said Chief Finn. "Personally, I see no big problem with Sunday dancing, but if that's the will of the people . . ."

The MBTA quietly announced that a section of the Red Line between Andrew and Ashmont stations would be closed for six months while repairs are being made and that 7,100 riders per day would be bused from Ashmont and Mattapan to catch the T at the North Quincy station.

Firefighters rejected an agreement that would have restored 10 laidoff firemen to their jobs in exchange for some contract concessions by the union and the dispute went back to square one with the firefighters pursuing their suit against the city.

The State Department of Revenue handed the School Committee a setback when it ruled that the mayor has the authority to set the school budget bottom line, in effect confirming that the $26.7

budget allowance that Mayor Tobin sent to the City Council could stand. At month's end, the School Committee was undecided whether to go to court in an attempt to overturn the decision.

Marion Andrews retired as director of the Council on Aging and the Council, which had lost its appropriation in the 1982 budget under Proposition 2½, was placed under the control of the Planning Department, which promised no changes in services.

City Councillor James A. Sheets took himself out of the race for mayor, leaving the door open for a run in 1985 or 1987, and it appeared that the 1981 race would settle down to a two-candidate campaign between Francis McCauley and Daniel Raymond.

"The question is not, 'Could I win the election?'" said Sheets, "but 'Is it the best time for me and the city?' I don't feel that right now I could give my whole heart and full time to the job of mayor."

The ongoing problem with an ancient sewer system, compounded by the city's inability to come up with a user charge, threatened to halt construction of the proposed Hancock Court elderly apartment complex when the state withdrew a permit on grounds the sewer system can't handle it.

Deaths during May included:

James H. Jenkins, 84, a member of the Quincy High School class of 1914, the famed "worst" class that produced actress Ruth Gordon and Adm. Giles Stedman; the Rev. Robert W. Lawson, 70, former minister of the Wollaston Unitarian Church.

JUNE

The city readied itself for a fight with the MBTA over the busing of Ashmont and Mattapan riders to North Quincy while their section of the Red Line was undergoing repairs but the dispute came to a halt when the expected problems did not materialize.

City Councillor John J. Quinn warned that residents of North Quincy might get so upset over the expected disruption of their lives that they could form picket lines on the Neponset Bridge to prevent the buses from getting to the North Quincy station.

Quinn and other councillors foresaw long lines of buses to and from Boston tying up traffic on busy Hancock St. for six months while the repairs were being made.

"The MBTA has spent a great deal of time with the Boston neighborhoods but left out Quincy, which is expected to bear the brunt of the impact," complained Rep. Michael W. Morrissey.

Councillor Joanne Condón estimated that as many as 50 buses an hour would be coming over the Neponset bridge.

"It does not make sense in this day of economy and energy problems to be putting people in buses in Boston to come to Quincy to get on trains to go back to Boston," she said.

When the busing program finally got underway, however, the expected traffic jams did not accompany it.

"It's working better than people thought," conceded Condon. "One person even told me that the service is better than ever. There were some delays but there were plenty of trains and the buses were working very smoothly."

Some of the credit for the smooth operation of the buses went to Condon's 13-year-old son, Christopher, who suggested that the buses use the little known Commander Shea Blvd. instead of Hancock St. to reach the North Quincy station.

Everyone who ever got a parking ticket or couldn't find a comfort station in downtown Quincy found a new hero in Sandy Rounseville, (aka Comfortman), mild-mannered proprietor of Beacon Fabrics.

Rounseville offered to pay the parking tickets for anyone who spent $10 in his store and, to emphasize his point, he dressed as Paul Revere and rode a horse down Hancock St. shouting "The meter maids are coming!"

Then he installed portable comfort stations on the sidewalks in front of his store and when the city Health Department, lacking in humor, confiscated them, Rounseville showed his displeasure by dressing as Comfortman and climbing to the roof of his one-story building.

Gypsy moths struck Quincy so hard, particularly in the West Quincy section, that Mayor felt it necessary to dig into the limited amount of funds available to the city to spray trees at a cost of about $1,000 a day for up to five days.

"If you had spent two and a half hours in certain sections of West Quincy this afternoon you would soon come to realize we have a serious problem," said Councillor James A. Sheets. "If you stand silently on Forest Ave. you can hear them eating away on the leaves."

The City Council passed a $66.4 million budget for fiscal 1982, up some $2.8 million from that originally submitted by Mayor Tobin and then everyone held his or her breath to see how much the city would get from the state in the form of financial aid.

"We are looking for more than $3 million in added state aid to fund the deficit in appropriations," said Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. Without the additional state aid, the budget would bring the tax levy over the $56.9 million limit set by Proposition 2½.

A Civil Service hearing officer ruled that Sarah Saccone, an accountant in the auditor's office, who had served as budget coordinator for former Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, had been laid off in June, 1980, for "political reasons," and ordered her reinstated.

Mayor Tobin said the city would appeal.

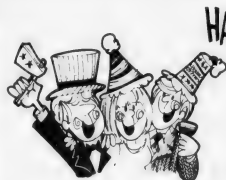

Everyone knew that Proposition 2½ was at the root of the city's financial problems but legislators told a breakfast meeting of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce that it was still too popular to be changed.

"The legislature is not going to make any but technical changes in 2½," said Rep. Thomas F. Brownell. "I don't know one legislator who advocates repeal."

The firefighters lost their bid for a court injunction to prevent 17 layoffs which, they contended, would increase the risk of injury or even death to other firefighters. Superior Court Judge Paul G. Garrity agreed with them, but he added:

"Neither Quincy firefighters nor for that matter any firefighters in the Commonwealth, have either a constitutional, or a statutory or a common law right to so-called non-hazardous working conditions.

"In fact, it almost goes without saying that the working conditions experienced by firefighters in the course of their fire suppression activities are of their nature hazardous."

The License Board settled the problem of Sunday dancing by voting 3-2 to deny such a license to the Quincy Bay Inn, although Chairman Gillis and Chief Finn had some reservations about it.

Finn said he was concerned about veterans organizations that hold dances and "I'll be darned if I want to shut them down." He said he thought the board should review the topic and talk it over.

Deaths during June included: Dr. George D. Dalton, 83, retired chief of obstetrics at City Hospital; J. Girard White, 73, former city councillor and director of the Quincy Housing Authority.

JULY

The proposed East-West Connector, the controversial roadway designed to connect Granite St. and Revere Rd. by going under Hancock St., dominated the news through July.

Early in the month it was disclosed that a new route had been proposed, one that would go right through the middle of the building that had been vacated by Sears Roebuck in the fall of 1980.

It was hoped that the new route, which would displace only 13 current business establishments and preserve Revere Rd. as a surface connector to Hancock St., would overcome the objections of merchants.

But one major flaw remained. The mall that was proposed for the John Hancock Parking Area, one of the reasons for construction of the connector, still could not be guaranteed by the developer.

Mayor Tobin thought the road should come before the mall.

"The mall is a long range plan now," he said. "When you're dealing with retailers, it's difficult to project needs five years down the line. We've got to get the road and do a few other things before we can generate enthusiasm."

A meeting at the Neighborhood Club among city officials and businessmen, designed to promote the new route, indicated that it would meet with considerably less hostility.

"There is less opposition than ever before," said Bernard Reisberg, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, "but there are still things that have to be proven to us."

"The new plan makes better sense than the old one," said Charles Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank and chairman of Progress Downtown Quincy.

"I wish they wouldn't call it a connector," he added. "It's an unfortunate choice of terms. A connector means something that connects two points and bypasses what is between. I would rather see it called 'the Business District Exit.'"

Just prior to a hearing by the State Department of Public Works on the connector, the QCBPA voted 24-9 against it. However, a telephone poll of absent members showed 18-8 in favor and PDQ went for it overwhelmingly, 14-0.

"That's not bad," said Tobin, who viewed the connector as an absolute necessity for the future of downtown Quincy. "I expected worse than that from what I have been hearing."

The DPW hearing packed the City Hall Council chamber with upwards of 150 people, who appeared to be equally divided for and against the state and federally funded project.

"If Quincy Center is to survive, we must build that road," said Planning Director James Lydon. "Our concern must not be for the 10 businesses that must be relocated. Our commitment must be for the betterment of the entire community."

"Surgery of the main artery in a business area is a very serious thing," said Sumner Cohen of Kincaide's. "It can easily lead to the death of an area. The road would affect 60 to 80 businesses, not just the 10 that would be dislocated."

When the hearing ended, the matter rested in the hands of the state government.

Another hearing in the Council Chamber a few days earlier also drew a crowd of more than 150 people, most of them to protest a proposal to raise fares on the financially strapped transit system in order to prevent a November shutdown.

Fares at the Wollaston and North Quincy stations would go from $1 inbound and 50 cents outbound to 75 cents each way; at the Quincy station from $1 inbound and 50 cents outbound to $1.50 inbound and 75 cents outbound, a total of $2.25.

Those at the hearing didn't like the fare hike but seemed to be resigned that it was inevitable. It was. It went into effect Aug. 1.

Gov. Edward J. King came to Quincy to sign the bills that made City Hospital and Quincy Junior College independent of the city budget by giving them revolving enterprise accounts of their own.

"I am happy to recognize people who are helping themselves and their city," said the governor. "What Proposition 2½ is saying is let's have more free enterprise like this for the cities and towns."

Beth Strenge, a 21-year-old Eastern Nazarene senior from Upper Darby, Pa., who was accepted to compete in beauty contests twice before but "chickened out" each time, finally got up the nerve and was chosen Miss Quincy Bay of 1981.

Shore."

A minor "conflict of interest" furor was raised when it was discovered that four relatives of School Committee members were among 16 young people hired by the School Department for summer work.

Mayor Tobin withheld the pay ($3.95 an hour) of all 16 pending a decision by City Solicitor Robert Fleming but payment was made a couple of days later and the affair quickly blew over.

Tobin Out Of Mayoral Race, Reval Figures Delayed

The long-awaited cable television contract between the city and Quincy Cablesystems was signed and the same day workmen began attaching cable to poles in the Quincy Point section, a job that was to continue until June, 1982.

Judge Albert Kramer, presiding justice of Quincy District Court, was released from Mass General Hospital after undergoing triple bypass heart surgery and was expected back on the bench in October.

The School Committee moved to sue Mayor Tobin to force him to send its $28.4 million budget to the City Council in place of his estimated $26.7 million recommendation, which he called a "spending allowance."

Residents of the School and Granite Sts. areas of Southwest Quincy organized patrols to keep overnight fire watch on the neighborhood where an arsonist was believed to have started as many as four fires in one week.

Deaths in July included:

Lucy Spicer, 77, retired advertising manager of the Patriot Ledger; William K. Robertson, 60, sports cartoonist; John G. Campbell, 49, a director of Quincy Youth Hockey; and Edmund T. Grogan, 65, owner of Grogan Business Machines, Inc.

AUGUST

The deadline passed for filing to run in the September municipal preliminary election and only two candidates -- Francis X. McCauley and Daniel G. Raymond -- filed papers for mayor, ruling out the possibility of a primary for that post.

A potential third candidate, John T. Isbister, who had taken out nomination papers, failed to return them.

Passage of the deadline meant that for the first time in 16 years Mayor Tobin who was still awaiting possible appointment as clerk-magistrate at Quincy District Court, would not be a candidate for some city or state office. However, he refused to rule himself out of the political arena for good.

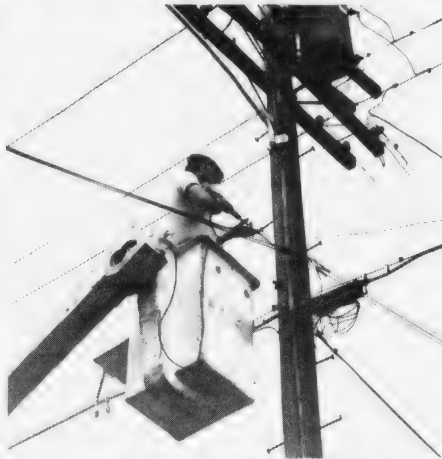

"My future may be in the judiciary," he said, "but I don't rule out elective or appointive office on a state or local level in the future. I have a lot to offer."

School discipline became news when Committee Member Mary Collins proposed a new policy for the schools under which students would be expelled from high school if they have four suspensions a year.

Collins noted that, due to Proposition 2½, the staff of the Quincy schools has been reduced by one-third, which means larger classes and less supervision by teachers.

"My information," she said, "clearly indicates that at present we have a significant enough number of students who are suspended four or more times. I definitely feel that we have tolerated too much from these students."

The School Committee filed another law suit against Mayor Tobin over his refusal to send their budget proposal, which was WORKMAN John Mansur installs guide wire on pole at Elm and South Walnut Sts., Quincy Point, in July, in first physical step to bringing cable TV to Quincy.

$1.7 million higher than his, to the City Council.

If the School Committee wins, said Tobin, "the worst the court can do is direct that the budget be submitted to the Council. Then it would be up to the Council to decide which city department to take the money from since there are no additional funds."

"You'd be taking from Peter to pay Paul."

School children were threatened by cuts in another budget when the MDC announced that, in order to save, $220,000, it was dropping the 55 crossing guards who since the late 1960s had been helping the youngsters across the busiest streets in its jurisdiction.

One of the crossings was at Quincy Shore Drive and Squanto Rd., the deadliest intersection in the city and Mrs. Carol Horn of Merrymount, among others, was seriously considering keeping her fifth grade son out of school, she was that concerned.

"There is no way I'll let my son cross that street by himself," she told The Quincy Sun. "Six people have been killed on that stretch of road this year. I would consider keeping my son out of school, if that's what it takes to get action."

Police budget cuts struck the Canine Corps when its three members -- Baron, Midnight and Moxie -- were laid off by Chief Finn, raising a storm of protests from citizens and police officers alike.

"We have to choose men over dogs," said Finn. "It's as simple as that. Teachers, firefighters and policemen have been laid off and there was nowhere the hue and cry that we've had over three shepherds."

Announcement of new revaluation figures for the city was postponed again, this time until sometime in October, by another computer breakdown at the headquarters of P.R.C. Jacobs in McLean, Va.

"The delay has been caused," said Chief Assessor John P. Comer, "by a failure in the company's computerized system which resulted in the destruction of a file containing one complete category of values for residential properties."

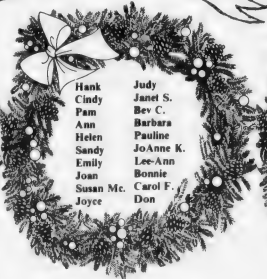

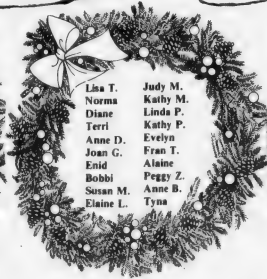

Basically what happened, he added, was that "someone pushed the wrong button on the computer and erased the tape." As a result, he added, the setting of the 1982 tax rate would be delayed until some time in November.

A move was underway to save

Video Games, Plasmatics Cause License Board Furor

the Norfolk County Recreational Facility (the old Wollaston Golf Club), a money-losing operation that was making legislators from elsewhere in the county unhappy, particularly since Quincy refused to issue it a liquor license to help recoup.

An attempt was being made by some legislators to sell the deficit-ridden facility and back up the sale proposal with a referendum in the 1982 state election.

Supporters, however, came back with another try to obtain a liquor license from the reluctant Quincy License Board and County Planning Director John C. Nourse circulated an economic analysis showing the facility can run with no deficit in fiscal 1982.

An unidentified man called the Thomas Crane Public Library and warned: "There's a bomb in the men's room behind the toilet." There was something there and the library was evacuated for two hours and 10 minutes but the bomb turned out to be a fake.

Deaths during August included Frances M. Greer, 43, accident room supervisor at City Hospital.

SEPTEMBER

Those video games that have replaced pinball machines in the affections of young and old stirred up the storm of the month in September.

It started quietly -- too quietly, some thought -- when the License Board granted to Quincy Video World, Inc., a license to operate an 80-machine amusement center in the store occupied by the Blazing Salads Restaurant at 1368 Hancock St.

Shareholders in the company were Charles L. Shea, former city auditor and currently acting purchasing agent, and Dennis E. Harrington, assistant city solicitor, also Andrew D. Holland of North Quincy, Shea's brother-in-law.

Some people were upset because the License Board meeting was held on the day after Labor Day, traditionally a day when most folks are recovering from the long weekend, and requests for a one week continuance were denied.

"If we're going to go for one (an amusement center), I'd rather Charlie Shea get the first whack at it," said Police Chief Francis X. Finn, a member of the board.

The issue raised such a furor, however, that it was back before the License Board the following week for reconsideration, based on the technicality that the address had been incorrectly advertised as 1358 Hancock St.

The Board then voted it down while some 125 people who jammed the City Council Chamber applauded. But it didn't end there.

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi requested a study of the possibility of doing away with the License Board, and substituting one that would include seven elected members plus two from the Council and the School Committee.

The City Council also moved to consider ordinances that would limit video-pinball licenses to four per establishment and even prohibit outright video centers in the city.

Joseph J. LaRaia, veteran politician, and Richard J. Koch Jr., a newcomer, were the big winners in the preliminary city election, with LaRaia topping the ticket for City Council with 7,044 votes and Koch not far behind with 6,816.

Also qualifying to run for the Council at large in the general election were Patricia Toland, Timothy P. Cahill, John J. Quinn, and William J. O'Hare.

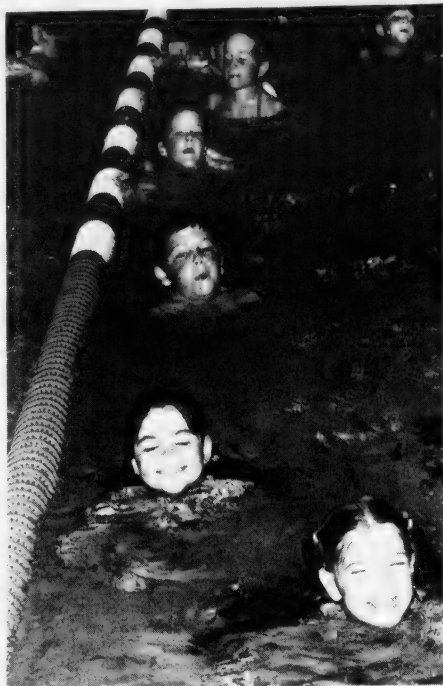

Earning a spot on the November ballot for School Committee were incumbents Mary Collins, Joan Picard, John J. Sullivan, Patrick J. Conroy Jr., Nicholas G. Verenis and James J. O'Brien.

Theodore P. DeCristofaro overwhelmed Joseph F. Cortese by a 3-1 margin in the Ward 2 Council preliminary that served to eliminate the third candidate, John H. McDuff Jr.

The condominium conversion controversy blew up again when it was announced that Executive House, one of the largest apartment buildings in the city, was planning to go condo.

"People are calling me," said Joseph O'Brien, president of the Executive House Tenants Association. "They are crying. They are wondering what they are going to do."

The City Council met in special session to pass a moratorium on condo conversion but it failed after City Solicitor Robert Fleming told councillors that the ordinance would be "blatantly illegal" and in conflict with the Massachusetts Constitution.

Furthermore, he said, members of the Council might possibly be held personally responsible for any losses incurred by apartment house landlords if the moratorium passed.

It wound up with Council President Leo J. Kelly appointing a special committee of two landlords, two tenants and two councillors to study and propose condominium conversion regulations for the city.

Meanwhile, tenants of Executive House, which was built in the early 1960s under a Chapter 121A tax break, filed suit to block its conversion to condos.

An attempt to bring the controversial rock group the Plasmatics, whose star, Wendy O. Williams, smashes TV sets on stage, was blocked by the License Board, which suspended the Strand's license for safety violations and failure to obtain a license for a previous show.

The Quincy Education Association voted to relax its "work to rule" mandate for teachers and, because of it, Mayor Tobin asked the City Council for $191,000 out of state reimbursements to rehire 10 laid off teachers.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon announced that, in spite of a hefty tuition hike, enrollment at Quincy Junior College was up 13 per cent over the previous year and the school apparently had turned the corner toward becoming a viable community college.

The intersection of Hancock and Cliveden Sts. in downtown Quincy was rededicated as Jason A. Feldman Square in honor of the longtime proprietor of Jason's Music and Luggage Shop who died in 1980.

Rocky Greene, a 27-year-old runner from Brunswick, Maine, won the second annual City of Presidents Marathon in 2:29.6 and Nancy Babine-Kucinski of Marshfield won the women's division in 3:22.56.

Deaths during September included:

Jay Sumner Swingle, 81, former owner of several Quincy granite quarries; Anna Ricciuti, 82, mother of Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti; John H. Powers, 78, who once operated the newsstand in the South Shore Bank building.

George J. Lynch, 66, of Quincy, Boston's commissioner of Veterans Services; Bror Tamm, 91, who designed the yachts Yankee and Whirlwind to compete for America's Cup in the early 30s; Catherine Restuccia, 98, longtime owner of the Granite City Ice Cream Co.

OCTOBER

Chief Assessor John P. Comer confirmed a fact of economic life that some people knew but most refused to believe — property taxes will be going up for most Quincy residents.

"Some people have the understanding," he told the City Council during a command performance, "that we are going into revaluation but it doesn't matter because we have Proposition 2 1/2 so tax bills are going down."

"This is not so," Residential properties in Quincy, currently assessed at 10 to 15 per cent of true market value, probably will have to pay more in total tax bills, he said, while business and industry, which have been assessed at a higher rate, probably will pay less.

When the Quincy tax levy gets down to $37 million, as specified by Proposition 2 1/2, in about three years, he said, "homeowners will appreciate a tax reduction. But they won't see it the first year."

Comer told the Council that, due to revaluation snafus, the tax rate for fiscal 1982 probably won't be set until after the first of the year, which is why it was important for the city to get state approval to send out estimated tax bills for the first half.

A few days later, Gov. Edward J. King signed legislation permitting the 102 cities and towns that have not completed the revaluation process to send out estimated bills in their first mailing, then make the adjustment in the second mailing in May.

The City Council settled — well, almost settled — the matter of video game centers by passing an ordinance limiting to four the number of video game and pinball machine licenses that may be issued to one location.

But the attorney for Charles L. Shea and Dennis E. Harrington, the city officials who were first issued, then denied a license for an 80-machine video game center, said his clients do not recognize the denial of the license and thus may be outside the scope of the ordinance.

Earlier, Shea said he does not plan to resign as acting city purchasing agent nor does he plan to sue the city in the dispute.

"I'm not going to resign," he said. "If someone wants to fire me they can. I don't think just because I'm a city official I am supposed to be a second class citizen."

Shea's resignation had been called for by Councillor Daniel G. Raymond and Joseph J. LaRaia, who also demanded that Harrington resign his post as assistant city solicitor.

"It should be one or the other — the license or the job," said LaRaia. "They owe it to the city of Quincy if they are true employees that have dedication and the interest of the city first."

The Tobin administration finally bowed to Civil Service and the courts and reinstated Sarah Saccone, the accountant who was ousted from her job in the auditor's office June 27, 1980, with back pay totaling between $3,000 and $4,000.

Acting Auditor William Grindlay told the City Council that when he took over "the department was behind in posting entries. I feel there should be several accountants in the office. I would have no objection to her in the job."

The controversy over the new school discipline rules proposed by School Committee Member Mary Collins ended when City Solicitor Robert Fleming gave tentative approval to them, provided students are given due process of law.

Mayor Tobin announced that final approval had been given for the State Department of Education to move into the new Quincy Center Plaza, the 10-story office building that was being built to house also the headquarters of the Stop and Shop Co.

"This is a great day for the city," said Tobin. "It is quite an accomplishment to have a new 10-story building fully occupied even before it is finished."

Sandy Rounseville (aka Comfortman), who was becoming the city's leading critic of parking meters, was back again with an 800-pound gravestone in front of his store on Hancock St. in memory of all the stores that have left downtown Quincy.

The epitaph read: "35 stores passed away nearby, let me tell you how and why, parking meters did it in the fullness of time, as death came on us, for lack of a dime."

Vandals did $27,000 worth of damage at the Furnace Brook Golf Club, destroying 11 of the club's 12 golf carts, tearing up the fifth green so badly that it was unplayable, and forcing cancellation of the Boston Police Golf Tournament.

The Rev. Dr. Stephen Nease, who grew up in Quincy while his father, the Rev. Dr. Floyd Nease, was president of Eastern Nazarene College, was inaugurated as president of ENC himself.

McIntyre Mall, that bit of greenery between City Hall and the MBTA station, was dedicated to the memory of Police Capt. William F. McIntyre. The area was once part of his beat during the 40 years he served on the Quincy Police Department.

The first busload of tourists, 47 senior citizens from Concord, N.H., part of a campaign to bring bus tours to Norfolk County, arrived to receive a rousing reception from members of the Quincy Historical Society.

Deaths during October included:

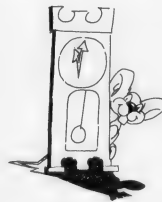

Helen M. McDonnell, 67, former candidate for the City Council and a Babe Ruth League organizer; Dr. Joseph W. Powers, 78, surgeon for the Disabled American Veterans of Massachusetts; Edmund F. Genereau, 72, retired veterans services director.

McCauley By Landslide, LaRaia, Collins Top Ticket

(Cont'd from Page 21)

Quincy in a landslide victory over Councillor Daniel G. Raymond.

The count was McCauley 18,037, Raymond 12,222.

The 24-year career of John J. Quinn on the City Council was ended when School Committee-woman Patricia Toland edged him by 382 votes in his bid for a 13th term. He held office longer than any other councillor in the city's history.

Nicholas C. Verenis, who was laid off as a social studies teacher at North Quincy High School in June, upset John J. Sullivan by 589 votes as the latter sought his third term on the School Committee.

However, Sullivan was all but assured a return to his seat in January after Toland resigns to move on to the Council and a successor is chosen by vote of the Council and the School Committee.

The top vote-getter among the Council candidates was Joseph J. LaRaia, who got 17,460 votes as he continued his comeback from his 1977 defeat for mayor.

Mayor-elect McCauley told a victory party at the Neighborhood Club that "there has been too much politics in this city for the past few years. This is an opportunity to lead the city in a new direction."

Raymond, in a graceful concession move, visited McCauley's victory party and pledged his cooperation "to move the city forward. We'll do everything to make sure this administration is a success."

Others elected were: LaRaia, Toland and Richard J. Koch Jr., councillors at large; Leo J. Kelly, Ward 1; Theodore P. DeCristofaro, Ward 2; John J. Lydon Jr., Ward 3; James A. Sheets, Ward 4; Stephen J. McGrath, Ward 5; Joanne Condon, Ward 6; Mary Collins, Joan Picard and Verenis, School Committee.

One of Mayor-elect McCauley's first moves was to call Planning

Director James Lydon and ask that no further work be done on the East-West Connector, that as far as he was concerned the controversial project in downtown Quincy was dead.

Chief Assessor John P. Comer told the Quincy Taxpayers Association that he may have to ask for police protection when revaluation impact notices go into the mail and homeowners find out how much their valuations are going to increase.

Later he said he was only half-joking.

"I know what happened in 1973 when we equalized valuations under Mayor Walter Hannon," he said. "My life was threatened. I had the police around my house for two days. My kids had to get protection to go to school. That's nothing to what's going to happen now."

The School Committee was considering six reorganization plans, including ones that would close six schools and redistrict the city, another that would do away with junior high schools, and a third that would introduce the "middle school" concept.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon told the School Committee that the public schools had done more than their share in fiscal 1982 to help the city meet the budget cutting mandate of Proposition 2½.

Actually, he said, the schools suffered the only budget cuts, 67 per cent as opposed to 33 per cent in the city budget, and the cuts in other departments were more than made up by $3.7 million in additional state aid.

"The only place where a cut stands across the board is the Quincy public school system," he said. "I suggest we have done our job for 1981-82."

The City Council adopted an official song for the city -- a folk song called "Quincy" -- words and music by the Rev. David D'Olimpio, who sang it for the councillors and accompanied himself on the guitar.

City Clerk John Gillis was handed the extra job of collecting parking fines under a new state law that lifted the responsibility from the district court to the city, and gave the city all the money instead of just half.

Keel was laid at the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard for a $60 million coal-fired, coal-carrying ship, the first such vessel to be built in the United States in 25 years, designed to transport coal to generating plants along the eastern seaboard.

Radio station WJDA and producer Roy Lind won a national award from United Press International for its outstanding documentary, "A Bucketful of Gold and Silk", the homecoming of Olympic hockey star Dave Silk in Scituate.

North Quincy's Joe Dudek, who scored three touchdowns to beat Quincy in their Thanksgiving Day game a year ago, scored only one this time but it was enough to produce a 7-0 win for the Raiders, their 21st in the 49-game series.

The North girls did every bit as well as the boys, winning their second straight Eastern Mass Division 2 cross-country championship in Franklin Park.

Deaths during November included: Donald M. Jackson, 67, noted Quincy lawyer; Reno B. Marini, 66, former owner of Lawrence Pharmacy.

DECEMBER

Mayor-elect Francis X. McCauley gave the people of Quincy a glimpse of the future when he announced the first 12 members of his administration team -- some old faces, some new.

One of them, Robert E. Foy III, had served as city treasurer through the administrations of three mayors; and two of them, Paul Anderson and Elmer Fagerlund, had previously held their posts as public works commissioner and assessor respectively.

The others were Peter M. Kenney, executive secretary; William B. Golden, solicitor; Arthur W. Foley, administrative assistant; Barry Welch, recreation director; Robert F. Denvir Jr., purchasing agent; Dean Nicastro, assistant solicitor; William E. Hockey, legal counsel.

Eleanor M. Reidy was named personal secretary and Nancy A. Donofrio secretary.

McCauley, who was due to take over the reins of city government Jan. 4, was highly critical of a two year agreement signed between the city and the police and fire unions which included a "no layoff" clause until after June 30 and a "negotiated layoff" clause thereafter.

"Since salaries comprise the greatest portion of the city budget," said McCauley, "the implementation of contracts restricting the layoff of employees will make it difficult if not impossible to comply with the mandate of Proposition 2½."

Mayor Tobin explained that the "no layoff" clause would not affect McCauley's first budget in fiscal 1983 and that the city had been ordered by the State Labor Relations Board to negotiate on further layoffs as part of the standard operating procedure.

Nevertheless, when it came time for the Council to appropriate $229,500 and $178,384 to fund the pay raises, McCauley cast the lone dissenting vote.

"We have funds to pay this raise but we're adding a total of $820,000 to next year's budget by the action the Council took tonight," said the mayor-elect. "Every dollar that goes in there has to come out somewhere else."

The McGrath committee came in with its recommendations for a condominium conversion ordinance containing what Chairman Stephen J. McGrath called a compromise between the tenant and landlord factions on the committee.

"The vacancy rate was left out as a concession by the tenants," said McGrath. "In return the landlords made the concession of giving nine months notice to tenants and two years notice to the elderly and the handicapped."

But apparently it was not enough of a compromise to suit Roger Lyons, one of the landlords' representatives on the committee.

"We wish to inform the public that the report as submitted to the City Council not only does not have our endorsement but we are utterly opposed to it," he said. "There is no way I can accept the proposal as changed. It is not what we agreed to."

"If he is saying that I made changes after we finished the report," said McGrath, "I absolutely deny it and I resent the implication. If he didn't understand what he was signing he should not have affixed his signature."

The City Council passed a home rule petition asking the state legislature for permission to have a condo conversion ordinance and it also passed a resolution saying that if Quincy were permitted to have one, the McGrath proposal was the one they wanted.

The Council approved a new schedule of parking fines under which it would cost motorists $10 to park illegally in certain critical business areas of Quincy. It represented an increase of $8, or some 400 per cent, in some areas.

At the next meeting, however, it was discovered that a newly adopted state law forbade the city from assessing fines higher than $5 for the first three tickets so the numbers were dutifully rolled back.

The first heavy snowfall of the winter struck Quincy on a weekend, and the Department of Public Works used up $60,000, roughly half of its snow budget, to clear the streets.

"We had a severe problem with parked cars," said Commissioner James J. Ricciuti. He added that the snow removal process might have been faster and cheaper with more cooperation from the public, many of whom probably voted for the budget-cutting Proposition 2½.

The City Council, urged on by members of the humane society, passed a home rule petition that would permit the dog officer to keep stray dogs out of the hands of medical experimenters, even though the animal pound derived its income from such sales.

James J. Collins, chairman of the Norfolk County commissioners, announced that income from the deficit-ridden Wollaston Recreational Facility for the past season was $238,817, up 33 per cent over the previous year.

"Operating deficits at Wollaston are a thing of the past," he said.

Deaths during December included: John J. Bagwell, 75, past commander of the Quincy Veterans Council; John J. Lydon Sr., 71, father of the city councillor; Mary Cincotta, 83, former owner of a Wollaston variety store.

North Icemen Bow To Weymouth N., 3-2

The North Quincy hockey team, which turned in one of its better performances Saturday before bowing to undefeated Weymouth North, 3-2, took a 1-3 record into yesterday's (Wednesday) game against Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

The Raiders will host Waltham

Saturday at 7:50 at the Youth Arena and next Wednesday will be home to Brockton at 6:40.

North gave unbeaten Weymouth North all it could handle Saturday, but the Maroons won it on a goal with 8:15 to go in the game.

Scott Messina scored both goals for the Raiders.

Earlier in the week North had absorbed an 8-1 walloping at the hands of Brookline, rated the team to beat in the Suburban League this year. Messina had the only North goal.

In last week's story on the North hockey team defenseman Rick Reardon was listed as Rich Riordan.

Quincy Edges Waltham, 5-4

The Quincy hockey team sought its second win yesterday (Wednesday) against Weymouth South and Saturday will play Suburban League power Brookline at 7:30 p.m. at the Watertown rink.

The Presidents, with Mark Lamie, who had been called up from the junior varsity, scoring the winning goal with 7:05 left in the game, edged Waltham, 5-4, last week for their first win.

Waltham built up a 3-0 lead in the first period but Frank Reynolds, Rich Monahan, another jayvee recruit, and Mike Chenette scored within a span of 1:53 in the second period to tie the score.

Kevin Craig, who had two assists, put Quincy ahead 2:20 into the third period but Waltham tied it up, setting the stage for Lamie's winning goal.

Quincy didn't fare as well last Saturday as it absorbed a 10-3 walloping at the hands of Brockton.

• Executive Hockey League

Dayce's, Adams, Beau's Win

Jerry Ionalli scored unassisted in the third period to give Dayce's Place a 3-2 victory over Luke's Lounge in Executive League action.

Jack Powers and Joe Casey had the other goals and Kevin Lewis and Doug McLean had assists. For Luke's John McNeil and Don Costa had the goals and Al McKay had an assist.

Paul O'Brien scored twice and assisted on two other goals as Adams Sports topped Budget Rent-A-Car, 5-1. Bob Murray, Bob Simonelli and Dennis O'Connell scored the other goals. O'Connell, Murray, Bill Hanson and Simonelli had one assist each. Steve Marini scored for Budget with Mike Haynes and Jim Horner assisting.

Steve Dymant had a hat trick to spark Beau's Place over

Washington Tap, 9-3. Jack Hurley had two goals and Jack Aldred, Charlie Chambers, Mark Matanues and Ken Gardiner one each. Chambers had three assists, Don Bonito two and Jim Lawrence, Matanues, Hurley and Bob Carroll one each. Bill Sweeney, Chet Brunstrom and Ralph Gibbs scored for the Tap with assists for Bernie Toland, Paul Hannon and John Emmott.

B.C.'s Sugar Bowl Win 'Thrill Of A Lifetime'

John Joyce of West Quincy, a 6-foot-4, 220-pound reserve lineman, returned from New Orleans with many tales of Boston College's upset 19-13 victory over undefeated and untied Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Day.

"It was the thrill of a lifetime," said Joyce, a sophomore who failed to see action in the game.

The most glorious sight, he said, was Eagle halfback Charlie O'Rourke sprinting around left end for the winning score on a 24-yard run with less than two minutes remaining in the game.

QUINCY TOPS TRADE

Glenn (Shorty) Fleischer, the little ambidextrous forward, tallied 15 points to lead the Quincy High School basketball team to a 34-23 victory over Quincy Trade for its fifth straight win.

The Quincy lineup: Fleischer, Pena, Caddy, McInnes, forwards; Keating, Nankin, centers; Saldi, Mathieson, Sjostrom, guards.

The Quincy Trade lineup: Papile, Cummings, Scanlan, Duggan, forwards; Donovan, Osborne, centers; Gramazio, Pettiti, Janeritino, Barsella, guards.

NORTH COMES FROM BEHIND

Diminutive Bud Wood threw in his only basket of the game in the last minutes and it provided the winning margin as the North Quincy High School basketball team came from behind to nip Braintree, 31-29.

A total of 37 personals and three technical fouls, including one on Raider Coach Jack Mullarkey in the last minute, were called in what was termed the wildest game ever played in the North Quincy gym.

The North Quincy lineup: Johnson, Wood, Swindler, Jones, forwards; Hibbard, Peden, centers; Cooke, Smith, guards.

WALPOLE BLANKS QUINCY

Ed Malloy turned in one of the finest goaltending performances of the season but the Quincy High School hockey team bowed to Walpole, 1-0, and dropped five points off the pace in the Bay State League.

Walpole's George Geehan took a pass from Bill Jurgelevich at 2:54 of the second period to net the only goal of the game to spoil Malloy's fine performance.

The Quincy lineup: Malloy, goal; Staples, Powers, defense; Libertine, Carey, Gullickson, forwards; McKenna, Steeth, Condos, Donovan, spares.

GERMAINE IN NO CONTEST

Ted Germaine, the bad boy from South Boston, got too rough with Frank Beel of the Navy, who returned the compliment, so their wrestling match at Quincy Arena was declared "no contest."

Dr. John (Dropkick) Murphy, a former Alabama football star who operates a rest home in Acton, fought to a draw with Marvin Jones of Texas in another bout on promoter Newman Savage's card.

HAT TRICK FOR ACKER

Earl Acker had the three-goal hat trick to lead the Wollaston Barons to a 6-2 victory over the Randolph Maple Leafs in a South Shore Hockey League game at the Rockland Rink.

The Wollaston lineup included Laban Whittaker in goal, the Acker brothers, Earl and Harold, Ronnie Sleeth, John Schmitz and Franny Page.

ALLEN, ELLIS STAR

Phyllis Allen and Marion Ellis scored 23 of their team's 25 points in leading Wollaston Methodist to a 25-12 victory over Sacred Heart in a Girls' Church League contest.

BOSTON STADIUM

Sen. Robert L. Lee of Charlestown, back from the Sugar Bowl game, filed a bill to permit Boston to borrow $1 million to build a 100,000-seat municipal stadium to be called the Bean Bowl.

BACCARI SHOOT'S HIGH

Dom Baccari shot a 96 for high score as Coach Jimmy LeCain's Quincy High School rifle team recorded a close 459-457 victory over the Alumni in a New Year's Day meet at the new range.

SPORTS BITS '41

Smith's 12 points were to no avail as the Woonsocket YMCA basketball team dropped the Quincy Y, 47-30. . . Bill Cowley, the NHL's leading scorer, and Roy Conacher, his wingman, were sidelined with injuries as the Boston Bruins tied the Chicago Black Hawks, 2-2, in overtime. . . Ernie Caddy scored seven points to lead the Quincy High basketball team to a 26-22 win over Arlington. . . Charlie O'Rourke, the hero of Boston College's Sugar Bowl victory, said he plans to talk business with the Chicago Bears of the NFL. . . With Al Papile scoring a game-high eight points, the Quincy Trade School basketball team romped over St. Patrick's of Watertown, 42-13, in the Quincy High gym. . . Tom Underwood of the Atlantic Memorial team was the first Church League player to top 100 points with 14 in a victory over Beth Israel. . . Billy Bartel, a former amateur boxing champ, was named boxing instructor at the Quincy YMCA.

Hand Champs First Loss Raiderettes Breeze By Newton For 5th Straight

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy girls' basketball coach Paul Bregoli lost seven of his first nine players from last year's team that made the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the first time ever.

But, despite youth and inexperience, the Raiderettes are having a tremendous season and, following Monday's big 46-33 win over defending Suburban League and state champion Newton North, they were enjoying a 5-0 record (3-0 in the league).

The North girls played Mt. St. Joseph in a non-league game Tuesday, yesterday (Wednesday) they played at Waltham and next Tuesday will play at Quincy at 3:30.

In handing Newton its first loss Monday, the Raiderettes played tenacious defense and held the lady Tigers to two points in the first period. Chris Choukas scored consistently from underneath as North took a 13-2 lead.

In the second quarter Newton moved to within four, 18-14, but the North girls came back to take a 25-14 lead at the intermission.

North missed many shots from underneath in the third quarter and Debbie Quinn, rated one of the finest players in the state, began to hit for Newton, which cut the gap to 33-27 after three periods.

Karen Bridges hit on several long baskets to pull the Raiderettes away again and Joanne Runge hit four straight key foul shots as North gradually pulled safely away.

"This was just a superb win for us," Bregoli said. "The girls played tremendous defense, rebounded well again and shot well except for the third quarter. This win will give us a tremendous boost."

Choukas scored 15 points for North, Runge had 14 and Bridges nine. Quinn was the whole offense for Newton, scoring 23 points.

Senior Tri-Captain JoAnn Runge (5-8) is a three-year starter and the Raiderettes' top player. She has been the leading scorer in early games, is an excellent passer, plays strong defense and rebounds well.

Senior Tri-Captain Tricia Meehan (5-2½) is the team's sparkplug and makes the team go. She is tenacious on defense, a fine passer and the point guard. She handles the ball well, is a hard worker and also is a much improved shooter.

Senior Tri-Capt. Mary Ellen Timmins (5-9) is a spot starter, a good shooter with a strong move to the basket. She rebounds and runs well.

Simone Koch (5-4), is a senior guard and one of the most improved players on the squad. She was the junior varsity's leading scorer last year and saw some varsity action. An excellent shooter, she handles the ball well.

Karen Bridges (6-1), junior center, is the most improved player on the team. She has a nice inside move and has a good soft touch from outside.

Chris Choukas (5-11), junior forward, is a transfer, a good rebounder and has a strong inside game. She has improved vastly on defense and also plays at center.

Maureen McAlaney (5-4), senior guard, is a spot starter and started the first three games when Meehan was recovering from an injury. She is the best defensive player on the team and picks up the tempo when she is in the lineup.

Mary Holleran (5-7), sophomore forward, is seeing considerable varsity playing time. A good shooter, she is an aggressive rebounder and rapidly improving on defense.

Janet Petkun (5-8), senior forward is the best defensive forward on the club, a good rebounder and aggressive. She played mostly junior varsity last season.

Karen Boutlier (5-0), junior guard, is quick and excellent ball handler. She is a good defensive player and will see more action as the season progresses.

Joanna Keenan (5-3), junior guard, is a much improved player, is quick and a good ball handler. She is strong on defense and a good shooter.

Chris Donovan (5-10), sophomore center, is a good outside shooter and a good rebounder.

"We can start anyone of eight or nine people and not see much difference in the quality of play," Bregoli said. "We are deeper down the bench than last year, which gives us more flexibility. Runge will continue to have a great year. We are again stressing defense. We led the league in defense last year and would like to repeat."

North breezed to two easy non-league victories last week. The Raiderettes romped over Msgr. Ryan, 53-25, as Holleran scored 10 points and grabbed six rebounds. Koch, Runge, Meehan and Choukas all scored eight points.

The day before North rolled over Pope John 60-26, as Bridges and Timmins helped the team to an 18-9 first quarter lead. Koch heated up in the second quarter and hit three long jumpers and Holleran and Meehan sparked the defense. Meehan made some fine passes off the fast break. Runge, Choukas, Petkun, Donovan, Keenan and Boutlier all contributed to the easy win.

In their previous game the Raiderettes captured one of the biggest wins in the team's history with a come from behind 58-41 decision over Cambridge Ringe and Latin in a league game. Runge had 22 points, Choukas had 11, an eight in the second half. Koch had nine, Meehan had seven and Bridges and Holleran turned in outstanding efforts.

North had opened the season with a 48-31 win over Weymouth South, again behind the tremendous all-around effort of Runge, who had 17 points, six rebounds, four steals and two assists.

Rebuilding Year For Wrestling At North

With only 21 wrestlers, including nine veterans, North Quincy Coach Steve Joyce is facing a rebuilding year.

The Raiders took a 2-3 record into yesterday's (Wednesday) meet with Weymouth North and Weymouth South.

North will host Brockton next Wednesday at 7 o'clock.

North is led by Co-Captains Lester Gerry and Chris Butler, both of whom placed in the sectionals last season.

They are backed up by seniors Mike Pimental and Tom Morrill, juniors: Tom Sullivan, Frank Scanlon, John Kozlowski, Danny Dodd, Jay Pillard, Ed Fournier, Rich Myatt and Mike O'Donnell and sophomores John Palma, Mike Donovan, John Feerick, Terry Stark, Rich Ragusa, Matt McQuiggan, Tim Murray, Jim White and Paul Corezyca.

"I hope we can better last season's record, which was under .500," Joyce said. "It is going to take a lot of hard work and a little luck. We must avoid injuries to keep people which have always hurt us in the past."

The Raiders defeated Weymouth South, 32-22, last week, in a Suburban League meet.

North winners were Dodd by forfeit at 114 pounds, Pillard by decision at 128 Butler by decision at 134, Stark by pin at 140, Gerry by decision at 148, Pimental by decision at 169 and Morrill by pin at 188.

In its previous meet North lost to undefeated Norwell, 38-23, in a non-league meet.

Winning were Dodd by pin, Butler by decision, Morrill by pin and Ragusa by pin. Kozlowski went to a draw.

Stay Alive!

THE SECOND TIME IS EASIER

What would you do if your home caught fire tonight? Save the wife and children? Call the fire department? Get a ladder, grab the family jewels, find a fire extinguisher? Get out? But these thoughts come easily when you're reading the newspaper.

But what if you woke up in the night - smelled smoke - saw fire? You'd react on instinct instead of logic and that could spell panic. And panic breeds death.

It's easier to evacuate a burning home safely if you've done it before in practice, especially for the children. Determine at least two exits from each room and which to use - depending upon the location of the fire.

Schools require fire drills, but they are neglected in the home where chances of fire are 200 times greater. Remember - the second time is easier, especially if it's the real McCoy.

Quincy Matmen Win 5th

The Quincy wrestling team continues to roll along with a 5-0 record and today (Thursday) the Presidents host Needham at 10 a.m. in the Vo-Tech gym.

Quincy will be home to Catholic Memorial next Wednesday at 6 p.m.

Last week The Presidents defeated Weymouth North, 36-26, and Weymouth South, 37-22.

In the Weymouth North meet Gerry McSharry (128), John DePolo (134), Glen Oriola (140), Steve Ricci (155), Bill Rollins (167), Mark Picot (188) and Jamie Gravales (heavyweight) were winners as Quincy had to come back from a 14-point deficit for the victory.

Against Weymouth South Mike Notarangelo (121), Joe Madden (128), Oriola, Walter Rosberg (147), Rollins and Picot were winners and Paul Silcox (114) won by forfeit.

Before these meets, the first home meets of the season, three banners were raised to recognize last season's accomplishments.

One was for the team's third successive Suburban League championship, another for the fourth Div. One South Sectional title in five years and a third commemorating the 100th dual meet victory which came on Jan. 30, 1960.

Quincy took part last Saturday in the annual two-day Lowell Holiday Tournament and finished fourth among 37 schools behind Norwood, Lowell and Chelmsford.

Picot won in the 188-pound class and McSharry was runnerup at 128.

Saturday the Presidents will stage their annual fund raiser, a sit-a-thon in the upper level of the Vo-Tech gym. The wrestlers will do sit-ups for an hour each throughout the day toward raising money for team jackets. YMCA membership and the annual banquet. There will be free refreshments and the public is invited.

Shot Fired In Alleged Theft At Bargain Center

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Police are searching for a thin black man in his middle 20's and the car he used to make his escape after allegedly shoplifting an item from the Bargain Center in Quincy Sq., about 2:25 p.m. Tuesday.

The man was chased out of the store by several security guards. At one point one of the guards, William Greene, fired a shot at the wheels of the car the suspect was driving away.

It was not known whether the shot hit its mark.

According to Police Det. David Rowell, the police have the car's registration but had yet to apprehend the suspect at press time.

Rowell said Sgt. Michael Barry reported the car was a 1973 Ford, brown with a beige top.

However, Bargain Center security guard Dave Arnold reported the car was a white Ford station wagon.

Arnold said he was inside the store when he saw Greene and another security guard, Larry Holmes, chasing the black man out a front exit on Hancock St.

Arnold said he joined the chase which led to the man running to a double parked car about one hundred feet away.

The black man ran to the driver's side of the car, said Arnold, and pulled out the occupant, a 23 year old black woman.

In the course of the man's getting away, Greene's right leg was hit by the car, said Arnold, but did not appear to be seriously injured.

Police later questioned and released the black woman who said she owned the car and knew the suspect only slightly.

Rowell said it was not known exactly what had been stolen from the store, but that apparently the suspect had hidden something in his pants.

Quincy Police officers working on the case are Sgt. Richard Laracy, Officer Richard Mendall and Det. Russ Miller, according to Rowell.

Quincy Pianist Directs Berklee Men's Chorus

Pianist Wayne Ward of Quincy recently directed the Berklee Men's Chorus in a performance of traditional and contemporary choral selections during a concert in the Berklee Performance Center.

The concert spotlighted the college's Music Education Ensembles.

A Berklee faculty member, Ward has performed as accompanist and soloist for a variety of vocalists and ensembles at New England clubs, and served as musical coordinator at the Turtle Lane Theater, Newton.

For the concert, Ward prepared a program of works by Joe Zawinul of Weather Report, David Clayton Thomas of Blood, Sweat and Tears, and Vincent Persichetti.

Ward is instructor of music education and conducting at Berklee.

WEEK OF: DECEMBER 31

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Year ends with an unexpected festivity, and the new year begins with the accent on career and advancement. Loved one is independent, shy and imaginative — all at once.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Clear up all suspicions before 1982 really gets under way. Renovations and repair jobs may be more costly than expected. Young relatives are achieving impressive successes.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
Professional contact may choose to become close on a personal level; explain your feelings before a potentially-problematic situation evolves. New year sales suit you perfectly.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
New year opens with the accent on moneymaking opportunities and career changes. Relatives may be miserly in the encouragement department but let them have their say.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Travel plans that have been blocked may be reactivated this week. A brand new acquaintance may have you perplexed — his/her strengths are mighty... but what about those weaknesses?

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Specialization is your strength, and it's wise to learn a lot about just one or two things. Rival surprises you with his gentle side and a genuine interest in seeking out compromises.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Home improvement and home entertainment are the happiest programs for you this week. Small monetary bonus can be used to finance a modest-sized dream. Relative may be due for promotion.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Recent hostilities in the community end as the new year begins. Dates are rescheduled, but at least one proves well worth the wait. Family news bulletins are encouraging.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Pet project is given the go-ahead by the end of this period. Family conference may be all talk, no action. News from faraway places influences travel or other plans.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
A shaky relationship settles down and noticeable improvement is observed by the weekend. Confidant may approach you with a problem that demands immediate attention — and lots of it.

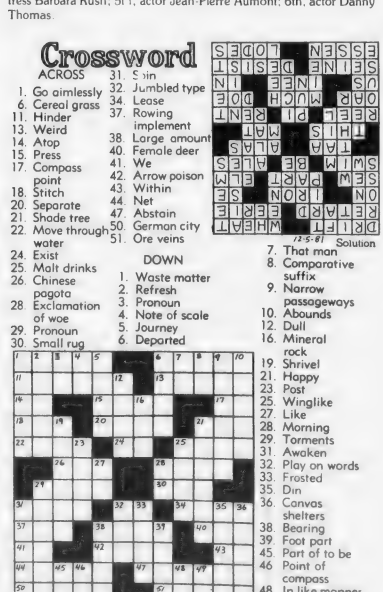

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Any project that involves writing proceeds smoothly all week. Surprise personality comes to your rescue during a family dispute. Financial ideas may need further thought.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Communications is a weak point. Compliments come your way, but you interpret them incorrectly. Financial opportunity may not be as outstanding as you think; approach a pro.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Determination is your trademark; you're shrewd, ambitious, and always realistic. On the flip side, you resist exploring new territory. This tendency may start to change by springtime, manifested in new travel locales or new career choices.

Francis Mitchell To Speak On Hannover, Germany At Rotary Club

Francis Mitchell, vice president of Quincy Cooperative Bank and a former Hanover selectman, will talk to the Quincy Rotary Club Jan. 5, about his recent trip to Hanover, Germany.

Mitchell, and his wife, Kathryn, visited the German town during a three week tour of Germany. Hanover Oberbürgermeister (top mayor) Herbert Schmaistieg honored the couple at a reception. The Mitchells and in-laws John and Betty Dager of Ivy Land, Pa., were also given a tour of city hall and other sites.

Mitchell gave the city copies of the local Hanover's town report and 250th anniversary commemorative booklet, a commemorative bronze coin mounted on a piece of the old town hall's wooden beam, and greetings from the selectman.

The German city, with a population of 600,000, gave Mitchell official greetings to the town and a book on Hannover that Mitchell plans to donate to the Curtis Library.
